Janet Kelley Loan Manager

South Shore Bank's Retail Loan Division announces the promotion of Janet Kelley to loan manager for the Home Equity/Student Loan Department.

Mrs. Kelley's new responsibilities include all duties pertaining to the Student Loan Department, making credit decisions and supervising department personnel.

Mrs. Kelley joined the bank in 1979 as a clerk in the Computer Settlement Department. She has also worked in the Proof and International Departments of the Bank.

Mrs. Kelley lives in Quincy with her husband, Richard. South Shore Bank is an affiliate of Multibank Financial Corp. and maintains 32 branches throughout the Norfolk County area.

$326,794 In Wire Permits Last Month

The Quincy Wire Department issued 191 permits for estimated cost of $326,794 during October, reports Wire Inspector Thomas Purpura.

Permits fees totaled

$4,487 and there were 64 certificates of approval to the Massachusetts Electric Company.

In addition, there were 458 inspections, 75 defects noted, 48 re-inspections and three fire calls.

Zooleck Speaks At N.J. Chamber Program

Ronald Zooleck, executive director of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, spoke recently before participants in a leadership program at the Morris County Chamber of Commerce, Morris County, N.J.

The Morris County Chamber's leadership program is part of a national leadership training effort offered through Chambers of commerce for middle-management executives and other community leaders. The program, which can last anywhere from six weeks to six months, prepares executives to take leadership positions in the business and civic world. Participants learn about the history of their community, review the current political and social structure, study demographics of their areas including housing and drug statistics, and discuss local business opportunities.

Upon completion of the program, participants are better prepared to become involved in their communities, and their names are usually put onto a list for civic organizations to "tap" for involvement.

Mr. Zooleck, who has been involved in Chamber of Commerce administration for many years, speaks frequently on a variety of current topics and issues before Chamber groups and state associations.

Local artists and photographers have donated over 70 pieces. The silent portion of the auction will begin at 7 p.m. followed by a bidding auction.

Vincent Sullivan will be the auctioneer.

Items for the auction have been donated by known artists and photographers. Donors include Stan

Local artists who have donated their work include

Mary Lou Clark of Cohasset; Roz Farbush; Anita Fireman and Lynn Rizotto. Other artists who have donated paintings include Page Railback and Claffy Williams.

The Media Arts Endowment Fund was formed to assist the College's communication program. Money raised will be used to purchase photographic, audiovisual and art equipment needed for the new facility. The College has not received public funds since the advent of Proposition 2½.

MRS. SHEILA McINTYRE, member of the Quincy College Foundation Board of Trustees; Charles W. Flagg, co-chairman of the Quincy College Media Arts Endowment Fund, and Jody Hamilton-Davis, Director of Information and Analysis for Quincy College, examine donations for the Endowment Fund's Art Auction to be held Friday, 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. at the Neighborhood Club.

Mime To Perform At Beechwood Center Nov. 20

The Cultural Enrichment Program for Youth (CEPY) continues Tuesday, Nov. 20 at 1 p.m. at the Beechwood Community Life Center with a performance by Michael Zerphy, mime, clown and storyteller.

Admission is $2 and open to the public for all ages.

Zerphy combines a program of original materials featuring mime, clowning, juggling, music and audience involvement dedicated to rediscovering the "foolish" nature in people of all ages.

He has performed and taught in schools, colleges, theaters and festivals throughout the United States and Europe since 1977. In addition to his solo career, he has collaborated with other artists to create a number of shows, including Buckett, which premiered at the Edinburgh Fringe festival in Scotland, and The clown Conspiracy, which toured extensively in the U.S. and abroad.

He has taught at Boston University and has recently appeared at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, the International Children's Theater Festival at Wolftrap, the New England Vaudeville Festival, and the New York International Festival of Clown Theater. He has conducted residencies in New York, Michigan, New Hampshire and Massachusetts. He is, also, on the Touring Roster of the New Hampshire State Council on the Arts.

The CEPY program at Beechwood Community Life Center is sponsored by the Mass. Cultural Council, the Quincy Arts Council, the Francis R. Dewing Foundation, and Lechmere, Inc.

The Center is located at 225 Fenn St., Wollaston. For more information, call 471-5712.

27 Students In Jefferson Forum Program On Thompson Island

Twenty-seven students from three Quincy schools spent six days on Thompson Island this summer as a part of the Thomas Jefferson Forum, a community service program.

They were with the Harbor Conservation Corps, run by Outward Bound, a program designed to promote responsibility for oneself, the community and the environment.

This is accomplished through camping experiences, group survival skills, rock climbing, sailing, and cleaning up debris. Each piece of litter collected was classified and recorded. The information gathered will be used to build a data base on pollutants to help officials in developing policies and laws concerning Boston Harbor.

The students will return to their clean-up sites next summer to continue their efforts.

Students involved were David Flaherty, Carrie Frenette, Rob Gordon, Maureen Lind, Trisha Nugent, Eric Osborne, Heather Powell, Jennifer Reynolds, Mike Siteman and Tucker Trainor from Quincy High School.

Ellen Westschbrecht, William Deleounette, Kim Chay, Michael Flaherty and Mary Ellen Eddy, from North Quincy High School.

Central Middle School To Observe National Geography Awareness Week

Central Middle School will celebrate National Geography Awareness Week Nov. 11-17 and students are planning a number of activities to help make the issue of geography meaningful to their lives.

Some of the activities will include a program called "A Nation of Immigrants: The Kennedy Story" featuring a presentation by the National Park Service. One class is writing to service men and women in Saudi Arabia. Throughout the school, flags, music, cooking and other symbols of particular cultures will be featured. Displays and classroom presentations will reflect an awareness of the importance of geography.

Awareness Week focuses on the news, using the theme: "Geography: Window on a Changing World." By examining current events through a geographic perspective, students will come to understand and appreciate the insights that a study of geography can bring to their lives.

The leadership for the activities for the week have been planned with the assistance of Department Head Dr. Laurence Osborne.

Elizabeth J. Morgan, 78

South Shore Bank Bookkeeper

A funeral service for Elizabeth J. "Libby" (Livingston) Morgan, 78, of Houghs Neck, a bookkeeper at South Shore Bank for 10 years, was held Nov. 12 at Deware Funeral Home, 575 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery. Mrs. Morgan died Nov. 8 at Quincy Hospital after a brief illness.

She also worked at McGregors Upholsters and Alquist Flower Land, South Quincy. She retired from the bank 13 years ago.

She was the wife of Herbert E. Morgan, treasurer of Harvey's Saltwater Fishing Club, which provides fishing trips and dinner for disabled veterans every year at Quincy Yacht Club.

Mrs. Morgan was a member of Wollaston Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, Senior Citizens Cribbage Club, and Houghs Neck Congregational Church. She was born in Everett and lived most of her life in Houghs Neck.

She graduated from Everett High School and Fisher Business School, Boston.

The late boxer John L. Sullivan was a member of her family.

Mrs. Morgan is also survived by a son, Robert Morgan of Charleston, S.C.; a brother, Wallace Livingston of Hamilton; two grandchildren, Scott A. Morgan and Shannon Roberts, both of South Carolina; and three great-grandchildren. She was the mother of the late Louise E. Morgan, sister of the late William Livingston and Mary Madden, and grandmother of the late Shawn Morgan.

Donations may be made to the scholarship fund of the Houghs Neck Community Council, 1193 Sea St., Quincy, 02169.

Mary Flaherty, 82

A funeral Mass for Mary (Sullivan) Flaherty, 82, of Quincy, was celebrated Nov. 9 at St. Ann's Church, Wollaston.

Burial was in New Calvary Cemetery, Boston. Mrs. Flaherty died Nov. 6 at Carney Hospital after a brief illness.

She was born in Ireland and moved to Quincy from Dorchester 16 years ago.

Wife of the late John J.

Flaherty, she is survived by two sons, Jack W. Flaherty of Hyannis and Paul D. Flaherty of Quincy; a daughter, Mary Jean Fraser of Quincy; three sisters, Helen P. Perry of Brockton, Theresa Doerfler of Hyannis and Lillian Ragucci of Wrentham.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Obituaries

Joseph B. Grossman, 98

Bank President, Businessman, Legislator,

A funeral service for Joseph B. Grossman, 98, of Quincy, bank president, legislator, businessman and philanthropist, was conducted Nov. 9 at Temple Beth El.

Mr. Grossman died Nov. 7 at the Recuperative Center in Rosindale after a brief illness.

He was the patriarch of the family that for years operated a chain of building supply outlets which bears his family's name.

A 1905 graduate of John Hancock Elementary School in Quincy, he sold combs and flypaper when he was 12. He wrote part-time for the Quincy Patriot and was a bookkeeper in a granite shed. In 1914, he joined the lumber company his father had founded. He eventually became treasurer and vice president.

Mr. Grossman later received an honorary doctor of law degree from Nasson College in Springvale, Maine, and he was a fellow of Brandeis University and a member of the president's council at Boston College.

A founder of Home Owners Federal Savings and Loan in Boston in 1932, he served as its president for 47 years. After he retired, he became president emeritus and continued going to the office every afternoon until after his 96th birthday.

Mr. Grossman also operated his own loan business in Quincy and frequently loaned money to contractors.

When he was in his early 20s, he worked to elect John L. Miller Mayor of Quincy. Mr. Miller won and Mr. Grossman was appointed to the board of registrars.

In 1926, he won a term as state representative. After two years in office, a re-election bid failed, but he came back for another term two years later.

In 1934, Mr. Grossman was elected to the Governor's Council and served six years.

In 1962, at age 70, he ran for state treasurer. He campaigned all over the state in a white Jeep with blue and red stars and the slogan from the family business on it—"Here Comes Grossman." He lost the campaign but later said it was a terrific experience.

His philanthropy benefitted Beth Israel Hospital, Quincy Hospital and New England Sinai Hospital, Stoughton, where he was a vice president. He established scholarships at Harvard and Brandeis and another administered by the Quincy Rotary Club.

Mr. Grossman was president of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce and the Quincy Chapter of the American Red Cross. He was a vice president of the Jewish Welfare Board, a trustee of Combined Jewish Philanthropies and a founder and president of camps Naomi and Joseph, facilities for children from families with limited income. He also helped the Boy Scouts.

He is survived by his wife, Esther (Starr) Grossman; two sons, Bernard Grossman of Nantucket and Everett Grossman of Weston; a daughter, Pearl H. Goldberg of Waban; a brother, Sidney W. Grossman of Newton; three sisters, Anne Fleischman and Etta Milchen, both of Quincy, and Sarah Hellmann of Chestnut Hill; and seven grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren. He was the husband of the late Esther (Loitman) Grossman and brother of the late Reuben and Jacob Grossman, Bessie Rappaport and Celia Levine.

Burial was in Hebrew Progressive Cemetery, West Roxbury.

Funeral arrangements were by the Levine Chapel, Brookline.

Donations may be made to Temple Beth El, 1001 Hancock St., Quincy, New England Sinai Hospital, 150 York St., Stoughton, MA 02072 or the Recuperative Center, 1245 Centre St., Rosindale, MA 02131.

Ernest J. Montilio, 72

Founded Montilio's Bakery

A funeral Mass for Ernest J. Montilio, 72, of Quincy, who founded the Montilio's Bakery chain and gave generously to numerous charities, was celebrated Nov. 10 at St. John's Church.

Mr. Montilio died Nov. 5 at his home.

He baked cakes for many special occasions, including the inaugurations of Presidents John F. Kennedy, Ronald Reagan and George Bush. He also baked a special fruit cake for Queen Elizabeth and marked historic moments with his creations. After the Boston Celtics won the NBA championship in 1981, he baked a 1,200 pound cake crowned with a three-foot basketball.

He also baked for the Kentucky Derby, opening of the Kennedy Library, filmmaker Alfred Hitchcock, New England Patriots, Boston Red Sox and the 350th anniversary of the Town of Hingham.

He was also well known for his philanthropic and humanitarian efforts. He donated cakes and pastries to the homeless, the elderly, the handicapped and the orphaned.

Mr. Montilio frequently gave free pastries to church functions, to the homeless at the Long Island shelter, to Cardinal Richard Cushing School and others. He was a communicant at St. John's Church.

Born and educated in Quincy, Mr. Montilio opened his first bakery there in 1946. The business now operates 14 stores on the South Shore and throughout Greater Boston.

He also founded Montilio Realty and Penco Peat Moss Co.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Anyone who is any kind of a philosopher knows that life isn't always easy or fortuitous. We all experience "hard knocks" and "tough blows." But we can do several things about such blows. We can fold under it, give up and develop a defeatist attitude and become bitter and angry ... or we can try to turn that blow into an asset. Granted, what we try might not always work. And, then again, it might and we certainly won't know for sure if we don't even try to lick the problem. The answer to any "tough blow" cannot be found with a defeatist attitude.

When a difficult problem confronts you, don't limit yourself to seeing the bad features ... Who knows - there may be tremendous opportunities if you look beyond that difficult situation and try to overcome it.

A Tradition of Trust For Over 70 Years.

Just before World War I, Sweeney Funeral Homes' first location was established in a small storefront on the corner of Hancock and School streets. Dennis S. Sweeney, the homes' first funeral director, is remembered as a rather tall man, who had a beautiful, yet somber voice. Dressed in his characteristic top hat and tails, his singing was requested at funeral processions for over 30 years.

When he died in 1948, he entrusted the continuation of the family-owned tradition of instinctive and genuine concern for the city's bereaved families to his nephew, M. Joseph Sweeney.

Since 1917, Sweeney Funeral Homes have always meant the finest, most traditional service that Quincy has to offer. But we've also changed with the needs of the times, whatever they were. As early as 1940, we began offering pre-planning as a way for wise Quincy residents to plan their future.

Today, with funeral costs one of the top five major expenses for most families, pre-arrangements make better sense than ever before. Call Dennis Sweeney, our third-generation funeral director, at (617) 773-2728. Our family has been helping South Shore residents with difficult decisions for over 70 years. It's a Tradition of Trust that stands as our guarantee.

A Few Words on FUNERAL SERVICE

How to offer Condolences.

It's hard to console a friend who has lost a loved one — yet what comfort it is for both of you. Be sure to phone first. Not a time for surprise visits! A simple handshake or hug often says more than words. If the bereaved wants to talk, you listen.

Offer to help in SPECIFIC ways: bring food, shine shoes, make phone calls for them, run errands or keep small children. KEEP IN TOUCH — mourning may be a long process.

The mayor also said there has been a "proliferation" of fast-food establishments in Quincy. "Should there be a limit of them. We limit other businesses like the number of package stores," Sheets said.

Sheets said he also concerned about the city's homeless population and the drug traffic at the Quincy MBTA stations. "More and more, the issue of homelessness is becoming an issue that has to be looked at."

As for the goal of the task force, Sheets replied, "We hope to come out of this with very strong recommendations for the area and new policy and a tightening up of old policy that will severely limit vandalism, hopefully help us reduce crime."

"We could very well come out of this with a new program of community crime watch."

"We hope to come out of this with regulations to control litter and help us be more proud of the city as we move into what I think will be a fascinating year of developing our historical sites."

"It's all intended to improve the quality of life and make Quincy a better city."

One sub-committee will focus on the Quincy Center, Quincy Adams, Wollaston and North Quincy MBTA Red-Line stations. It will deal specifically on dirt and litter outside each of the four stations as well as improvements inside and outside. Security in and around the stations will also be studied.

A second sub-committee will examine schools, parks, playgrounds, cemeteries, libraries and deal with security, vandalism, cleanliness, use policies and jurisdictional issues.

A third sub-committee will target barrooms, restaurants, fast-food and donut shops and convenience stores. It will determine the impact of these businesses on litter, crime and vandalism.

A fourth sub-committee will focus on the city's business and commercial districts such as Quincy Center, Wollaston and North Quincy. It will determine the impact on area businesses and focus on areas such as the Ross parking garage, MBTA stations, use of foot patrolmen, impact of homeless and other areas.

Saville, dated March 30, 1898, recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Plan Book 21, Plan 980, bounded and described as follows:

Northerly by Whitney Road, seventy (70) feet; Easterly by Lot 5, on said plan, ninety-eight and fifteen hundredths (98.15) feet;

Southerly by land now or formerly of Q.W. Russell, on said plan, seventy and one hundredths (70.01) feet; and Westerly by Lot 1, on said plan, ninety-nine and forty-three hundredths (99.43) feet.

Containing, according to said plan, six thousand, nine hundred thirteen and twenty hundredths (6,913.20) square feet of land.

Being the same premises conveyed to mortgagees by deed dated October 28, 1986, and recorded at Norfolk Registry of Deeds, Book 7308, Page 497.

The above premises will be sold subject to all unpaid taxes, tax titles, betterments, municipal liens and other municipal assessments, if any.

TERMS OF SALE: The purchaser will be required to pay down the sum of $5000.00 in cash, certified or bank check, at the time and place of sale; the balance of the purchase price to be paid upon delivery of the deed within fifteen days after approval of the sale by the Worcester Superior Court, at the offices of Labovitz & Burdick, 25 Foster Street, Suite 300, Worcester, Massachusetts.

That it shall be the responsibility of the Purchaser at the foreclosure sale to be responsible for all costs for recording, including excise tax stamps, recording of any deeds, Certificate of Municipal Liens or any other recording expenses, and the Purchaser has not relied upon any representations of the Seller, its agents or representatives, and that the Purchaser is buying said property "as is." That in the event tenants are occupying said premises, it shall be the responsibility of the Purchaser to evict said tenants.

That is an additional condition and term of the sale, that in the event the successful purchaser of the foreclosed premises does not fulfill the terms and conditions of said foreclosure sale by purchasing the property, the mortgage reserves the right to thereafter accept the bid of the next highest bidder at the foreclosure sale and to further accept said bid upon the conditions of the second bidder agreeing to fulfill its bid commitment which was made at the time of the foreclosure sale; or other terms, if any, to be announced at the sale.

U.S. Must Remain Vigilant, Quincy General Stresses

Calling World War I a "watershed event" in American history, Sullivan said, "When I look at that monument, I am reminded of what has changed since World War I and what has remained the same."

Despite all the changes that have taken place since

1918, the general said there has been one "enduring truth."

"That truth is that freedom is not free. This stands as one of the lasting lessons of modern man. Time and again, since World War I, men and women of Quincy and from across America have left their workplaces, their schools, their families and their friends to answer the call of freedom.

"Many Americans have sacrificed, over one million, with their lives," Sullivan said. "These were not mythical people. These were people who rode the bus to Ashmont, took the train to Boston, walked Washington St., lived on Shirley St., Lakin Square, Houghs Neck.

"These were real people. Quincy, Massachusetts has answered whenever the country called."

Sullivan then briefly listed the number of Quincy residents who served and gave their lives to preserve freedom. More than 700 men served in the Civil War. One hundred and three, including one of the first, died.

In World War I, 71 Quincy men died. In World War II, more than 10,000 men and women served. Two hundred and fifty-six lost their lives.

In addition, 41 veterans lost their lives in Korea and 45 died in Vietnam.

As for the future, Sullivan said the statue "tells us we have a continuing requirement for vigilance."

"It tells us that when it comes to our national defense, we must be trained and ready, ready to stand up, just as surely as we did in Panama, just as surely as we are now.

"A generation of American soldiers holds that to the generations of the past."

To mark the general's special appearance in Quincy, Mayor James A. Sheets declared Sunday Gen. Gordon R. Sullivan Day. State Senator Paul Harold and Representatives Michael Morrissey and Steve Tobin also presented the general with citations.

Besides Sullivan, the mayor and legislators, several city councillors, school committee members, high school bands, Girl Scouts and other units marched the parade route which began at the American Legion Post on Revere Rd. and finished at the Adams Academy.

About a dozen veterans and auxiliary organizations also participated.

Quincy Auxiliary Police and military police provided a police escort and VIP protection for the four-star general.

Chief Marshal Robert LaFleur of the Quincy Veterans Council told onlookers to remember American troops overseas, especially during the holiday season.

LaFleur distributed 200 yellow ribbons to parade marchers and spectators to help people remember the servicemen and women. Similar ribbons are hanging from City Hall and the John F. Kennedy public health building.

He also handed out the addresses of troops in Saudi Arabia so that people could send holiday greetings and presents.

"They need your cards. They need letters. They need your support. They need all of us to help them," he said.

For Less Fortunate

Over 100 Expected For Dinner At Father Bill's Place

By JANE ARENA

Father Bill's Place is expecting to set a big table for Thanksgiving this year.

The Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition will serve a Thanksgiving feast at the shelter for the city's less fortunate from 2 to 4 p.m.

The shelter's Executive Director, Nancy Powers says she's expecting even more than the 100 people who came to last year's Thanksgiving Day dinner.

"Our sheltering needs are up 27 percent this year," she says, "So I'm expecting the same number or maybe a hair above that for this year."

The dinner will be served on a "come and go" basis. Powers says, because the dining area can accommodate only about 38 people at one time.

Father Bill's is currently in need of, and accepting, any and all donations for the dinner. As of Thursday of last week, Powers had only about half of the turkeys she needed.

Needed items include turkeys, (fresh or frozen, cooked or uncooked), stuffing potatoes, squash, peas, cranberry sauce, rolls, pies, cider and coffee.

Powers said that so far the donations have come mainly from individuals and families in Quincy, but says she hopes to get donations from area stores and businesses as well. Last year Stop & Shop and Lambert's in Quincy as well as Angelo's in Hanover, made sizeable contributions to the cause.

"They were very generous," she recalls.

And, if ever generosity is needed, she says it is this year.

On any given night, she notes, the shelter is at full capacity (65 beds) with an overflow of 5 to 7 people the shelter cannot accommodate.

She has begun looking for another 20-bed shelter in the area.

Part of the problem, she notes is the state budget. Mental health and alcoholic treatment programs have suffered severe cuts and simply do not have the resources and facilities they once had.

Another problem is that employers are paying less money for the same jobs because there is a surplus of labor available.

Whatever the reasons though, Father Bill's Place is aiming to make the holiday a little brighter for those less fortunate.

The Thanksgiving Dinner (as well as a Christmas dinner which is also planned), are not only for the city's homeless. Powers says, but are open and free of charge to anyone in the area who has no other place to spend the holiday.

"A lot of people live alone in rooming houses," she says, "and there are just no other facilities available for them. I want to have a loving, caring atmosphere," Powers said. "This is our way of saying 'Hey, somebody does care.'"

Anyone wishing to make a donation or to volunteer to help during the dinner may contact Laurie Boisvert at 770-3314.

WOLLASTON CREDIT UNION has a Christmas Card for customers to sign for military personnel serving in the Persian Gulf. Harold Izen of Hancock St., left, poses with bank employees Doris O'Neil, computer operator and Bruce Black, manager. Mrs. O'Neil, along with Bank President Audrey Phinney initiated idea of the card that will be sent this week.

250,000 Expected At Christmas Parade

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

A longstanding holiday tradition in Quincy and on the South Shore will be renewed Sunday, Nov. 25 when the 39th annual Christmas Festival Parade steps off at 12:30 p.m. in Quincy.

Approximately 250,000 people are expected to line the 2.8 mile parade route and experience the sights and sounds of this year's theme, "The Wonders of Christmas."

About 70 units, including 22 colorful floats, 19 musical marching bands, 18 specialty units and eight color guards will be featured.

You might say this year's parade has a touch more green.

Johnny Most, voice of the Boston Celtics for 37 years, will be honored as the grand marshal. The colorful broadcaster who sat "high above courtside" and made such statements as "Havicek stole the ball" legendary among Celtic fans, retired before the start of this season.

The Quincy Christmas Festival Parade Committee unanimously selected Most in recognition, appreciation and respect for his dedication and accomplishments in providing family sporting entertainment for millions of people for nearly four decades.

"The Christmas Festival Committee is extremely pleased that Johnny Most has agreed to honor us as this year's parade grand marshal," Chairman George White said. "We look forward to honoring him."

Past grand marshals include Boston Celtic Hall of Famer K.C. Jones, Red Sox Manager Joe Morgan, Radio Broadcaster Ken Coleman and Bruins legend Bobby Orr.

The parade, billed as the largest Christmas Parade on the East Coast, is the highlight of a series of holiday events to be held this weekend in Quincy.

The Turning on the Christmas Lights will begin the festivities Friday, Nov. 23 at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall Plaza. From 6:45 to 7:15 p.m., Rick Cobban "The One-Man Band" and costume characters will entertain.

Santa will make an appearance at 7:20 p.m. After the lights are illuminated, he and the costume characters will distribute candy canes to children.

Santa will officially arrive from the North Pole to Quincy by parachute Saturday, Nov. 24 at 12:30 p.m. The jolly man and several elves will land at Faxon Field behind Quincy Vocational-Technical School.

Children present at the big arrival will receive candy canes.

Upon landing, Mr. Claus will be transported by fire truck to Hobbystown in Quincy Center where he will reside until Christmas Day.

A patriotic pre-parade event will make this year's parade more memorable.

The Mount Rushmore Historical Flag, measuring 50 by 100 feet, will be raised by a giant crane outside the First Parish Church Sunday, Nov. 25 at 11:15 a.m. An event that no one will want to miss, the activity will conclude at noon to leave time for parade assembly.

The flag will fly over Hancock Street while the parade passes beneath it.

The parade on Sunday will begin at Elm and School Sts. and proceed north on Hancock St. for almost three miles. It will

LARGE HOLIDAY GREETING cards, like this one displayed by Quincy Christmas Festival Committee member Tony Siciliano, will be available for area residents to sign at Sunday's 39th annual Christmas Parade. Cards will be mailed to service personnel in all branches of the Armed Forces stationed in the Persian Gulf in time for the holidays.

Huge Christmas Cards For Military In Mid-East Mt. Rushmore Flag To Fly Over Parade

Besides holiday cheer, the patriotic spirit will be in the air and on the ground at the 39th annual Quincy Christmas Parade Sunday, Nov. 25 at 12:30 p.m.

The historical Mount Rushmore American flag, hailed as our national shrine to democracy, will be raised before the parade at 11:30 a.m. between McIntyre Mall and the United First Parish Church. It will fly over Hancock St. while the parade passes beneath it.

The flag, which measures 50 by 100 feet, weighs 300 pounds. It requires 100 tons of test ropes to fly it, a bar weighing one and half tons to hold it and 400 people to fold it.

This year, it serves as a fitting tribute to those serving in the Armed Forces, especially those stationed in the Persian Gulf.

In addition, people attending the flag raising will have the opportunity to sign large holiday greeting cards to be mailed to the U.S. Armed Forces serving in the Persian Gulf. The cards include the five service branches: Army, Navy, Marines, Air Force and Coast Guard.

The Christmas Festival Committee urges all to attend the spectacular event, sign the cards and let the servicemen and servicewomen in the Persian Gulf know they are remembered and wished the best.

Commissioned by the National Park Service, the flag was dedicated at the Kennedy Library in Boston. Based at the Boston National Historical Park, the "Freedom Trail," it is stored in a magnificent chest on board "Old Ironsides", the U.S.S. Constitution.

Touched by thousands of Americans, it is on a continuous national tour and brings a very special blessing of "good will."

The flag was first used to cover the Lincoln figure on Mount Rushmore. On July 4, 1987, in gusty mountain winds, it was unfurled off the craggy visage of Lincoln in ceremonies marking his 50th anniversary. On July 3, 1988, the flag was flown over the battlefield at Gettysburg to mark the 125th anniversary of the battle.

It was flown in Washington, D.C., as the official "Flag of the Day" at the inauguration of President Bush in January, 1989. It returned to Mount Rushmore on July 2, 1989, where it covered the Roosevelt figure in ceremonies marking his 50th rededication.

The flag has also made several regional appearances, including the Falmouth Road Race and the Marshfield Fair. On July 4, 1991, the flag will return to Mount Rushmore where it will be on display as part of the 50th Golden Jubilee ceremonies marking the final dedication of the monument.

Christmas Lights To Be Turned On Friday

The Turning on the Christmas Lights in Quincy Square will be held Friday, Nov. 23 at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall Plaza.

Festivities begin at 6:15 p.m. as Rick Cobban the "One Man Band" performing his own musical show.

At 7:20 p.m., city, state and local dignitaries will speak.

After the lights are turned on, Santa Claus will make a special appearance and distribute candy canes to children.

Several costume characters will also be present to greet the youngsters.

In addition, the winners of the Elementary School Christmas Poster Contest will be announced. The posters will be displayed at South Shore Bank in Quincy Center.

Other posters will be displayed at other Quincy Center locations.

Candy canes will be handed out to youngsters at the field beginning at noon.

Nativity Pageant At First Parish Dec. 16

The public is invited to attend a Nativity Pageant

Sunday, Dec. 16 at 6 p.m. at the United First Parish Church, Quincy Center.

The Rev. Sheldon Bennett will preside. The event is coordinated by the Rev. Daniel O'Connell of Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy.

Parade Dedicated In Memory Of Remo DeNicola

This year's Quincy Festival Committee Parade is being dedicated to the memory of the late Remo DeNicola, long active in business, charitable and civic activities who died in September.

Mr. DeNicola, co-founder of South Shore Television and Appliance in Quincy Square, was a member of the Quincy Christmas Festival Parade for 29 years. He became a very active participant in the committee in the early 1960s.

As a member of the festival committee, Mr. DeNicola was a doer who accepted total responsibility. He always made sure "everything worked," Chairman George White said.

"Remo was a person who never sought or wanted any recognition for his many accomplishments. The feeling of personal satisfaction was his credence.

"He played a major role, year in and year out, in making the Christmas Parade a continual success," White said.

DeNicola was also a long-time member of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, one of the major sponsors of the parade. A founder of the QCBPA's Sidewalk Bazaar, he received a Spark Plug award for his years as chairman.

Mr. DeNicola enjoyed restoring antique autos and displayed some of them at the bazaar, including a 1913 Ford Model T. He also drove a 1929 truck in the Christmas Parade.

"The Christmas Festival Committee, as well as all those who had the pleasure of knowing Remo, will certainly miss him and he will always be in our memory," White said.

A sign depicting the committee's memory of Mr. DeNicola will be carried along the parade route.

Santa Arrives By Parachute Saturday

Santa Claus will make his dramatic entrance in Quincy on Saturday, Nov. 24 at 12:30 p.m. when he and several elves parachute from a plane and land at Faxon Field behind the Quincy Vocational-Technical High School.

After he lands, Santa, along with several costume characters, will be transported to Hobbystown

Yellow Ribbons In Remembrance Of Forces Overseas

City residents can remember and show their support for the nation's Armed Forces overseas this holiday season thanks to a yellow ribbon drive being conducted by the Mayor's Office and Veterans Services Department.

Grace Giunchiglia, Mayor James A. Sheets secretary, Janet Crowley, an employee in the auditor's office and Mary Louise Steen, an employee in the retirement office, are spearheading the yellow ribbon drive. The three municipal employees have donated 1,000 yards of ribbon. They hope to cut the ribbon into 1,000 one-yard pieces and distribute them to residents.

Residents who want a piece of ribbon can visit the Mayor's Office or the Veterans Services Department located in the John F. Kennedy Health Center, 1170 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The employees are asking residents to tie the yellow ribbon around a flag pole, tree, front door, railing or anywhere visible on their property.

Giunchiglia said yellow ribbons will also be distributed during Sunday's Christmas Parade.

Besides the ribbon drive, some 500 greeting cards were recently mailed by city employees to the forces in the Persian Gulf. One city union donated postage while the rest of the cards were privately paid for.

Raymond Whitehouse In Teachers' 'Who's Who'

Raymond C. Whitehouse, a teacher at Quincy High School, has been honored in the inaugural edition of Who's Who Among America's Teachers.

All of the 24,500 teachers being honored were selected by former students who themselves are currently listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students or The National Dean's List, publications which recognize the top five percent of the nation's high school and college students. Students nominated teachers who were instrumental in shaping their lives, inspired them to pursue their interests, and challenged them to meet their potential.

MENINGITIS

Meningitis is an inflammation in the membranes surrounding the brain and spinal cord. It may be caused either by bacterial or viral infection. Bacterial Meningitis is considered to be a medical emergency. Early treatment often brings about a complete cure, but the disease can be fatal, especially if allowed to continue for several days. The systems to watch for include headache and stiff neck, fever, nausea, irritability, lack of appetite and drowsiness. Diagnosis is made by removing and examining a small quantity of fluid from the spine. If bacteria are found, the patient will be given antibiotics for ten days, after which hearing tests and electroencephalograms are given to determine if any permanent damage has occurred. Viral meningitis is less severe, although the symptoms are similar. Recovery is usually spontaneous and complete without any specific treatment.

P.S. Meningitis can affect people of all ages, but it is most severe in young children.

McCauley Not Sitting By Phone

Former Mayor Francis McCauley rode two big winners in the Nov. 6 state election.

He supported and worked for both William Weld and Joseph Malone.

Speculation is that he might be in line for an appointment be either the governor-elect or treasurer-elect.

But McCauley isn't waiting by the phone.

"I supported both of them," he says. "But I'm not what you would consider an insider in either camp. I'm not that close to either one."

McCauley has been thinking of some day returning to City Hall in the role of "elder statesman."

Not as mayor — but as a city councillor at-large.

He has said if he were to run as a councillor at-large candidate it probably would not be next year. Maybe in 1993.

But observers think he is missing the City Hall scene more each day although he stays pretty busy as a financial consultant with an office in the Monroe Building a few years away across McIntyre Mall.

And they think he might just take the plunge next year.

There are others who have expressed interest in running for councillor at-large or who are quietly thinking about it — or are seen as possible candidates.

Like former mayor Joseph LaRaia, former Ward 1

McCAULEY

Councillor Leo Kelly, Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien and School Committeeman Steve Durkin.

LaRaia, incidentally, is beginning to turn up at functions — his pattern, always, when thinking of making a bid for office.

He was at the

Veterans Day parade, for example, and was introduced during the ceremonies.

If all of the potential at-large candidates actually tossed their hats in, and all three incumbents ran for reelection — it would be some race.

There's no doubt that the potential candidates would be quite happy for McCauley — and themselves — if he did get a phone call from Weld or Malone.

One less candidate to be concerned with.

Well, would McCauley really run next year if he didn't get an offer he couldn't refuse?

"I try not to close a door but always keep my options open," he says.

Mayor's Thanksgiving Dinner For Senior Citizens Thursday

The mayor's Annual Thanksgiving Dinner for Quincy senior citizens will be held on Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, at noon at Montello's, 53 Mass. Ave.

Any resident of Quincy age 60 or older is eligible to enjoy a complete Thanksgiving feast by calling the Quincy Council on Aging at 773-1380, ext. 245 to make reservations.

Bus transportation will be provided from various locations throughout the day. Buses will begin picking up seniors at 11:30 a.m. and should arrive at Montello's at approximately 12:30 p.m. Seniors will be driven home by 3:30 p.m.

The buses will pick up at the following locations:

Fenno House, 540 Hancock St., Tobin Towers, 80 Clay St., Drohan Apartments, 170 Copeland St., Southwest Community Center, 380 Granite St., Granite Place, 125 Granite St., Hancock Court, 25 School St., Houghts Neck Community Center, 1193 Sea St., O'Brien Towers, 73 Bicknell St., Town Brook House, 45 Brackett St., Sawyer Towers, 95 Martensen St., and Pagnano Towers, 109 Curtis Ave.

The meal will be served by volunteers at approximately 12:45 p.m.

Congregate Housing Permit Before Council

The City Council was expected to vote on a special permit for a proposed elderly congregate housing facility at its meeting Monday night.

The $17.5 million, 210-unit complex would be built on the site of the former Howard Johnson's candy factory on Old Colony Ave. in Wollaston. It would be constructed by the Massachusetts State Carpenters Pension Fund and Echo Development Corporation.

The Quincy Planning Board voted to recommend council approval of the project Nov. 14 provided the developer met several conditions. The include provisions for a residents' council to advise management about any issues of concern.

The city traffic engineer must approve plan revisions, and the developer must disclose pertinent legal and financial commitments to occupants before they buy.

The five-story facility, which would be called Daisey House, would be designed for the well elderly with their special needs in mind, said Paul Tortolani, president of Echo Development Corp.

finish at East and West Squantum Sts. at North Quincy High School.

The parade, which attracts thousands of people from all over the region and beyond every year, is expected to last two hours.

Returning favorites include the newly crowned Quincy and North Quincy High School beauty queens, miniature horses standing 32-inches high in Christmas attire and Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus.

Also on hand for encore performances will be the Klassy Clown Band, McDonald's "McTonight" and the Hallamore Clydesdales.

Making their first appearance will be a US Air Force miniature jet and various floats and bands.

Among the float participants will be entries from Quincy College, Quincy High, Quincy Hospital, Quincy Bay Race Week, Woodward School, South Shore Bank, Bank of Boston, the Koch Club and Continental Cable.

New floats include a Chinese Lion, the Ivory Souls singing group and Germantown Friends.

Other float entries are Friends from Quincy Square, South Shore Plaza, Quincy City Council, Sen. Paul Harold, St. John's CYO, Jack Conway Realtors, Germantown Yacht Club, Carney Hospital and the Santa Claus float sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

Rosemary Esdale of Wollaston, who submitted the winning entry in this year's parade theme contest, will ride along the route. She will receive a special gift of appreciation at the awards ceremony following the parade.

Her entry was chosen from hundreds in the contest held earlier this year.

Major sponsors of the event are the City of Quincy, Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, and The Patriot Ledger.

Parking will be restricted on Sunday from 5 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the following streets: Hancock St. from School St. northerly to Kendall St.; Quincy Ave. from School St. southerly to Faxon Park Rd.; Scammel St. from Quincy Ave. easterly to South St.; Elm St. from Hancock St. easterly to Mechanic St.; Mechanic St. from Revere Rd. southerly to Elm St.; Revere Rd. from Mechanic St. easterly to Dennis Ryan Parkway; and Ryan Parkway from Revere Rd. northerly to Foster St.

Towing will be strictly enforced on these streets from 5 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Sunday, Nov. 25.

Starting at 6 a.m., the Shaw's Market, Quincy Co-Operative Bank, Firestone and John Hancock parking lots will be restricted to floats and parade personnel.

Parking will be available at the MBTA lot on the Burgin Parkway, Stop and Shop garage at City Hall Plaza, Ross Parking Garage and the Ross Parking area along the Parkway. Spectators may also park at the Adams Academy on Dimmock St., Quincy College, rear of the Vo-Tech school, Wollaston and North Quincy MBTA stations and other areas near the route.

Floats illustrating the theme "The Wonders of Christmas," will compete for prizes and money in the commercial and non-commercial categories.

In addition, trophies will be awarded for the Best Overall Trophy. First place receives the Fr. Thomas Tierney Trophy and $1,000; second place, $500; third place, $300; and fourth place, $200.

Other trophies presented are the Mayor's Trophy for the Best Quincy float; Best Commercial Float and in the special category, the winner receives the Festival Committee Christmas Trophy.

Floats will be judged on originality, use of materials, use of color, appearance and adherence to theme.

Judging the floats will be Mary Good of Randolph, a professional portrait painter and founding president of the Randolph Art Association; Ruth Duquet of Norwell, a former parade theme winner; and John O'Rourke, member of the Quincy Art Association.

Bands marching in the parade will be David Prouty, Klassy Clowns, Chicopee Comprehensive, Canton Legion Post, Pittsfield High, Norton High, Marshfield High, Lawrence High, New Bedford High and Junior High; Agawan High, Chicopee High, Holbrook High, North Quincy High, Quincy High, Abington High, 215th Army Band, Douglas High School and the Waltham American Legion Post Band.

The Waltham Legion Post Band, led by Dorothy Hill, marched in the Soviet Union earlier this year, becoming the first Legion band from the United States to do so. The award-winning band is a regular participant in the Christmas Parade.

Band judging will be held in the Cottage Ave.-Hancock St. area.

High school bands will compete for the state and New England High School Championships. The winner will be eligible to appear in the Cotton Bowl Parade in Dallas, Texas, on New Year's Day, 1992.

After the parade, both band and float awards will be presented in the North Quincy High School auditorium. Admission is by ticket only.

Other specialty units which will appear are:

Theme winners, poster contest winners; Scituate Safety Car, Toys for Tots, costume characters, MBTA motorcycle drill team, Rick Cobban, Mass. State Police Unit, MDC Police/Mounted Unit; Quincy Fire Department/pumper and vehicle; and Quincy Police vehicles and motorcycles.

Color guards include units from the Quincy Police, Mass. State Police, George F. Bryan Post and Ladies State Color Guard; Cambridge Police, Quincy Fire, MDC, MBTA and Taleb Grotto.

State, county and local officials will also march.

Other contributors are:

National Fire Protection Association, The Quincy Sun, WJDA, Continental Cablevision, Bank of Boston, Quincy Rotary Club, BayBank/Norfolk County, South Shore Bank, Quincy Savings Bank, Quincy Cooperative Bank, SS & B Realty, Shawmut Bank, Colonial Federal Savings Bank, George F. Bryan Post #613, Burke Distributing, Stop and Shop Supermarkets, Bradlees Department Stores, South Boston Savings, Jack Conway Realtors, Campanelli Industries, Barry's Deli and President's Place Associates.

Rain date is Sunday, Dec. 2. Postponement announcements will be made over WJDA and other stations beginning at 6 a.m. Sunday.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Council, Police Ask Curb On Drinking

Drinking, particularly among teenagers and war workers captured the attention of official Quincy.

The Council for Alcohol Education called on the city to reduce the number of liquor licenses available and control the hours of sales.

Nov. 22-28
47 Years Ago

"Some bars in Quincy are open 110 hours a week," Mayor Charles A. Ross was told, and the easy access to intoxicating beverages "impairs the efficiency of war workers."

Meanwhile, Capt. George W. Fallon, head of the Quincy Police Criminal Investigation Bureau, promised swift prosecution of bartenders and cafe owners who sell liquor to minors.

Teenagers who falsify their ages to obtain alcoholic beverages also faced court action.

"There is all-together too much drinking and drunkenness in Quincy among teenaged boys," said Capt. Fallon.

DINNER AT HO JO'S

The Thanksgiving dinner at the Howard Johnson's Restaurant in the Granite Trust Building Quincy is featured:

Fresh fruit cup, cream of celery soup with croutons, roast stuffed young turkey, giblet gravy, cranberry sauce, baked potato, hearts of lettuce with French dressing, sweet mixed pickles, hot rolls and butter, mince pie, coffee, Tokay grapes, apple cider, mixed nuts and after dinner mints.

All that for $2.25.

Turkey Stuffing

With Thanksgiving Day coming up soon, I decided to repeat my recipe for basic stuffing that you can prepare the day before and make it easy on yourself. And the butternut squash, if you are planning to include it in your menu. As long as the stuffing is cooled in the refrigerator, it can safely be placed in the turkey and baked.

TURKEY STUFFING

2 stalks of celery, cut up
1 small onion chopped
1 egg
1 bag of stuffing mix
(16 oz bag stuffs a 15-20 lb turkey)
2 Tbsps Bell's Seasoning
1 Tbsp oil
1 cup seasoned bread crumbs
1/4 cup grated romano cheese
1/4 cup white wine (optional)

In hot oil, saute celery and onion. Add the soaked stuffing mix, the seasoning, the wine and grated cheese. Mix until blended and add more water if too dry. Turn off the gas or electric, and then add the beaten egg and the seasoned bread crumbs and mix until blended. Cool until ready to use. When you're ready to cook the turkey, just drape foil loosely around the legs and bake in a 350 degree oven for 20 minutes to the pound. At the last hour or so, take the foil off and baste accordingly.

The butternut squash can be fully prepared and placed in a covered casserole dish and then either microwaved or oven heated. Happy Holiday!

Note: many other things can be added to stuffing. Fresh mushrooms, ground meat or boiled chestnuts—to name a few.

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And Then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point, Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount and Winfield Gift Emporium, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The November meeting of the Wollaston Mothers' Club will be held Thursday, Nov. 29 at 11:30 a.m. at Roseann's, 1091 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

After a brief business meeting, members will make a holiday door wreath or basket of fresh greens under the direction of Mrs. Roseann Flavin.

For reservations call Mrs. Joanne Potter or Mrs.

Donna Coleman.

Hostesses for the "brown bag lunch" will be the Telephone and Helping Hands Committee with Mrs. Nancy Riley, Chairperson.

The club will start collecting gifts for Oceanside at this meeting.

Sign-up for the Dec. 13 Holiday Cookie Exchange will also begin at this meeting.

Pre-Christmas Bazaar At Rice Eventide Home

The William B. Rice Eventide Auxiliary will hold its Pre-Christmas Bazaar at the home, 250 Adams St., on Monday, Nov. 26 at 1:30 p.m.

Chaired by Mrs. Ainsley Dingwell, there will be handmade items, holiday crafts, jewelry and Christmas decorations. Also featured will be home baked goods, fudge, plants, gifts and white elephant.

Afternoon tea will be served with Mrs. Hilding Carlson and Mrs. W. Robert Kilbourn as pourers.

Holiday Fair Planned At St. Chrysostom's

St. Chrysostom's Holiday Fair will be held Friday and Saturday, Nov. 30 and Dec. 1 at the church, 1 Linden St., corner of Hancock St., Wollaston.

The Fair will open Friday at 6 p.m. with a chowder supper, and will remain open until 9 p.m.

Saturday hours are from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Many tables with handmade and home-baked items will be on sale, along with white elephant treasures, new and old jewelry, healthy plants, books, and posters. There will be a kid's area with fun activities.

In addition, this year there will be an art show during the fair, featuring local art work in watercolor, oil and pen and ink. The theme will be New England scenes, country settings, and still life.

MR. and MRS. KEVIN MURPHY

(Sharon's Studio)

Cheryl Lundin Married To Kevin Murphy

Cheryl A. Lundin, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lars O. Lundin of Quincy, was recently married to Kevin D. Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Murphy of Quincy.

Rev. Elden Zuern officiated the ceremony at Bethany Congregational Church in Quincy.

Given in marriage by her grandfather, the bride's maid of honor was her sister, Lisa Lundin of Weymouth. Bridesmaids were Kathleen Schifmann, Debbie Vecchione, Kathleen Doherty and Janet Sandomato, all friends from Quincy, and Terri Murphy, sister of the groom and also from Quincy.

Mr. John Urbanus of Quincy served as best man. Ushers were Brian Murphy of Kansas and Christopher Murphy of Quincy, both brothers of the groom, and Charles Galinauskas of Hingham, Richard Buckley of Boston, and Stefanos Boulas of Waltham, all friends of the groom.

A reception at Viking Club, Braintree followed the ceremony.

The bride graduated from Quincy High School in 1983 and Fisher Junior College in 1985. She is currently attending Suffolk University and is employed by Wolf, Greenfield, & Sacks in Boston.

The groom also graduated from Quincy High School in 1983. He is a self-employed lobsterman.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple are living in Quincy.

Sponsored by Wollaston Business Association

More Than $1,200 In Prizes To Be

More than $1,200 in prizes will be awarded during the fifth annual Evening In Wollaston holiday celebration on Saturday. A total of 32 Wollaston Business Association members have included coupons in this week's issue of The Quincy Sun which can be filled out and dropped at the appropriate businesses during Saturday's festivities. A drawing for the winner will be held at each store at the end of the event.

Evening In Wollaston will feature musical entertainment, special offers from Wollaston businesses, the annual lighting of the Wollaston Christmas lights, a special movie at the Wollaston Theatre and, of course, an appearance by Santa Claus himself. What better way to kick off the season?

Special events during the holiday celebration will include a special showing of the hit comedy "Uncle Buck," starring

John Candy, at the Wollaston Theatre from 3 to 5 p.m. Admission is only $1.

After the movie children will delight when Santa Claus arrives by Quincy fire engine at 5 p.m.

Musical entertainment will also begin at 5 p.m. when the Quincy Choral Society will sing Christmas favorites and the Beechwood Chamber Players will perform in the lobby of the Wollaston Theatre.

At 5:15 p.m. special guests including Mayor James Sheets, Senator Paul Harold, Representative Michael Morrissey and City Councillor Chuck Phelan will join with Santa in the parking lot of the Bank of New England to welcome neighbors to Wollaston.

At 5:20 p.m. the Wollaston Christmas lights will be switched on from the bank parking lot.

Beginning at 5:30 p.m. children can have their photo taken with Santa at the Wollaston Theatre. Children will be escorted to the Theatre where professional photos by Fine Light Photography will be taken at a cost of $2.50 each.

Throughout the event there will be special holiday bargains from participating Wollaston businesses.

The festivities will end at 7 p.m. when participating businesses from the Wollaston Business Association draw the prizes from the coupons.

The participating merchants and their prizes are:

Barry's Deli, 21 Beale St., a party platter ($49.95 value), and free lunch for one for a week.

Brigham's Ice Cream, 13 Beale St., $15 gift

WBA Collecting Gifts, Money

This year's Evening in Wollaston Christmas celebration on Saturday will offer something special in the spirit of the holiday: An opportunity to help those less fortunate to feel the true warmth of the season.

From 1 to 7 p.m. the Wollaston Business Association will be accepting gifts and monetary donations for Quincy's homeless shelters and organizations in the lobby of the Wollaston Theatre on Beale St.

Donated gifts will benefit DOVE, the Quincy Crisis Center, Father Bill's Place and the Long Island Hospital.

The Association has established a wish list for the shelters which includes the following most needed items:

- * Paper goods: plates, napkins, toilet paper, diapers, trash bags, wax paper, and wrapping paper;
- * Clothing: toddler or infant clothes, new socks (any size), new underwear (any size) panty hose, coats, hats, mittens, gloves, etc.;

- * Food: canned goods, coffee (regular and decaf), baby formula;
- * Personal items: shampoo, conditioner, soaps, deodorant;
- * Toys: Any new or used toys (unwrapped), crayons, coloring books,

He is survived by his wife, Sarah (LaCognata) Russo; and two sons, Angelo Russo and John Russo, both of Quincy.

Donations may be made to charity.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Americans tend to believe that Thanksgiving is a private invention native to these shores, and in thousands of expatriate American homes around the world foreign friends are invited to share in the Thanksgiving board.

Foreigners rarely pass up an invitation of that kind, particularly in countries where food is not plentiful... The delights of the Thanksgiving table are world famous, but sometimes foreign guests are privately amused by the host's belief that the harvest festival originated in New England.

Actually, Thanksgiving, without a capital letter, is, in fact, one of the oldest of celebrations. The Romans had formal banquets in honor of Cere, and the Druids always had a harvest rite on November 1. In many lands, the bringing in of the grain is accompanied by the symbolic ritual. All these celebrations are rooted in early belief in a "corn spirit" or a "corn mother."

But we deprecate. It does not make any particular difference that the Thanksgiving turkey is the sacrifice to an ancient custom. The simple fact is that no other people in history has ever had as much to be thankful for as Americans... And that's not just cranberry sauce...

Allen E. Goldfarb, 59 Social Studies Chairman At Broad Meadows School

A funeral service for Allen E. Goldfarb, 59, of Randolph, social studies department chairman and founder of the annual school materials exhibition at the Broad Meadows Middle School, Quincy, was held Nov. 14 at Sharon Memorial Park.

Mr. Goldfarb died Nov. 13 at Cardinal Cushing Hospital, Brockton.

A teacher at Broad Meadows Middle School for 26 years, he focused on eighth grade geography and used a multimedia approach.

Mr. Goldfarb founded the materials exhibit 17 years ago. He arranged for representatives of publishers and producers of new school materials nationwide to display their wares. These companies paid for the space that they used. Teachers from many communities attended, and the program raised thousands of dollars for the Parent-Teacher Organization.

He taught career education courses to make students aware of what was available in the job market, taking them on field trips to businesses and bringing business leaders to the school to talk to classes. He also headed an outreach program and taught middle and high school courses during the summer for 18 years.

Alva E. Oakeson, 85

A private funeral service for Alva E. (Joelson) Oakeson, 85, of Quincy, was conducted Nov. 17 at the Hamel, Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St., Quincy, by the Rev. James Kimmell.

Ms. Oakeson died Nov. 15 at Cardinal Cushing Hospital, Brockton, after a long illness.

A native of Blekinge, Sweden, she moved to the United States at age 18.

She lived in Barre, Vt., for several years before moving to Quincy 50 years ago.

Elder Services Seeks Volunteers

South Shore Elder Services, Inc. is seeking volunteers to help their efforts to combat isolation and loneliness in elders served on the South shore.

Time commitment is only two hours per week.

Those interested in more information may call Joyce

Mr. Goldfarb also worked at Filene's in Boston three nights a week for the last 30 years.

He received bachelor's and master's degrees in social studies and education from Northeastern University, and was a member of the Massachusetts Teachers Association, Norfolk County Teachers Association and the Quincy Education Association.

A native of Boston, he grew up in Chelsea and attended Chelsea schools.

Mr. Goldfarb is survived by his wife, Bernice (Cooper) Goldfarb; two daughters, Nadene Freeman of Boston and Lisa Holbrook of Brockton, and a brother, Daniel Goldfarb of Quincy.

A service was held Nov. 16 for the staff and students at Broad Meadows Middle School. An evening memorial service will be held at the school after Thanksgiving so that former students and colleagues may attend.

Memorial observance was private.

Funeral arrangements were by the Levine-Briss Funeral Home, 84 Mazzeo Dr., Randolph.

Donations may be made to the scholarship fund of the Quincy Education Association, 590 Hancock St., Quincy, 02170.

She had lived in Brockton since January.

New Bibles Dedicated At Squantum First Church

At their morning service Sunday, the congregation of the First Church of Squantum dedicated several stacks of new Bibles to be used in the worship services of the church.

The Bibles, which were all the New Revised Standard Version, were given by members and friends of the church.

Members of the church returned their pledge sheets for the coming year.

Eva Martin gave the call to worship. Bud Sumner and Tom Williamson were the readers.

The Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, preached on the subject "Saying Thanks". He also led the congregation in a special prayer for Thanksgiving, making special mention of the situation in the Middle East and praying for the welfare of the servicemen and women who are stationed there.

Pianist Janet Williamson and organist Mary Ruth Scott accompanied the hymns sung by the congregation. The offertory anthem was sung by the Chancel Choir.

Greeters were Roberta Sheehan and Earl Taylor. Ushers were Luther Swenson, Ann Wallin, Sandra Concannon and Richard Hendry. Ruth Lagh and Valerie Gorrill hosted the Fellowship Hour.

The Bible Study Group meets Wednesday nights at 7:30 p.m. to continue their study of "The Gospel According to Mark". The Junior Choir rehearses Thursdays at 3 p.m. and the Chancel Choir at 7:30 p.m.

Sunday School classes for children in Kindergarten and Grades 1-7 meet at 9:45 a.m. The nursery and the nursery class are held during the Sunday morning service at 10:30 a.m. A Christian craft hour is also for the Sunday School children during the latter part of the morning service. The Way Up for teen-agers is held at 6:30 p.m.

'Package Tours' First Parish Sermon Topic

Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister, will deliver the sermon "Package Tours or Chosen Paths" during the 10:30 a.m. service Sunday at United First Parish Church (Unitarian) in Quincy Center.

Kirk Schroeder, guest instrumentalist, will play several saxophone solos. Music Director Norman Corey will also play organ works by Bach, Frescobaldi, and Scheidt.

Visitors are welcome and are invited to the social hour following the service. Charles Kelley will be host.

and Matthew Malloy and Brenda Powers will usher. The greeter will be Edna Allen.

The Women's Discussion Group, led by Molly Bennett, will meet at 12 noon this Sunday following the service. Participants will continue discussions based on "The Heroine's Journey."

Historic First Parish, "Church of the Presidents," is located on Hancock St. in Quincy Center, opposite City Hall. Church School and child care are provided. Call 773-1290 for more information.

Among the 94 freshmen participants were Sean Scanlon, 21 Thornton St.; Joshua Dube, 29 Whaler Ln.; Mark Connolly, 119 Hamden Cir.; Dennis Patera, 94 Walker St.; and Scott Campbell, 447 Quincy Shore Dr.

Covenant Congregational Christmas Mini Fair Dec. 1

The Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts., Quincy, will sponsor a Christmas Fair Saturday, Dec. 1 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Proceeds will benefit the Naomi Society and the Free Romania Foundation.

Members of the Naomi Society will run a snack bar with coffee, pastries and sandwiches. There will be hand crafted items, including ornaments and beaded scarves, a "new to you" table; a table featuring assorted homemade cookie trays; a table with assorted bric-a-brac; and a table whose proceeds will go directly to the Free Romania Foundation.

The Free Romania Foundation is a Cambridge-based organization dedicated to helping the 40,000 orphans of Romania who lack even the most basic needs of clothing, food and attention.

The Naomi Society will be assisted by the Men's Auxiliary and the Hi-League who will have their own tables.

Rev. Kathleen Graves and Rev. Kirk Johnson are co-pastors. The Sunday morning worship service begins at 10:45 a.m. Christian Education is at 9:30 a.m. Richard Smith is the minister of music. Choir rehearsals are at 7 p.m. Thursdays. Naomi Society meets on the second Monday of the month at 7:30 p.m.; the men's prayer breakfast is every third Saturday at 8 a.m. and a Bible study/prayer group meets every other Saturday at 9 a.m.

For more information about any of the church's activities, call 479-5728.

History Repeats As Quincy Girls Lose Title Bid

By TOM SULLIVAN
History repeated itself last Saturday when the Quincy girls' volleyball team, for the second year in a row, lost an exciting five-game match to Case High of Swansea for the state championship.

Case came through in the deciding game, 16-14, to claim its 84th straight victory and its fifth straight state title. It won three straight Division 2 titles before defeating Quincy twice in a row for the Division 1 crown.

The match was similar to the finale last year. Quincy had breezed into the final match without losing a game and finished up at 22-1. The Quincy girls had won the Old Colony League championship. Case finished at 25-0.

"I was proud of the way we came back after losing the first two games," said Quincy coach Tom Henderson. "We were inconsistent in those first two games and you can't afford to be against a great team like that."

Jennifer Richmond, Laura Novak, Erin Doherty, Melanie Sullivan, Chris Barrett and Rhonda Gaura all had excellent matches for Quincy, which was seeking its fourth state title.

In the semifinals Quincy had won its third straight tournament match without losing a game as it defeated Milford, 15-6, 15-4, 15-4. "Everybody played well and we will be ready for Case," said Henderson.

JOEL BALDUCCI of Quincy is a linebacker for the Bridgewater State College football team. Balducci, son of Kenneth and Mary Balducci, played his high school ball at Xavierian.

Swimming

North Girls Set 5 School Records

The North Quincy girls' swim team, the Pilgrim Conference champion, set five school records and finished third in the South Sectional championships last weekend.

North finished with 108 points, trailing only Wellesley with 260 and Ursuline with 175. Twenty-five schools competed.

North won 10 of 12 events to qualify for the finals and 90 percent of its swimmers turned in career best performances.

Debbie Ramos finished second in the 100 freestyle (55:40) and second in the 500 freestyle (25:51). She also swam on the 200 freestyle relay team which finished third in a school record 1:46:69. Joining her were Julie Ramos, Justine Fagerlund and Jennifer Walker. She also swam on the 400 freestyle relay team which also placed third in a school record 3:54:22. Joining her were the same three girls.

Fagerlund placed sixth in the 200 individual medley in a school record

2:27:23 and took fifth in the 100 breaststroke in another school record 1:13.62.

Liz Gormley was seventh and Zoe Bohl 11th in the diving, Julie Ramos was 11th in the 200 freestyle and 100 backstroke (school record of 1:11:32) and Claire McCarthy was 11th in the 500 freestyle.

Sports

Mite Bs Lose In Tourney Finals

Quincy's Mite B hockey team, winner of the Campbell Conference, went to the finals of the recent Reebok Invitational Tournament before bowing to Cape Cod's Wales Conference champions, 5-1.

Sean Haidul scored the Quincy goal with Nick Pizziferri having an assist.

Quincy opened tournament play with 22-2 tie with Medford. Ryan Krueger and Haidul had the Quincy goals and Pizziferri had an assist.

The second game saw Quincy edge Salem, N.H., 1-0, on Haidul's goal. Again Pizziferri had the assist.

Quincy then blanked Norwood, 2-0, on goals by Chris Cullen and Didier Alther. John Sullivan had an assist and goalie Jeff Langille earned the shut-out with an outstanding performance.

Bill DeCoste, Eleanora Mulroy Football Contest Winners

Because of a tie in the tie-breaker, there are two winners in this week's Quincy Sun Football Contest.

Bill DeCoste of Quincy, and Eleanora Mulroy of Wollaston both will receive a $25 cash prize from The Quincy Sun. Both readers picked nine out of 11 winners and guessed 37 points in the tie breaker to claim the prize.

The tie-breaker was the total points scored in the Pittsburgh-Cincinnati game. The Bengals won, 27-3, for a total of 30 points.

Three other readers also picked nine winners but gave higher tie-breakers.

Michael Fitzgerald of Quincy and Leo Shea of Wollaston each had 41 points while Brian Radell of North Quincy guessed 45 points.

Anyone can enter. Just fill out the official entry form in this week's issue of The Quincy Sun.

Forms can be mailed to the Sun office at 1372 Hancock St., Quincy, MA 02169 or dropped off at the above address.

Entries must be postmarked by Saturday or dropped off by 3:30 p.m. Saturday to be eligible.

McPhee: 'We Will Be Ready For Them!'

North Looking For Upset

A 500 season and a second straight city championship will be the goals for the North Quincy football team in Thursday's 58th North-Quincy game.

Ken McPhee's Raiders, who must face powerful Quincy without two, and possibly three, of their top players, have a 4-5 record and will be trying to avoid the third losing season since McPhee took over in 1982.

"Quincy has to be a heavy favorite, but this doesn't mean a thing in this game," said McPhee. "We will be without Desmond Bellot, probably our best all-around player (broken leg) and Chris Murray, our best runner before breaking his foot. Also Mark Cocuzzo, who has led our running game since Murray's injury, is a big question mark. He may play but will be far below par physically."

"Emotion always plays a big role in these games and I know we will be ready for them. We have a young team and I have used 17 underclassmen during the season."

McPhee was happy to get a win last week at Taunton after losing big to Bridgewater-Raynham in the previous week. "It wouldn't have been so good to go into the game with two straight losses," he said.

"These kids have just refused to quit. Losing several tough games and losing several fine players, they could have quit but our captains have done a wonderful job of keeping their spirits up and never giving up."

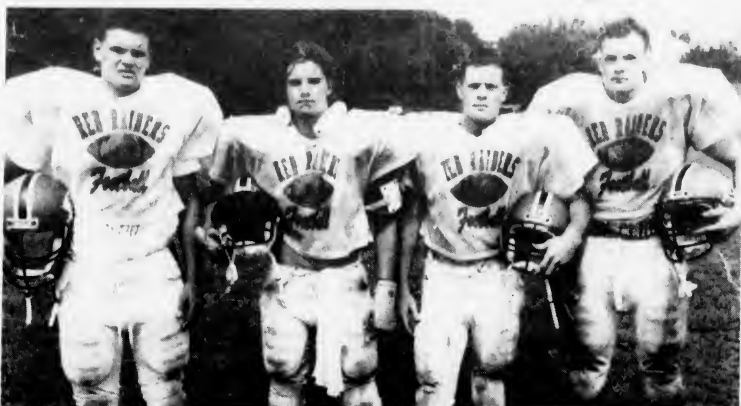

KEN MCPHEE

"We miss Bellot, Murray and Cocuzzo, but the other kids have come up with that extra effort. We have a super senior group which has worked hard with the underclassmen. We haven't been blown out of nay game except Bridgewater-Raynham and the kids have lost some real tough ones."

North will start offensively with Don Anderson, Pat Shea and Jason Buckley alternating at wide receiver. Mark Kelliher at tight end, Pat Faherty and Mark Zych at tackle, Co-Capt. Mike Oliva and Adam Strout at guard, Co-Capt. Mark Swierk at center, Mark Taylor at quarterback, Co-Capt. Evan Kiley at fullback, Co-Capt. Rich Brooks at tail back and Cocuzzo and John D'Angelo at wing back. Adam Somerville will also see service on offense.

Defensively it will be Taylor and Kiley at end. Strout and Swierk at tackle. Scott Prouty at nose guard, Kelliher and Chris McCallum linebackers, freshman Tony Licciardi and Shea corner backs and Brooks and Jason April safeties.

Also playing on defense will be Zych, Scott Koher, Mike Picariello, Derek Colantonio, Mike Christopherson, Bill Miller and Brendon O'Connell.

"Mark Taylor has been a most pleasant surprise for us," McPhee said. "He transferred from Braintree where they use an altogether different system."

"It took him a while to catch on to our system, but once he did he has done a superb job. He has 10 Flavin) and has scored two touchdowns himself. He has a fine arm, runs well and shows a lot of poise. Mike Kelliher has been outstanding and is as good as any end I have seen. Evan Kiley has also done a super job as have Rich Brooks and Cocuzzo. The offensive line has been tremendous and the defense has turned in some excellent performances. One thing I'm sure of, Quincy will know it has been in a ball game."

Last year North pulled out a 27-26 win in what is generally considered the most exciting game of the series.

Raymer: 'There Shouldn't Be A Favorite'

Quincy Looking For Revenge

JACK RAYMER

By TOM SULLIVAN

On the basis of the records, the Quincy football team should be a decided favorite in the Thursday game, but don't try to tell coach Jack Raymer that.

"There shouldn't be a favorite in this game and I think Ken McPhee is perfectly comfortable in the underdog role," Raymer said. "I've been on the other side of the on the other side and the records don't mean a thing. The game two years ago was a good example. We didn't win a game and North won seven, but we tied them."

"I know they will give us all we can handle and we are working very hard for the game. It is too bad North will be without two or three of its top players, but they have some good replacements and they will still be strong."

Quincy, with a 7-1-1 record, its best in many years, will be hoping for at least a second place finish in the Old Colony League. Weymouth has already clinched at least a tie for first and Bridgewater-Raynham will tie them with a win over Taunton Thursday.

The Presidents, hoping to avenge last year's heartbreaking 27-26 loss, will be banking on the running of Mark Bogan, who for the second year in a row has gone over 1000 yards rushing (1105) and has scored 15 touchdowns. He is tied for the Div. 1 lead in scoring with 96 points. He also is a fine pass receiver and outstanding defensive player.

Junior Jason Anderson has come along fast as a runner and has given Bogan plenty of support. The opposition can't concentrate any more on Bogan and Anderson and Bill Reardon have done some fine ball carrying.

If the running game is stopped, quarterback Mike Flavin takes over. An excellent passer, he has 10 touchdown passes (the same number as North's Mark Taylor) and has picked up valuable yardage running.

Bogan, Dave Chapman and Chris Walker are outstanding pass receivers and have been excellent targets for Flavin.

A key man on offense is sophomore Noel DiBona, the best place kicker the Presidents have had in many years. He has kicked 16 extra points and his leg could be a big factor Thursday. He also

Quincy, with a huge line, has been tough defensively all season and has many sacks to its credit. The linemen not only are huge but are quick.

Quincy will open on offense with Chapman and Mike Kavanaugh at tight end. Walker at wide receiver, Duane Holmes and Pat Neil at tackle. Mike Tempesta and Graham Chevre at guard. Scott Buckmann at center. Flavin at quarterback. Bogan at tail back. Reardon at slot back and Anderson at fullback.

Defensively the Presidents will have Shawn Kennedy and Chapman at end, Dave Frye and Keith Norris at tackle. Kavanaugh, Chevre and Aly Sleiman line backers. Walker and John O'Connor defensive backs and Reardon and Bogan safeties.

Also seeing service on defense will be Dave Chevre, Ray Byrne and Mike Malvesti.

Sophomore Robbie Kane has been outstanding returning kickoffs and punts.

"We are not going to make any changes in our offense, we'll use what has brought us this far," Raymer said. "We have our best balanced team in some time with a fine running game and good passing."

Bogan, Bellot Top Scorers

Quincy's Mark Bogan has scored 96 points going into the holiday game, far and away the most of any player. Bogan is tied for the Divisional scoring lead.

North's top scorer is Desmond Bellot, who missed the last two games and will miss the holiday game with a broken leg. He has scored 38 points.

Sophomore Noel DiBona has kicked 16 extra points for Quincy and his leg could be an important factor in THE GAME.

Quincy Jayvees Win, 13-8

By PETE ZOIA

The annual Quincy-North Quincy junior varsity football game last Saturday at Veterans Memorial stadium lived up to expectations with Quincy winning, 13-8, to finish at 8-1.

North Quincy wound up with a 6-2 record.

The first quarter was marred by penalties and Quincy had two drives halted by penalties. North then drove 85 yards for its lone score, sparked by the running of Mark Sinclair and Mike Sweeney and Brendan O'Connell scored on a counter play from the 18. Liam Higgins passed to Paul Kerr for the two-point conversion.

Quincy, aided by successive 15-yard penalties against North, drove 70 yards with Joe Crespi passing to Mike Malvesti for 18 yards and the touchdown. Noel DiBona kicked the extra point.

North led, 8-7, at halftime. Quincy made some defensive adjustments at the half, changing from a 5-2 to a 4-3 defense which seemed to confuse North.

A Higgins punt went 60 yards and was downed by Mike Christopherson on the Quincy one. Undaunted, Crespi passed to Gary Collins, who raced 97 yards for the winning touchdown.

The game became a defensive struggle with both teams' attacks being stymied. A final North drive was halted in the last quarter when Lee Dimeco, Chris Iorio and Sean McArdle combined for three successive quarterback sacks and Quincy took over on North's 31.

Leone's 1966 North Team Perfect 9-0-0 Season

The 1966 North Quincy team coached by Carl Leone, had a perfect 9-0-0 record, won the Greater Boston League title and shared the Class A title with Arlington. North defeated Quincy, 8-0, that year. Among the Raiders was present North coach Ken McPhee.

Quincy's 1970 team, coached by Hank Conroy, was undefeated at 9-0-0 and won the GBL crown. The Presidents defeated the Raiders, 16-6.

North To Return To Zoia's No. 20 Style Jersey

Among the Hall of Fame display in the Quincy sun window is the original North Quincy jersey number 20 worn by Pete Zoia 55 years ago as captain of the 1935 North Quincy team which defeated Quincy, 14-6.

For several years North has had white on their uniforms but next season the Raiders will be going back to the original black and red jersey.

Incidentally, Zoia's jersey was recently retired and no one will wear 20 in the future.

Quincy Freshmen In 25-6 Romp

Quincy's freshman football team defeated North Quincy, 25-6, in their annual game last Saturday at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

For Quincy Walter Spadorcia threw three touchdown passes, the first to Mike Elder for 38 yards and another to Harold Mortel for 60 yards in the opening quarter and another to Elder for 13 yards in the third quarter.

A 25-yard touchdown run by Mike Kane highlighted the second quarter for Quincy after a pass interception. Elder kicked the extra point.

Quincy's secondary ruined any North scoring chances by intercepting four passes.

The lone score for the young Raiders came in the final quarter as quarterback Dave Duncan connected with George Wirtz for 29 yards.

Prior to the score, Duncan, who had replaced Wirtz at quarterback, did some fine passing as he hit Nathan Gott for gains of 11 and 12 yards and Mike Santoro for 32 yards.

18,000 Crowd Record Set In 1946

The crowd of 18,000 which watched the 1946 game seems certain to remain a Quincy-North record.

Many estimated that crowd was closer to 25,000 counting the many watching from the walls and trees and those who lined the MBTA bus garage yard.

The biggest crowd previous to that was 15,000 which witnessed the 1939 game.

In recent years the crowds have averaged between 12,000 and 13,000. Last year's game was snowed out and about 10,000 watched the most exciting game of the series on Saturday.

5 Ties In Series (4 Scoreless)

Quincy Holds 28 Wins, North 24

Going into Thursday's 58th game, Quincy has won 28 games and North Quincy 24. Five games have ended in ties. Four have been scoreless ties in 1934, 1937, 1940 and 1983, while the 1987 game ended in a 14-14 tie.

Quincy has the longest win streak in the series, winning five in a row from 1954 through 1958. Quincy also won four straight from 1940 through 1949.

North's first five teams were unbeaten in the series, winning in 1933, 1935 and 1936 and playing to scoreless ties in 1934 and 1937.

Sullivan Had 6-2 Record Against North

Bill Sullivan, who coached Quincy from 1952 through 1959 enjoyed a 6-2 record against North and led the Presidents to five successive wins over the Raiders.

Sullivan, who had been assistant to Munroe Maclean from 1938 through 1951, enjoyed wins over North from 1954 through 1958, before North won in Bill's final season, 1959.

My biggest thrill was probably winning the 1938 game, my first year as assistant," said Sullivan. "It marked Quincy's first win in the series as North had won three and tied two in the first five games."

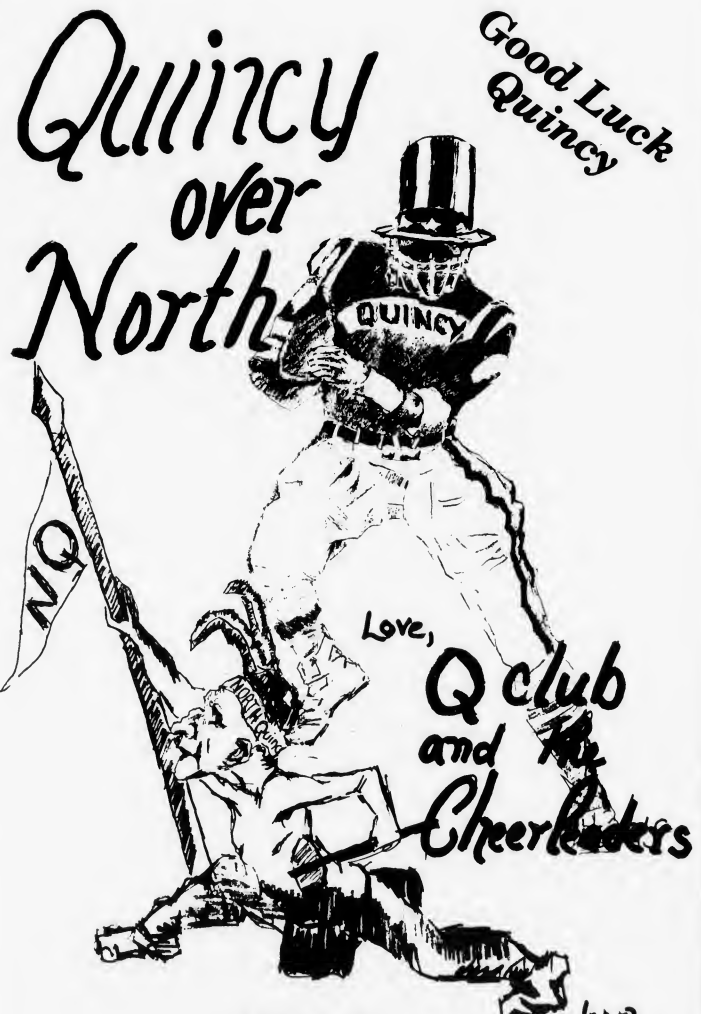

Although retired, Bill still remains part of the annual Thanksgiving games as he collects tickets at all Quincy and North home games and will be at his usual post Thursday.

Christmas Parade, Festivities On Ch. 3

Continental Cablevision of Quincy Channel 3 will cablecast the 39th annual Quincy Christmas Festival Parade and activities beginning at noon Sunday, Nov. 25.

Coverage will begin with the "Turning On the Lights" ceremony Friday, Nov. 23 at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall Plaza and Santa's official arrival Saturday by parachute.

The program will conclude with interviews with float participants and Festival Chairman George White.

At 12:30 p.m., Channel 3 will begin live coverage of the parade from Quincy

City Hall Plaza followed by an award ceremony at North Quincy High School.

This year's parade coverage will be hosted by Marie Diaz, executive producer for Continental Cablevision, and co-hosted by former Mayor Francis X. McCauley.

Mime To Perform Nov. 27 At Lincoln Hancock School

The South West Community Relations Committee and the Lincoln Hancock PTC will sponsor a performance by artist Jim Vetter entitled "Mime, Talking With Your Body"

Tuesday, Nov. 27 at 1 p.m. at the Lincoln Hancock Community School cafeteria.

The show, aimed for children from kindergarten to grade five, is open to the public. There is a requested donation of $1.

Vetter is a well-known artist. A theater graduate of Yale University, he has performed for thousands of students across New England. Throughout his performances, Vetter shares the secret of mime illusions while exploring how we use our bodies to communicate in daily life.

The program is sponsored in part by the Massachusetts Arts Lottery, as administered by the Quincy Arts Council.

The school cafeteria is located on the Water St. side of the building.

For more information, call 770-2227.

THE GAME On Channel 3

Quincy Community Television volunteers will cover the annual Thanksgiving Day City Championship football game between the North Quincy Red Raiders and Quincy Presidents Nov. 22.

The game will be cablecast to Continental Cablevision subscribers on Channel 3 at 3 and 7 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 22; 10 a.m., 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 23; 10 a.m. on Saturday, Nov. 24 and at 8 p.m. on Monday, Nov. 26.

"Our coverage of the game will be consistent with what you've seen all season except for the addition of a second replay camera near the north goal post," said QCTA Sports Producer Jack Low.

"Our viewers can expect to see the same graphics, replays and on-field interviews that our volunteers have provided for every game." Low said, adding the volunteers has donated more than 200 hours of football coverage.

A one-hour pre-game show will be aired Tuesday at 9 a.m. and Wednesday at 1 and 8 p.m.

LEGAL NOTICE

MORTGAGEE'S SALE
OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue and in execution of the Power of Sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Robert P. Buccella, Sr. and Carol A. Buccella to Household Finance Corporation III, dated October 27, 1988 recorded with Norfolk Registry of Deeds, Book 8140, Page 392, of which mortgage the undersigned is the present holder, for breach of conditions in said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing, the same will be sold at Public Auction on the premises at 21 Whitney Road, Quincy at 12:00 P.M. on Tuesday, December 4, 1990, all and singular the premises described in said mortgage, to wit:

"A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon now known as and numbered 21 Whitney Road, situated in Quincy, Norfolk County, Massachusetts, being Lot 3 on a plan by George G. Saville, dated March 30, 1898, recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Plan Book 21, Plan 980, bounded and described as follows:

Northerly by Whitney Road, seventy (70) feet; Easterly by Lot 5, on said plan, ninety-eight and fifteen hundredths (98.15) feet;

Southerly by land now or formerly of G.W. Russell, on said plan, seventy and one hundredths (70.01) feet; Westerly by Lot 1, on said plan, ninety-nine and forty-three hundredths (99.43) feet.

Containing, according to said plan, six thousand, nine hundred thirteen and twenty hundredths (6,913.20) square feet of land.

Being the same premises conveyed to mortgagors by deed dated October 28, 1986, and recorded at Norfolk Registry of Deeds, Book 7309, Page 497.

The above premises will be sold subject to all unpaid taxes, tax titles, betterments, municipal liens and other municipal assessments, if any.

TERMS OF SALE: The purchaser will be required to pay down the sum of $5000.00 in cash, certified or bank check, at the time and place of sale; the balance of the purchase price to be paid upon delivery of the deed within fifteen days after approval of the sale by the Worcester Superior Court, at the offices of Labovitz & Burdick, 25 Foster Street, Suite 300, Worcester, Massachusetts.

That is shall be the responsibility of the Purchaser at the foreclosure sale to be responsible for all costs for recording, including excise tax stamps, recording of any deeds, Certificate of Municipal Liens or any other recording expenses, and the Purchaser has not relied upon any representations of the Seller, its agents or representatives, and that the Purchaser is buying said property "as is." That in the event tenants are occupying said premises, it shall be the responsibility of the Purchaser to evict said tenants.

That is an additional condition and term of the sale, that in the event the successful purchaser of the foreclosed premises does not fulfill the terms and conditions of said foreclosure sale by purchasing the property, the mortgagee reserves the right to thereafter accept the bid of the next highest bidder at the foreclosure sale and to further accept said bid upon the conditions of the second bidder agreeing to fulfill its bid commitment which was made at the time of the foreclosure sale; other terms, if any, to be announced at the sale.

QCAP Receives $25,000 For Remedial Education

A $25,000 grant has been awarded to QCAP, Inc. at the South West Community Center to provide a GED training-remedial education program to AFDC recipients.

The grant was received from the South Coastal Career Development. The Classes will begin Dec. 3. This is the first opportunity this agency has had to provide remedial education to our clients and we are very excited about the prospect, said Mary Breloff, Director of Community Education today.

Many women have never had the opportunity to finish high school and are in dead-end jobs or on welfare. A GED diploma will open doors of opportunity for these folks and we believe this program is just the beginning of career development and eventual employment.

The SWCC currently offers job training programs in Day Care, Surgical Tech Training, Drafting and Computer Operations. Those interested in remedial education should call the center immediately for an appointment - classes begin Dec. 3.

Could Save $40,000 A Year

Sheets Tightens City Car Use

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Citing the need for a more regulated procedure regarding the use of city vehicles, Mayor James Sheets has instituted a new policy which he said could save between $30,000 and $40,000 this fiscal year.

The new policy states that no municipal employee can take a city-owned vehicle home unless that person is on call twenty-four hours a day and has a demonstrated record of being called in at least once a week from home directly to a city site problem.

Under the new policy, employees who are called into the office first and then travel directly to a city problem site will not be allowed to take a city vehicle home with them, Sheets pointed out.

City employees who can continue taking a city vehicle home include the police chief, acting fire chief and commissioner of Public Works. The mayor noted these employees are on call 24-hours a day and have radio equipment in their vehicles.

Sheets also pointed out that the police chief, acting fire chief and public works commissioner may recommend that one or two employees in their departments need to take home cars for various reasons. "But to do that, they have to justify it," he added.

The city owns and maintains 65 vehicles; most of which are passenger cars. The remainder are trucks. Not every vehicle goes home, the mayor noted.

Of the passenger cars, the police department has access to 28; public works 10; building and fire departments nine; park and forestry three; engineering two; and recreation, traffic, wire, and weights and measures, one each.

According to records, the city spent $158,000 in gas and maintenance for city vehicles last year. Sheets said he is "concerned" because of that total, $45,000 went unaccounted.

"This does not imply it was stolen; it could have gone to maintenance," Sheets said.

"We really can't have that situation. We have to

No Plans To Cancel Santa Skydiving

Santa and his elves will continue to arrive at Faxon Field but the exact landing location could be moved inward to the north away from busy roadways, the chairman of the Quincy Christmas Festival Committee said Tuesday.

One of the professional skydivers dressed as an elf was blown off course in a sudden wind squall Saturday and landed on a car on Coddington St. The skydiver, Robert G. Humphreys of Holbrook, suffered a broken leg and broken knee.

On Tuesday, he was listed in good condition at Quincy Hospital. Humphreys was in therapy Tuesday afternoon and was unavailable for comment.

Responding to reports that the traditional event might be cancelled, Festival Chairman George White said, "At this time, the committee is not thinking about cancelling this event. Santa's arrival by parachute is unique and a real crowd pleaser."

White said the Faxon Field location would continue to be used but plans as to where the ROBERT HUMPHREYS of Holbrook, one of Santa's elves, suffered a broken leg and broken knee when he parachuted over Faxon Field and landed on a car on Coddington St. A strong gust of wind blew him off course and away from his targeted landing spot.

Nominations Coming In For Sun 'Citizen Of Year'

Nominations are coming in for The Quincy Sun's sixth annual "Citizen of the Year Award."

Established in 1985, the award recognizes an individual for outstanding community service.

Last year, Clara Yeomans of Wollaston, a long-time environmental activist and natural resources consultant to the community, received the award. A charter member of the Quincy Conservation Commission and 30-year member of Save Our Shores, Yeomans was selected from 37 nominees.

She was nominated by Corinne Mitchell of Wollaston.

The first award winner was Tony Siciliano, deputy director of Quincy Civil Defense and auxiliary police chief. He was chosen from 31 nominees.

Ruth Wainwright of Houghs Neck, a long-time community volunteer, was named the winner in 1986. She was selected from 43 nominees.

The third award was presented posthumously to the late Richard J. Koch who was active in many charitable and community causes for four decades.

The 1988 recipient was Martin Finnegan, athletic director for Quincy Public Schools. Selected from 33 nominees, Finnegan was recognized for coordinating Project Impact, an innovative program which trains teachers and adults to help youngsters deal with drug, alcohol and other problems.

See Ballot Below

The award winner is honored at a reception hosted by The Quincy Sun at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center.

Those nominated the past five years are eligible to be nominated again this year. Since it is not a popularity contest, a person receiving the most nominations is not necessarily sure of being the final winner.

Anyone nominated just once has an equal opportunity to be named the final winner.

Deadline for nominations is Saturday, Dec. 29.

Nominations are now being accepted. Sun readers have the opportunity to nominate the person they feel is the most deserving.

After nominations close Dec. 29, a judging panel will be selected to make the final choice from the nominations submitted. A nomination ballot to help the selection process is on Page 3 of this week's issue of The Sun.

If you know someone you would like to see recognized with this award, fill out the form and mail it to:

Citizen of the Year Award

The Quincy Sun
1372 Hancock Street

Quincy, MA 02169
Nominations should be postmarked no later than Dec. 29.

Nominations can also be dropped off at The Sun office at the above address no later than Dec. 29.

Those submitting nominations should identify themselves. They can also attach to the ballot a letter describing in more detail the reason for the nomination.

Nominees can be someone in elective office, a member of an appointed board, a clergy member, a teacher or school administrator, a police officer or firefighter, someone in the business community, a sports figure or someone next door who has given freely of his or her time to a worthy project or cause.

Remember, deadline for nominations is Saturday, Dec. 29.

The name of the winner will be announced in The Quincy Sun in January.

Here is the opportunity for you to voice your opinion as to who deserves to be The Quincy Sun's "Citizen of the Year" for 1990.

Pool Gift Certificates Available From Recreation Dept.

Barry J. Welch, Director of Recreation, announces a special holiday "Gift Certificate" is available for memberships to the pool program sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department at the Lincoln Hancock Community School Pool.

Memberships to the pool is open to both Quincy residents and non-residents and there are a variety of membership plans including children, adult, senior citizen and a family plan or a family half year plan. Welch said "Each membership comes with a special holiday greeting and is an ideal stocking stuffer, or last minute gift. The health benefits of swimming are well documented and this gift could provide a year's worth of positive recreational activity for each recipient."

Membership gift certificates to the pool will be sold Monday through Friday from 5:30 to 8 p.m. at the Water Street entrance to the Lincoln Hancock school pool now until Dec. 21.

Additional information can be obtained by calling the Quincy Recreation Department, 773-1380, ext. 204.

Mullen To Chair Mayor's Task Force On Vandalism, Crime

Police Chief Francis Mullen has been appointed chairman of the mayor's City-Wide Task Force on crime, vandalism and litter.

The task force, formed by Mayor James A. Sheets earlier this month, will study and determine ways to reduce vandalism, crime and pollution throughout Quincy by identifying all the contributing factors.

Factors which the mayor wants studied include the city's four MBTA stations, commercial and business districts, public parks and playgrounds, libraries, schools and cemeteries as well as barrooms, restaurants, fast-food and donut shops and convenience stores.

The task force has been divided into four sub-committees. After their study is complete, they will submit an action plan with specific recommendations to regulate and control vandalism, crime and pollution throughout the city.

In addition to Mullen, the mayor also appointed four sub-committee chairmen and named several professionals and residents who will sit on each sub-committee.

Sheets noted additional appointments would be made in the near future. He also pointed out city councillors will be asked to serve.

FRANCIS MULLEN

Public Works
Commissioner David Colton will chair the MBTA sub-committee. Members include Don Pearson of the Quincy Police Department, a representative from the MBTA and MBTA police; Courtney Smith from Quincy Savings Bank and Charles O'Brien of NARFE.

Kevin Madden, an assistant city solicitor, will chair the parks, libraries, schools, playgrounds and cemeteries sub-committee. Members include Park Director Ray Cattaneo, Recreation Director Barry Welch, Youth Commission Director Tom Stansbury, James Wilson, assistant superintendent for school buildings; and citizens Donald Strong, Louise Brabazon and Clara Yeomans.

Bernice Mader, the mayor's administrative assistant, will chair the barrooms, restaurants, fast food/convenience/donut shops. Members include Frank Barrett owner of The Tent and Amelia's; Don Conboy of Walsh's Restaurant; Joe Hajjar of Joe's Pub and Grub; James McGettrick of Nostalgia and Rouillard's; Paul Govostes of Dunkin Donuts; Michael Albrecht of Papa Gino's; City Clerk John Gillis, Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue, Richard Laracy of the Quincy Police Department; Richard Carriger from Pilgrim Restaurant and the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association; and citizens Frank Kearns and Lisa DiBona.

Planning Director Richard Meade will chair and commercial-business districts sub-committee. Members include Peggy Scahill of Lucille's Little House and the QCBPA; Crime Prevention Officer Bob Hanna; Traffic Engineer David Kinnecom, Joyce Baker from the Quincy Historical Society; Jack Menz from the Quincy Fire Department; Bob Coleman of Colman's Sporting Good and the QCBPA; and citizens Norm Forde, John Noonan and Howard McKay.

Sheet said the committee will meet soon, perhaps the first week of December.

Volunteers Needed To Keep Library Open Monday Nights

Volunteers are needed at the Adams Shore Library Monday evenings to assist regular staff, Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson announces.

Without the volunteers, Library Director Warren Watson said the library will have to close Monday evenings due to cutbacks in the budget.

Since the library is a valuable asset and widely used by the community, Kolson is asking that anyone with time to volunteer (whether it be one Monday evening a month or more) to contact him or Watson at the library.

In tight financial times, Kolson stressed it is up to everyone to help out in any way to maintain the standards of the community.

Utilities Will Now Submit Project Plans To DPW

Public Works Commissioner David Colton has begun a new procedure for contractual agreements between public utilities and the city, announces Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson, chairman of the Public Works Committee.

All public utilities will submit plans explaining the scope and purpose of upcoming projects directly to the Department of Public Works so that appropriate criteria can be applied at the beginning of the process.

Previously, public utilities had submitted plans to the City Council which then held a public hearing. Following the hearing, a set of plans were sent to the DPW. The department would then work out "the bugs" of the approved plan after the fact.

Kolson said the streamline approach will serve and protect the community and ensure the work complies with all regulatory agencies.

After reviewing some pending projects, Kolson said he finds Colton's plan successful.

Sheets Opens Re-election Bid

Most observers agree that Mayor James Sheets will get a free ride to a second term next year.

But those who wrestle in the political arena know — or should know — that you don't take anything for granted. Run scared, even if you're the only one running or the only one who seems to be running.

Because things can sometimes change quickly.

Sheets obviously is taking nothing for granted. He has a $100 per ticket fundraiser on tap tonight (Thursday) from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Common Market in West Quincy.

He reportedly has paid off all debts from last year's four-man mayoral race. So the money being raised tonight would seem to be earmarked for a second term campaign in 1991.

There is no major potential candidate waiting in the wings to pop a surprise announcement come January. Certainly there is no one in the present City Council thinking of challenging Sheets next year.

The only possibility of an opponent next year is someone who thinks he can cash in on the anti-incumbent anger evident in the state elections.

Or some nutcase who would like to see his name in the papers and on the ballot.

The fact of the matter is that Sheets has done a good job since taking over from Francis McCauley last January.

He came into office with the state in a financial mess and the economy in a nose-dive.

And despite all the woes, he has forward movement going in the city. Quincy isn't sitting dead in the water waiting to sink.

Sheets has been chasing federal funds and is putting tourism on the front burner.

The downtown area — the city's living room — is shaping up with roadway improvements, new sidewalks, handsome historical-style light fixtures, trees, etc.

Times will eventually get better financially and when they do, Quincy looks like the place where people will want to do business. Quincy will be ready when the tide turns.

Traditionally, Quincy voters have given a freshman mayor a second term as long as they believe he is doing a good job — or trying to do a good job — and is honest.

Sheets qualifies on those counts and in his 11 months in office projects the image of being the right man at the right time for the job.

Only two mayors in Quincy's history have been allowed to run for re-election without opposition; Tom Burgin in 1940 and Frank McCauley in 1983.

Right now Sheets looks like the third.

QUINCY BUSINESSMAN Peter O'Connell didn't make it to City Hall last year but you might say he will always be close to it.

O'Connell is among those who have donated $2,500 for one of the handsome historical light fixtures going up in the downtown area.

O'Connell's pole is in front of City Hall. On one side of it is one donated by the family of former Mayor James McIntyre in his memory and on the other side one donated by members of the present City Council. Each pole has a plaque with the name of the donor on it.

At last count, some 42 poles had been donated. There are still some available.

LOOK ALIKES: The Rev. A.H. Wismer of Wollaston Lutheran Church and Harry Anderson who plays Judge Harry Stone on TV's "Night Court."

SMILE DEPT: Fr. Daniel Graham, who has become somewhat famous for his short, funny stories before getting down to the serious business of homilies, told one at his recent installation as pastor of St. John's Church that went something like this:

GRAHAM

It seems a certain pastor was dominated in the rectory by his housekeeper who would tell him when to eat, what to eat, what time to go to bed, etc.

The pastor couldn't take it much longer so he went off to a retreat. The general theme was to be forceful, take charge and don't be intimidated.

The pastor, feeling like a new man, hurried back to the rectory and opened the door, only to be blocked by the housekeeper who was standing there.

"Where do you think you're going," she wanted to know. "I just washed the floor. Use the back door."

The pastor stood his ground. "No, I'm the boss, I'm in charge from now on, I will do what I decide to do."

The housekeeper stared at him and declared: "Well, that's the last retreat you're going on."

Takes Issue With TV Program On Phobias

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The recent 48 hours program on "Anxiety, Panic & Phobias" aired on Wednesday, Nov. 14 was a disservice to the vast number of sufferers of anxiety, phobias and obsessive-compulsive disorders.

For example, the program demonstrated a person in panic on an aircraft as stiffened, unable to breathe, her husband urging her to breathe as if in labor. In fact, panic most often makes one quiet and preoccupied, so that not even a marriage partner may notice it.

Victims of panic may conclude either they don't really have panic, or that they must look "freaked out" to others.

The program chose sensational examples of phobias and OCD that shed little light on typical fears, compulsions or obsessions. For example, rats and blood were shown as sample phobias, when far more common are thunder and lightning, dogs, insects, snakes, darkness and loud noises. I guess these don't sizzle as well on the tube.

Lost in the parade of problems was the wide range of treatment options. Breathing and relaxing, which most people try to do anyway, were touted as state of the art. Advanced methods of distraction, grounding, and panic control evidently lie on the editing room floor.

The crash program for panicky flyers was particularly dismaying because the therapists expected participants to panic during their flight. In fact, behavior therapy allows one to overcome a panic disorder without ever going through panic. Since 1984, only one person has panicked in flight in the fear of flying group at the Anxiety & Phobia Center. This segment of 48 Hours would frighten a lot of phobics from effective treatments.

48 Hours could have rescued this show if they highlighted modern, short-term treatments. They simply failed to say that treatment takes 3 or 4 months on average, that complete cure is possible, and that success rates for specialists are up to 70-85%. These rates are better than most any other emotional disorder!

I propose a sequel entitled "ABC's of Panic and Treatment". It really wouldn't be that hard to produce! If readers would like to learn more about anxiety, phobias or obsessive-compulsive disorders, free information is available through the Anxiety & Phobia Center by calling 843-7550.

APPENDICITIS

Appendicitis is the most common reason for abdominal surgery. The appendix is a finger-sized pouch situated at the junction of the small and large intestines.

Appendicitis is simply an inflammation of the appendix. However, if not removed, the inflamed appendix is likely to burst open and spread infection throughout the abdomen.

A typical attack of appendicitis consists of pain and tenderness in the lower right abdomen. Nausea, vomiting, and fever are not uncommon, but may be absent. Usually, muscle spasm in the area is also present, making the abdominal wall firm to the touch. The physician should be consulted whenever appendicitis is suspected. There are a number of other conditions which can present the same symptoms and accurate diagnosis is important. The affected appendix should be removed before it bursts.

P.S. NEVER give a laxative if appendicitis is suspected. It could cause the appendix to rupture.

This column is presented as a public service for the benefit of all by the offices of COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE. If you are experiencing any of the symptoms discussed in today's column, we suggest that you contact the appropriate physician. If you want to discuss anything in today's column, feel free to call me at 472-2550, or visit us at 101 Adams Street, Suite 24 in Quincy. Hours are by appointment.

Sun Photo Contest Who Will Be The Most Beautiful Baby?

Votes are coming in for the Quincy Sun Beautiful Baby Photo Contest for the benefit of the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

There are 96 beautiful babies entered in the contest. Their photos appeared in last week's issue of The Quincy Sun where they were numbered for voting purposes.

The photos are currently displayed in the window of The Quincy Sun office where they will remain through Dec. 7, the deadline for voting.

Anyone can vote for the baby of their choice simply by making a $1 donation to MDA.

You can vote as many times as you like. Each $1 donation represents another vote for the baby of your choice.

All votes must be made by check payable to MDA. Cash will not be accepted.

Votes (donations) may be dropped off at The Quincy Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., in a special MDA ballot box inside the door. They may also be mailed directly to MDA at 450 Washington St., PL-2, Dept. KT, Dedham, MA 02026.

Do not forget to put the number of the baby

No Plans To Cancel Christmas Skydiving

parachutists land on the field could possibly be changed.

"We will look at the possibility of placing the landing spot more inward to the north or to a northerly location by a significant distance. It is felt in doing this the jumpers' final approach would be closer to the field area for landing.

"The festival committee regrets the unfortunate incident on Saturday. We wish Mr. Humphreys a speedy recovery," White said, adding he planned on visiting the injured skydiver at the hospital Tuesday.

Mayor James A. Sheets, who was among the 1,000 people who witnessed the landing, said he will not interfere with the committee's decision on the event's future.

"Whether the festival committee will determine another site, I'm going to leave it up to them. They are sensitive to the people and certainly they wouldn't want to continue if this were going to happen again.

"I don't want to interfere with their decision. They do a good job and their collective wisdom is good."

In the 12 years of the event, White said this is the first time a skydiver has been injured. He said the committee and the planners of the event "will take every precaution in the interest of the jumpers and general public."

According to White, the skydivers are in radio contact with the ground personnel up until the time they jump. The personnel examine weather conditions, including cloud cover and wind velocity.

Prior to the jump, the plane descends to approximately 2,500 feet. A smoke bomb is lit and dropped from the plane to determine the direction of the wind.

Then, the plane climbs to approximately 5,000. The skydivers' jump is predicated on the wind direction at the time that the smoke bomb was lit.

White said the weather conditions before the 12:30 p.m. jump were "most unusual." In the span of 15 minutes, the weather turned from bright sunshine to cloudy. The wind also changed significantly. Ten minutes after the jump, there were heavy rains and winds.

Quincy's Yesterdays Assessment Boost Asked To Pay City Wages Hikes

City Councillor Joseph E. Brett suggested that the assessed valuation of all property in Quincy be increased 5 to 10 percent to pay for salary increases for municipal employees.

Brett said a 10 percent increase on business property and a 5 percent boost on residences would raise the city's total valuation by $11 million.

Calculated at the tax rate of $70 per $1,000 valuation, he said, the city would gain $770,000, enough to offset the impact of the employees wage hike.

"It is doubtful," said Brett, "if any property owners could justifiably complain about his increased valuation if he knew that everyone else was receiving treatment equal to his."

BROAD MEADOWS SALE

The Planning Board recommended that the sale of city property in Broad Meadows to the Quincy Electric Co., for a generating plant "is in the best interests of the city."

Planning Director Regis J. Harrington said in a letter to mayor Della Chiesa that the city also had an offer from Frank E. Foy, who wanted to build homes and a marina on the site.

The city had no further use for the land, Harrington said.

SCOUTS TO RESCUE

Linda Rago Quincy Hospital Employee Of The Month

Linda Rago of Dorchester was honored as Quincy Hospital's Employee of the Month in October at a recent luncheon hosted by the administrative personnel.

Recently promoted to supervisory ultrasonographer in recognition of her outstanding performance, Rago has worked in the ultrasound-radiology department in Quincy Hospital for one and a half years. She has been active in the field for more than 16 years.

Linda Berio, who nominated Rago, said of her: "No matter how hectic or demanding her job has been, she continues to always remain in control, polite, respectful and kind to her fellow employees, supervisors, and especially her patients."

Rago said she feels "very honored to have been chosen for this award," especially since she "is only one among so many hardworking people in the department."

Rago received her training in radiology at the Atlantic City Medical Center in Atlantic City, New Jersey, where she graduated in 1973. She trained in ultrasound technology in the Boston area.

Rago and her husband, John, have two children, John, age nine, and Catherine, seven. She swims for fun and exercise.

More Questions About Acupuncture

By DANIEL S. KARP

Licensed Acupuncturist

There are one million acupuncture practitioners in China, attending to the needs of over one billion people.

Acupuncture has been popular for 4,000 years, helping billions of patients throughout its history. The Chinese government has taken the sensible attitude that if acupuncture works it deserves to be practiced - even at the risk of demolishing established medical theories. Acupuncture is recognized as an effective therapy and dispensed together with western medicine.

How often do I need treatment? Most patients with chronic conditions require treatments twice a week and, as they improve, at longer periods.

Certain problems, such as hypoglycemia, may need more frequent sessions.

How many treatments? This varies greatly, depending on patient and illness. If one were to average out all cases, it would come to about six treatments per patient. Some will be well after one treatment, while others may need more than six if they have an old chronic condition.

How long until I get better? An illness will often need years to become established in a person. This same patient may become disenchanted and decide to end acupuncture after three treatments if no quick results can be seen. It is possible that he could have found relief after perhaps another two or three treatments. One should give acupuncture and not break off therapy until 5 to 6 treatments have been given. Sometimes progress will not be apparent for a week or more after treatment.

How long will improvement last? Frequently, when the patient notices an improvement for the first time, it may only last for a few hours or a day. This is an excellent sign of progress; additional treatments will extend this period until relief lasts for months or becomes permanent.

Pre-sterilized disposable needles are used exclusively. For further information contact: Acupuncture Associates of the South Shore, 12 Dimmock St., Quincy 02169, 471-5577. Office hours by appointment, Monday - Friday, 9 a.m. - 6 p.m.

Food Choices For The Holidays

By Nancy W. Stolla
Manager and Counselor
Diet Center of Quincy

Thoughts of the holiday season conjure up images of fireside gatherings, sweet smells of cinnamon and peppermint, and glistering scenes of winter snow.

It's a wonderfully nostalgic time that strengthens bonds of family and friendship. Unfortunately, the festive activities can also play havoc with diets and weight control. At no other time of the year are there so many fattening foods so readily available. If you can lose a few pounds or just maintain your present weight, you'll be ahead of the average person.

The first thing you can do is prepare yourself mentally for each social occasion. Start by deciding before you leave your home what you will and won't eat. Picture in your mind the things you will eat and how much you'll enjoy them. This works both in your favorite restaurant or at someone's home. Follow that by picturing yourself saying "No, thank you" to fattening foods and by feeling that sense of accomplishment from being in control.

The next thing to prepare yourself, is to eat something before you go out. A large glass of water and an apple will give you a full feeling and enable you to make good choices when at the party. Also, don't "save up" by starving yourself before the party. That will make your blood sugar drop and you'll feel so hungry that you'll binge instead of choose.

The next defense mechanism is to arrive a bit late, not to be fashionable, but to avoid nibbling on too many hors d'oeuvres. Once the food is served, remember your planned choices, take small portions and eat slowly. Some guidelines to follow at a buffet include: choose chicken or turkey, instead of beef or ham, avoid sauces and salty food, and select raw vegetables and fruit.

There will always come a time when you are "the maker of the feast" yourself. Then you can offer both traditional holiday foods and a variety of tasty low-calorie foods. You may be surprised at the number of your guests who will both appreciate and select the "diet" food. A salad buffet can be fun.

It's economical, too, with very little meat needed and a wide variety of calorie count available to your guests. Chicken is always a good offering since it can be prepared either simply or elegantly with helpful results in the calorie department. One way might be as a filling for crepes. It's practical for large parties, simple to prepare, and possible to make well ahead and freeze. Crepes have many other possibilities from seafood to vegetables to dessert.

Yes, you can even make diet dessert crepes. Fill them with sliced strawberries mixed into sugar-free strawberry gelatin and listen to the compliments!

The last and best advice is to concentrate on the people around you, renewing and strengthening friendships. Remember, the real purpose of all these holiday festivities is to be together with friends and family. Make good fellowship be your focus rather than eating.

This year, experience the joys of the holiday season without having to deal with the aftermath of holiday excesses. By taking charge of your eating habits, you will maintain your energy, your enthusiasm, and your self esteem. It does no good to blame your overeating on the time of the year. Ultimately, the choices are yours and you are the one who must live with the consequences of your decisions. So, choose wisely and treat yourself to a productive and a healthy holiday season.

'Coping With Holiday Stress' Seminar Dec. 5

Quincy Hospital is offering a free seminar entitled "Coping with Holiday Stress" Wednesday, Dec. 5 at 2 p.m. in the McCauley Education Center, located on the first floor of the hospital.

Mary Ryan, R.N., B.S.N., is a certified instructor in systematic stress management. She will discuss different kinds of stress and how to recognize when it is helpful and when it is not. She will outline methods of managing stress, how to determine which methods work and provide suggestions for relieving and transforming stressful times into productive opportunities.

The seminar is part of the hospital's "Wellness Wednesday" program, an ongoing health education series offered free to the public as a community service.

For reservations, call the hospital's public relations department at 773-6100 ext. 4016.

Chiropractic Update

Mark C. Jaehnig D.C.

SHOULD ONE USE ICE OR HEAT ON AN INJURY?

One of the most common questions that I am asked in my practice is whether to use ice or heat in treating an injury. Traditionally patients have been advised to "use ice for the first 24-72 hours following an injury and then to use heat," but there is controversy among doctors, nurses and athletic trainers on this issue. The use of ice or cryotherapy helps by decreasing swelling, (anti-inflammatory effect); by reducing or eliminating pain (analgesic or anesthetic effect); and by decreasing blood flow to the area (vasoconstriction). On the other hand, the use of heat or thermal therapy helps to ease tightened muscles (muscle relaxation effect) and increases blood flow to the area (vasodilation).

Generally speaking, if the primary goal of the treatment is the reduction of swelling or inflammation and the easing of pain, I would recommend ice therapy; but if the main problem is stiff or tight muscles, the use of heat (and more specifically moist heat) might be more appropriate. The following rules of thumb may be helpful:

1. In almost all injuries ice should be applied immediately and used exclusively for at least the first 48 hours.

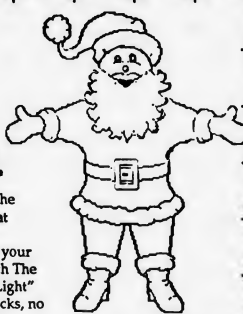

2. Regardless if one uses ice or heat, it is important to apply it for only 15-20 minutes a session every one to two hours. (Patients have a tendency to abuse this rule, especially when they are using heating pads).

3. There are some situations where the use of contrast therapy or alternating hot and cold treatments proves effective (especially treating chronic back and neck problems or treating joint injuries 48 hours after the injury occurred).

4. Each case must be treated on an individual basis. What works for one person may not help another person, so be aware of the feedback that your body gives you and make adjustments in the therapy if necessary.

If you have any questions or would like to make an appointment please call Dr. Mark Jaehnig, a lifelong Quincy resident at Quincy Chiropractic Office, 440 Hancock St., North Quincy, 773-4400.

Quincy Point Church To Begin Advent With Chrismons Tree

This Sunday the 10 a.m. service marks the beginning of the Advent season at Quincy Point Congregational Church.

Members of the altar and flower guild, chaired by Mrs. Carol McGhee, will decorate the sanctuary for Christmas by adding new decorations for each Sunday's service between now and Christmas Eve.

In recent months, more than a dozen women of the church have made more than 150 Chrismons that will be used in Sunday's service to decorate the Christmas Tree in the sanctuary. Chrismons are monograms of Christ in shades of gold-colored thread sewn upon white aida cloth. These cross-stitch hangings for the tree consist of symbols of Jesus Christ.

A booklet will be given to each worshipper this Sunday, describing the meaning of each symbol; and worshippers will also have the opportunity to go forward to the tree to decorate it for the Advent/Christmas season.

The preparation of the Chrismons has been under the supervision of Mrs. Anne Sutcliffe assisted by Ty Ash, Rev. Carol Atwood-Lyon, Eva Black, Lucy Bowman, Susan Egan, Audrey Jerick, Debbie Mohr, Lee Robbins, Helen Ross, Ruth Schonbach, Betty DeCristofaro and Lorraine Taverna.

Sunday's sermon, delivered by the Rev. Carol Atwood-Lyon, is titled "Symbols of Our Faith". Rev. Fred Atwood-Lyon will serve as liturgist. Music will be by Dr. Herman Weiss, church organist and choir director, the Chancel Choir and Jeffrey Sposato, soloist.

Sunday's service will include the reception of new members and the Sacrament of Holy Communion. A special offering will be received for the "Pastors' Discretionary Fund" which is used to help the needy of the parish area.

During the 10 a.m. service, church school classes are held for infants through grade nine. Infants, children and young people may be registered with the superintendent of the church school or by calling 773-6424. The crib room is provided each Sunday for infants.

For those who are physically unable to attend Sunday services, the church provides the previous Sunday's service on local Quincy Cablevision, Ch. 3 from 8 to 9 a.m. For those who wish to participate in daily devotions, "The Daily Bible" is provided 24 hours a day by phoning 472-4434. The three minute recording includes a reading from scripture, a short meditation and a prayer.

The church is located at the corner of Washington St. and Southern Artery with off-street parking.

Advent Services At HN Congregational

A series of five Advent services will be held at the Houghs Neck Congregational Church.

Tuesday, Dec. 4, at 7:30 p.m. members of the Pilgrim Fellowship will lead a service of readings and carol singing by the fireplace in Fellowship Hall. Refreshments will follow.

Tuesday, Dec. 11 at 7:30 p.m. Janet Little will present a program of music and scripture in the sanctuary.

Tuesday, Dec. 18, at 7:30 p.m. the Houghs Neck Congregational Church choir, directed by Arden T. Schofield will present a program of Christmas music.

Sunday, Dec. 16 at 4 p.m., there will be a pageant by the church school, followed by a light supper.

Christmas Eve a candlelight service will be held at 11 p.m.

'Religious Experience'

United First Parish Sermon

Dr. Sheldon Bennett, minister, will deliver the sermon "Religious Experience" Sunday, Dec. 2 at United First Parish Church (Unitarian) in Quincy Center.

The sermon will consider how personal religious experience is one of several ways in which individuals come to know transcendent reality and moral law. Dr. Bennett will talk about the power of such experience to change lives and also the limits and dangers.

To mark the first Sunday of Advent, Collin Chesley of the church school will light a candle on the Advent wreath at the beginning of the service.

The church choir, led by Director Norman Corey, will sing anthems by Clokey and Fetter. Corey will also play organ works by Walther, Reger and Rutter.

Visitors are welcome and invited to the social hour following the service. Debbie MacDonald will serve as hostess and Matt Malloy will usher.

The church school will hold a bake sale Sunday at 11:30 a.m. in the church parlor to help raise money to provide Christmas stockings for children of families in need.

"The Power of Myth" adult discussion group will meet Sunday at 7 p.m. After viewing the video program "Masks of Eternity" of Joseph Campbell with Bill Moyers, Dr. Bennett will lead a discussion on issues raised by the video.

Historic First Parish, "Church of the Presidents," is located at 1306 Hancock St., Quincy Center, opposite City Hall. Church school and child care are provided.

Ideal Sunny, Warm Weather

Quincy Christmas Festival Parade Brings Santa And Over 250,000 Fans

ROBERT BOSWORTH

Drawn by unseasonably warm weather, some new attractions and the splendor of the holiday season, one of the largest crowds in years turned out Sunday to watch the 39th annual Quincy Christmas Festival Parade.

Festival Chairman George White, who called the parade a big success, estimated between 250,000 and 275,000 people of all ages lined Hancock Street from School St. in Quincy Center to East Squantum St. in North Quincy to view the traditional holiday event.

"This was the biggest and most controlled crowd we've had in a number of years. That's indicative to the good weather and the parade is becoming a more popular event since there's been an increase in floats and specialty units," White said.

In recent years, the parade has generally attracted between 200,000 and 225,000 people, White pointed out.

Parade officials noted viewing areas along the 2.8-mile route which had been sparsely crowded in previous years were filled on Sunday.

They also attributed the high turnout to the mild, sunny weather and several new attractions, including the Mount Rushmore flag.

Several thousand people gathered in Quincy Square near City Hall to see the historical flag which measures 50 by 100 feet and weighs 300 pounds. Hailed as our national shrine of democracy, the flag was hoisted above Hancock St. between McIntyre Mall and United First Parish Church by a giant crane during ceremonies before the start of the parade.

Among those who witnessed the impressive and memorable event were Mayor James A. Sheets and members of his family.

During the parade, the flag fluttered majestically against the brilliant blue sky as marchers passed beneath it.

Another moment viewers will long remember occurred when the Waltham American Legion Band, led by Dorothy Hill, paused in front of City Hall.

As the flag hovered high above, Hill and the band broke into a stirring and emotional rendition of "You're A Grand Olde Flag." A moment to behold, the crowd cheered and clapped as the award-winning band played the patriotic song with gusto.

Unfortunately, Johnny Most, the former voice of the Boston Celtics, could not attend the parade as grand marshal because of health problems.

This year's parade was dedicated to the memory of Remo DiNicola, a member of the parade committee who died in September after a long illness. He was long active in business, charitable and civic activities.

Throughout the two hour event, spectators were treated to the sights and sounds of the parade theme "The Wonders of Christmas." The theme was chosen by the Quincy Christmas Festival Committee from among 300 entries submitted by South Shore and Greater Boston residents.

Rosemary Esdale of Wollaston, who submitted the winning entry, rode along the parade route in an open convertible.

Besides the marching bands, decorative floats and color guards, there were numerous specialty units including the Hallamore Clydesdales, dozens of antique cars and Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus.

At the parade's conclusion, awards were presented to the winning color guards, marching bands and float entries.

"Three Generations of Christmas Wonders" created by the Quincy Bay Race Week Association won first place in the non-commercial float contest. It received the top prize of $1,000 and the Fr. Thomas Tierney Trophy.

The Koch Club's entry of "The Wonder of Christmas Morning" received the Mayor's Trophy as the Best Quincy Float.

The Woodward School won second place and $500 for its float, "Keep The Natural Wonders In Christmas."

Third place and its $300 prize went to Quincy College for its entry "May All Your Christmas Dreams Come True."

Quincy High School, which entered a float with the theme "The Wonders of Recycling," finished fourth to win $200.

The best commercial float was awarded to Continental Cablevision of Quincy.

The Scituate Safety Car took top honors as the best specialty float.

In the Division I band competition, Chicopee High School came in first, Douglas High School second and Norton High School third.

In Division II, David Prouty finished first and Chicopee Comprehensive was second.

In Division III, Agawam High School finished first, Abington High School was second and Pittsfield High School came in third.

In Division IV, New Bedford High School took first place and Marshfield High was second.

In other Division I band competition, Douglas High was second with music score and best drum major. Chicopee was named best high school color guard and Lawrence High was selected high percussion unit.

In Division II, David Prouty swept the competition by winning best drum major, best color guard, high percussion and high music school.

In Division III, Abington High School also swept the best drum major, best color guard, high percussion and high music score competition.

In Division IV, New Bedford High School won all four categories: drum major, color guard, percussion and music score.

In the color guard competition, the Massachusetts State Police finished first to win the Tom McDonald award. The award was established last year in memory of Thomas McDonald, a long-time committee member who enjoyed the color guard competition.

The state VFW Ladies Auxiliary finished second and the Milton Police Department was third.

First prize winners: Timothy Pezzulo and William McArdle, both third graders at Atherton Hough School; Eddie Tan, grade six, St. Ann School.

Second prize: Kimberly Dennis, second grade, Sacred Heart School; Chrissy Fasoli, grade six, St. Ann School.

Third prize: Robert Hennessy, first grade, Merrymount School; Crystal Sanders, grade five, Lincoln-Hancock School.

The winning posters are on display at South Shore Bank. The 23 posters that received honorable mention will be posted in store windows along Hancock St. in Quincy Center.

White said the committee will begin preparing for the parade's 40th anniversary next November. He said the committee is looking for any material pertaining to the parade from 1951 to 1990.

Anyone who has old photos, newspaper clippings or other parade material can mail the articles to White, care of the Patriot Ledger, Crown Colony Dr., Quincy MA 02169.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Decisions, decisions. To some it is the hardest part of making it in our modern, fast-moving world. We have to make scores of decisions every day. Usually these decisions reflect our character. Always they do something to our character either for good or evil ... Sometimes they're easy. Sometimes they're tough. Sometimes they're put off, but even then, a decision of sorts is made, a decision not to make a decision. And there are times when you feel fortunate a decisions must be made by someone else and not by yourself.

Some people make a practice of avoiding decisions by 'passing the buck.' Some people just can't come to a decision about anything, and most people in this category are extremely unhappy ... A lot of life's frustrations are directly due to not being able to face up to a showdown. Whether we like it or not, there are times when we have to (or at least should) face facts. This invariably makes it easier for us to face ourselves. God gave us ability to make decisions. This is especially true in decisions affecting character which may have lifelong consequences. Such decisions are not beyond human limitations. No one, absolutely no one can make such decisions for you ...

Rosemary Wahlberg Receives Elder Services Award

Rosemary Wahlberg, executive director of Quincy Community Action since 1975, received the 1990 Edythe B. Donkin Memorial Award from South Shore Elder Services, Inc., at its recent meeting.

"We could not think of a more deserving person," said Margherite Grabosky, SSES Board President.

In 1987, the board established the award to recognize members of the community who have made a significant contribution to elder services and the promotion of elder issues on the South Shore. Mrs. Donkin, one of the founders of SSES and its president from 1984 to 1987, was respected for her inspiring leadership and dedication to elder services.

ROSEMARY WAHLBERG

Wahlberg has served on many volunteer boards and committees, including Quincy Housing Authority where she has served as chairperson since 1979. She has also represented the community on the Manet Health Center Board, the Governor's Commission on the Homeless and Quincy Hospital Board of Managers.

Wahlberg has led QCAP's efforts to serve a broad range of citizens, and elders have been well represented among their clients. RSVP, the Homeless Elders Meals Program (funded through SSES), weatherization and energy assistance programs have assisted many elders over the years. In addition, she has managed to raise a large family, with the support of her husband, Archie.

Olive Howland of Braintree was recognized as the outstanding board member for 1990. She serves as chairperson of the Communications/Advocacy/Public Relations Committee.

SSES is a private, non-profit agency and operates the region's home care and nutrition programs. SSES serves 11 communities, including Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth.

Quincy Housing Reps Attend Human Rights Conference

Quincy Community Action Housing Director Nancy Callahan and Annie Wan, bi-lingual housing counselor, attended a recent conference entitled "The Role of Human Rights/Relations Commissions" held in Worcester.

Keynote speaker was Massachusetts Attorney General Elect Scott Harshbarger.

The first of its kind all-day conference reiterated a commitment to civil rights enforcement at all levels of government. Workshops on establishing a human rights commission and the role of human rights commissioners were held.

Buy Christmas Tree Now, Plant One In The Spring

Residents who buy live natural Christmas trees this season in Quincy can help make the city greener next spring.

On Tuesday, Mayor James A. Sheets announced the city has launched an "Evergreen Quincy" program. Not only will trees be chipped into pine mulch, residents will receive their own "chip" good for one small evergreen tree.

First, the tree must be purchased at a Quincy lot. After the holidays, residents can bring the tree to the Park and Forestry Department.

The tree will go through a chipper to make pine mulch. The city will distribute the mulch in the spring at no cost.

Those who bring the tree for chipping will receive a round chip. In turn, residents can bring the chip to the Park and Forestry Department during a designated week, probably in April.

The chip can then be exchanged for an 18-inch evergreen tree suitable for planting.

"It's really an environmental conservation program," Sheets said. "They will be asked to plant the tree that week and on Saturday, a larger tree will be planted (somewhere in Quincy.)"

Sheets said former Ward 1 Councillor and environmentalist Leo Kelly will serve as the program's honorary chairman. Kelly, who brought the idea to the mayor's attention three months ago, will voluntarily head the program.

Residents who purchase trees from lots in Quincy will receive and informational flyer about the program. The flyer will also list instructions.

For example, Sheets said the trees must be clean from ornaments and tinsel as much as possible in order to be chipped.

The cost for the flyers and trees will be funded by Businessman Jay Cashman who owns a local construction company.

The program's cost should not exceed $3,000, Sheets noted.

Eugene Crendon, director of elementary and secondary education, will also help promote the program. The mayor said students will be informed and they, in turn, will tell their parents.

Residents want to participate but are unable to plant their own trees will be allowed to plant on designated city-owned land.

ENC Choral Union, Orchestra In 'The Messiah'

The Choral Union and Orchestra at Eastern Nazarene College will present its 56th annual performance of the Messiah, Saturday, Dec. 1 and 2, at 7 p.m. in the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene on the ENC campus.

The Choral Union is comprised of college students, faculty and staff as well as people from the Greater Boston area. The chorus is conducted by Professor Robert Howard, head of the ENC Music Department.

This year's soprano soloist is Kimberly Rose Blaney of Quincy, a lecturer in music at ENC and director of ENC's Women's Ensemble. After graduating from ENC in 1984, Blaney received a Masters Degree in vocal performance from the New England Conservatory. She has sung at the International Church of the Nazarene's General Assembly and Congress 1990, an annual convention sponsored by the Evangelistic Association of New England. She has also recorded her own album of Christian music entitled "Fiery Love."

Other featured performers include Cynthia Zielski of Boston and Vincent Stringer of Hartford, Conn.

Conductor Robert Howard will be doubling as this year's tenor soloist.

Accompanying soloists on the harpsichord will be Brady Millican, a music history, piano and art history professor at ENC since 1979. Millican has performed as a pianist at the White House, with members of the Cleveland String Quartet, and in the Prelude Series of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The Messiah production is open to the public and a free-will offering will be requested.

For further information call ENC at 773-6350.

Christmas Tree Lighting At Houghs Neck Sunday

The annual Houghs Neck Christmas Tree Lighting Ceremony will be held Sunday, Dec. 2, at 5 p.m. at the Houghs Neck Fire station, Sea St. and Manet Ave.

Clergy from Most Blessed Sacrament Church and the Houghs Neck Congregational Church will lead devotions. Christmas carols will be sung by the combined choirs of the two churches, along with Girl Scouts and Brownies.

A wreath will be placed on the granite war memorial by members of Houghs Neck Legion Post.

Santa Claus will be present.

Following the program the refreshments will be served by Houghs Neck Legion Post members in Fellowship Hall at the Houghs Neck Congregational Church.

Quincy Councillor-at-Large Michael Cheney will introduce the program. Thomas Timcoe is chairman for the event, sponsored each year by the Houghs Neck Community Council.

Women's Fitness Program Begins Dec. 3

The Quincy Recreation Department announces registration is being held for the second session of two women's exercise programs. The programs, under the supervision of Mrs. Nancy Joyce, will be held Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings at either 8:45 - 9:30 or 9:45 - 10:30 a.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse.

Cost of the program is $25 for thirty classes and registration is on a first come, first serve basis beginning Nov. 29 at the Quincy Recreation Office, 100 Southern Artery. Registration will continue from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays.

The first class will be held Monday, Dec. 3.

For additional information, call the Quincy Recreation Department at 773-1380, ext. 204.

Jeanine Graf Show At LeColson Jewelers Friday

Popular Boston radio talk show host Jeanine Graf of WEZE Radio will be conducting a live broadcast of The Jeanine Graf Show Friday from 2 to 4 p.m. at LeColson Jewelers, 730 Hancock St.,

Wollaston. Guests on the show will be David Thorpe, executive director of Evangelization for the Arch Diocese of Boston, Father Tom DeLorenzo of Peabody, formerly of Sacred Heart Church in Quincy, Rev. George Rosado of the New Life Ministries of New Hampshire, a home for troubled young women, and Dr. Richard Fish, a professor in the Department of Psychology at Eastern Nazarene College who also oversees the Family Counseling section of ENC's Graduate Division.

The broadcast will focus on the activities of various local ministries and the resources they have available.

The broadcast is part of a promotion by the store to celebrate its new Quincy location. LeColson was located in Boston for some 37 years and moved to Quincy in October.

The public is invited to stop by LeColson Jewelers during the talk show and may also take the opportunity to register to win prizes which will be given away before the holidays, including a free portrait by Finelight Photography of Wollaston and a trip for two to Bermuda.

For North An All-Out Effort

Win Caps Best Season For Quincy In 20 Years

By TOM SULLIVAN

Last year's thrilling 27-26 North Quincy win over Quincy was described as the most exciting game in the 58-year football rivalry.

However, this year's game was every bit as exciting and had everything a fan could ask for as Quincy completed its best season since 1970 by overcoming a 17-0 deficit to topple North, 23-17, before an estimated 11,000 in perfect weather conditions at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The only thing that marred the game was the work of over-zealous officials, who hit North with 11 penalties for over 100 yards and whose calls nullified three Quincy touchdowns. For the first time six officials were used instead of the usual five and the extra man seemed to create confusion as the game was replete with controversial calls which upset both coaches.

The game marked the best comeback of the long series as no one before had overcome a 17-point deficit to win.

Mark Bogan completed a brilliant schoolboy career. After being held to a mere 15 yards in the first half which was dominated by the underdog North team, he rushed for 130 yards in the second half to end up with 145 yards rushing. He scored two touchdowns and added a pair of two-point conversions and had two touchdowns killed by penalties.

Bogan, who scored 112 points to finish two points behind Brockton's Anthony Comer in the Div. 1 scoring race, finished the year with 1280 yards rushing. Last year he rushed for 1089 yards despite missing three games and over the past two years he accounted for nearly 5000 yards in total offense, rushing, pass catching and returning punts and kick-offs.

"Mark had one of the most fantastic halves of football that I've seen," said Quincy coach Jack Raymer. "Not only did he rush for 130 yards in the second half, score 16 points and have two touchdowns called back, but he continued his superb defensive play with seven unassisted tackles and two pass interceptions. He will have plenty of college coaches after him and I told him I think the Yankee Conference would be ideal for him."

"I'm just delighted at the way the kids came back after that first half when they threatened to blow us away. We didn't have the ball much in the first half as North dominated play, but we changed things around in the second half. North gained only 40 yards and had one first down in that half. North had a great first half and Ken McPhee did a great job coaching them. He had them ready, but as I have said, there shouldn't be a favorite in this game despite the records." Quincy finished at 8-1-1 while North finished at 4-6, the third losing season in nine years for McPhee.

"I'm very proud of our kids, they really fought hard," said McPhee. "We were the victims of some questionable calls by the officials, but don't take anything away from Quincy."

"They proved why they are such a fine team the way they came back and give Jack Raymer credit for the way they bounced back. We dominated the first half and they ruled the second half."

Mike Flavin completed a fine season at quarterback for Quincy as he was 6 for 13 for 118 yards and his 11th touchdown pass of the season. Dave Chapman had two receptions for 62 yards, including a remarkable leaping catch over the head of the defender, and Dan Thackeray, who filled in for the missing Chris Walker, had two receptions for 55 yards including a touchdown. Sophomore Robbie Kane had three kickoff returns for 44 yards and had a dazzling 60-yard punt return for a score called back by a penalty. Bill

2 Nullified TD's Cost Bogan Top Scoring Honors

If he didn't have two touchdowns called back by penalties, Quincy's Mark Bogan would have been the top scorer in Division 1 this season.

With his two touchdowns and a pair of two-point conversions, Bogan finished with 112 points, two points less than Brockton's Anthony Comer, who had three touchdowns in the Boxers' 61-0 romp over Cambridge Rindge and Latin.

Quincy Finishes Second To Weymouth

Quincy finished second, a half a game behind Weymouth in the Old Colony League, thanks to Bridgewater - Raynham's unexpected 8-7 loss to Taunton. A B-R win would have tied it with Weymouth for the League title. Quincy, with a 6-1-1 league record, finished behind Weymouth, which finished 7-1-0. Quincy's only loss was to Weymouth by two points.

Reardon, who led the Presidents in tackles, had another fine two-way game. Thackeray also filled in well for Walker at defensive back. Reardon rushed for 38 yards and Jason Anderson for 21.

Also playing strong games on offense for Quincy were Mike Kavanaugh, Duane Homes, Pat Neil, Graham Shevry, Mike Tempesta and Scott Buckman.

Defensive standouts were Shawn Kennedy, Chapman, Dave Frye, Keith Norris, Graham Chevry, Dave Chevry, Kavanaugh, Aly Sleiman, John O'Connor, Reardon, Noel DiBona, Neil and Bogan.

Quarterback Mark Taylor had a great first half for North Quincy, completing seven of 10 passes for 75 yards in the first half, but was under much more pressure in the second half and was only three for nine for 29 yards.

Evan Kiley had one of his best games, rushing for 83 yards and scoring two touchdowns. Rich Brooks carried for 32 yards.

Mark Kelliher had an excellent game at wide receiver and McPhee singled out Matt Swierk, Kiley, Mike Oliva, Brooks, Taylor and Kelliher for their outstanding play, also praising Jason April, Pat Shea, freshman Tony Licciardi and Chris McCallum.

Also shining on offense were Donny Anderson, Jason Buckley, Pat Flaherty, Mark Zych, Adam Strout, John D'Angelo and Adam Somerville.

Playing strong defense were Taylor, who had a pass interception and a fumble recovery, Kiley, Strout, Swierk, Scott Prouty, Kelliher, Shea, Brooks, April, Scott Kohler, Mike Picarello, Derek Colantonio, Mike Christopherson, Bill Miller and Brendon O'Connell.

Quincy rushed for 140 yards to North's 106 and the Presidents had 15 first downs and North 11.

Quincy received to open the game and marched to North's 20 thanks to a 37-yard pass from Flavin to Chapman. However, the Raiders held and took over on the 20.

Here North marched downfield, picking up four first downs and featuring a 33-yard run by Kiley and a 20-yard pass from Taylor to Kelliher. Kiley scored from the one North's 'secret weapon', soccer player Pat O'Donoghue, who joined the football team after the soccer season and was playing in his first football game, tried a kick for the extra point but it was blocked.

Quincy began to drive again but a fumble was recovered by Taylor on North's 32 and the Raiders drove downfield again with Kiley scoring from the 12 and Kelliher adding the two-point conversion on a pass from Taylor.

After stopping the Presidents again, the Raiders drove to Quincy's 18. With fourth and nine O'Donoghue kicked a 38-yard field goal which hit the crossbar and bounced over, giving North a 17-0 lead. For a long time it appeared this kick would mean the difference for North.

Quincy, aided by two 15-yard penalties against North, picked up three first downs and, with time in the half running out, reached North's 19. A holding penalty set Quincy back but Flavin hit Thackeray with a 29-yard scoring pass and Bogan rushed for the two points, cutting North's lead to 17-8 at halftime.

A fired-up Quincy team stopped North cold following the second-half kickoff and Kane, going to his left and reversing his field, raced 60 yards down the right sideline for an apparent score, but a clipping penalty nullified it.

Quincy's next drive was halted when Taylor intercepted a pass and returned it to the Quincy 41. Taylor hit Shea for 15 yards but a North fumble was recovered by Keith Norris on the Presidents' 20.

Quincy marched downfield but Bogan fumbled going into the end zone and North's April recovered inside the one-yard line.

McPhee refused to be conservative and two Taylor passes from the end zone were incomplete. Kiley made nine yards and Liam Higgins punted from his end zone to North's 43.

Quincy drove to the North six, aided by a face mask penalty and, on the second play of the fourth quarter, Bogan scored from the one and also rushed for the two-point conversion and North's lead was cut to 17-16.

Bogan broke loose for a 36-yard run and Chapman made his amazing catch of a pass for 21 yards to North's five. Bogan scored his second touchdown and sophomore DiBona kicked his 17th extra point of the season for the final points of the game.

With four minutes left Bogan intercepted a pass on North's 38 and three plays later apparently scored on a 35-yard run but a clipping penalty nullified it. A Flavin to Thackeray pass was good for 27 yards to North's 13 but Flavin was sacked on third down and North took over on its 20.

Kennedy sacked Taylor for a nine-yard loss and Bogan came up with his second interception and ran it back for an apparent score but again a penalty voided it.

Both coaches are looking forward to next season with anticipation as both quarterbacks will return, Flavin leading 32 returning Quincy players and Taylor leading 36 North players back.

QUARTERBACK Mike Flavin, who threw his 11th touchdown pass of the year, gets set to pass against North Quincy.

Youth Football

Manets Roll By Apaches 22-18 For Title

The Houghs Neck Manets defeated the North Quincy Apaches, 22-18, at Veterans Memorial Stadium to win the Quincy Youth Football League championship.

The Manets' offense, led by quarterback Mike Bartlet, opened the game with a long drive which ended with seven-yard touchdown run by Greg Santoro. The try for the two-point conversion was good.

In the second quarter the Manet offense was again in high gear, moving the ball into Apache territory. However, Mike Koski of the Apaches forced a fumble that was recovered by Corey Chaggaris. Several plays later Shawn Nee scored on a 33-yard run. The conversion try failed and the Manets still led, 8-6.

Near the end of the half the Manet offense was threatening again but the Apaches' defense, led by Derrick Epps, Fred Perry, Jeff West and Koski dug in and took over.

On their first possession of the second half the Apaches were forced to punt. The Manets capitalized on a bad snap from center and deflected the punt. Jim Goldrick recovered and ran it back 25 yards for a touchdown. The Manets again added the two-point conversion.

Epps immediately countered for the Apaches with a spectacular kickoff return to the Manets' 20. The Apaches drove to the two from where Chaggaris took a handoff and scored through the left side.

The Manets added their final touchdown as Bartlet hooked up with Goldrick late in the third quarter for a 35-yard touchdown pass. The Manets led, 22-12, going into the final quarter.

On their last drive of the game, the Apaches marched deep into Manet territory on the running of Nee and Chaggaris. With 1:50 left in the game Nee scored on a tough run up the middle. For the third time the Apaches failed to make the conversion.

The Manets recovered an onside kick and ran out the clock.

Glen Peterson, Mike McMahon, Ryan Ackerman, Peter Johnson, Cedric Douglas, Koski, Perry, West and Epps stood out on defense for the Apaches, while Gary Wilson, Epps, Chaggaris and Nee played well offensively. Brian Whalen and Steve Stentiford also played well.

For the Manets Bartlet stood out at quarterback and Chris McPartland, Santoro, Goldrick, Joe Renzi, Kevin Gomes and Chris Nichol played well on offense.

Sammy Brown, Bill Dunn, Erik Kenney, Peter Penwaden, John Froghrich, Mike McKinnon, Jack Sapienza and Jim Flanagan played well on defense.

GRUBBY

By Warren Sattler

Clare Annswell's

WEEK OF: November 29

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Education is a theme of your life; you're always looking for new objects of study. The coming year finds you returning to past interests and combining them with new ones. A personal commitment may be made by the middle of 1991.

AQUARIUS - January 21 - February 19

Efforts to smooth family friction bears fruit. A trip to the library leads to discovery of important information. Romance sees you making the first move.

PISCES - February 20 - March 20

Don't be intimidated in the presence of superiors or professionals; speak your mind and ask key questions. Inventive spirit is active. Platonic relationship is highlighted.

ARIES - March 21 - April 20

Week is favorable for developing burgeoning ideas, not for implementing them prematurely. You may be rubbing shoulders with VIP's over the weekend. Family is supportive.

TAURUS - April 21 - May 22

Week sees at least one favor reciprocated and one interesting new program initiated. How you express yourself is extremely important this week. Interesting letter may arrive.

GEMINI - May 23 - June 21

Appearance is unusually important this week; spend more time than usual grooming and coordinating your wardrobe. Expectations generally may not be as high as they should be.

CANCER - June 22 - July 22

It's probably time to bury the hatchet and contact an old friend about whom you've been thinking. If entertaining, you do so with wit and charm.

LEO - July 23 - August 22

Some surprise invitations may arrive, and you shouldn't be shy about accepting. In romance, this is not the week to stand on ceremony. Youngsters are especially supportive.

VIRGO - August 23 - September 22

It may be back to the drawing board, but the improvements you make to a major project are well worth the effort. A possessive friend finally loosens the grip.

LIBRA - September 23 - October 22

This week finds you playing the waiting game, as a number of postponements and even cancellations are in order. Behind the scenes, events are leading to a future appointment.

SCORPIO - October 23 - November 21

It's important to let others see your lighthearted side. Sports events are expected this week, for yourself and family members. Intriguing rumors are more fancy than fact.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22 - December 22

Taking inventory and looking after insurance needs are key activities of the week. Your humanitarian spirit may lead to your joining an organization. Romance is sweet.

CAPRICORN - December 23 - January 20

Meetings that take place this week are especially significant and may lead to advancement. Popularity level is high. Co-workers need some gentle coaxing. Partner is more easygoing.

BORN THIS WEEK

November 29th, singer John Gary; 30th, host Dick Clark; December 1st, singer Lou Rawls; 2nd, actress Julie Harris; 3rd, singer Andy Williams; 4th, actor Horst Buchholz; 5th, producer Dick Rowland.

North's Choir Opens Holiday Season At The Prudential Center

The Concert Choir of North Quincy High School, under the direction of Catherine Carnabuci, will open its holiday season at the Prudential Center Tree Lighting Ceremony Saturday, Dec. 1 at 5 p.m.

Members of the choir will join members of the Handel And Haydn Society Chamber Singers and Brass Ensemble, and students from two area high schools in a performance of seasonal music for the lighting of the Christmas tree.

Choral selections will be "Deck The Halls," "I Wonder As I Wander," "Carol Of

The Bells," and "Ding, Dong! Merrily On High." John Phinney, assistant conductor of the Handel & Haydn Society will lead the one-hundred voice chorus. The public is invited.

North's Concert Choir and Concert band will present a Christmas Concert Dec. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium.

The program, accompanied by Erik Gustafson, will include the music of Handel, carol arrangements by John Rutter, and several Christmas spirituals. The Show and Jazz Choirs will also be featured. Soloist,

David Ziolkowski, will sing "Mary's Boy Child."

Other soloists will be Mark Jolly, Maria Passalacqua, Cassian Jae, Tracy O'Sullivan, Suzanne Beers, David Scott, Leanne Morris, and Anthony Sabadini. The public is invited and tickets may be purchased in the high school office or at the door.

The Jazz Choir and Madrigals have several performances scheduled during the holiday season. They will entertain at the Kiwanis Club luncheon, and at the Fenno House and State Street Bank holiday parties.

Noted Artist's Exhibit At Kennedy Studios

Kennedy Studios of Quincy will host a solo show by internationally known Boston artist, E. Joseph Fontaine Jr. with a reception to meet the artist Thursday, Nov. 29 from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. At that time he will sign his print and limited editions.

An impressionist painter in the best tradition of the Boston School, Fontaine paints with exuberance, vitality and dashing virtuoso brushwork that is a synthesis of French and American Impressionism and yet his paintings have a joyful look that speaks of today.

Fontaine studied art and traveled extensively in Europe for a number of years to study the masters of European painting. He is primarily a landscape painter and when asked why he does not paint portraits or more than an occasional still-life he answers quickly, "my still-lives are growing and are painted out of doors."

Listed in "Who's Who in American Art," "Art in America," "New York Art review" and "Who's Who in the East," Fontaine is a frequent prize winner whose works are represented in numerous public and private collections.

Apart from some original oils, the show will feature reproductions of summer gardens from Boston and the New England coastal area. "Winter in Boston" remains a dominant theme for Fontaine and new hauntingly beautiful, enveloped snow scenes of the city will be presented at the show.

The exhibit is free and open to the public.

Kennedy Studios is located at 1563 Hancock St.

NQHS Drama Club In 'Summer Dark'

The Drama Club will present its first play of the 1990-91 season entitled "Summer Dark" tonight (Thursday) at the school at 8 p.m.

The play revolves around a neglected, insecure woman and her insensitive husband, who are vacationing on the coast. While they are being visited by the wife's sister and mother, the plot progresses as the wife is driven insane by unknown forces.

The cast includes Kaitlin

Barry, David Ziolkowski and Amy Pakkala, Keri Curreri, Jim Vejvoda, Erin Kinnally and John Aliberti. Voices used in the performances are by: Anthony Sabadini, Maria Gavros, Wayne Weikel, Cara DiMattia, Jessica Hoel, Danielle Aliberti, and Pam Francoeur.

The play is directed by Frank Moffett. Other members of the production staff include: Tony Sabadini, production manager; Mary Ann McDonagh, assistant director; Nicole Ormon, assistant production manager; Daniel O'Shea, technical director, Cara DiMattia, stage manager; Diane Hughes and Pam Francoeur prop. mistresses; Jennifer George, house manager, and Ken Lee, lighting technician.

In addition to tonight's performance, "Summer Darkness" will also be presented Friday, Nov. 30 and Dec. 1, 5, 6 and 7 at 8 p.m. in the Black Box Theatre. Tickets are $5 for adults and $4 for students and senior citizens.

They may be reserved by calling the Drama Club office at 984-8998.

Francy Ronayne Cast In 'The Nutcracker'

Francy Ronayne of Quincy, a third grader at the Bernazzani School, will be among over 200 young dancers from the Boston area performing in the Boston Ballet's annual holiday favorite, "The Nutcracker," to be performed at the Wang Center in Boston Nov. 23 through Dec. 30.

Francy will dance in the role of a polichinelle.

Children have traditionally played a vital role in the Boston Ballet's celebration of the holiday season. Performing a full-length ballet exposes children to aspects of ballet life they don't experience in a regular ballet class. They learn about the hard work, rigors and enjoyment that is a part of every live ballet performance.

Francy also dances at Young World in Quincy and is a model at the Cameo Agency. She has performed in several radio and television commercials.

All proceeds will benefit the resident activity fund.

Mini Fair At Presidential Nursing Home

The Presidential Convalescent Nursing Home, 43 Old Colony Ave., will hold a Mini-Fair Saturday, Dec. 8, 10 a.m. - 3 p.m. at the Home.

For sale will be crafts, baked items, white elephant goods, plants, books, and chances.

Special Sunday Swimming At Lincoln Hancock Pool

The Quincy Recreation Department will once again conduct a Special Schedule of Swimming on Sundays now until Christmas as part of its recreational swim programs at the Lincoln Hancock community School Pool.

According to Director Barry J. Welch, the pool will open Sundays from 1-3:30 p.m., for children age 6-18, who may swim all or part of this period, while parents take advantage of the Sunday store openings and shop at local stores. From 4-5 p.m., the normal adult swim will remain in effect. Regular pool memberships can be used or $1 for youth and/or $2 for adult guest's fee can be paid at the door.

All swims will be supervised by American Red Cross trained personnel from the Quincy Recreation Department. Adults may also swim in the extended hours and family groups are encouraged to participate.

The dates of this year's special shopper swims are Dec. 2, 16 and 23.

Welch said "In the past years this program has proven popular to parents and participants alike and I am pleased that we can offer it again."

For additional information, call the Quincy Recreation Department at 773-1370, ext. 204.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE
OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue and in execution of the Power of Sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Robert P. Buccella, Sr. and Carol A. Buccella to Household Finance Corporation II, dated October 27, 1988 recorded with Norfolk Registry of Deeds, Book 8140, Page 392, of which mortgage the undersigned is the present holder, for breach of conditions in said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing, the same will be sold at Public Auction on the premises at 21 Whitney Road, Quincy at 12:00 P.M. on Tuesday, December 4, 1990, all and singular the premises described in said mortgage, to wit:

"A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon now known as and numbered 21 Whitney Road, situated in Quincy, Norfolk County, Massachusetts, being Lot 3 on a plan by George G. Saville, dated March 30, 1988, recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Plan Book 21, Plan 980, bounded and described as follows:

Northerly by Whitney Road, seventy (70) feet; Easterly by Lot 5, on said plan, ninety-eight and fifteen hundredths (98.15) feet;

Southerly by land now or formerly of A.W. Russell, on said plan, seventy and one hundredths (70.01) feet; and Westerly by Lot 1, on said plan, ninety-nine and forty-three hundredths (99.43) feet.

Containing, according to said plan, six thousand, nine hundred thirteen and twenty hundredths (6,913.20) square feet of land.

Being the same premises conveyed to mortgagors by deed dated October 28, 1986, and recorded at Norfolk Registry of Deeds, Book 7308, Page 487."

The above premises will be sold subject to all unpaid taxes, tax titles, betterments, municipal liens and other municipal assessments, if any.

TERMS OF SALE: The purchaser will be required to pay down the sum of $5000.00 in cash, certified or bank check, at the time and place of sale; the balance of the purchase price to be paid upon delivery of the deed within fifteen days after approval of the sale by the Worcester Superior Court, at the offices of Labovitz & Burdick, 25 Foster Street, Suite 300, Worcester, Massachusetts.

That is shall be the responsibility of the Purchaser at the foreclosure sale to be responsible for all costs for recording, including excise tax stamps, recording of any deeds, Certificate of Municipal Liens or any other recording expenses, and the Purchaser has not relied upon any representations of the Seller, its agents or representatives, and that the Purchaser is buying said property "as is." That in the event tenants are occupying said premises, it shall be the responsibility of the Purchaser to evict said tenants.

That is an additional condition and term of the sale, that in the event the successful purchaser of the foreclosed premises does not fulfill the terms and conditions of said foreclosure sale by purchasing the property, the mortgagee reserves the right to thereafter accept the bid of the next highest bidder at the foreclosure sale and to further accept said bid upon the conditions of the second bidder agreeing to fulfill its bid commitment which was made at the time of the foreclosure sale; otherwise, if any, to be announced at the sale.

The donation is to help with the purchase of an A.B. Dick Offset Duplicator for the school's graphic arts department.

The new press will add to the versatility in the teaching of graphic arts students and allow for greater student participation in the program. The machine will also help prepare students for the many job opportunities in the field.

Curb-Side Leaf Collection Extended To Dec. 7 little late this year."

He noted warm weather in October and a few rainy weekends in November have delayed the leaf raking season by about a week.

After making a visual check of some trees in the city over the weekend, Colton said he believes more leaves will fall this week.

Extending the collection through Dec. 7 will give people more time to rake and bag the leaves, he added.

As of Monday, some 2,000 tons of leaves had been collected since the program began Oct. 15. He said the total should reach 2,500 tons and perhaps 3,000 tons after the program ends Dec. 7.

Colton thanks residents who have participated in the program. "The program has been a success because of them," he said.

tighten up substantially."

The new policy also requires department heads to submit to the mayor a summary of all mileage, gasoline consumed, maintenance performed, receipts and slips for same and a rationale for continued use of vehicles.

The summary data will be supported by weekly car information data sheets which will be maintained by departments for each of its vehicles.

Department heads are required to complete each week of data by 4:30 p.m. the following Tuesday. Forms must then be sent to the mayor's office where they will be kept on file.

"Before any car, pickup truck or other city vehicle is allowed to be taken home by an employee, there must be justification for that action and approval by a supervisor," the policy states.

In addition, the department head must safely house vehicles which currently go to employee homes and will, in the future, stay at the work site.

"In these difficult fiscal times, we must take all possible measures to economize," the mayor stated in a memo to city employees.

"This is an area where we can realize savings and we must do so for the citizens of this city."

A Few Words on FUNERAL SERVICE

TV, Death . . . and Children.

Statistics show that most children will have seen up to 10,000 deaths portrayed on TV by age 20. Critics agree that TV is too violent and the effects on children not yet known.

Most TV deaths are unrealistic and don't show the suffering and grief involved. We suggest parents explain about deaths on TV as fantasy and unreal.

Children do want to learn about death. We have books and literature for the children's level or can direct you to such sources.

JOSEPH SMITH of Quincy waves to a passing motorist while "picketing" the Fore River Bridge. Smith, whose 16-year-old son Roger Smith was killed after the car he was driving skidded on the bridge and struck a steel drawbridge gate Oct. 12, calls the bridge a "death trap" and wants safety modifications made to the 54-year structure.

Son Killed In Accident Grieving Father 'Pickets' Fore River Bridge For Safety Modifications

By ROBERT BOSWORTH
Joseph Smith and Roger Smith had a father-son relationship most men would admire.

They were close, communicative, chums.

When his boy was a baby, Joseph Smith, a 30-year Quincy resident, would lay down with Roger until his infant son fell asleep. As a young boy, Roger wanted his father to read him a new bed-time story virtually every night. Joseph always obliged.

As he grew older, they spent a lot of time talking about anything and everything, from sports to school to sex.

Even after Joseph and his wife, Janet Smith of Hingham, divorced eight years ago, Roger was still a big part of his life.

"Everyday I saw him I hugged him and kissed him and told him I loved him so that there was never no doubt," the elder Smith said, calling his 16-year-old, six-foot son a "big, loveable" kid.

"Whatever day I didn't see him, that night we called. My wife and I have been divorced eight years and all those eight years, we never missed talking unless he was away at camp."

Their relationship ended tragically the misty night of Oct. 12, when the car Roger was driving skidded on the top of steel grating at the top of the Fore River Bridge.

According to Weymouth police, Smith, who was heading east toward Weymouth, lost control of his 1976 Ford and the car slid sideways. The driver's side door crashed into a drawbridge steel gate. The car was nearly cut in half.

Smith, who had received his license two days before the accident, was killed. A friend travelling with him was seriously hurt. Neither were wearing safety belts, police said.

Police report drugs and alcohol did not contribute to the accident. Witnesses at the scene said Roger was not speeding.

Grieving the loss of his son, Joseph Smith began a lonely curb-side vigil at the base of the bridge three weeks ago. Now a familiar sight for morning commuters, Smith holds large home-made signs declaring the bridge is a "death trap."

His signs also urge citizens who think the bridge is unsafe to call their local legislator.

"The bridge is a death trap. It needs to be made safe for everyone. It took

Peace Vigil Outside City Hall Saturday

Concerned over a possible war in the Persian Gulf, a group of South Shore residents will hold a peace vigil Saturday, Dec. 8 from noon to 2 p.m. at McIntyre Mall next to Quincy City Hall.

The citizens will appeal to President George Bush and Congress to give the economic sanctions imposed by the United States against Iraq a chance to work and resolve the crisis. They will also appeal for an immediate start of negotiations through a Mideast conference or the United Nations.

According to Spokesman Nell Slawson, members of the Committee for a South Shore Peace Vigil are concerned with what they call the Bush administration's apparent determination to confront Iraq in a shooting war rather than entering into "genuine negotiations."

Marchers will convey their messages by carrying posters with such slogans as "Sanctions Yes, Shooting No," "Stop The War Before It Starts" and "Congress Hold Firm."

Sheets Unavailable For Comment City Council Wants To Sue Revaluation Firm

By STEVE KAVANAGH

The City Council Monday voted unanimously to ask Mayor James Sheets to sue the company which performed the revaluation of property in the city last year.

Sheets, who is attending a conference in Texas, will discuss the matter with City Solicitor Steve McGrath when he returns.

The council on Monday passed an order introduced by Councillor Michael Cheney which calls for litigation proceedings against Real Estate Research Consultants, Inc. of Danvers, by an 8-0 vote.

However, McGrath said he has found no basis for a lawsuit at this time.

McGrath said he believes that the mayor will refer the council's resolve to the City Solicitor's office. After investigating the matter, McGrath said, he will make a recommendation to the mayor, "one way or another" concerning a lawsuit.

Cheney said that because over 3,000 people have filed for abatements - which is 10 times more than usual according to the assessor's office -- and because over a million dollars in valuation was missed at Captain's Cove

Marina, Quincy Point, the city should sue the company and withhold the final payment.

Cheney also said that hardship and monetary loss for Quincy residents has resulted because of the revaluation.

Sheets, who would ultimately decide whether or not to sue Real Estate Research Consultants, was unavailable for comment as The Quincy Sun went to press. He was attending a National League of Cities

Support Group For Families Of Military In Persian Gulf

Quincy Hospital and the City of Quincy Veteran's Services have established a support group for families of military personnel deployed in Operation Desert Shield.

The first meeting will be held tonight (Thursday) from 7 to 9 p.m. at Quincy Hospital's McCauley Education Center on the first floor.

The program will be overseen by Marie Snyder, RN, JD, Coordinator of Quincy Hospital's Employee Assistance Program (EAP); Henry Bradley of Quincy Veteran's Services, and Janet McCulloch, Quincy Hospital's Director of Human Resources.

The support group is designed to provide an opportunity for people with friends and loved ones in the Persian Gulf to talk with others and share concerns and information in an informal setting.

Meetings will be regularly scheduled on the first and third Thursdays of each month.

Members of the community who have friends or loved ones stationed in the Persian Gulf are invited to become a part of the group.

For further information contact the Quincy Hospital Department of Human Resources at 773-6100, ext. 2089.

STUDENTS AT BROAD Meadows Middle School decorated the building with yellow ribbons to show that the community remembers all of the hostages being held in Kuwait and all of the men and women in Operation Desert Shield. Custodian Walter Dacey hangs a ribbon while Scott Shepherd and Chandra Torrence hold the ladder.

Council Studying Possible Exclusive Towing Rights

By STEVE KAVANAGH

The City Council is studying the possibility of establishing a competitive bid process for exclusive towing rights in the city, eliminating police call boxes, and asking the state to exempt cities and towns from paying a state gas tax.

Councillors Thomas Fabrizio and Michael Cheney proposed the measures during a meeting of the Public Safety Committee Monday night.

Fabrizio and Cheney have sent a letter to Police Chief Francis Mullen regarding the proposals. The pair have asked Mullen for input regarding elimination of the call boxes and implementation of a new plan for towing in the city.

Currently, towing companies are called on a rotating basis by the Police Department. Under the new proposal the city would be divided into sections (as yet undetermined) and two companies would bid for exclusive towing rights in a particular section. The new system may also allow for free towing of police vehicles and the right for the high-bidders to subcontract work to other businesses.

Cheney and Fabrizio estimated a net gain of about $20,000 for the city.

Local tow operators are skeptical of the plan. Chuck Ayers of Ayers Brothers Auto Body and Towing and Steve Marsters of Bibbs Service Center agreed that the proposal could develop into a scenario where the rich get richer.

"This could open a big can of worms," Ayers said. "It could put a lot of small guys out of business."

"There is no doubt that the smaller companies could go under," Marsters said. "But if it is going to raise revenue for the city I can understand it from their point of view."

Ayers said that if smaller service centers go out of business because of a loss of tow revenue it would hurt the city financially in the long run.

Fabrizio and Cheney have also asked Mullen for input regarding the elimination of police call boxes. Cheney said the boxes cost the city $40 each per month and that the call boxes are obsolete.

He noted that police officers now carry radios and cruisers are equipped with radios. The days of a beat cop calling in from a call box are in the past, Cheney said. In the event an officer needs to make a call from a telephone, he could use a pay phone, Cheney said. The idea of an 800 number is being looked at, he said.

The cost savings is estimated at about $15,000 and possibly $30,000 or more if call box rates double within the year, which is a possibility, Fabrizio and Cheney said.

The councillors also stated their intentions to formally request that Quincy's state legislative delegation file a bill which would exempt cities and towns from paying state gasoline taxes. The federal government does not require cities and towns to pay the federal gas tax.

Cheney and Fabrizio estimated that the city could have saved about $18,000 in the current fiscal year if Quincy was exempt from state gas taxes. The state gas tax will be increased by six cents a gallon which will drive the city's costs up even further.

Firefighters Establish Fund To Aid Houghs Neck Girl

By JANE ARENA

The Quincy Firefighters Association Local 792 has established a very special fund for a very special Quincy girl.

Erin Leth of Houghs Neck, seven years old, suffers from a rare and incurable seizure disorder which makes it impossible for her to enjoy a normal life. She is unable to go outside, play with other children or experience any of the everyday joys of childhood.

However, there is a new warning device which could alert Erin to an oncoming seizure and prepare her for it before it hits, thereby enabling her to lead a more normal life.

The device is a specially-trained dog which will observe the surroundings and be able to warn Erin if conditions exist which could trigger a seizure.

The trained dogs are a fairly new concept and are extremely expensive, costing between $7,000 and $10,000, but they have been proven to aid adults who have a condition similar to Erin's.

Erin's parents, Theresa and Philip, saw the dogs featured on an episode of the television show "Unsolved Mysteries," and the Quincy Firefighters Association has offered assistance in raising the funds for the dog.

QUINCY FIREFIGHTER BILL Arienti (center) presents a $500 check on behalf of the Quincy Firefighters Association, Local 792, to Theresa Leth for her daughter Erin, 7, held by Dad, Philip. Looking on are the other Leth children, Jill-Marie and Philip, Jr. The money will help to buy a specially-trained dog to help Erin deal with a rare seizure disorder.

The Association donated $500 to the fund and established an official fund for Erin at the Quincy Municipal Credit Union.

Anyone wishing to contribute to the fund may do so by sending a check

Coastal Flooding Closes Squantum Causeway

The causeway in Squantum was closed for about one and a half hours Tuesday due to coastal flooding at high tide during severe rainstorms.

Traffic was re-routed Northbound on Quincy Shore Drive through the Marina Bay Complex from 11:40 a.m. to 1:20 p.m., reports Tony Sciliano, Deputy Director of Quincy Civil Defense.

The Massachusetts Civil Defense Office of Emergency Management issued a severe winter weather advisory for the state for Monday and Tuesday of this week, warning mainly of flooding in peninsula areas during high tide.

Siciliano said that all agencies, including the police and fire departments as well as the highway department, schools, the Dept. of Public Works and Quincy Hospital were immediately notified of the state advisory.

All city Civil Defense employees were put on standby from 10 p.m. Monday, he said.

Time To Break A Tradition Says Postal Service

With the advent of high-speed, automated mail processing, the U.S. Postal Service is asking holiday mailers to break the hand-written address tradition by typing or printing address information on all mail.

According to the Postal Service, a printed address - in the proper format - speeds letters and cards through the post office's automated equipment and onto its destination.

Personal computer users are asked to print peel-and-stick labels. These labels can be a real time-saver, and are also far easier to read on red and green envelopes, the Postal Service notes.

tion except the hyphen when you use zip plus 4 codes.

- Make sure the city/state/zip code line is at least one inch above the bottom edge of the envelope. If you use address labels, place them one inch above the bottom edge.

- Spell out the city name, but use the two-letter abbreviation for states. Use a single space between words and between the state abbreviation and the zip code.

- Do not use the name of a building in place of the street address. In rural addresses, the route number should precede the box number.

- Use the abbreviations Ave., St., Ln., Rd., for Avenue, Street, Lane and Road, and use only the first letter for North, South, East or West.

The Postal Service recommends customers use these tips not only during the holiday season, but on every piece of mail throughout the year.

For those who don't use computer-printed or typed address labels, a few tips on hand-addressing to help speed holiday mail to its destination are offered:

- Print the address.
- Keep a uniform left margin and use all capital letters, making sure they don't touch each other.
- Eliminate all punctua-

THOSE TENDER TENDONS

Tendons are the bands of fiber which attach muscle to bone. When a tendon is stretched too far, it is said to be strained. The area becomes inflamed and sore and the tendons may even be torn or ruptured. The weekend athlete who neglects proper conditioning and stretching exercises is most at risk. Tendonitis can attack almost any part of the body, but some spots seem to cause more trouble than others. Achilles tendonitis causes pain in the heel area. Toe tendonitis may be felt as a sharp pain on the top of the foot. Wrists and shoulders are also frequent sites for tendonitis. If the tendon is simply strained, rest and anti-inflammatory medication will provide relief. A torn or ruptured tendon often requires surgery. Tendonitis can often be prevented by avoiding undue strain on muscles and by warming up and stretching before an exercise session or run.

P.S. Tendonitis in a major league pitcher's shoulder has been responsible for dashing his team's hopes for the World Series.

For maximum benefit, you need an exercise regimen tailored to meet your special physical needs. Maintaining a health immune system is aided by frequent exercise, plenty of rest, and good nutrition. Get heart-smart, and think preventively. If you have further questions, call me at 472-2550. My office is located at 101 Adams Street, Suite 24 in Quincy. Hours are by appointment. Condon Close To Ward 6 Run

Some of the ward City Council races the past few years have been as boring as raking leaves.

But there could be a real hot one next year in Ward 6.

Joanne Condon, who held that seat for eight years before making an unsuccessful bid for mayor in 1985 seems to be warming up to a run in 1991.

That would pit her against incumbent Tom Nutley who succeeded her with her support.

"I would say I am closer to running than I have been since I got out," she says. "Closer because this is the first time I have even considered it. And I am seriously considering it."

If she does run, her name will look a little different on the ballot than it has in the past.

A year ago she and Deputy Fire Chief Joseph Walsh were married.

She would thus appear on the ballot as Joanne Condon Walsh. She doesn't think the name change will make any difference.

"I'm the same person," she laughs.

Why is she thinking of running?

"A number of people have asked me to," she says. "Including, believe it or not, people in Squantum where I never have done that great in past elections."

Although she ran for mayor city-wide and lost to incumbent Francis McCauley, she says she is not interested in the City Council at-large.

"Ward 6 is my backyard," she says. "I grew up there. And I still live here."

A 1957 graduate of North Quincy High School she lived in the very house on Newbury Ave. long since occupied by the family of the late Dick Koch.

She has remained active since leaving City Hall with the City Democratic Committee and helping other candidates in their campaigns.

She and her husband also have a real estate agency, Condon & Walsh Realty located on Hancock St. in downtown Quincy.

The fact her roots are deep in North Quincy, she thinks may be a reason people have been urging her to run.

And if enough people feel that way she probably will do it.

COLLINS

DON'T TAKE ANY stock in the speculation that School Committee-woman-County Commissioner Mary Collins might run for mayor next year.

"Don't believe it," she says. "There's absolutely nothing to it."

"Well, what about after next year?"

"Oh, maybe 10 years from now!"

Council Votes To Sue Revaluation Firm

Conference in Houston along with Ward 1 councillor Peter Kolson.

McGrath said he and Sheets have already studied the issue of the marina. The Danvers firm was not in error, McGrath said, because it is the responsibility of the assessors' office to provide a list of all properties in the city for revaluation.

Addressing the issue of the unusually high number of appeals for abatements, McGrath said the revaluation process is subjective. If the consulting firm made errors in its work, there might be a basis for litigation, McGrath said.

"Unless there was evidence the company did not perform its work properly," McGrath said he would probably not advise Sheets to pursue legal action.

According to City Assessor Chairman Elmer "Mike" Fagerlund, of the 600 to 700 appeals his office has held hearings for so far, about 10 percent have been granted abatements. Fagerlund said that in only a few of those cases did the consulting firm make errors.

"It was the judgment of the Board of Assessors and myself that the performance of Real Estate Research Consultants was exemplary," said Fagerlund.

Increased assessments, released last March, angered many homeowners and business property owners resulting in the record number of appeals.

The dramatic increases, some as high as 500 percent, caused Sheets to seek relief in the form of an assessment limit. The mayor asked Quincy's legislators at the State House to file a bill limiting assessments to a percentage of the previous year's assessment.

Senator Paul Harold and state Reps. Robert Cerasoli, Michael Morrissey and Steve Tobin filed a bill in July limiting an increase in assessment to 25 percent of the previous year's assessment.

Benefit Dec. 8 For Dianna Principato

A benefit by Friends of Dianna will be held Saturday, Dec. 8, at The Yardrock Cafe, Joe's Pub, 132 Howard St. Quincy, featuring "The Yardrockers".

The benefit for Dianna Principato, struck by an uninsured drunk driver in 1988, will enable her to see her children each weekend. Now confined to a wheelchair, she is at Lakeville Hospital five days a week where she has shown much improvement.

The Friends of Dianna held a fundraiser in April which enabled her to see her children each weekend for over a year.

Those wishing to help may mail donations directly to Friends of Dianna Committee, Quincy Savings Bank, 1200 Hancock St., Quincy, MA 02169.

All received second honors.

Father 'Pickets' Fore River Bridge For Safety Modifications

my son's life. I don't want it to take anyone else's life.

"If you care about this situation," Smith says with his tone turning desperate, "Please write, send a card, anything to your senator, your representative because when they see that, they know people care."

Specifically, Smith said he will continue to "picket" the bridge until some or all of the following modifications are done to the bridge.

First, he wants the four steel drawbridge gates (one of which his son's car hit) replaced, turned around and/or padded. Located on the sidewalk, each gate has a steel plate fastened to the front.

The gates, which point toward oncoming traffic when not in use, swing open across the roadway and lock when the draw bridge is opened.

"If (the state) can't remove the gates, they could have at least turn them around," Smith said. "If you're standing on top of the bridge on the sidewalk and look at the head of that gate, it's pointing out toward the traffic, not away from it."

"It's headed right into (traffic) so when a car does spin, or goes out of control, where's it going," he asks. "If it goes in that direction, it's just like my son's car."

"It's going to hit that head of that gate and that is like a spear. It cut my son's car in half and killed him instantly."

Continuing, Smith says, "If the gate was facing the wall, in other words, aimed toward the wall, my son would have hit it and bounced off. He wouldn't get killed."

Smith reasons that a motorist who happens to hit a gate would have a higher chance of survival if the wide-end part of the gate were facing traffic.

In his son's case, Smith contends Roger would still be alive if the gate had been turned around.

"Even by the remotest possibility a car hits that (wide) end, it's going to hit it but the width of (the gate) is going to catch the frame of the car too so that it won't go straight through."

"(Roger's car) would have hit (the gate) and then he would have probably rolled down. But even so, if he had spun around and hit up in (the wide end) area, he would have bounced out."

"He might have got shook up and even maybe a broken leg but he wouldn't be dead."

In addition, Smith wants the steel grating filled in with some kind of substance such as concrete. He said grating alone does not provide sufficient traction.

Several local officials agree the Fore River Bridge needs to be made safer. Congressman Brian Donnelly, Senator Paul Harold and City Council President Ted DeCristofaro have rallied around Smith with their pledge of support and assistance.

The officials are trying to set up a meeting with state DPW officials to discuss safety modifications at the bridge. "They have been very supportive and have offered to help me in any way they can to get this matter straightened out and the bridge fixed."

"I really appreciate the three of them," Smith said.

According to police records, the number of accidents on the bridge appear to be increasing the last several years.

Weymouth Police Sergeant William Newell reports his department has responded to 10 bridge accidents through Nov. 28.

A HAPPY FATHER AND SON--Joseph Smith, right, hugs his "big, loveable" son, Roger.

ONE OF FOUR steel drawbridge gates that Joseph Smith wants replaced, reversed or padded. Smith's son, Roger, was killed after the car he was driving skidded on the bridge and struck the front of one of the gates. His 1976 Ford was nearly cut in half. Smith contends his son would still be alive if the gate had not been pointing toward oncoming traffic.

Of that total, five occurred under wet or icy road conditions and four people were injured.

Last year, Weymouth police responded to 11 accidents on the Weymouth side of the bridge. Eight occurred when the bridge was icy or wet and two motorists were treated for minor injuries.

Weymouth police responded to five accidents (three under icy conditions) and in 1988 and four accidents (one icy condition) in 1987.

Including the Oct. 12 accident, the bridge has been the scene of at least four fatal motor vehicle accidents the last 15 years.

Weymouth police records show the last occurred on a rainy evening in June, 1985 when a 17-year-old boy was killed in a three car accident. The boy was a passenger in a car heading east which skidded on the wet grating and struck a car coming in the opposite direction.

The other fatal accidents happened in May, 1977 and in June, 1975.

According to Quincy

Police records, only one accident has occurred this year on the city side of the bridge. On July 1, a 20-year old woman was injured after hitting a median barrier.

Records of the last fatality on the city-side of the bridge were not available at press time.

Smith blames Gov. Michael Dukakis and administration officials for failing to make any substantial safety modifications to the 54-year-old structure while the state economy boomed during the early and mid-1980s.

Noting the state now has a multi-million dollar deficit, Smith says angrily, "Mr. Dukakis is a liar and a hypocrite and as far as I'm concerned, he's a thief. He didn't do what he was supposed to do with the money."

"What's it going to take to pour some kind of cement into that (bridge) to make the grating safer. How much would it cost to reverse (the gates) and put padding around them," he asks bitterly.

"That's a sensible, straight forward answer to a question these so called big-wigs who work with Mr. Dukakis and Mr. (Fred) Salvucci (secretary of transportation) who couldn't have figured that out 12 years ago."

Michael Moran, spokesman for the state Department of Public Works, would not estimate the cost to implement the safety improvements advocated by Smith.

Moran said DPW Commissioner Jane Garvey will write Smith in an attempt to set up a meeting with him to discuss his concerns.

"If there are things that can be done, not empty gestures, but realistic improvements, we will explore what they might be and make them," he said.

According to Moran, 30,000 vehicles travel over the bridge daily. He said maintenance people routinely observe and inspect the bridge.

Burgin Tops McGrath By Biggest Margin

Mayor Thomas S. Burgin carried all 27 precincts in the city en route to a re-election victory over Thomas J. McGrath by a 3-1 margin, the largest majority ever in Quincy.

The vote was Burgin 15,605, McGrath 4,809.

Richard J. Barry, a political newcomer, scored a spectacular upset victory over one of three at-large seats on the City Council, turning back a comeback bid by former Councillor Leo E. Mullin.

The Council vote was Edward J. Sandberg 10,494, Barry 9,237, Avery W. Gilkerson 9,119, Mullen 8,766, Dr. Charles J. Herbert 6,486, and John M. MacLeod 6,465.

Beatrice S. Nichols, who was seeking re-election, and Heslip E. Sutherland won the School Committee race over L. Paul Marini and Mrs. Julia Frost Murphy.

Marini and Mrs. Murphy both had campaigned on the charge that the current School Committee merely acted as a rubber stamp for School Supt. James N. Muir.

EDISON TO VISIT YARD

Charles Edison, son of the late inventor and assistant secretary of the Navy, was planning a January visit to the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Fore River shipyard to view new construction.

Meanwhile, the cruiser U.S.S. Vincennes returned to Fore River after a successful trial run and maneuvers in Massachusetts Bay under Capt. Joseph I. Kemp, veteran Fore River pilot.

The Quincy Citywide Parents Council will meet Monday, Dec. 10 at 7:30 p.m. at the Central Middle School, Hancock St.

Meetings of the CPC are open to the public.

Nobili Medical Library Fund Established At QH

Conrad Nobili, MD, and his son, Conrad D. Nobili, have established the Nobili Medical Library Fund at Quincy Hospital to help the hospital purchase books for its medical library.

The first book was presented Nov. 1.

The senior Nobili was an allergist on the medical staff at Quincy Hospital for 46 years. He was president of the medical staff from 1966-67, and served as the physician-in-Chief at the hospital. He started the Nobili Allergy Clinic which is still located in Quincy.

The Nobili's began the fund in honor of the doctor's parents, Decio and Vincenza. The established the fund so that direct monetary contributions could support the medical library. With the tight fiscal constraints hospitals are experiencing, they wanted to provide a legacy of learning and professional development at Quincy Hospital.

Recently, Dr. Nobili, a Boston resident, was awarded the Alma Ticenisensis Universitas medal from the University of Pavia in Italy to recognize his outstanding contributions as an allergist in this area. The medal dates back to 1772 when Empress Maria Teresa of Austria made the recipient a count of her court.

Donations may be made to the Nobili Medical Library Fund by any interested individual by contacting the Quincy Hospital Public Relations Department, (617) 773-6100 ext. 4016.

Dependable Cleaners To Recycle Protective Plastic

C. Fredrick Fawcett, President of Dependable Cleaners headquartered in Quincy, announces a recycling service in each of its 13 locations.

Beginning immediately, Dependable Cleaners will accept the return of the plastic packaging materials in which cleaning is delivered to its customers. In turn, Dependable will send the plastic to its supplier for recycling.

"We're environmentally sensitive," Fawcett said. "We have been operating an internal recycling and conservation program at our cleaning plants. It has been extremely successful starting with a simple cardboard recovery; now we're expanding it further."

Fawcett also said that the firm will accept the return of hangers for re-use.

"All we ask is that the customer make an effort to untangle them as much as possible."

The company makes the recycling process particularly easy for its most frequent customers Fawcett said. Most of their frequent customers use Dependable's VIP Express bag drop-off system.

"All our VIP Baggers need to do is include the old poly (plastic) and hangers in their drop-off bags and we'll do the rest."

Dependable operates 13 cleaning, laundry plants or store locations in Boston and in communities from Milton to Hanover.

Fawcett said his locations will accept the recycling of plastic and hangers from customers of other dry cleaners too!

Stocking Of Joy Program At Bank Of New England

Bank of New England Corporation has launched its "New England Stockings of Joy," a program aimed at sharing the joy of giving during the holiday season with local charitable and other non-profit organizations.

Through the program, stockings filled with gifts by customers and employees will be donated to local non-profit organizations such as homeless shelters and day care centers. In Quincy, recipient organizations include D.O. V.E. and Father Bill's Place.

Before Christmas, Bank of New England's Branch Manager Carole Walters will present stockings to the groups for distribution.

The stockings program is being offered in more than 350 Bank of New England Corporation branches in four New England states. The staff of each branch has holiday stockings to be filled with gifts for a designated charitable or non-profit organization in its community.

Along with the stockings, colorful posters on display in each branch list the organization to receive the holiday stockings and some suggested gifts.

Customers and employees can take a stocking home, fill it, and return the stocking to the branch. Customers can also make a cash contribution through special accounts set up in each district.

Contributions will be divided among the various organizations in each district. Filled stockings will be collected and distributed to local non-profit organizations the week of Dec. 17.

Crime Prevention Officer

Crime Prevention For The Disabled

Disabled individuals, the same as able bodied, can take responsibility for protecting themselves and their communities against crime. Unfortunately, criminals often prey on persons with handicaps, assuming they cannot readily protect themselves. And the disabled may develop predictable patterns of activities that make them vulnerable to victimization.

Like all persons young and old, the disabled should be alert to their surroundings and take common-sense precautions inside and outside their homes with regards to locks on doors and windows, answering the phone and door, driving and traveling on public transportation. If you have a physical or sensory impairment however, it's particularly important to:

- Vary your activities, routes, and times of departure.
- Let family or friends know where you are going and what time you expect to return home.
- Travel with someone you know whenever possible.
- Carry enough money for telephone and emergency use, but never carry or display large amounts of money.
- Take into account your limitations and decide what you are prepared to do if confronted by an assailant.
- Know your neighbors and decide which ones you could rely on in an emergency.
- Never let strange phone callers know you are along or disabled.

- Use Direct Deposit for government payments to you.
- Keep your money, keys, and credit cards in an inside pocket or hidden on your person.
- When using public transportation, ride as near to the operator as possible.
- Be aware of your body language. Transmit confidence and certainty.
- Become involved in Neighborhood Watch. Help out a neighbor who's been a recent victim of crime. The more active you are, the safer you'll be - and the safer your neighborhood will be.

Salvation Army Kettle Drive Underway

This year's Salvation Army Kettle Drive is underway in Quincy.

According to Capt. James LaBossiere, commander of the Quincy unit, there are 16 kettles located in Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree and Hingham.

Some are being manned by students from Asbury College in Kentucky who are here for the holiday season. Others are manned by volunteers from the Kiwanis Club, Rotary Club and Lions Club as well as members of the Braintree AARP chapter.

LaBossiere has set a goal of $120,000 which he hopes to raise during this year's campaign. Funds are used in Quincy to provide dinners, toys, gifts for patients in the nursing homes and hospitals to meet the special needs of families in the area served by the Quincy Corps.

Requests for aid are exceeding some previous years, according to Salvation Army officials.

Compared to last year, there are thousands of more people in need of food, fuel and shelter in the first nine months of 1990, according to Major Charles Williams, head of the Salvation Army's Social Service programs in Massachusetts.

"We are experiencing a 28 percent increase in our case work services at 20 of our 29 corps community center locations across the state," Williams said.

"These huge increases mean we are in a real crisis. We have launched numerous food drives around the state, but as quickly as we get the food put on the shelf, it is depleted," he added.

The Salvation Army operates 20 community centers and nine programs centers in Massachusetts. Nightly, more than 550 people are sheltered and more than 1,500 persons are fed a meal.

Locally, Capt. LaBossiere said he hopes those who are more fortunate will be generous with their contributions.

Members of the Quincy Rotary Club will man a kettle at Osco Drug on Saturday, Dec. 8. The Lions Club will be there Saturday, Dec. 15 and the Kiwanis Club will ring the bell Saturday, Dec. 22.

Members of the Braintree AARP chapter will be at the South Shore Plaza Tuesday, Dec. 11. Members of the local Salvation Army Advisory Board will be at the Plaza Saturday, Dec. 15.

Applications for Christmas Aid can be made at the Quincy Temple headquarters this week and next.

Members of the Quincy Rotary Club will sponsor a Children's Christmas Party at the Salvation Army's headquarters, Elm and Baxter Sts., Saturday, Dec. 15.

The Salvation Army needs volunteers to help collect food and assist with holiday activities. Contact the nearest Salvation Army or call (617) 542-5420.

Skydiving Accident Was Jumper's First In 14 Years

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The skydiving accident which occurred during the recent Quincy Christmas festivities marked the first time the injured professional skydiver failed to reach the targeted area in 14 years of exhibition jumps.

Robert Humphreys of Holbrook, who was dressed as one of Santa's elves, suffered a slight fracture to his right knee Nov. 24 when he was blown off course at Faxon Field during a sudden wind squall. Humphreys collided with a car on Coddingdon St.

In a letter dated Dec. 4 to the Quincy Christmas Festival

Committee, Humphreys thanked members for their involvement and participation during Santa's arrival by parachute. He also thanked members for their safety precautions, including roped-off areas and personnel stationed around Faxon Field.

"Regular and auxiliary police, auxiliary fire, civil air patrol and civil defense personnel and emergency medical service is very much appreciated," he said.

"With reference to the jump itself, the placing of a large white sheet on the field, the use of a smoke bomb and the ground to air communications all provided what is necessary to assist Santa and his elves to have a safe landing.

"It is unfortunate that with all the precautions that were taken that Murphy's law comes along to develop an unfortunate incident. In my case," Humphreys said, "It was not reaching the field area to conclude the jump."

"This is the first time I have failed to do so in 14 years of exhibition jumps."

Humphreys said emergency and medical personnel which responded to his injuries provided the necessary aid. They were the Norfolk Bristol Ambulance Service, Quincy Police, Quincy Auxiliary Police, Civil Defense Rapid Response Unit, Civil Defense personnel, Quincy Fire and Dan Leonard of Stoughton.

He also thanked those concerned about his injury and those who sent him get well cards.

"I sincerely thank all those people and organizations who were there and gave me help in my time of need. I would also like to thank all the children who took the time and effort to make get well cards and those who came by to wish me well."

"Unfortunately lost in all the publicity is that all monies raised by our Santa jumps is donated to make a happier Christmas for those less fortunate," Humphreys said.

Adams Historic Site Closed For Season

The National Park service has closed the Adams National Historic Site, which includes the "Old House" or Adams Mansion, at 135 Adams St. and the John Quincy Adams Birthplace, at 133-41 Franklin St.

The site will reopen April 19.
The administration office, located at 135 Adams St., is open Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The grounds, a total of approximately 10 acres of land, are open to the public year round.

For further information call 773-1177.

Second Advent Service At United Methodist

At the second Sunday of Advent, Rev. Harry Soper Jr's sermon title will be "The Word Still Comes: Repeat".

Worship is at 10 a.m. Special music has been planned by the music director, Douglas Ulwick. Lois Francello, harpist, will feature introductory music by Hahn.

Greeters will be Helen Bailey and Ruth Pletsch. Ushers will be Richard and Marianne Ward. Herbert Williams III will be the lay reader. Lighting the Advent Candle will be Elizabeth Buccella and Pamela Smith. At the fellowship hour, the hostesses will be Helen Bailey, Sally Weston, Virginia Tumor and Lillian Warner.

On Tuesday, Dec. 11 at 7:30 p.m., the Pastor Parish Relations committee meets and at 2 p.m. the following day the nominating committee convenes. At 7:30 p.m. that evening the new Women's Circle parties at the parsonage. On Dec. 13 the pastor holds Bible study classes at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. with choir rehearsal at the latter time.

On Friday, Dec. 14 at 6:30 the 3M's Club will have their annual Christmas Luau dinner directed by Anne Giger. A gift swap and exchange program follows. On Saturday at 6 p.m. the QCUMC Players, directed by Virginia Casey, will perform "The Christmas Story".

Noise Barriers Design Gets Conditional Go-Ahead

The City Council granted conditional approval to the Massachusetts Department of Public Works to proceed with the design of noise barriers for Route 93 in West Quincy.

The conditional approval will allow nearby residents to attend public meetings at which they may see plans and drawings for the noise abatement barrier project.

Ward 4 councillor Thomas Fabrizio told the council he recently sent a mailing to about 500 homes in the area. Fabrizio said the response he got was about 4-1 in favor of noise barriers but that many residents approved of the plan with conditions.

Fabrizio said Ward 4 residents were worried about the amount of land-aking for the project, whether shrubberies or green space would be eliminated, and how the barriers would look.

Tuesday's City Council action reserves the right for the city to terminate or modify the state's project.

Quincy Public Works Commissioner David Colton told the council that a state DPW study has found that the stretch of Route 93 between Milton and Quincy is the noisiest in the state.

Colton said he supports conditional approval to allow the design phase of the project.

4 Healthcare Workers Pass Nursing Home Course

Four Quincy healthcare workers recently passed the 36-hour Basic Activity Course for Nursing Home Activity Directors.

Alice Skehan of Merry-mount Manor, Charlene Murphy, Theresa Murphy and Nancy Jacoby, all of Crestview Healthcare, each completed the course at Pond Meadow Healthcare, Weymouth.

Passing the course qualifies them to apply for certification as directors or assistants.

'Hanging Of The Greens' At Squantum First Church

The Advent season at First Church of Squantum began with the annual "Hanging of the Greens" Saturday night and the first Advent service the next morning.

The Hanging of the Greens was sponsored by the church Board of Christian Education headed up by Beth Harper, Patti Hurd and Kathy Sullivan-Moran. Fourteen tables were available at which persons of all ages were able to make different Christmas crafts. Others decorated the church with wreaths, Christmas trees, strings of laurel and boughs of evergreen.

On Sunday morning, the children of the church presented the congregation with an elaborate manger scene which they had been preparing for that day. Mark Potter and Emily Zachring helped the pastor, Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, to light the first candle in the Advent wreath.

The Old Testament lesson was read by Dore Klock. The New Testament lesson was read by Tom Williamson. The Chancel choir sang. James B. Sumner was the soloist.

Rev. Dr. Langevin preached on the subject,

"Preparing the Way To Christmas". He gave a special prayer on the death of Fred MacMillan, a longtime member of the Squantum church.

The Lord's Supper was observed during the service with deacons Luther Swenson, Sandra Concannon, Leif Thornton, Barbara Walter and Richard Hendry serving. Soloist during the Lord's Supper was Dore Klock.

Greeters were Cliff and Shirley Mason. Ushers were Sandra Concannon and Katrina Sorrentino. Dursilla Warnes and Mae Lewis hosted the Fellowship Hour.

The Bible Study Group meets on Wednesday nights at 7:30 p.m. The Junior choir rehearses Thursdays at 3 p.m. and the Chancel Choir at 7:30 p.m.

Sunday School classes for children in Kindergarten and Grades 1-7 meet at 9:45 a.m. The nursery and nursery class are held during the Sunday morning service at 10:30 a.m. A Christian craft hour is also for the Sunday School children during the latter part of the morning service. The Way Up for teen-agers is held at 6:30 p.m.

Church News

Second Lighting Of Advent Wreath At Point Congregational

At Quincy Point Congregational Church, young couples and their children take part in lighting the Advent Wreath candles, marking the Advent season and anticipating the coming of the birth of Christ.

Last Sunday, the Quintiliani family lighted the "Wait Candle", waiting upon God to come to us.

This Sunday, Dec. 9 marks the second Sunday of Advent when the "Prepare Candle" will be lighted by Rick and Andrea Taverna and their son Eric, preparing the "Way of the Lord".

The service will begin at 10 a.m. Music will be by Organist and Chancel Choir Director Dr. Herman Weiss, the choir and soprano soloist Iris Tanner.

The Sacrament of Christian Baptism will be administered by the Pastors for Enrico Theodore DeCristofaro, infant son of Theodore and Debra DeCristofaro, of Kingston. Godparents will be Thomas Bell and Deborah DeCristofaro.

The Rev. Fred Atwood-Lyon will preach the morning sermon, "God will Speak Peace . . . Even Today!"

Advent Organ Vespers At Wollaston Congregational

The Wollaston Congregational Church, Winthrop Ave., will feature an Advent Organ Vespers Wednesday, Dec. 19, 5:15 to 5:45 p.m. in the church sanctuary.

Organ music will be played and devotional

Church School classes for infants through grade nine are also provided each Sunday at 10 a.m. Infant care is provided in the crib room for very young children. Infants, children and young people may be registered for the church school at the church before 10 a.m. with the church school superintendent, or by calling the church secretary between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

For those who are physically unable to worship with the congregation or who lack transportation, the church provides a service of worship each Sunday on Quincy Cablevision, Ch. 3 from 8 to 9 a.m. for Quincy residents. Each telecast is of the previous Sunday's service.

The Quincy Point Church is located at the corner of Washington St. and Southern Artery in Quincy. Bus transportation is provided for Sunday services from 1000 Southern Artery, the Senior Citizen's Center, departing at from the East and North lobbies at 9:40 and 9:45 a.m., including a stop on Washington St. near the Pagnano Towers.

literature will be available, but no formal order of worship will be observed.

Organ Vespers is open to all who wish a break from the pre-Christmas activity for personal reflection.

'Revelation Of Glory' Sermon Topic At Covenant Congregational

At the 10:45 a.m. worship service Sunday at Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts., Rev. Kathleen Graves, co-pastor, will preach on "Revelation of Glory".

The confirmands will light the second advent candle. The choir, directed and accompanied on the organ by Richard Smith, Minister of Music, will sing an introit and anthem. Luisa Dano, soprano soloist, will also sing.

Christian Education, with classes for all ages, nursery through adult, will meet at 9:30 a.m. Confirmation class is at the same time. During the service, a nursery is available for children age four and younger. The attendant will be Amanda LaCoste.

Immediately following the service, coffee will be served in the fellowship hall downstairs.

Activities for the week are: choir rehearsal, Thursday at 7 p.m., Covenant Community, a Bible study and prayer group Saturday at 9:30 a.m.

Coming events include a senior adult potluck luncheon Thursday, Dec. 13 at 11:45 a.m., Sunday School program during the morning worship service Dec. 16 with a Christmas party following, the Naomi Society Christmas Potluck Monday, Dec. 16 at 6:30, an open house at the parsonage Sunday, Dec. 23 from 3-6 p.m., and a worship service at 10:45 a.m. on Christmas Day.

There will be a service of Lessons and Carols for the worship service on Dec. 30 and in the new year, the newly hired Youth Director, Todd Demmons, will start his ministry.

For more information about any of the church's activities, call 479-5728.

Decoration Sunday At United First Parish

This Sunday the congregation of United First Parish Church (Unitarian) will celebrate the coming festival days of Christmas and Hannukah by bringing in the greens during the 10:30 a.m. service.

Members and children will decorate a tree with ornaments that are handmade. Wayne MacDonald will place a star be made in Church School at the top of the tree. The congregation will then gather around and sing "O Christmas Tree".

The second candle of Advent will be lit by Adam and Aaron Cavanaugh. This candle will shine for the theme of sharing the gifts of ourselves as well as the presents we give and receive.

Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister, will read a Christmas story for the children and also deliver a sermon entitled "Expectancy". There also will be a child dedication ceremony for Morgan Victoria Eames.

A guest soloist will perform several works, and Music Director Norman Corey will play organ works by Pachelbel, Peeters and Bach.

Visitors are welcome and are invited to attend the social hour following the service. Hosts will be Wayne and Debbie MacDonald, and Brenda Powers will be the greeter. Ushers are Nancy and William Westland.

During the social hour at 11:30 a.m., Norma Cairns will offer for sale a wide variety of handcrafts by craftsmen from third world countries to support their work.

The women's discussion group, led by Molly Bennett, will meet at 12 noon and will continue discussions based on the book "The Heroine's Journey".

Historic First Parish, "Church of the Presidents," is located on Hancock St. in Quincy Center, opposite City Hall. Church school and child care are provided. Call 773-1290 for information.

Forgetting Last Year Franceschini Has High Hopes At Quincy

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy boys' basketball coach John Franceschini has put last year's 0-20 season behind him and is eagerly looking forward to the approaching season with high hopes.

"I honestly feel very good about this team," said Franceschini. "It is the most skilled team we have had in the past five years and if we can even go 3-2 in our first five games, four of which are at home, I feel we have a legitimate chance at making the Eastern Mass. Tournament.

"We are led by three outstanding tri-captains, E. J. Nordstrom (6-4), Mike Norton (6-0) and Ralph Bevilacqua (6-1), who I believe will be among the best players in the Old Colony League."

Nordstrom, one of the top players on the South Shore, is a three-year varsity letterman and won last year's QHS Alumni Award. He was also captain of the 1990 Middlesex AAU 17 and under team that played in Arkansas. He plans to attend college and continue his basketball career.

Bevilacqua is also a three-year varsity letterman. Last year he won the Jack Pettinelli Unsung Hero award. A fine student, he gives Quincy excellent leadership on and off the court.

Norton is a returning varsity letterman and last year's winner of the Presidents Pride Award. He is expected to be one of the finest guards in the Old Colony League this year.

Another senior who should help this year is Lapy Wai Chenz (6-4).

Franceschini is expecting big things from juniors Dave Jolley (6-3), Joey Crespi (6-2), who started last year; Chris Walker (6-1) and Steve Loud (6-2).

Promising sophomores are Robbie Kane (5-7), who started the last four games a year ago and compiled impressive statistics, Mike Kavanaugh (6-1), Noel DiBona (5-8) and Matt Dwyer (5-9).

Kane, Kavanaugh and DiBona played regularly and played key roles in the Quincy football team's best season in 20 years.

"Virtually all of our players played summer ball and gained a lot of experience," said the Quincy coach. "We will have good depth and anyone of our 12 players can go in there and not weaken us. We will use a pressing defense and make the opponents work all the harder. Crespi is an experienced guard and Kavanaugh, DiBona and Dwyer will make us strong in the backcourt. The boys are working very hard and are anxious to make up for last year's frustrating season."

Quincy will open its first Old Colony League season next Tuesday, Dec. 11, at home against Falmouth. The Presidents will host Bridgewater-Raynham Friday, Dec. 14.

The regular season will end with the annual Quincy Invitational Tournament with Quincy facing Stoughton, Revere and Dom Savio. The tourney will be held Wednesday, Feb. 20, and Thursday, Feb. 21.

Ray Papile is back as junior varsity coach and Mike Dracchio has returned as freshman skipper.

QUINCY'S BASKETBALL TRI-CAPTAINS, Ralph Bevilacqua, E.J. Nordstrom and Mike Norton.

Despite Only 2 Returning Starters Stevenson Optimistic At North Quincy

Last season the North Quincy boys' basketball team missed making the Eastern Mass. tournament by two games (10-10) and five of the Raiders' defeats were by a total of 13 points.

"It was tough missing the tourney with so many close losses," said coach Ted Stevenson. "We lost three of our first four games, two by two points and one by three. We finished up strong and won our last two over B. C. High (knocking the Eagles out of the tournament) and Boston Latin."

Stevenson suffered a severe loss when Desmond Bellott, an outstanding all-around player last year, broke his leg during the football season and probably will be sidelined for the entire season.

"Desmond will really be missed," Stevenson said. "He was our quickest player and the other teams concentrated on keeping him from driving toward the hoop and that opened the way for our other players. But, despite his loss, I feel we will be very competitive and I expect a fine season."

The only returning starters are Capt. Brian Curran (6-3) and sophomore Sean Donovan (6-0), who played regularly as a freshman and was a fine scorer.

Junior varsity graduates who will carry much of the load are Scott Dunn (5-10), Evan Kiley (6-2), Chris Ballum (5-11), Jason Buckley (5-8), John Chau (5-8) and Denny MacLean (5-10).

Promising newcomers are Tim Ross (6-4), Chris Olsen (6-2), Matt Flynn (5-10) and Mark Taylor (6-2), the outstanding quarterback on the football team who played last year at Braintree High.

"Curran and Donovan will carry the offensive load while Taylor, Buckley and Flynn will key the back court."

"We will have lots of depth this year and I can use any one of our 12 players without weakening the team," Stevenson said. "We face a tough start with four of our first five games on the road and if we can come out of those games all right, we should have a fine season."

The Raiders will open the season Friday, Dec. 14 at Boston Latin and the first league game will be Tuesday, Dec. 18 at Plymouth. Quincy was due to open against Weymouth but the Maroons had to fulfill a commitment with Duffee and that game will be Feb. 19 between the first round and finals of the annual Red Raider Tournament on Feb. 18 and 20. North will face Fitchburg, B.C. High and Brookline.

Fitchburg is coached by former North Quincy great Doug Grutchfield who, like Stevenson, is a member of the North Basketball Hall of Fame. B.C. High is coached by Quincy's Brian Buckley.

Ged Phelan is back as junior varsity coach and North has a new freshman skipper in Jim Johnston, former soccer coach at Eastern Nazarene College. He has done coaching in the Quincy youth leagues. Gus DeBoer will continue as a volunteer assistant. "Gus does an awful lot of work and is a big help to me," Stevenson said.

10 Inducted Into Quincy-North Football Hall Of Fame

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Morrisette Legion Post hall was jammed to capacity for the seventh annual Quincy / North Quincy Football of Fame induction dinner at which 10 more inductees -- five from each school -- were added to the Hall of Fame.

Quincy Coach Jack Raymer and North Coach Ken McPhee were the masters of ceremonies and McPhee introduced Fr. Cornelius Heery, pastor of Sacred Heart Church and North team chaplain, who called upon Fr. Brian Parish of St. Mary's to give the invocation.

The Hall of Fame officers were introduced, retiring president Lionel 'Shine' Buckley, secretary Tom Kiley and treasurer Nick Malvesti.

Also introduced was incoming president Jim Colclough, former Quincy, Boston College and Patriots standout.

Among those recognized were North Quincy Boosters Club president Wayne McCulley and Frank Osborne, longtime president of the Quincy Fathers Club, which disbanded and was succeeded by the present Quincy Parents Club.

The following former North Quincy players were inducted:

Bill Phinney - Captain of the 1937 team, a South Shore all-star, former teacher, principal and assistant supt. of schools. He was a bomber pilot in World War II. Bill scored the only touchdown of the game in North's 6-0 win over Quincy in 1936.

He paid tribute to his coaches, the late Jack Donahue and John Mul-larkey and LaRoy 'Curley' Rogers. "I would have been nothing without these fine coaches, and I'm happy to see Curley Rogers here tonight," he said.

Ron Wray - played from 1948 to 1950 and he tackled Quincy's Aldo Lombardi in the end zone for a safety which proved the winning margin in North's 8-6 win in 1948. Received a full scholarship to Brown University but transferred to Northeastern where he played both ways. Was co-captain of football at North and received the outstanding scholar-athlete award from the Alumni Association.

Ed Venna - Played from 1965-67, was a two-way player at tackle, played in three North-Quincy games and, following a year at Deerfield Academy, played for three years at Harvard and played in three Harvard-Yale games. Was a Patriot Ledger, Herald and Globe all-scholastic. Graduated from Suffolk Law School.

Carl Leone III - His induction marked the first time a father and son have been inducted. His father, Carl, former Quincy star, North Quincy coach and Quincy athletic director, was inducted in 1984.

He was a fine quarterback and outstanding passer, attended Tufts University but transferred to Northeastern. A highlight of the evening was the presentation of his plaque by his father.

The following former Quincy players were inducted:

John Menz - Played from 1934-36, also played baseball and basketball. Was co-captain of Quincy baseball team, played for Wollaston Legion, and played in the South Shore League for many years. Attended William and Mary College on a scholarship. Won five medals in World War II.

Lou Marini - Played from 1943-45, scored winning touchdown against North Quincy in 1943 on a 72-yard run. Played in three Quincy-North games, was a Patriot Ledger all-scholastic and played three sports, earning eight letters. Signed a pro baseball contract with the Dodgers and played with Don Zimmer, Chicago Cubs manager and former Red Sox manager.

Jim Russo - Played from 1953-55, scored only Quincy touchdown in 20-7 loss to North in 1953 and two touchdowns in Quincy's 18-0 win in 1954. Played football at Northeastern University.

Paul Picarski - Played from 1967-69, was named team's MVP, was a Ledger, Herald and Globe all-scholastic, scored a touchdown in Quincy's 53-0 win over North in 1969, the most one-sided game in the series history. Was named all-New England at Milton Academy and was a starter for three years at Holy Cross. His brother John was inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1988.

Preston Carroll - Played from 1972-74, scored all Quincy points in 14-13 win over North in 1974, was Ledger and Globe all-scholastic, he starred in the Harry Agannis game. Also an outstanding baseball player, played for two years at Northeastern and signed a pro contract with the Philadelphia Phillies.

Special awards for their support of Quincy and North sports were given to Jerry Perfeto, president of the Quincy Parents Club; Dan McPhee, who has been active in all North Quincy sports for many years, and Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun.

The Quincy and North coaches and senior players were guests. McPhee introduced his assistants, Tom Carter and Peter Chrisom and cameraman Chris Dolan. Assistants Pete Zoia, who was ill, Kevin Kelly, Earl Metzler and Dean Zoia were unable to attend.

He introduced his senior players, Don Anderson, Rich Brooks, Derek Colon-tonio, Pat Faherty, Mike Herman, Chris Melchin, Mike Murray, Mike

Raymer introduced his assistants, Bob Noble, Bob Keuther, Bill Shaughnessy and Jack Green.

He also introduced his senior players, Mark Bogan, Bill Reardon, Mike Flavin, Mike Tempesta, Graham Chevry, Scott Buckmann, David Frye, Dave Chapman, Pat Neil, John O'Connor, Bob Crespi, Shawn Kennedy, Dan Thackeray, Ray Byrne, John Fahey, Colin Kelly and Dave Chevry.

Many former Hall of Fame inductees attended the annual ceremonies.

Best Season Ever

North Girls Tie For Old Colony Title

The North Quincy girls' cross country team finished its best season ever under coach Jeff Hennessy, tying Silver Lake for the Old Colony League title, winning the conference championship meet easily and finishing a respectable seventh in the state Division 2 championships at Franklin Park, just missing an all-state berth.

Both North and Silver Lake finished with 7-1 records. However, after the Silver Lake loss, Weymouth, whom the Raiders had beaten with little difficulty, scored a stunning upset, knocking the Lakers from the ranks of the unbeaten. Silver Lake also lost to New Bedford of the Big Three Conference to finish at 7-2 overall.

At the conference meet at Wompatuck Park in Hingham, the North girls won by 15 points over the Lakers, 51-66, with Weymouth close behind with 68 points.

As usual, North's Suzanne Lewis was the top runner, finishing fifth with Jenn Flynn a close seventh, Annmarie Montgomery 12th, Sonia Olmedo, a freshman, 13th and Julie Tangney 14th. Other varsity runners for North were freshmen Melanie Gaziano 19th and Laurie Connolly 21st.

24th, Montgomery 41st, Tangney 45th, Gaziano 80th, Olmedo 94th and Connolly 97th.

North's 208 points

Cross Country

Hennessy was pleased with the performance of his young and inexperienced squad. "When we lost to Silver Lake early in the season, we knew that they capitalized on our youth, but we also knew we would improve a lot by the conference meet and that we would be ready," he said. "They obviously wanted this meet badly and it was a big win for us. Six of our seven varsity runners had never run cross country before."

"Silver Lake's runners all had a year or two under their belts. No one at the meet was ready to predict Olmedo's performance. She was running nine minutes a mile at the beginning of the season."

North also made a fine showing at the Eastern Mass. Division 2 meet in a driving rainstorm. Lewis finished 13th to qualify individually for the all-state meet, with Flynn marked its best performance in years. "The mud and the fact that we ran so hard at the conference meet only five days before affected our kids," Hennessy said. "But we weren't disappointed. This division was by far the most competitive."

Lewis advanced to the all-state championships at Northfield Mountain Ski Track. The 3.1-mile hilly course proved to be a factor for many runners and several had trouble in the later stages of the race, but Lewis, running conservatively early on, and remembering last year's all-state where she tripped and finished 78th, finished a strong 23rd, the second best finisher of all runners from the Old Colony league. Only league champion Kristen Bamarsh of Weymouth (14th) finished ahead of her.

"It was a nice finish to a great season," Hennessy concluded.

QHS Hockey Hall Of Fame Meeting

Nick Malvesti, George Peachey, Russ Erikson, Frank Libertini, Pete Condos, Al staples, Mike Casali, Don Salvucci, Dave Wong, John Zanar-delli, Frank LaPierre, Ted Ahola, Bob Carroll, Russell D. Erikson, Jack Crowley, Pete Erikson, Kevin Lewis, Chuck Condos, Harry Bertoni, Frank guest, Dennis Bertoni, Brian Bertoni, Steve Marini, Ralph Younie and Ted Houghton.

Quincy Squirt Bs Runs Win Streak To 10

Quincy's Squirt B hockey team, sponsored by Quincy Cable, is still unbeaten in the Greater Boston League with a 6-0 record and is 10-0 overall.

The team defeated Westwood, 4-0, with Mike Fitzpatrick scoring twice and Billy Norris and Shawn Manning once each. Robert Hall, Dennis Allen, Mark Glynn and Fitzpatrick had assists.

Quincy also rolled over Wellesley, 16-0, as Fitzpatrick had a hat trick, Allen, Pat McGann and Manning two goals apiece and Pat Coughlin, Matt Allen, Mark Foster, Glen Chase, Mike Powers, Bobby Harvey and Hall one each.

Hall had three assists, Jonathan Haddad, Danny Murphy, Mark Hawes, Foster, Coughlin, Glynn, Dennis Allen, Harvey and Matt Allen two each and Powers, Manning and Fitzpatrick one apiece.

Quincy Mite Bs Remain Undefeated

Quincy's Mite B hockey team remains undefeated in the Greater Boston League after a 4-2 decision over Westwood.

Nick Pizziferri had two goals and an assist and Matt O'Connell and Dedier Alther a goal each. Alther also had two assists. Sean Haidul had three assists. Tom Sullivan and Chris Cullen played strong defense.

In earlier games the Mite B's defeated Wellesley, 9-0, and Westwood, 2-12.

Chris Cullen, Dedier Alther and Mike Sullivan had two goals each against Wellesley and Matt O'Connell, Sean Haidul and Jamie Parisi one apiece. Haidul had two assists and Ryan Murray, O'Connell, John Sullivan and Cullen one each. Goalie Jeff Langille recorded his second shutout of the young season.

In the Westwood game Jeff Brophy and Haidul scored the goals and Steve Goff, Parisi, Nick Pizziferri and O'Connell had assists.

Bay State Auto continued to roll in the South Shore Hockey Association as it edged the Gold team, 3-2.

Harry Riely, Tom Chisholm and Eddie Faberty scored for Bay State, Faberty scoring the winning goal with two minutes left

Braintree Choral Society Christmas Concert At Point Congregational Dec. 9

The Christmas concert of the Braintree Choral Society will be presented Sunday, Dec. 9 at 7 p.m. in Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St.

Steven Young is conductor, and Timothy Hughes will be guest organist. Accompaniment will be by organ and four strings.

"Alleluia Through the Ages" is the theme of the program, featuring compositions of the baroque, romantic, classical and contemporary periods.

Masterpieces of choral literature will include: "For Us a Child is Born" (Cantata No. 142, J. S. Bach); "Alleluia" from the Christmas Oratorio (Camille Saint-Saens); Cantique de Jean Racine (Gabriel Faure); "Hallelujah, Amen" (Judas Maccaheus) G. F. Handel; Sussex Carol, (arr. Philip Ledger); "Alleluia" (Randall Thompson); "Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming" (The Christmas Story) Hugo Distler; "Where is the Newborn King?" (from a Cantata by Andreas Hammerschmidt); "Alleluia" (Robert Mucaynski); "Blow, Blow, Thou Winter Wind" (John Rutter); "Alleluia" (Veni Sancte Spiritus, K. 47) Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart; and "In the Bleak Mid-Winter" (Gustav Holst).

Members of a small ensemble will be Ione Lockwood, Ann Wolfe, and Sandra McManus.

For further information call 843-2754 or 843-1880. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the Choral Society. Price is $5 for adults and $4 for senior citizens. Tickets will also be available at the door on the day of the concert.

Presidents String Quartet Christmas Pops Concert Dec. 15

The City of Presidents String Quartet will present its annual Christmas Pops concert, "Christmas in Quincy, Then and Now," Saturday, Dec. 15, 7:30 p.m., at St. Chrysostom's Church, 523

Hancock St.

The program will include works of Sammartini, Johann Strauss, Benjamin Franklin, and Leroy Anderson. Also featured will be the Feeley Sisters, an Andrews Sisters-style vocal trio who will present popular holiday music.

Admission is $4. Tickets may be bought at the door or be reserved by calling 786-9637.

ENC To Present 'Poetry In Motion'

The Eastern Nazarene College Communications Department will present an original production of "Poetry In Motion," creative interpretation of children's poetry, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Dec. 6-8 at 7 p.m. at Cove Fine Arts Center, 23 East Elm Ave., Wollaston.

Directed by ENC alumna Eunice Ferreira, the 10-member actor ensemble will bring to life the lunacy of verse in well-loved poems ranging from the nonsense to narrative. Highlights include the delightful "Green Eggs and Ham" by Dr. Seuss, the seemingly incomprehensible "The Jabberwocky" by Lewis Carroll, the nostalgic "Casey at the Bat" by Ernest Lawrence Thayer, and a selection of contemporary poems by Shel Silverstein, author of A Light In The Attic and Where The Sidewalk Ends.

Actors recapture the art and essence of storytelling through developed improvisation based on imagery, metaphors, alliteration and the inherent musical quality of poetry. Unsuspecting audience members, both young and old, will find themselves drawn into a whirlwind of action as they join the cast in this fantastic adventure.

All seats are $4. For more information, call 773-6350 ext. 262 or 269.

Beechwood Faculty Member To Perform At Conservatory

Jazz flutist Hiroaki Honshuku, a new member of the flute faculty at Beechwood Music School, will perform and conduct original works Wednesday, Dec. 5 at 8 p.m. at New England Conservatory's Jordan Hall. The concert is free and open to the public.

A member also of the New England Conservatory Faculty, Honshuku will conduct the A-NO-NE Big Band with George Garzone, special guest. A faculty member at Beechwood since September, Honshuku holds degrees from New England Conservatory and Berklee College of Music.

He will present a concert at Beechwood as part of the Quincy Multi-Cultural Festival Month April 14 - May 11, 1991.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Someone once said, "Blessed is the man who has the gift of making friends, for it is one of God's best gifts. It involves many things, but above all the power of going out of one's self, and seeing and appreciating whatever is noble and loving in another man."

An Anonymous Writer puts it this way: "Life is sweet because of the friends we have made ... And the things which in common we share: We want to live on not because of ourselves ... but because of the ones who would care ... It's the living and doing for somebody else ... On that all of life's splendor depends ... And the joy of it all, when we count it all up ... is found in the making of friends."

The best way to have friends is to be one. "If you see a friend slipping away from you," wrote David Grayson, "Stop whatever you are doing and bring him back, for friendship is one thing you cannot afford to be without."

Yes, friendship must be a two way street ... Think about it!

Over the past several years, students at Broad Meadows Middle School have been active in human rights education. They have spoken out on behalf of those oppressed on many occasions from the local and regional levels.

Their efforts reached a higher plateau on Monday, Nov. 26 when they appeared on a 30-minute KIDS-TV episode on freedom aired by Showtime.

The program was scheduled to be repeated today (Thursday) and Friday at 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. on Showtime.

KIDS-TV is a new children's show, aimed at elementary school age children. It uses the familiar characters of The Weekly Reader, to introduce young viewers to serious issues such as the environment, homelessness, AIDS and freedom.

Puppets explain the issue, then real life example of young people who are doing something positive and meaningful about the issue is presented.

The producers of the freedom episode contacted Amnesty International USA headquarters in Washington, D.C. in hopes of locating younger students who are human rights activists. The office recommended students at Broad Meadows.

Sixth, seventh and eighth graders led a letter writing campaign in which New England area students wrote letters on behalf of an 18-year-old Yugoslavian high school student imprisoned for non-violent demonstrations in favor of bi-lingual education at her school.

The Broad Meadows students appeared on the Boston produced RTG children's show on WHDH-Channel 7 a half dozen times to appeal to viewers to write letters to the President of Yugoslavia requesting that the student, Nafije Zendeli, be released from her four year prison term.

More than 3,000 letters were collected and carried to the Yugoslavian Embassy in Washington by the BM students and RTG cast.

In Washington, eighth graders Julie Lai and Shari Brennan were informed by Sen. John Kerry that his office, which had been assisting the students, had learned that morning that Nafije had been freed.

The freedom episode included a mini-documentary about the kids' campaign for Nafije's freedom.

Broad Meadows teacher and human rights advisor Ron Adams said that although the students in the Kids Campaign know they are too young to vote and too young to get a driver's license, they are not too young to get up, stand up, and raise their collective voices for the rights of those oppressed.

Other school human rights projects have included the presentation of their freedom letter campaign at the national convention of Amnesty International held at Boston University last June; helping to give a sermon at St. George's Albanian Orthodox Church in Boston to Nafije Zendeli's fellow countrymen; working with Senators Paul Harold and Bill Golden to co-write a letter requesting that other students imprisoned for similar non-violent expressions of opinion be freed also. Forty-eight Massachusetts legislators co-signed the letter.

A series of local projects have begun to defend the human rights of Massachusetts citizens who are homeless or scapegoats. Students have hung yellow ribbons from the school to remind the neighborhood of the hostages in Kuwait.

The have also written letters to Saddam Hussein and the Iraqi Ambassador in Washington. Students have discussed positive as well as negative, hypocritical behaviors of some of the students at the school.

Presently, students are decorating spoons to donate to the Project Bread Spoon-a-thon which will raise money for community agencies which assist the homeless, hungry and DOVE, a Quincy shelter for abused wives.

Video Camera Security For Lincoln-Hancock School

The Lincoln - Hancock School will be getting a new security system.

The City Council voted to appropriate $2,300 for the system which will provide a video camera to monitor visitors to the school. A monitor will be located in the pool area and in the principal's offices.

People who use the swimming pool also have access to the school, which is an area of concern for parents. The new system will allow school officials to control access in either direction.

Father 'Pickets' Fore River Bridge For Safety Modifications

Since the accident, no state engineer has inspected the bridge, he said. He also said the DPW does not clean the grating from oil and other automotive substances which Smith says is a safety hazard.

"Rubber on steel slides like crazy," Smith said, "but when you put oil on top of steel and rubber on top of the oil and steel, and what have you got. You got a sheet of ice and you are a sheet of ice."

"Ice on ice is like a bullet," Smith said.

Although in declining health, Smith said he is determined to continue his bridge picketing until the modifications which he has outlined are implemented.

In the last five years, he has undergone five or six operations and has suffered several heart attacks. A diabetic, he is now blind in one eye and had part of his left foot amputated because of infection brought on by the disease.

Scheduled for an eye operation last week, he cancelled in order to maintain his bridge vigil.

"I'm not going to do

ANOTHER SAFETY MODIFICATION Joseph Smith wants implemented is the filling in of the steel grating along the top portion of the Fore River Bridge. The filled grating would give motorists more traction and less chance of skidding, Smith asserts.

nothing until I win this fight. And I don't care if I die. I'm not going to stop, not matter what it costs me.

"With my health the way it is, if I buy another five years, I'm a lucky stiff and I know it and I ain't no fool. But if I have to, I'll take every day of those five years and I'll stand at that bridge.

"And hopefully, when it's my time to go, if they haven't done anything by then, that I'll drop dead on that bridge and then maybe that'll wake 'em up."

"I ain't afraid to die," he says, his voice growing stronger. "I look forward to it because I want to be with my son.

"Every one of us would love to have the kind of relationship Roger and I had. I only had it for 16 years but there's a lot of fathers that didn't have it for five minutes," he adds, fighting back a tear.

Board Fails To Agree On Chicken Restaurant License

By JANE ARENA

After some discussion, the License Board Tuesday tabled the issue of the request for a common victualer license for Boston Chicken at 164 Parkway.

One motion was made, by Building Commissioner Matthias Mulvey, in favor of granting the license and a motion against the proposal was made by Health Commissioner M. Jane Gallahue. Neither motion was seconded and the issue was tabled to be taken up again at the next meeting of the board Dec. 11.

The rotisserie-style chicken restaurant, which would be managed by Martin Kelly and Lawrence Corbeil, has been before the board on several occasions.

On Nov. 13 the board continued the matter so that members could visit franchise operations in Boston, Brookline and Randolph.

Atty. Richard Barry, representing the applicants, told the board the proposal complies with all city requirements and is not in need of a variance for occupancy or parking.

The restaurant is proposed for the former U.S. Trust Bank building across from Bed and Bath, a building which may be torn down if a project for congregate housing is approved by the city. The building is owned by the O'Connell company of Quincy who have indicated support for the restaurant as an interim use for the empty building.

Atty. Barry told the board his clients are prepared for a "transition" if the housing development is approved and added the restaurant may be able to re-locate in the proposed commercial section of the development.

The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association has met with the applicants and is in support of the license.

However, Mayor James Sheets has indicated opposition based not on the concept of the restaurant, but because he feels it does not fit with his vision for the redevelopment of Quincy Square.

Atty. Barry said he "understands the Mayor's reservations," but added that the proposal is for a concept which is entirely new to the city.

The establishment would cater mainly to the "take home crowd," Barry said, but would not attract kids and would not be a fast food restaurant.

Mulvey said a bank could ask to open in the building and there would be nothing the license board could do. In the meantime, he said, the city is losing revenue by keeping the building empty. Mulvey made a motion to grant the request but it was not seconded by another board member.

Board members said they do not object to the concept of the restaurant some had reservations.

Gallahue said dumpsters in the area have long been a serious problem for the Health Department, especially since the department was cut down to only three inspectors.

She said she would not vote in favor of any Common Victualer license for the Square unless the pending litter ticketing ordinance is passed by the City Council.

Barry said his client would agree to any dumpster regulations imposed by the Health Department and agreed to keep the dumpster closed at all times.

"Closed dumpsters, open dumpsters, it doesn't matter to us," Gallahue said, "there are still constant complaints...this has been a personal frustration with the Health Department."

Gallahue's motion to deny the license request was not seconded and the board was left to table the matter until next week.

DEANNA ARNOLD
No. 28
6 Months

$3,972 Raised For Baby No. 28 the Winner!!

By JANE ARENA
The votes are in! Baby number 28, Deanna M. Arnold, was the top winner in the Quincy Sun's Beautiful Baby Photo Contest to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association.
Deanna, six-month old daughter of Charlene and Robert Arnold of Quincy, won with an unsurpassed 775 votes, which is actually $775 donated to MDA in her name.
There were 3,972 votes cast for the 96 babies entered in the contest. That's $3,972 raised to benefit MDA.
As the top winner, Deanna will receive a $50 savings bond from The Quincy Sun, a gift certificate for a free sitting

The first runner-up was seven-month old Amanda Shea Ridlen, (No. 46), daughter of James and Susan Ridlen of Brighton.
Amanda garnered 173 votes, or $173 for MDA.
Along with the award certificate and alphabet poster,

Amanda will receive a $20 gift certificate from Musical Memories.
Second runner-up was Nadine Sinno, five-month old daughter of Anne and Jamal Sinno of Mansfield. Nadine's photo was entered into the contest by her grandmother, Jean Doran of Quincy.
Nadine, (No. 48 in the contest), had 141 votes, representing $141 in donations to MDA.
She will receive a $10 gift certificate to Roseanne's Craft Store as well as the MDA award certificate and alphabet poster.

CAN YOU LEND me a hand?--A raccoon appears to be stuck as it makes its way up a third floor walk-up apartment porch on Sumner St. in Quincy. Diane Catrambone, a photography student at Quincy College, found the raccoon on her porch one recent morning and snapped this photo. Since there are no trees near the building, the animal likely used the stairs or climbed up the support beams, probably in search of food.

Through Christmas Eve Free Parking At Metered Spaces Begins Saturday

By ROBERT BOSWORTH
The city has an early Christmas present which should bring a smile to Quincy shoppers and business people: free parking at metered spaces.
On Tuesday, Mayor James A. Sheets announced the city will allow free parking at metered spaces in Quincy Center, Wollaston and North Quincy from Saturday, Dec. 15 through Christmas Eve, Dec. 24.
The city's holiday spirit, however, will not extend to motorists who park at fire hydrants and crosswalks. Those who do, the mayor said, will get tagged.
In addition, the free-parking will not be available at the Ross and Hancock parking areas since those lots are under contract.
The mayor said the free-parking at meters is intended to help merchants and shoppers during the holiday rush. He also said it will help him determine what impact the lack of meters has on business.
Sheets is considering eliminating the parking meters in Downtown Quincy. "This will help us evaluate that idea," he said.
The mayor, who said the meters are "inhibiting" to shopping, said removing the meters pose two problems: how to recover lost revenue and how to prevent all-day parkers.

Traffic Concerns Over West Quincy Project

By STEVE KAVANAGH
The battle lines have been drawn on a proposed 122,000 square foot Home Depot USA store on Willard St., West Quincy.
About 150 people packed the city council chamber Monday for a public hearing concerning a Planned Unit Development special permit for Home Depot USA. The Atlanta-based company wants to build a 102,000 square foot, single-story home improvement retail store, 20,000 square foot garden center, and parking lot for 600 cars on the site of the Antonelli Iron Works.
It is estimated that Home Depot would employ about 200 people, mostly full-time, and would generate needed tax revenue for the city. The South Shore Chamber of Commerce has endorsed the project.
Traffic was the major topic of discussion as residents and area business owners said they fear a

22 Quincy Residents On IRS Refund List

Twenty-two Quincy residents are among some 1,568 Massachusetts citizens who are entitled to more than $1 million from the Internal Revenue Service.
The IRS Boston district has federal tax money totaling $1,075,377 in undeliverable refunds ranging from $1 to $52,068, according to District Director Gerard Esposito.
Near the end of each year, the IRS tries to locate taxpayers whose refund checks were returned as undeliverable. Checks are returned for one of these reasons: the taxpayer moves; changes his or her last name during the year and fails to notify the IRS; or the taxpayers' handwriting may have been misread.
Quincy residents on the list are:
Michael C. Dooley, Rony Gedeon, Carol A. Godfrey, Elaine Gormeny, Nissan H. Nissan, Dana A. Olson, Patricia L. Berry, George K. Bezanson, Jennifer C. Shaw, John P. and Doris E. Chippendale, Jian Ming Hu, Donna M. Correia, Mark S. Kuzia, James H. Matera, Mark O'Brien, William Fernandes, Deirdre E. Doherty, Elaine J. Swalnick, Brian Lomasney, Thien Bui and Makoto Hamada.
One way to avoid misdirected refund checks is to use the peel-off label in the tax package, Esposito said. Any name or address correction should be made on the label itself.
To minimize the possibility of tax refunds going astray, taxpayers should consider filing their tax returns electronically, Esposito said.
Anyone listed or believes they are due a federal refund this or within the last three years' tax return should call the IRS toll-free at 1-800-TAX-1040.

First Half 1991 Real Estate Tax Bills Due

Reminder notices, have been sent to taxpayers who have not paid the first half 1991 real estate tax bills in full, announces Quincy Tax Collector Dana Childs.
First half bills were mailed Sept. 26 and were due Nov. 1. All late payments will be charge interest 14 percent per annum computed from Oct. 1, 1990.
Childs reminds taxpayers that payments must be received by Dec. 31 to be a legal deduction on 1990 federal tax returns.

QUINCY RESIDENTS John McDuff, left, and Larry Rosenberg, hold signs declaring their opposition to war in the Persian Gulf during a two-hour rally on McIntyre Mall Saturday.

100 Marchers Call For Peaceful Mideast Solution

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Carrying large signs bearing such messages as "Stop The War Before It Starts," "No War For Oil," and "Congress Stand Firm," some 100 anti-war demonstrators marched outside the James R. McIntyre Government Center (Old City Hall) Saturday.

As a light, steady rain fell, residents from Quincy and throughout the South Shore appealed to President George Bush and Congress to give the economic sanctions imposed by the United States against Iraq a chance to work and resolve the crisis in the Persian Gulf.

Demonstrators, ranging from youngsters to senior citizens, urged a diplomatic solution to the crisis instead of a military confrontation. Some passing motorists honked their horns in support of the rally.

John McDuff of Quincy, chairman of the Ward 2 Republican Committee, said, "While I would fight to defend our country, and I believe that is the ideal of patriotism, I don't think we ought to be shedding blood for the benefits and financial interests of oil merchants, arms dealers and international bankers."

Larry Rosenberg, also of Quincy, added, "I just believe that war and the killing of people is a sin to man and a sin to God. Hopefully, everything will be over soon and nobody gets hurt."

Davis Sias of Quincy, a combat veteran of the Vietnam War and coordinator of the students-veterans union at UMass

Boston, said, "I know that there's no sense to war whatsoever, having been through one myself. I feel that before anybody jumps to such a situation that they should talk things out first."

Jack Buckley, a Quincy school teacher, joined with other demonstrators in calling for an international peace conference to solve the crisis.

"The crisis and the questions in the Mid-East are far too complex to be solved with the simplistic solution of war. With the Syrians in Lebanon, with the absence of addressing the Palestinian rights and with the Iraqis in Kuwait, many questions, disarmament, arms proliferation can't be settled with the simple solution of war."

"It means comprehensive and complex negotiations sponsored by the United Nations," Buckley said.

Sue Koritz, president of the Community Church of Boston, said she fears the escalation of American troops in the Persian Gulf will lead to another Vietnam War.

Asked what type of action she prefers the president take, Koritz replied, "I certainly think there is plenty of time to have negotiations remain on the agenda and there shouldn't be a further increase in the number of our boys being shipped over there."

Many of the demonstrators wrote postcards addressed to the president. A petition entitled "A Citizen's Call to Congress--Go Back and Stop the War," was circulated during the two-hour rally.

The petition noted that the Pentagon estimates there would be 20,000 U.S. casualties initially if war breaks out.

"Many thousands more Arabs would be killed. Chemical weapons could be used. Perhaps even nuclear weapons. The entire Middle East could be engulfed in war for years."

"The entire world could suffer the devastating economic consequences," the petition states.

Noting that under the Constitution, Congress, and not the President, has the power to declare war, the petition also called for congressmen to return to Washington immediately, to hold hearings and conduct a thorough debate, and stop President Bush from starting a war in the Persian Gulf.

Recycling Could Save City $315,000

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

With the city's financial crunch likely to continue into the next fiscal year, Quincy's recycling program could help the city maintain its level of school, police and fire services.

On Tuesday, Mayor James A. Sheets said the program is on a pace to save $315,000, far ahead of the $250,000 goal set by city officials when the expanded program began last August.

During the program's first 19 weeks through Dec. 7, the city has collected 2,356 tons for a net savings of $93,000.

For every ton of waste taken out of the waste stream, the city saves $74. During the first 19 weeks, Quincy saved $174,344 in disposal costs.

However, the city pays Browning Ferris Industries $4,788 per week to collect paper, plastics and glass from blue bins on the curb. The city's actual or net savings is realized after the BFI payment is subtracted from the savings brought on by the tonnage collected.

If the city continues its net savings of $4,898 per week over the remaining 29 weeks of FY 91, Quincy will save an additional $142,000.

Added to the already saved $93,000, the recycling program will spare the city $235,000 in waste disposal costs.

The city stands a good chance of exceeding $300,000 in savings since the leaf collection program fared well this fall.

During the eight-week program, 1,468 tons of leaves were collected for a savings of $80,000, the mayor said.

The leaves were brought to an area behind the Public Works garage on Sea St. where they will turn to compost.

Sheets, who has begun planning the city's FY 92 budget, said money saved by recycling is not earmarked. Instead, he said most of the savings will likely go toward the school, fire and police departments since the three departments represent 81 percent of the discretionary budget.

"At least 81 percent of the savings will help us maintain our level of police, fire and schools," he said.

The mayor said projections show that some accounts will be deficient by the end of FY 91 next June. He noted Tax Collector Dana Childs is projecting $3.1 million in delinquent taxes, $1.6 million more than estimated when the budget was formulated last spring.

Sheets said there appears to be more delinquency this year because larger companies are going bankrupt. He also said the number of tax delinquents is increasing in residential, business and commercial categories.

"To offset (deficiencies), you have to reduce the budget. (Recycling) is one area where you can reduce the budget," he added.

Sheets attributed the program's success to residents who are participating and the city's recycling committee which has been responsible for promoting it. He singled out Public Works Commissioner David Colton, Planner Michael Wheelwright and Chairman Lawrence Chretien for their efforts in helping the city attain a participation rate of 70 to 80 percent.

The mayor noted the participation rate is higher than many cities of similar size. He said it's an "extraordinary accomplishment" since the city's program is voluntary and not mandated like other communities.

"The real credit goes to the people. In the final analysis, it's the people who get the credit because they put the blue bins out," he said.

TWELVE LARGE HOLIDAY greeting cards signed by an estimated 10,000 people were mailed Monday to the U.S. troops participating in Operation Desert Shield in the Persian Gulf. The cards, displayed by members of the Quincy Christmas Festival Committee, were signed during the recent Quincy Christmas Parade. The were also displayed in the lobby of City Hall. Holding the cards are, from top, Tony Siciliano, Brian Carter, Joseph Pearson, Mary Blood, Bob Noble, Gloria Noble, Agnes Trilcott, Mayor James Sheets and Chairman George White.

Meeting On Energy Plant Proposal Jan. 16

An informational meeting regarding the proposed energy generating plant at the site of the former Edgar Power Station in Weymouth near the Quincy line will be held Wednesday, Jan. 16 at 7:30 p.m. at the Broad Meadows Middle School auditorium.

Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson, who organized the meeting, said representatives from Massachusetts Electric Company will make a presentation on the proposed project.

Among the issues expected to be discussed are the station's effects on health and ecology in the area.

A question and answer period is also planned.

Open House At Mayor's Office Next Week

Residents who want to meet Mayor James A. Sheets in his office will have their chance next week.

Sheets will hold an Open House in his third floor office in New City Hall Wednesday, Dec. 19 through Friday, Dec. 21 from 2 to 8 p.m.

The mayor invites residents to visit him and his staff and have a cup of coffee and refreshments during those hours. Food and drink will be paid for privately.

Residents can bring their children and discuss with the city's chief executive issues of concern or other topics.

Sheets said some of his family members might join him during the Open House.

THE FACTS ABOUT AIDS

Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome is the most lethal of the sexually transmitted diseases. AIDS is spread by a virus known to researchers as HTLV-III. The disease is characterized by a breakdown in the body's immune system, opening the door for other infections and diseases normally avoided. AIDS can attack both sexes and all ages. It is spread through exchange of bodily fluids. Sexual contact with an infected person is only one way to acquire the virus. Heroin addicts who share needles are also likely to become infected with the AIDS virus. Sadly, the virus can be passed from mother to child before birth, and an increasing number of AIDS babies are born each year. Avoiding AIDS means practicing "safe sex," wearing condoms, avoiding promiscuity, and avoiding the use of illicit drugs such as heroin. Some treatments are promising, but AIDS is still a fatal disease. P.S. The AIDS virus has an incubation period of several years, during which time the victim may be contagious but not sick.

If you feel you may be at risk for HIV positivity, you should consider confidential testing. Preventive health care in this day and age is dependent upon an informed individual, willing to take responsibility for their own well being. Quincy Operation Cheer

City Hall staffers are sending some Quincy holiday cheer to U.S. Military personnel in Saudi, Arabia and the Persian Gulf area.

It started with a Thanksgiving Day card Warren Sproul of the Data Processing Department decided to send overseas.

On his way to the mail box he stopped to ask others in City Hall if they would like to sign the card.

Cathy Ierardi, Dawn Spano, Jean Rudolph, Jean Barrett, Annmarie Kenney and Grace Tiro quickly did. The card was unique in that it was addressed to: "Any Soldier, Operation Desert Shield."

Sproul directed it to the 82nd Airborne whose address he was familiar with having served in that division himself.

Well, two or three weeks later back came a card addressed to City Hall Workers with this message:

"My name is Terry Cheeks. I'm in the 82nd ABN Div. here in Saudi Arabia. I was very happy to receive your card. I thought it was very warm and sincere."

"I would like to thank each and everyone of you who sent it. Best wishes for the holidays."

"Thank you, Dawn, Jean, Jeanne, Annmarie, Grace, Cathy & Warren."

"Sincerely, Jerry."

"P.S. Anyone of you can feel free to write and correspond. I think it would be very nice."

"P.S.S. Excuse the messy letter. It's kind of windy today."

Sproul has written a letter back and the others are planning to do so or to send Christmas cards.

That Thanksgiving Day card may be the start of something big.

Sproul has obtained the addresses of other Operation Desert Shield outfits and is running them off on computer labels. And he is distributing them to as many people as he can.

OLD FRIEND Ed Spargo of Wollaston was especially interested in the recent news story that Quincy-born author John Cheever's prized private papers had been placed in the archives at Harvard University.

Spargo has a prized Cheever paper of his own — a letter from the famed author.

Spargo sent a note to Cheever back in 1979 that said, in part:

"May I be so bold as to point out that you and I had much in common starting out in our disparate lives? For we both were born in Historic Quincy of parents with strong, God-fearing Episcopalian backgrounds and you and I attended Thayer Academy during Stacey B. Southworth's reign in the 20s ... and neither graduated. But, there the similarity ends, for one of us made good!"

Spargo says he was surprised and delighted when Cheever wrote a reply to him from Ossining, N.Y.:

"Dear Ed: It's always good to hear from the old home town and thank you for the Red Sox letter and your sensible health plan. We Quincyites do seem to be tough. I don't know what Ruth Gordon eats but I think those graveley clams we all had as children kept us handy. Sincerely, John Cheever."

PEDESTRIANS TRYING to cross Hancock St. at the end of Christmas Island (between The Sun and Photo Quick) not only have fast moving cars to deal with but also some motorists using the crosswalk as a turnout.

Cars heading north up Chestnut St. turn left to go south on Hancock St. Some cars going south on Hancock St. turn left to go north toward First Parish Church.

Hopefully this will stop when the crosswalk is marked or some pedestrian is going to be hurt.

PATRICIA RIDLEN, director of the Houghs Neck Community Center, was watching Jeopardy on TV the other night and found herself paying strict attention to one of the questions: "The First City That Had Two Presidents Buried There."

Two contestants struck out with New York and Boston. The third, who won over $10,000 answered "Braintree."

Host Alex Trubek started to say "wrong." But the officials ruled that either Braintree or Quincy is the correct answer.

And, of course, if you know your Quincy history you know why: When Presidents John and John Quincy Adams were born and when they died in what is now Quincy was then the north precinct of Braintree.

15,000 Flyers Distributed 'Evergreen Quincy' Taking Root

The city's "Evergreen Quincy" program is taking root and Honorary Chairman Leo Kelly said he hopes 1,000 new evergreen trees are planted throughout the city next spring.

Some 15,000 flyers detailing the program have been distributed to 14 tree lots in Quincy. Residents who purchase a live Christmas tree this season will receive a flyer asking them to participate in the program.

The program asks residents to swap their Christmas tree for a smaller living evergreen tree after the holidays. On weekdays from Dec. 26 through Jan. 11 and Saturday Dec. 29, Jan. 5 and Jan. 12 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., residents can bring their trees and leaflet to the city's Park and Recreation facility, 100 Southern Artery, next to Adams Field.

The trees will be mulched and used throughout the city.

In turn, those who bring trees to the park and recreation facility will receive a coupon entitling them to a live 18-inch "evergreen" next April.

Residents who do not celebrate Christmas or purchase a live Christmas tree can still participate in the program by bringing used gift wrapping paper to the facility, Kelly said.

Eugene Creedon, director of elementary and secondary education in Quincy, is helping to promote the program. Kelly noted Creedon is setting up programs in the schools for children which will allow students and their families who do not celebrate Christmas to participate.

Those who receive an evergreen will be asked to join in a week-long environmental celebration in April culminating in the planting of the trees.

Residents who do not have an area to plant a tree will be able to plant one in an area designated by the city.

Kelly, who noted the pilot program is the first of its kind in the state, said he hopes adults and children become more aware of the environment by participating.

"The essence of this program is the planting of the larger trees. It's a way that people can participate in the environment and for children to understand why trees are so important to the existence of life, such as cleaning the air and noise barriers," Kelly said.

"They will be learning this in the classrooms. It'll make them aware of other living things."

Kelly said his goal is for 1,000 evergreen plantings next spring. Program sponsor J.M. Cashman, Inc., will cover the cost of the 18-inch evergreens.

City Councillors Vote Selves First Raise In 30 Years

Members of the City Council voted to boost their salaries from $500 to $1,000 and give the Mayor a raise from $5,000 to $6,000 a year, effective Jan. 1, 1948.

Councillor Clifton H. Baker pointed out that it was the first raise for those offices in 30 years.

Dec. 13-19 1947

"It's about time the councillors received enough money to pay for their expenses," said Councillor Frank N. Orcutt.

"Our take home pay has been $8 a week and that hardly covers the tickets we are called upon to buy. This raise will just about cover our donations."

ARCHITECT RETAINED

Frank C. Hendry, executive secretary of the Quincy Housing Authority, announced that Boston architect Edward J. Shields had been retained to design a $400,000 veterans housing project in West Quincy.

The project, with four-room apartments that would rent for less than $50 a month, was to be built on land on West St. which was owned by Police Officer James J. Sullivan.

PEANUTS BANNED

The Licensing Board watched a demonstration of a new peanut vending machine, noted its possibilities for gambling and then ordered it banned from Quincy barrooms.

The customer put a penny in the slot and pulled a lever, activating a disc with six horses that continued spinning until one of the trusty steeds emerged the winner.

BETHLEHEM ASKS ABATEMENT

The Bethlehem Steel Co. was prepared to go to the State Appellate Tax Board seeking a $5 million reduction in the assessed valuation of its Fore River Shipyard for 1946.

The city stood to lose $150,000 in revenue if the abatement was obtained.

Red Auerbach-Celtics Clinic Tickets At Recreation Dept.

Recreation Director Barry Welch announces that the Quincy Recreation Department will be participating in the distribution of free tickets to The Red Auerbach Boston Celtic Players Clinic, to be conducted at the Boston Garden.

The event is sponsored by The Red Auerbach Fund and the Boston Foundation.

The free clinic will feature current Boston Celtic Players, their coaching staff and youth basketball players from greater Boston. It will be held Sunday, Jan. 6 at 4 p.m.

Any individuals or youth's organizations interested in obtaining tickets should contact the Quincy Recreation Department at 773-1380, ext. 204 to reserve tickets. Deadline will be Friday, Dec. 21. Tickets will be available for adults to accompany their children and family groups are encouraged to attend. Tickets must be obtained in advance and they will be limited. Participants must provide their own transportation.

Established to honor Red Auerbach, the fund was created by individuals and corporate philanthropic contributions. It is a permanent endowment to promote special athletic, recreational and youth development opportunities throughout Massachusetts.

In addition to the Celtic Players Clinic, the Fund supports two annual track meets, a basketball tournament and a tennis festival.

Welch praised The Auerbach fund and The Boston Foundation, "for their commitment to the youth in the community."

"This is an excellent opportunity to learn and enjoy as The Boston Celtics demonstrate the skills that have led the team to world championships. By working with community recreation programs, The Auerbach Fund is reaching out to each community in a unique partnership that can only provide positive recreational benefits to the residents we serve," he said.

Additional information can be obtained by calling 773-1380, ext. 204.

MILESTONE - Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Coleman mark 40th wedding anniversary.

Mr., Mrs. Bernard Coleman Celebrate 40th Anniversary

A surprise 40th wedding anniversary reception for Bernard J. and Lorraine M. (Walsh) Coleman was recently celebrated at the home of the couple's eldest son, Dr. Daniel Coleman.

The Colemans were presented with a trip to the destination of their choice by the relatives and friends present.

Mr. and Mrs. Coleman were married Nov. 4, 1950, in St. Kevin's Church, Dorchester. They have lived in the Merrymount section of Quincy for over 30 years. Mr. Coleman is a retired Field Engineer with Univac/Sperry Rand (now Unisys), and Mrs. Coleman is recently retired from the Purchasing Department at Quincy City Hall.

The occasion was also a fifteen-year reunion for the eight Coleman children: Dr. Daniel Coleman of Andover; Dr. John Coleman of Downer's Grove, Ill.; Marian Jeffries of Hingham; Stephen Coleman of Madera, Calif.; and Ellen Bradley and Suzanne, Andrea, and Jacqueline Coleman, all of Quincy. Mr. and Mrs. Coleman have twelve grandchildren.

Quincy Savings Bank Collecting Food For Salvation Army

The third annual "Food Bank" project at The Quincy Savings Bank is off to a good start, according to Project Manager Karen Quinn, of the bank's Marketing Department.

Quincy Savings Bank collects non-perishable food to benefit the Salvation Army's Food Pantry each year before Christmas.

The bank will collect boxed and or canned foodstuff at each of its branches (Quincy, Hanover, Braintree, Norwell and West Plymouth) through Friday, Dec. 14. The food will be delivered to the Salvation Army on Dec. 18 and will then be distributed to the region's needy.

Quinn said that the drive is more successful this year than ever before. The project began earlier than usual, on Nov. 6, and since that time the collections at some branches have already had to be taken away to make room for more.

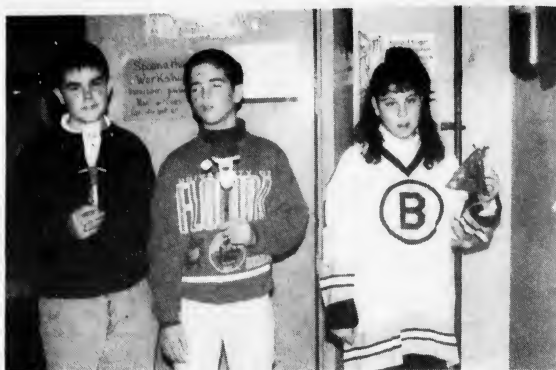

Collections are being taken not only from bank customers, Quinn noted, but also from bank employees.

"We anticipate a much greater need for assistance this holiday season and we will be grateful for any food that can be donated," Captain James Labossiere of the Salvation Army said.

Quinn noted that all food donated to the Food Bank must be sealed in its original packaging.

For further information contact the bank at 471-3500 and ask for Karen Quinn or Roseann Badin.

John Cohane Honored By Archdiocese Labor Guild

John J. Cohane, of Bromfield St., Quincy, has been named the 1990 recipient of the Cushing-Gavin award which is presented each year by the Labor Guild, Archdiocese of Boston.

Cohane, vice president of human resources for the Boston Gas Company, was presented the award Nov. 30 at the Cushing-Gavin Awards Dinner held at the Sheraton Boston Hotel.

The organization presents four awards, one each to a person from management, labor, the auxiliaries and a labor-management attorney.

Cohane was named for the management area. He has been employed by Boston Gas since 1959 and presently oversees 1,800 employees and negotiates five labor contracts with six different unions.

Another Quincy resident, John J. Higgins, of London Ave., vice president of human resources for Boston Edison, is co-chairman for this year's awards dinner.

Holiday Season Crime Prevention Tips

Shopping areas across the Commonwealth become more popular as the holiday season approaches, not only for shoppers but also for robbers and thieves. The Quincy Police Department recommends the following tips for all citizens visiting malls and shopping areas this holiday season.

- Always keep your car locked whenever and wherever it is parked. Remember "Lock it and pocket the keys."

- If it is necessary to leave packages in your car, put them in your trunk, out of sight. If you have a station wagon, put the packages on the floor and place a blanket over them.

- Park in a well-lit area and as close to the stores as possible, avoiding remote and poorly-lit areas. Try to park in an area where people will be coming and going constantly. This will discourage the mugger.

- Do Not put your purse down while looking at merchandise or buying groceries. Only carry a purse if necessary. You can lock your purse in the trunk of your car and only take the items you need.

- Do Not carry large sums of money. Bring only the cash necessary for purchases. Credit cards should only be brought with you if you anticipate using them.

- Do Not let your purse dangle. Place one end of the purse in the palm of your hand and the other in the bend of your elbow, keeping the purse close to the body.

- Never place your wallet in your rear trouser pocket, carry it in a front trouser pocket. Should you need to carry a wallet in a rear pocket, either place a comb inside it or wrap a rubber band around it. Both of these methods will make the wallet cling to the inside of your pocket thus deterring a pick-pocket.

- Be on your guard. Bargains such as expensive items, offered at a fraction of their real cost, could be fraudulent or stolen.

- When you leave your home to go shopping, turn on a light and leave a radio or TV on. This may help to keep potential burglars from entering your home.

- If you see anything suspicious during this holiday season report it to the local police IMMEDIATELY!

On behalf of Chief Francis E. Mullen and the entire Quincy Police Department, I wish you a happy, healthy and safe Holiday season.

A HOLIDAY SEASON FIRE SAFETY MESSAGE

From The Quincy Fire Fighters

The Holiday Season is now open us. It should be a time of celebration and happiness, not of tragedy.

With this in mind, please keep these following safety tips in mind to help make this Holiday Season a safe and happy one.

1. Take care when burning candles, be sure they are kept away from all combustible materials.
2. NEVER use candles to decorate Christmas trees.
3. NEVER leave children unattended in a room with lit candles.
4. NEVER place portable heaters near Christmas trees, Holiday decorations, or gifts.
5. NEVER run extension cords under rugs.
6. NEVER use extension cords that are frayed or cracked.
7. NEVER overload electrical outlets.
8. NEVER put electric lights on metal Christmas trees.
9. NEVER go to bed or leave the house without unplugging all Holiday lights.
10. NEVER allow curtains to come in contact with window lights.
11. NEVER hang stockings on a fireplace if you plan to have fires in it.
12. The most important tip we can offer is to have at least one smoke detector outside the bedroom, and one on every level of your home. These should be tested weekly, and the batteries changed at least once a year.

City-Elks Hoop Shoot Begins Saturday

Barry Welch, Recreation Director, announces the Quincy Recreation Department and the Quincy Lodge of Elks will once again co-sponsor the City of Quincy Championship in the Elk's National "Hoop Shoot", free throw contest.

The Quincy competition is the first step in a national contest for boys and girls age 8-13. Contestants are assigned to three separate age categories, and a boys and a girls division. Age groups are 8-9, 10-11, and 12-13. The contestants age is determined by their age on April 1, 1991.

Over 3,000,000 boys and girls will participate nationally in this annual contest, which is celebrating its 19th year. The participants are awarded points for successful free throws. The boys and girls in the age 8-9 age group will shoot from four feet in front of the regulation foul line.

The program will be supervised in neighborhood gymnasiums by recreation leaders assigned to their regular recreation programs in that area. The program is free and contestants may participate even if not previously enrolled in the recreation program.

Welch said: "We are pleased that the Quincy Lodge of Elks has once again provided this program for the benefit of our participants. Many Quincy residents have in the past enjoyed the benefits of this activity at the local, regional and state level. The Elks devote a great deal of attention to youth programs. The Quincy Lodge is a sponsor of this program as well as sponsoring local youth sport teams. Their commitment to our citizens is to be admired."

The Quincy Lodge Hoop Shoot Chairman is Ed Miller, the former North Quincy High's basketball player and head coach who now is the head boy's basketball coach at Marshfield High School. He was recently inducted into the North Quincy High School Basketball Hall of Fame.

The first round of the Quincy recreation contest will be at the following gymnasiums:

Continental Cablevision will televise its holiday party at the Fenno House Wednesday, Dec. 19 at 7 p.m. on Channel 3.

The program will be rerun Thursday, Dec. 20 at 9 a.m. and Friday, Dec. 21 at 1 p.m.

The party will include musical entertainment, refreshments and a visit from Santa Claus.

In addition, Belles and Beaux will entertain and the kindergarten chorus from the Beechwood Community Life Center will perform. As a special treat, Mrs. Santa Claus will tell the traditional story of the Night Before Christmas.

Christmas Festival Committee Meeting

The Quincy Christmas Festival Committee was scheduled to meet Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the Patriot Ledger, 400 Crown Colony Dr., Quincy.

Chairman George White said the committee was expected to discuss the recent parade, including the parade flow, participating units, vendors in the parade judging area, street closings and communication procedures.

The committee was also set to review preliminary plans for the 40th annual parade next November.

'A Sign For All Seasons' At United First Church

This Sunday, Dec. 16, Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister, will deliver the sermon "A Sign For All Seasons" during the 10:30 a.m. service at United First Parish Church (Unitarian). The sermon will consider the person and image of Jesus from a liberal viewpoint, emphasizing the universality of the Incarnation as a spiritual reality that is as true today as it was two thousand years ago.

In observance of the third Sunday of Advent, Cynthia, Marion and Marina Cramer will light the Advent candle as a symbol of hope, that we may have good health and happiness.

The church choir, Norman Corey, director, will sing anthems by Praetorius and Reger. Corey will also play organ works by Bach and Pachelbel.

Visitors are welcome and are invited to the social hour after the service. Brenda Powers will be hostess, and Matt Malloy and Kay Johnson will usher. Greeter will be Ruth Keating.

The children of the church school will be celebrating Chanukah, and their activities will include a dreidel game, making menorah decorations, hearing the story of Chanukah, and making Chanukah sweets to share with the congregation at social hour. Child care is provided.

Historic First Parish Church, "Church of the Presidents", is located at 1306 Hancock St., Quincy Center, opposite City Hall. Call 773-1290 for information.

Sermon On Hope At United Methodist Church

Rev. Harry Soper Jr. will have as his sermon title on the third Sunday of Advent "The Word Still Comes - Hope". Worship is at 10 a.m. and Sunday school is at 10:15 a.m. Child care is provided and facilities are handicapped accessible. Music director Douglas Utwick has "Jazz Gloria" as the choir's presentation.

Greeters are Isabel Morrison and Sally Weston. Fellowship hostesses are Ruth Pletsch, Lois Davis, Kay Little and Thelma Caliri. Ushers will be Gary Smith and Donald Hunter. Herbert Williams III will be the lay reader.

The 3Ms Club meets at 6:30 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 14 with a Luau dinner put on by Annia Giger. On Saturday, Dec. 15 the QCUMC Players will perform "The Christmas Story" directed by Virginia Casey.

On Dec. 17 at 7:30 p.m., the Adams Shore Circle meets at Sybil Whyte's home for their annual Christmas party, and on the following Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m., the United Methodist women meet at the church for installation of officers and "swap" party. On Thursday, Bible classes meet at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. with the pastor. Choir practice is that same evening.

'Revelation Of Joy' Sermon At Covenant

Rev. Kathleen Graves, co-pastor with Rev. Kirk Johnson, will continue her series about the revelation of God in Advent with her sermon about the revelation of joy. She will preach at the 11:45 a.m. worship service of Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts.

The choir, directed and accompanied on the organ by Richard Smith, Minister of Music, will sing. Smith will also play an organ prelude, offertory and postlude.

Some of the confirmations will light the third advent candle. A nursery is available for children age four and younger. The attendant will be Susan Goodale.

The children of the Sunday School will present a song during the worship service. After the service, there will be a Christmas party with gifts and refreshments.

Activities for the week are: Senior Adult Christmas Potluck at 11:45 a.m. on Thursday, Choir rehearsal at 7 p.m. and the Men's Breakfast at 8 a.m. on Saturday.

Coming events include: Naomi Christmas Potluck at 6:30 p.m. on Monday, Dec. 17, the Open House at the parsonage from 3-6 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 23, the Christmas Day worship service at 10:45 a.m. and a Festival of Lessons and Carols during the worship service on Sunday, Dec. 30.

For more information about any of the church's activities, call 4790-5728.

Oratory.

Priests will be available for the Sacrament of Reconciliation.

Christmas Pageant At Faith Lutheran Dec. 23

"Three Wee Kings," a Christmas pageant, will be presented at Faith Lutheran Church Sunday, Dec. 23 at 10 a.m.

This production is a music-filled, costumed rendition of the first Christmas as observed through the eyes of "three wee kings", portrayed by local children.

The presentation is free and open to all, with extra seating available in the church at 201 Granite St., Quincy.

A candlelight Christmas Eve Children's Service will be held at the church on Monday, Dec. 24 at 6 p.m.

Church School Pageant At Point Congregational

The annual Christmas pageant will be presented by the church school children at Quincy Point Congregational Church Sunday.

The pageant, titled "Choices", is written by J. B. Quisenberry, adapted for presentation by the Rev. Fred Atwood-Lyon, and will be directed by Mrs. Helen Patterson and assisted by Miss Karen Mastico.

Children participating are: Danielle Gates as Mary, David Geloran as Joseph and Cherylann Smith as the Angel. The shepherds are Allan MacQuarrie, Timothy Egan and Elena Quintiliani. Readers will be Richard Carbonneau, Elizabeth Egan, Kellie Johnston, John Donaldson, John Donaldson, Kristin Knudsen and Steven Dempsey.

Sunday also marks the lighting of the third candle of the Advent Wreath. The candlelighters for this service will be Eric and Kathy Carlson and their son, Robert. They will light the "Witness Candle".

Music will be by Dr. Herman Weiss, church organist and choir director, the Chancel Choir and soloist Jeffrey Sposato. The Christmas pageant will include a variety of Christmas carols and anthems.

Hanging Of The Greens

At Bethany Congregational

At the 10 a.m. worship service at Bethany Congregational Church Sunday, church school members will participate in the Hanging of the Greens in the sanctuary.

Adult leaders Gerry Capobianchi and Ron Rivera will assist Kristen Armstrong, Robin Briggs, Brian Capobianchi, Beth Devin, Jonathan Foley, Luke Raines, Daniel Kinneom, Chris Moore, Mary Chenette and Stephanie Lundin.

Music will be directed by Gregory Flynn, organist and choir director.

Members of a Bethany Church family will conduct the Candlelighting Ceremony around the Advent wreath. This Sunday, the third candle signifies Love.

Each Sunday during Advent, the altar and flower guild adds more Christmas decorations to the sanctuary; and the Chrismom Tree is now fully decorated with symbols of Jesus Christ in gold and white, in counted cross-stitch. More than a dozen women of the church made more than 150 Chrismoms for the Advent season.

Because of the Christmas church school pageant this Sunday and the holidays of Dec. 23 and 30, church school classes will resume on Sunday, Jan. 6 at 10 a.m. Church school children and young people are encouraged to worship with their family and friends in the sanctuary of the church.

Child care is provided for all Sunday morning services in the crib room and nursery under leadership of Mrs. Chris Mendez and her assistants. Parents desiring to register their children and young people in the church school may do so by calling the church office at 773-6424, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., and speaking with Mrs. Ginger Disher, church secretary.

The Quincy Point Congregational Church's previous Sunday service of worship is televised on local cablevision, Channel 3, Quincy from 8 to 9 a.m. each Sunday.

The New Testament lesson will be read by Richard Sprague.

Interim minister, the Rev. Dr. Luther Dargin will preach the third in his series of sermons, "Approaching Christmas: Through Reason". Assisting him in the service will be the Rev. Elizabeth Upton, interim associate minister.

The church is located at Spear and Coddington Sts. and is accessible to the handicapped.

An abbreviated service is held in the chapel at 9 a.m.

Christian education classes directed by Pamela Curran, church school coordinator, will meet at 10 a.m.

Hockey

Things Look Brighter At Quincy

By TOM SULLIVAN

Last year Quincy's hockey team, the youngest in the Suburban League, suffered through a 1-15-3 season, but things look brighter this season as Bob Sylvia starts his 27th year as coach of the Presidents.

Quincy last winter had seven freshmen and five sophomores playing varsity hockey and most of these players are back this year.

"We are small physically and we are still inexperienced, despite the many veterans," said Sylvia. "Although the freshmen played regularly last year, they are still not experienced varsity players. Also, we are in a very strong league. From top to bottom, I feel the Old Colony League is stronger than Suburban League."

Sylvia has two excellent goalies in senior Scott

Mann and junior Steve MacPherson, both of whom saw a good deal of action last season.

On defense he has Capt. Shane Abboud, a junior, senior Chris Lewis, sophomores Mark Gilmore and Dan Morrell and a fine looking freshman, Derek Mullen.

One line will consist of juniors Scott MacPherson, last year's leading scorer, and Jimmy Smith and sophomore Jeff Craig.

Another line has three sophomores, Dave Mullen, Jamie Schatzl, and Sean McArdle, and junior John Lewis will see action on this line.

Three freshmen, Dan Mann, Steve Provost and another Scott MacPherson (no relation) make up another line.

Rounding out the squad are seniors Keith Mc-Naught, Bob Donovan and Kevin Walsh.

"This is a fine squad and very coachable," said Sylvia. "The big difference in these kids and some of those of the past is that they are not just recreational players, but are dedicated and don't just play during the school season."

"They show they have received good coaching on the lower level and they will get better as the season goes along. Once again the big question is who will put the puck in the net? I know Scott MacPherson will score, but we have to develop some other scorers."

"Our two goalies are excellent and the defense will be adequate. I really have high hopes for his team."

Quincy will not have a junior varsity team but will have a combined freshman-sophomore group.

The Presidents were scheduled to open last night (Wednesday) at Plymouth in their first Old Colony League game. They will host Revere Monday at 3 o'clock in a non-league game at the Youth Arena and next Wednesday will play at Falmouth at 7:30 in a league contest.

George Peachey, a member of the Quincy High Hockey Hall of Fame, is back as Quincy's general manager. "George is my right arm and I don't know what I would do without him," said Sylvia.

Ted Walsh and Jim Gilmore are the assistant coaches and Mark Heinz is a volunteer assistant.

TIM BRILLO of Quincy was backup quarterback this fall for the Westfield State College football team which finished at 3-7 under first year coach Steve Marino. A junior physical education major, he is the son of Frank and Maureen Brillo.

Sports

Bay State Rolls

Bay State Auto rolled over the Purple team, 7-2, in South Shore Hockey Association action.

Gene Anderson and Skip Manganaro each scored two goals and Eddie Faherty had four assists.

Roman Gardens edged Sullivan Tire, 3-2, and Sports Emporium held on to get by the Gold team, 5-4. Bob Mullen had two goals for Emporium and Kevin McCann had a hat trick for Gold.

Roman Gardens defeated Sports Emporium, 3-1, with Fred Cobban scoring the only Emporium goal.

Gold shut out the Purple, 3-0, with goalie Mike Houlihan registering his first shutout, and Bay State continued its winning ways with a 6-5 decision over Sullivan Tire. Paul O'Brien had two goals for Sullivan.

Benson Takes Over

New Coach At North

The North Quincy hockey team has its third coach in three years and the new skipper, Tom Benson, has high hopes for the Raiders as they enter their first year in the Old Colony League.

Kevin Jago coached North for seven years, bringing four of his teams into the state tournament. Dave Peters took over the reins last season and North won its first five games and was 5-2 against the Greater Boston League, but when the Suburban League got underway, it was only 3-7-2 and finished at 8-9-2.

Peters was looking forward to this season, but resigned to take over as assistant coach at Kent State University.

He left Benson with a fine nucleus and the new coach is hoping for a winning season.

"I'm just hoping for a winning record, it is too early to think about the tournament," he said. "We have some excellent players and I am hopeful for a good season."

Benson is a Quincy native who came up through the Quincy Youth Hockey Association program. He played his high school hockey at Boston College High and later played at Norwich University. He is currently playing in the Quincy Senior League.

After a year as freshman coach at B.C. High, he coached the Eagles' junior varsity the last two years and last year led the jayvees to a 15-4-1 record.

"He did an outstanding job for us and I wish him the best," said B.C. High coach Joe McCabe. "I hate to lose him. He'll be tough to replace."

Backup to O'Donoghue, who had an excellent season last year, is junior Chris Ruggere. "Both look good and both will see considerable action," Benson said.

Other defensemen are sophomore John Gladu, senior Rich Brooks and junior Steve DesRoche.

Benson's first line consists of junior Sean Vermette, Mike O'Brien and Mike DesRoche.

The fourth line has Christopherson, Reilly and Alan Murray.

A fine looking sophomore, Brian Kelly, is an alternate forward.

"Both goalies have looked good and our defense should be strong," Benson said. "I expect a lot of scoring from our first two lines and the others are looking better all the time."

The Raiders were scheduled to open against Marshfield in a non-league game last night (Wednesday) and will play their

Flower Loft Wins Girls Under 10 Title

Flower Loft, which finished third during the regular season with a 5-2-1 record, swept through the playoffs to win the Quincy Youth Soccer League's girls under 10 championship.

Giving up a league low nine goals during the regular season, the team posted three shutouts to win the playoffs.

Goalie Kristen Bowes and the defense of Stacy Czesuill, Kelly Linnane, Keri McKenzie and Amy Harper completely shut down the opposition.

Tara Salvaggi and Leanne Martin provided strong two-way play switching off between sweeper and center forward.

Midfielders Katie Erler, Mary Kane, Katie Ceurvels and Laura Kane dominated the midfield and forwards Jessie Casbahins, Erin Fimian, Lauren Enos and Megan Hurley put heavy pressure on the opposing goalies throughout the season.

Flower Loft was coached by Don Martin.

ENC Women Bow In Hawaii Tourney

The Varsity Women's Volleyball team at Eastern Nazarene College, The Lady Crusaders, ended its 1990 season in the NAIA National Volleyball Tournament at Brigham Young University in Hawaii.

Although the team lost each of their four matches, Coach Nancy Detwiler of Quincy was nominated for Coach of the Year and both Sue Puukila and Rebekah Corbin, members of the team, were nominated to the National All Tournament Team. Corbin, the team's setter, ranked 18th in the competition of 20 teams for the number of assists made per game.

The Lady Crusaders played Fresno Pacific (2-15 and 5-15); Moorhead

State (3-15 and 8-15); Hawaii Pacific (3-15 and 4-15); and Indiana University/Purdue University, (5-15 and 8-15).

Assistant Coach Janet Calhoun said size was a definite issue in the Tournament, noting ENC setter Rebekah Corbin, who is 5'3", was playing against setters who were 5'8" and taller.

Quincy Squirt As Split

Quincy's Squirt A hockey team, sponsored by South Boston Savings Bank, split its two games during the past week.

Quincy defeated Wellesley, 4-1, as Scott Cooper had two goals and Eric Wood and Chris Haidul one each. Mike Ryan and Dan Stock had assists.

Quincy lost to Needham, 5-1, with Cooper scoring the only goal.

The Squirt A's are in second place in the Greater Boston League with a 3-1-1 record.

Youth Soccer Results

By LESLIE SATKEVICH

The Quincy Youth Soccer League completed its season with the championship games last weekend.

In girls under 10, Flower Loft blanked Business & Mail Services, 2-0, for the title as Tara Salvaggi and Erin Fimian scored the goals and Lauren Enos and Leanne Martin assisted.

Stoeckel Insurance won the boys under 10 crown with a 3-0 win over Patriot Insurance. Joe Tower, Jonathan Brillo and Mike Whalen scored the goals, Mike Shaw, Billy O'Toole and Andrew Nestor had assists and Jamie Parisi, Brendon Bowes and Chris Powers played well.

Jimmy MacDonald scored in a shootout to give Beacon Sports a 3-2 victory over Deware Funeral Home after the teams finished 2-2 in regulation time. Billy Connolly scored both Beacon goals in regulation and Kevin Moore assisted on each. Matt Kisiel, Billy Walker and Eddie Smith had fine games. Rusty Corner had both Deware goals, John Barron had an assist and Mike Powers, Jimmy Finn and Brad Croall played well.

In another shootout, Balducci's edged Lou Bertucci law office 2-1, for the girls under 14 title. The teams were scoreless in regulation play and after a 10-minute overtime period. In the shootout Tracy Rowerdink and Annie Bergen scored for Balducci's and Jessie Marie Ceurbels scored for Bertucci. Karen Harvey, Kelly Howard and Melissa Wilson had strong games for Balducci's and Kelly Goff, Liz Fitzpatrick and Heidi Granay played well for Bertucci.

The girls under 12 championship went to Boston Advisory, which edged Bentley's Steak House, 3-2, as Dominique Good scored twice and Angela Hogrell once for Advisory. Goalie Elizabeth Lynch had a fine game. Kara McSweeney and Kathleen Burke scored for Bentley's.

The American Legion won the boys under 14 crown with a 7-4 victory over Pandick N.E. Joe Tucker had a hat trick, Mike Doyle two goals and Bob Verney and Chris Morris a goal each for the Legion. Morris and Geoff Meade had two assists apiece and Doyle and Verney, one each. Randy Milburn, Peter Johnson and Paul Towne played well. Matt Boston had two goals and Chris Erler and Andrew Joyce one each for Pandick. Joyce and Tom Cunio had assists and Joe McCarthy, Liam Griffin and Matt Jarnis had strong games.

Three Winners In Sun Football Contest

Because of a three-way tie in the tie-breaker, there are three winners this week in The Quincy Sun football contest.

Chris Bregoli, Bill DeCoste and Dan Duggan, all of Quincy, will each receive a $25 cash prize from The Quincy Sun.

The three readers each correctly picked nine out of 11 winners and each were three points from the tie-breaker. The tie breaker was the total points scored in the San Francisco-Cincinnati game. The 49ers won, 20-17, for 37 points.

DeCoste had 34 points while Bregoli and Duggan each had 40 points.

Anyone can enter the contest. Just fill out the official entry form in this edition of The Quincy Sun. Forms can be mailed to the Sun office at 1372 Hancock St., Quincy, MA 02169 or dropped off at the above address.

Entries must be postmarked by Saturday or dropped off by 3:30 p.m. Saturday to be eligible.

bad situation will become worse.

Willard Street is already plagued by traffic woes caused by cars leaving the Southeast Expressway and "cutting through" the West Quincy neighborhood during morning and evening rush hour.

The joint public hearing of the Planning Board and City Council was recessed after a presentation by Home Depot and testimony for and against the proposal.

Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio said he would call for a continuation of the hearing most likely in the first or second week of February.

In the meantime, it's back to the drawing board for Home Depot's team of engineers, lawyers, architects and consultants.

"A number of concerns have to be addressed before we (Planning Board) even discuss it (a permit)," said Quincy Planning Director Richard Meade.

"I don't think the traffic issue has been adequately addressed," Meade said.

The hearing began with a presentation by representatives of Home Depot. Atty. Carl Johnson of Quincy said the Home Depot proposal would be more compatible to the neighborhood than most other allowed uses of a P.U.D. permit.

An engineer for Home Depot presented a traffic study which showed that Home Depot would generate significantly less traffic than uses such as a 300,000 square foot office complex, a supermarket, or a retail strip mall including a store such as Bradlee's.

However, under the zoning designation of P.U.D., any use can be made of the parcel including commercial, residential or industrial, contingent upon permission from the city.

Home Depot has pledged to improve the esthetics of the property by adding trees and plantings. Installation of a new drainage system to control the runoff of water onto Willard Street was also promised.

The Home Depot team also suggested traffic improvements including widening of the roadway 40 feet on both sides to allow turns into the site. A traffic island at the foot of the northbound Southeast Expressway service road (at the intersection of Willard and Copeland St. and Hall Pl.) was proposed to control the flow of traffic onto Willard Street and improve safety.

Other suggested traffic recommendations included the posting of a "Not a Thru Street" sign on County Rd., a residential street which runs between Willard and Quarry Sts. Home Depot representatives also said they will try to develop improvements at the intersection of Robertson and Willard Streets.

Opposition to Home Depot was mainly from neighborhood residents, whose number one concern is traffic. Other issues include 24-hour deliveries, lighting, and character of the neighborhood.

Local labor leaders, representing the Building Trades Union, said they are opposed to the project because Home Depot has not agreed to hire local workers to construct the development.

Quincy residents Kevin Cotter, vice president of the Building Trades Union and Richard Monahan of I.B.E.W. Local 103, said they would support the Home Depot project if the company hires their unions to do the construction.

Attorney Johnson estimated the total cost of the project at about $8.9 million.

Six people spoke and 21 were recorded in favor of the proposal while 16 spoke and 44 were recorded against the Depot project during the hearing.

Residents of Robertson Terr. were extremely concerned about the proposed use of their street as an access way for Home Depot customers and delivery trucks.

Robert Quinn, a Quincy attorney representing the Robertson Terr. abutters, said the street cannot handle the type of traffic which Home Depot will generate. Quinn also pointed out that Robertson Terr. is a private way, not a public street, and that residents have rights regarding use of the street.

Quinn said that his clients are also upset that Home Depot has not agreed to limit its delivery receiving hours.

Tim Donovan of 179 Robertson St. said increased traffic will add to an already dangerous situation at the intersection of Willard and Robertson Sts. Donovan said that two neighborhood youths have been killed by cars in recent years after cutting between illegally parked cars on Willard Street near Robertson Street.

Many opponents of the plan are not opposed to Home Depot but are wary of the effects the project will have on the neighborhood.

Bob Curry, owner of Curry Hardware and a nearby resident, said "This is not the right project for the site."

Curry said that Home Depot is an outstanding company and he agrees that the store would be a big success at the Willard St. location.

"The location of Home Depot here would be a big boost to my business but I want to keep the neighborhood intact," Curry said.

Local side streets would bear a heavy burden with increased traffic, Curry said.

"Like electricity, traffic will take the path of least resistance," Curry said.

Curry also warned that the Yankee Heights residential project will eventually be built in the neighborhood and that the only access is through the Willard and Copeland Sts. intersection, which will further effect traffic.

Thomas McFarland, of 11 County Rd., agreed with Curry's comments that a successful business such as Home Depot would be a magnet for other businesses to locate along Willard street.

"The whole scope of the neighborhood will change," if the project is approved, McFarland said.

Cindy Leahy, of 85 Rogers St., said she is concerned about cars and trucks using her street, which also runs between Willard and Quarry Sts., as a "cut through" and is worried about lighting from Home Depot's parking lot shining into local homes.

Other residents of Robertson Terr., Bates Ave., Cliff St. and California Ave., spoke against the project.

'To Share Christ's Love' Squantum First Church Topic

The Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, preached Sunday morning on the subject, "To Share Christ's Love," at First Church of Squantum.

Janet Williamson gave the call to worship. The Old Testament lesson from Isaiah 40 was read by Dore Klock. The first New Testament lesson from II Corinthians 9:1-15 was read by Leif Thornton. The second New Testament lesson from Matthew 1 was read by Earl Taylor.

Assisting the pastor in lighting the two candles in the Advent wreath were Kathryn Sarah MacRitchie, Matthew Moran, Ashley and Brittany Josslyn, and Steven Potter.

The greeters were Carl and Barbara Anderson. The ushers were Cheryl Potter, David Dykens, James Potter and Michael Thornton. Sandra and Deborah Stohberg hosted the Fellowship Hour.

Sunday afternoon a group of about fifty persons from the church went caroling to neighbors and persons who were sick and shut-in. The Bible Study group continues to meet on Wednesday nights at 7:30 p.m. The Junior Choir rehearses on Thursdays at 3 p.m. and the Chancel Choir at 7:30 p.m.

Sunday School classes for children in kindergarten and grades 1-7 meet at 9:45 a.m. The nursery and the nursery class are held during the Sunday morning service at 10:30 a.m. A Christian craft hour is also for the Sunday school children during the latter part of the morning service. The Way Up for teen-agers is held at 6:15 p.m.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Did you ever stop to think that the very first Christmas Carol was sung by the angels in heaven? Yes, on that holy and blessed night when Christ was born they sang, "Gloria in Excelsis Deo." "Glory to God in the Highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

Over one hundred years ago a young man lay severely wounded as our country lay under the cloud of war. The boy's father longed for peace. "Peace on earth, good will to men," he kept repeating as he thought of the angels on that first Christmas night. Those words echoed in the father's heart - over and over again. Since the boy's father was a poet, he seemed compelled to write those words on paper and it was at this time that Henry Wadsworth Longfellow wrote the lovely song "Christmas Bells" - sometimes known as "I Heard the Bells on Christmas Day." As you probably know, the last line of each stanza ends with the words "Peace on earth, good will to men."

One of the dearly beloved hymns, perhaps the one most stirring of all, was translated into English from the Latin language in 1841. No one is really sure who wrote it as it has been accredited to several authors, and it is said to have been the favorite of President Theodore Roosevelt. The Christmas hymn so loved by so many does not rhyme, yet few persons have realized this ... "Adeste Fideles" - "Oh Come All Ye Faithful" ...

A Third Generation Continues Our Traditions.

Quincy has changed a great deal since Sweeney Funeral Home was established in 1917. But, it's nice to know some things will never change. Like the observance of traditional values and customs.

At Sweeney Funeral Homes, older residents are quick to notice the subtle reminders of yesteryear, such as the grey gloves our funeral director still wears. Like the characteristic top hat and tails that our founder, Dennis Sweeney, wore over 30 years ago, they reflect our Tradition. One that has been built on a dignified and instinctive concern for the city's bereaved families for three generations.

Today, our founder's grand-nephew, Dennis S. Sweeney has continued the family's philosophy of maintaining a beautiful, home-like atmosphere.

And like his namesake, who started pre-arrangements in the 1940s, Dennis believes in helping residents to plan for the future. Pre-planning means that this financial decision is not left for a family to decide while they are attempting to cope with a major personal loss. It's a difficult time, a time when family members are least able to make the wisest choice.

Sweeney Funeral Homes has been helping South Shore residents with difficult decisions for over 70 years. Call Dennis Sweeney at (617) 773-2728 for a free consultation. There's no time like the present.

A Few Words on FUNERAL SERVICE

Your Funeral Plan Is Confidential.

As with doctors, lawyers and clergymen, we maintain the same professional confidentiality.

We never release information over the phone about your funeral plans, unless you specify otherwise. This is added peace of mind for you.

We can confer at your home or in our funeral home. The latter is preferable because you can make better decisions on the various parts of your particular funeral after you have seen our facilities, our line of caskets and met our staff.

Pancake House Extended Hours Request Denied

By JANE ARENA

The License Board Tuesday denied a request from Karl Bueller, Manager of the International House of Pancakes, 111 Washington St., for an extension of weekend hours from midnight to 3 a.m., and hinted that all late-night businesses the board has control over in Quincy may be considered for a roll back in hours next year.

Although board members made it a point to credit Bueller's operation, saying it is a well-run restaurant, the board also had serious concerns on the extension of weekend hours.

Police Chief Francis Mullen cited safety concerns, noting a higher risk of robbery for late-night businesses.

Board Chairman John Gillis said he is mainly concerned with annoyance to neighbors in a nearby condominium complex.

Franchise owner Karl

Bueller, who was before the board for the second time with the request, said he has done research on this IHOP franchise and discovered it was open until 2 a.m. from 1972 through 1988. He was told by the former owner the hours did not work because they could not find late night help.

Gillis said it didn't work because the neighbors in the area complained.

Betty Russo, an employee at the IHOP who also worked there during the 2 a.m. closing hours several years ago, said the neighbors complained only because the trash was emptied late at night. She said the current management team would ensure the trash was not emptied after 10 p.m.

Russo told the board she had spoken to Councillor Lawrence Chretien who had contacted the neighbors in the condo and had received only one letter of opposition to the extension of weekend hours.

Russo also noted Quincy has only one all-night restaurant, Eddie's Diner, and said it should have another one.

Fire Chief Tom Gorman said Eddie's Diner has to have a police detail present at night to keep patrons under control.

Gorman further noted the Mayor has a study of late-night establishments underway and is considering rolling back the hours for the benefit of safety.

Building Commissioner Matthias Mulvey said he shares the concerns of the Police and Fire Chiefs.

"Someone's going to wind up hitting the place," if the hours are extended, he said.

Mulvey added the board will come up with "a master plan" for all late-night establishments under its control and may roll back the hours.

"We've had places robbed in the city," he said.

Chief Mullen agreed. "It's happening in the streets today," he said. "I'm not concerned about yesterday or tomorrow here, I am concerned about today."

Christmas Free Parking May Determine Fate Of Parking Meters

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The free parking at metered spaces in the city's three business districts may determine the fate of parking meters in Quincy, Mayor James A. Sheets said Tuesday.

Since the city began allowing motorists to park at metered spaces free-of-charge in Quincy Center, Wollaston and North Quincy Dec. 15, the monitoring of parking patterns has been underway.

According to Sheets, parking control officers or "meter maids" have been monitoring and surveying parking patterns by chalking tires and recording license plate numbers.

Specifically, the mayor wants to know how the metered spaces are being used given the fact the spaces are free. The monitoring is intended to help determine how many people are parking all day in a space.

The free meters will expire Dec. 24.

The mayor said monitoring parking spaces may determine whether the meters will remain or be replaced with perhaps two-hour free-parking.

Without the meters, Sheets said there must be some kind of restrictions to prevent all-day parkers.

"You have to have a limit. If you didn't, you'd have the problem of all-day parkers."

The future of the meters will be answered in February when the mayor releases his "Quincy Plan."

Present Members Opposed Council Votes For License Board Member Residency

By STEVE KAVANAGH

The city council has decided that future members of the City License Board should be required to live in Quincy.

Mayor James Sheets expressed his support of a residency requirement for License Board members last August, and is expected to sign the measure approved by the City Council, 5-3 Monday night.

"I think it (residency requirement) makes a statement that you think Quincy is a good place to live," said Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan.

Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio and Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley, who also supported the ordinance, said that Quincy residents should be making the decisions which affect the city.

Phelan also said he would like to see the residency requirement extended to all city department heads.

Councillor - at - Large Patricia Toland said the ordinance discriminates against hard working city employees that live outside Quincy.

"A person who rises through the ranks and becomes the best in their department will be penalized for living somewhere else," she said.

Toland also said a residency requirement could keep the city from getting the best qualified professionals for the job.

The License Board has five members including City Clerk John Gillis and Fire Chief Thomas Gorman, both Quincy residents. Health Commissioner Jane Gallahue, Building Inspector Matthias Mulvey, and Police Chief Francis Mullen each reside outside of Quincy.

All five present members of the board are opposed to the residency requirement including Gillis, who by law must live in the city because he is the registrar of voters.

Board members sent letters of opposition to Cheney, chairman of the Ordinance Committee. Chief Gorman said that changing the board "will bring another bureaucracy to the city."

"I believe that the citizens of Quincy have been best served by the present structure of the board, which has survived the test of time," stated Mullen.

"The current commissioners are extremely dedicated professionals ... and their home address was never an issue in their dedication to their duties," wrote Mulvey. "Closing the door on future department heads that might not be city residents is a mistake. It is extremely critical in this technical/legal age for the city to get the best talent for department head positions."

"I do not believe that my living outside the city affects my commitment to making the soundest and fairest decisions," Gallahue said.

The ordinance includes a grandfather clause which exempts current members of the board.

Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro, who frequently attends meetings of the License Board, said the ordinance was an insult to the current members of the board.

"I've seen the board in action and I believe the License Board to have the best interest of the city at heart at all times," he said.

DeCristofaro also questioned the quality of potential board members if a residency requirement is enacted.

"If the department head is not from Quincy, and the second and third in command and so on, also don't live here, how far down the line do we go? Are we going to put inexperienced people on the board who don't fully understand what's going on all across the city?" DeCristofaro asked.

Early News Deadline For Next Week's Sun

Because of the Christmas Day holiday, there will be an early news and advertising deadline for next week's Quincy Sun.

All news, church, entertainment, social and sports releases as well as advertising copy for the

Dec. 27th issue must be in the Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Center, by Friday, Dec. 21 at noon.

The Sun office will be closed Tuesday, Dec. 25.

A similar early news deadline will also be in effect the following week because of the New Year's Day holiday.

All news, church, entertainment, social and sports releases and advertising copy for the Jan. 3 issue must be in the Sun office by Friday, Dec. 28 at noon.

The Sun office will be closed Tuesday, Jan. 1.

Sheets Firmly Opposed To Prop 2 1/2 Override

Although the projected bottom lines of the FY 91 budget have yet to be determined, Mayor James A. Sheets is sure of one thing: he will not attempt an override of Proposition 2 and a half next year.

Responding to a recent published report on the prospects of override questions in some other cities, Sheets said Tuesday he is firmly opposed to an override in Quincy.

"I think it's the wrong way to go. It's a band-aid approach to funding local government."

"The state has to develop a funding program for cities and towns," Sheets said.

Since the property-tax capping measure took effect nine and a half years ago, only one urbanized city has approved an override. That happened in June when Springfield voters okayed a $10.8 million override.

In fact, only a few of the state's 39 cities have even tried and, in those cases, the ballot measures were trounced at the ballot boxes.

According to the state Department of Revenue, 214 of the state's 312 towns have approved overrides, many on an almost annual basis.

With state aid drying up the past several years, Sheets said the main issue come June, 1991, will be if and how Question 5 affects the distribution of local aid to cities and towns.

Approved by voters in November, Question 5 requires 40 percent of state, corporate and income tax collected by the state go directly to cities and towns.

"If the state government is going to apply that in a meaningful way, obviously there's no need to look into other ways to fund local services," he said.

Sheets also said he believes override questions take the pressure off state government to distribute local aid.

"I intend to stay firm. I don't want to give the state an option."

Sheets and his department heads are figuring out the bottom lines for this year's budget. Those numbers will impact the FY 92 budget which will go into effect next July 1.

The mayor was recently notified that the city's pension fund will increase nearly $1 million next year, partly because many city employees took advantage of an early retirement program.

Sheets, who said the budget projected an increase of $500,000, noted there were 14 retirements in the police department alone.

Sheets said the pension fund will increase from $9,803,000 this year to $10,728,000.

There is some fiscal good news: the state has reimbursed the city $600,000 for roadwork completed last year. The money will go into free cash, Sheets said.

3 Safety Barrels Likely Permanent

Large pedestrian safety barrels or markers placed at three city crosswalks will likely become permanent, Mayor James A. Sheets said Tuesday.

The three-foot high barrels bearing silver reflective tape, a pedestrian crossing sign and another sign declaring motorists must stop for pedestrians in a crosswalk under state law, are up at three busy walkways in Quincy Square and Wollaston.

After a request from the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, barrels were placed on Hancock St. near Cottage Ave. and Revere Rd.

A third barrel was placed at Beale and Chapman Sts. in Wollaston after a request by Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan.

Sheets said the barrels will remain unless the police department finds justification to remove them.

The city purchased six barrels using a state grant. The mayor said he would consider placing the other three barrels at other busy crosswalks on the recommendation of Traffic Engineer David Kinnecom.

However, noting the barrels cost "several thousand dollars," the mayor said the city will not buy any additional safety markers because of fiscal restraints at this time.

Sheets and some business leaders agree the markers are improving pedestrian safety.

"I think they do, when you see them, make you aware it is a heavily walked pedestrian crosswalk and make (motorists) slow down," the mayor said.

QCBPA Executive Director Eileen Cohen said, "We do find that along Hancock Street at two locations (the barrels) are working."

Cohen pointed out many towns throughout the region are using barrels. Randolph, for example, has placed six or eight barrels in a two-block area.

As for fitting in with the mayor's historic revitalization plan for Quincy Center, Sheets replied, "They might fit better into the scheme when we get more foot traffic in the area."

"If (a barrel) identifies a place to walk and that volume increases, we might add more barrels."

A CAR STOPS to allow a young woman and her child walk across the crosswalk at Hancock St. and Cottage Ave. in Quincy Square. The crosswalk is one of three busy pedestrian walkways in the city where safety barrels have been placed to help people cross.

Profanity, Loitering Could Cost You $100

By STEVE KAVANAGH
Swearing on city-owned land could cost you $100 in Quincy.

The City Council, after lengthy debate, passed an ordinance, 6-2, which makes it illegal to accost or annoy persons, disturb the peace, loiter, or address others with profane or obscene language in any public or city land in Quincy.

City councillors Michael Cheney and Thomas Fabrizio said they agreed with the idea behind the ordinance but voted against it.

The proposal was introduced to the council by Mayor James Sheets who is expected to approve it.

The proposal was debated during an Ordinance Committee meeting prior to the regular council meeting. A motion was made during the committee meeting to amend the wording of the ordinance.

City councillors Cheney, Thomas Nutley, Charles Phelan and Fabrizio voted to amend the ordinance to eliminate the profane or obscene language provision.

"A guy swearing at a softball game could be whacked $100 if this is enforced to the letter of the law," Cheney said.

Nutley expressed concern that the ordinance might not stand up in court in regards to Constitutional rights to free speech.

The vote to amend the ordinance ended in a 4-4 deadlock with councillors Ted DeChristofaro, Patricia Toland, Larry Chretien and Peter Kolson voting to support the ordinance as the mayor proposed it. The amendment failed, allowing the original ordinance to be sent to the council where it passed, 6-2.

The ordinance is aimed at helping police clear out loiterers in the Quincy Center MBTA/McIntyre Mall area. Sheets said earlier this year the ordinance is designed to enhance the downtown area to make it more conducive to tourists and families.

Phelan and Nutley voted for the ordinance after the amendment failed.

"Currently there is no city ordinance against loitering and an arrest for loitering won't stick in court without one (ordinance)," Phelan said.

"I will not support a law that is not enforceable," Cheney said.

The maximum penalty for violating the ordinance will be a fine of $100.

Houghs Neck Zoning Public hearing Jan. 22

A public hearing has been scheduled regarding a zoning change for land on Marshfield and Pawsey Sts. in Houghs Neck.

In both cases, Marshfield Street (Plan 1068) and Pawsey Street (Plan 1076P), the proposal calls for the zoning designation to be changed from Residence A to Open Space.

The public hearing will be held Tuesday, Jan. 22 at 7 p.m. at City Hall.

'White Lung' Bill Disastrous To Asbestos Victims

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Legislation to slash asbestos victims' rights and benefits is pending. The proposed "White Lung" bill, entered into the Congressional record on Oct. 19, 1990 by Cong. Pat Williams from Montana has remained a carefully guarded secret. The bill was drafted by a group representing asbestos manufacturers.

Over 27 million workers are known to have been heavily exposed to asbestos since the 1940's. Asbestos manufacturers knew of its cancer causing potential in 1898. An estimated 20,000 cancer deaths will occur every year well into the next century due to asbestos exposure. These figures do not include the countless millions who have and are still being exposed daily to asbestos products in homes, schools, offices and public buildings. Because asbestos workers brought asbestos fibers home on their hair, skin and clothing, it is estimated that 30% of their family members will also develop asbestos diseases.

Passage of this legislation would eliminate rights to legal recourse for those with asbestos-related diseases. The right to trial and legal counsel would be abolished. All pending cases, including settlements pending regardless of the time of that settlement would be voided.

This is disastrous legislation we must all fight against! Write to your senators and congressmen immediately. If you belong to a union, notify your union head and register your opposition. Call or contact the Asbestos Victims of America, P.O. Box 559, Capitola, CA 95010, (408) 476-3646 and ask for more ways to help preserve the right of these innocent victims of corporate greed. Do not bargain with these jackals!

TO SLEEP, PERCHANCE TO DREAM

"There's the rub," as Hamlet said, facing the prospect of a long, uneasy night. Anxiety, tension and anticipation can disrupt sleep, even in the normal, healthy person. Nightmares and night terrors are common in both adults and children. A nightmare is a frightening "bad dream" from which the sleeper awakens scared but alert. The plot of the dream is usually remembered. Night terrors are sudden attacks of panic which often cause the sleeper to bolt up suddenly, even screaming in terror, but with little awareness of the reason for the panic. A single vividly terrifying image may be recalled. Night terrors are seen in children more often than in adults, and often disappear as the child grows up. Those with frequent nightmares or night terrors may seek help from a sleep disorder center. Medications taken at bedtime can help break the cycle.

P.S. Healthy people show a wide range of normal sleep patterns. Some need 9-10 hours per night, while others do well with 5-6.

If you are having continued trouble sleeping, seek the advice of a physician. There are many ways to restore normal sleep patterns. We are always glad to answer any questions you might have here at COMPREHENSIVE CAR-DIAC CARE. Give us a call at 472-2550. Hours are by appointment. Our offices are conveniently located at 101 Adams Street, Suite 24 in Quincy. This column is presented as a public service for the benefit of all by our offices. Chretien And Ward 3

IF YOU TAKE a good look at Ward 3 you can understand why Larry Chretien has thoughts of giving up that seat to make a run for councillor at-large.

The present Ward 3 now rambles virtually from one end of the city to the other and touches every section of the city.

It includes for example, Cranch St. and Dixwell Ave. which were once in Ward 1. Bigelow and Elm Sts., formerly Ward 2. Common St., once Ward 4. Highland Ave., which used to be in Ward 5. Part of Belmont St., in Montclair, once part of Ward 6. Running for Ward 3 is almost a dress rehearsal for running at-large.

But before he finally decides to run he has to take more than geography into consideration. Usually a ward councillor doesn't make a move city-wide unless an incumbent opens up one of the three seats by running for mayor or stepping down for some other reason. And that's highly unlikely next year.

HE FINISHED THIRD in the Third Norfolk District state representative race in November, but Francis (Sandy) Eaton may make another go at it in 1992.

The independent who was making his first bid for office is keeping his campaign committee intact.

BALZANO

Meanwhile, Judy Balzano, who was runner-up to incumbent Robert Cerasoli in that race reportedly is talking about another run herself.

More Christmas Baskets For Needy This Year

By JANE ARENA

It might be a sign of the times. Charitable agencies plan to distribute more food baskets to the city's needy this year than last. Between 375 and 425 Christmas food baskets are scheduled to be delivered to Quincy families this week.

Last Christmas some 340 baskets were distributed.

But, at Christmas time, whatever the need, it seems always to be met.

Even at a time when most people are feeling the economic strain and have to dig deeper into their pockets at retail stores, at the gas pump, and to heat their homes, there's something about the Christmas season which makes us look into ourselves and find something there to give to those less fortunate.

Thanks to the effort, generosity, and true Christmas spirit of the city's individuals, businesses, and civic and community organizations, Quincy's needy will find the holiday a little bit brighter.

In addition to the food baskets for needy families, homeless will have shelter and gifts for Christmas, and anyone in the community will be welcome to a Christmas Dinner sponsored by the Quincy Interfaith Coalition on Christmas Day.

Tom Koch of the Koch Club said 50 baskets filled with turkeys, hams, fresh fruits and vegetables and non-perishable items will be distributed to needy families tonight. For those families with children, the Koch Club will also deliver toys and games.

Now in its 35th year, the Club has been helping the city's less fortunate through donations and volunteer efforts from various individuals and organizations.

The Christmas Committee members include Tom Koch, Ray Cattaneo, Thomas Nestor, Robert Woods, Jim Moody, Jack Colligan, Gary Cuniff, Marilyn Brooks, Jackie Whitcomb of the YMCA, and the Sacred Heart School and Catholic Women's Club of North Quincy.

Koch attributes the success of the Christmas Charity program to the many individuals and organizations which have donated food, new toys and funds to the needy of Quincy.

The Quincy Lodge of Elks will also distribute food baskets to the city's needy. Exalted Ruler Dave Montani said requests were still coming in on Monday of this week, but he expects at least 125 baskets will be distributed by the Elks on Sunday morning.

The baskets will be filled with turkeys, stuffing, loaves of bread, fruits and vegetables, "a whole Christmas meal," Montani said, and will be delivered by 40 or 50 Elks volunteers.

Requests for the baskets come from the Mayor's office, needy assistance agencies, City

Councillors, and the members themselves, he said.

They will probably be taking requests until Friday, he said.

The Christmas baskets are filled with help from Roxy's Supermarket in Quincy. Montani notes the store has been cooperative in past years by opening up on a Sunday morning and having everything ready for the Elks in time to deliver the baskets.

The baskets are delivered not only to Quincy's needy families, Montani said, but a few are also brought to organizations including the DOVE shelter for women and Father Bill's Place.

"We make sure that they get something," he said. "They're all good agencies and they need a little help and support."

In addition to the Christmas food baskets, the Elks Lodge and the Women's Emblem Club Auxiliary will host a Christmas dinner for 150 senior citizens at the Lodge tonight at 6 p.m., complete with Christmas music, entertainment and a visit from Santa Claus.

Through its veterans services, the Elks Lodge also paid a recent holiday visit to the Veterans Administration Hospital in Jamaica Plain where they entertained with a professional holiday show, refreshments and gifts of playing cards and cribbage boards for the patients.

The Elks also plan to present a special Christmas gift Saturday to the Cardinal Cushing School: A color TV with a built-in VCR and a donation to purchase video tapes.

The Salvation Army will distribute between 200 and 250 food baskets on Friday. The final count will depend on "the end of the rush," according to Captain James Labossiere of the Quincy Salvation Army.

The baskets will be filled with items collected through canned food drives from area schools and businesses throughout the year, dessert items and grocery store vouchers for turkeys and other perishables.

In addition the Salvation Army will also have a toy shop set up a toy shop for parents who have filled out applications for Christmas toys for their children.

The parents will be able to come in and pick out "several toys for each child," Labossiere said.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Fleeing Hungarians Find Refuge In Houghs Neck

A Hungarian refugee family, Jozsef Hanzl, his wife Maria and their son Antal, 13, who walked 20 miles to the Austrian border just ahead of invading Russians, arrived in Quincy to start a new life.

They were sponsored by 50 residents of Houghs Neck and Most Blessed Sacrament Church and were to live with Mrs. David Parr of 101 Bird St., Houghs Neck.

QUARRY ST. WORK POSTPONED

Public Works Commissioner Charles R. Herbert said there would be a delay of one to two years in the postponed widening of Quarry St. as an access road between Quincy Center and the Southeast Expressway.

Dec. 20-26

34 Years Ago

Herbert said he had been advised by the state that the $75,000 earmarked for the Quarry St. project would instead go toward work on Revere Rd. and Canal St.

SENTENCES COMMUTED

The Governors Council commuted to 27 years the life sentences given Irwin Nelson and Arthur F. Craig in 1940 for the slaying of Carl N. Carlson during a robbery in the Quincy quarry area.

Nelson and Craig, who were 16 at the time of the slaying, would be eligible for parole in 1958.

BANK MERGER DECRIED

The State Banking Commissioner rejected the proposed merger of the Granite National Bank of Quincy and the First National Bank of Boston as "not in the public interest."

DeWOLFE CONTRIBUTES

Quincy-born comedian Billy DeWolfe won $300 on the TV show "Masquerade Party" when the panel failed to guess his disguise as Little Red Riding Hood's grandmother.

He donated the money to the Quincy YMCA.

FIRST CHOIR ORGANIZED

Seventy two youngsters were invested by the Rev. Edward Tangney as the "Choir of the Little Wooden Cross," the first boys choir in the history of St. John's Parish in Quincy.

Goals: High School Diplomas And Good Parenting

Quincy Teen Mothers Program Offers Special Help

By JANE ARENA

When you're seventeen, still in high school and pregnant, the world seems like a pretty scary place.

Suddenly you're responsible for another life. You have to worry about feeding schedules and diaper rash and sleepless nights.

Often your worries are more urgent; a place to live, enough to eat and how to afford day care, if that is, you can find a job.

That doesn't leave a lot of time to think about a high school diploma. The high school drop out rate for teenage mothers is understandably high.

But, since 1978, Quincy girls have had an option other than dropping out.

The Quincy Teen Mothers Program (QTMP), affiliated with Quincy

High School, offers teenage mothers or those about to become mothers, a chance to earn their diploma or GED and gain invaluable parenting skills as well.

"We have two goals here," says Janice Walsh, QTMP Director.

"We want the girls to get their high school diploma or GED and we want them to be good mothers too.

The program is housed in the Bethany Congregational Church across the street from Quincy High School.

A large airy room on an upper level serves as the class room. Girls sit in groups of two or three at big wooden tables or at one of a few computer terminals in the corner.

Walsh describes it well as a "one room school house."

There are shelves and stacks of books, some of them text books and other information a young mother might need.

A slew of high chairs sits behind a partition at the far corner of the room.

On the walls are photos and brief biographies of inspirational women, including Geraldine Ferraro, Sally Ride, and Sandra Day O'Connor.

On one side of the room there is a bulletin board with photos of some of the students with their babies, on the other side there's a list of QTMP alumnae.

The graduate rate is high for the program, and a good number of the girls go on to further their education.

The program, quite simply, works. Just ask Bonnie, one of 12 graduates of Quincy Teen Mothers Program last June. Bonnie who has a 20-month old son, P.J., is currently attending Quincy Junior College studying Criminal Justice. She hopes someday to become a probation officer or to work in counselling troubled adolescents. She says she wouldn't have been able to come this far without QTMP.

Students attend class on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and they bring their babies with them. Downstairs there are two nurseries, one for infants and one for toddlers.

"On Tuesdays and Thursdays the girls are allowed to do the things that mothers and teenagers have to do," Walsh says.

"It's very difficult to be a fulltime mother and a fulltime student," she says.

"I don't think these girls could handle a five day week at Quincy High School."

Currently the program enrolls 25 teenage mothers, ranging in age from 15 to 21.

There are nine infants and seven toddlers in the nurseries.

Nine of the girls are pregnant now. One is due "any day now," Walsh says.

Three others are currently at home with their newborns, all of them born within the last three weeks.

The girls study five courses: English, math, (including accounting), computers, functional competency, which aims to give students a workable skill, and family life education.

The family life education course is one of the many elements which sets the Quincy Teen Mothers Program apart from other special education programs. The course can include anything from how to bathe a newborn, to nutrition for pregnant or nursing mothers, to choosing the safest toys to buy for Christmas.

As part of this course, each one of the students is also required to spend 45 minutes every day in the nursery, Walsh says, which is a two-fold accomplishment: It not only allows the girls to observe and experience babies in all stages of development, giving them a better idea of what to expect from their own babies as they grow, but it also gives each of the

Council Votes For License Board Member Residency

Councillor-at-Large Michael Cheney, who introduced the proposal, said it was important to have Quincy residents making decisions that they will have to live with themselves.

"This (license board) is the only board in the city, besides the City Council, which can make policy," Cheney said.

Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson also supported the measure while Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien was opposed. Councillor-at-Large Tim Cahill was absent.

Sheets now has 10 days to act on the ordinance. The mayor said he is submitting the ordinance to the City Solicitor Steve McGrath for review. The mayor wants McGrath to study the language regarding filling board vacancies before he takes action.

The mayor said he is concerned that qualified candidates for police chief, fire chief, building inspector and health commissioner who do not live in Quincy may not be able to fill a vacancy if the ordinance is approved.

Sheets said he would not veto the ordinance but may send it back to the City Council if it needs to be rewritten.

The ordinance is a home-rule petition which means it would also have to be approved by the state legislature and the governor.

Sheets, a former state representative who served on the Local Affairs Committee which reviews home-rule petitions, said the chances of state approval for the petition may be damaged because the City Council vote was not unanimous.

Sue's Sweet Potato Casserole From Germany

For Christmas dinner, you might want to try this delicious sweet potato casserole brought back from Germany from our daughter Sue. She made it for Thanksgiving Day and prepared it the day before. It is so easy, all you have to do is par-boil the potatoes.

SUE'S SWEET POTATO CASSEROLE

5 or 6 sweet potatoes
4 large apples
½ cup brown sugar
½ stick of butter

Par-boil the sweet potatoes. Peel the apples and slice. After boiling, peel the potatoes and slice them also. Slightly grease a casserole dish. Place the potatoes on the bottom layer, then the apples, then the butter and brown sugar. Layer until the top layer is apple and spread the rest of the butter and brown sugar on top. Bake covered for 30 minutes in a 350 degree oven and uncovered for another 30 minutes. Let cool, and then cut into squares.

I plan to cook this the day before Christmas, and the next day it can be warmed in a 250 degree oven until ready.

Happy Holidays from our home to yours.

Aerobathons Raise Over $3,000 For Cerebral Palsy

Two recent aerobathons raised more than $3,000 for the Children's Developmental Disabilities Center of Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore located at 105 Adams St., Quincy.

Led by Aerobics Director Debra Case, more than 30 members of the Plymouth Athletic Club raised over $2,500 at the first CP Challenge Aerobathon.

In addition, more than 30 members of the Brockton Athletic Club led by Director Patty Mantia raised $700 for CP.

"Many of the children at the clinic aren't able to do aerobics and need the special help that the center provides to learn how to walk, talk and use their hands more effectively," said CP Developmental Officer Ellen Baman.

Proceeds from the aerobathons go toward funding the center's many programs and services.

The center serves children throughout the South Shore area. Children with developmental and physical disabilities come to the clinic to receive individualized intensive therapeutic physical, occupational and speech therapies. The clinic also offers a pre-school program.

Companies sponsoring the event include Ryka, Inc.; Body Colors, Mr. Donut of Brockton's West Gate Mall, Charles Deli of Stoughton, Freedman's Bakery of Canton; Reebok, Clyde's Bakery, the Inn for All Seasons, Flex Appeal, Pro Sports, Bert's Restaurant, the Hair Request, Ocean Spray, Inc., and Angelo's Supermarket.

other girls a break so they can work in the upstairs classroom. The nursery time is done on a rotating basis so at any given time there is at least one student in the nurseries helping out the staff members who work there full time.

"It's like a co-op," Walsh says.

The atmosphere of the Quincy Teen Mothers Program is not at all like a typical high school classroom. For the most part the girls work individually at their own pace. Some may be freshmen and others may be seniors and still others may be working toward their GED.

Before the students are enrolled in the program they are tested for their specific competency level, Walsh explains. Once their starting point is determined, they work from there.

Walsh and the other teachers in the program keep close tabs on the girls' work, she says. Every day they hand in some form of assignment and their progress is monitored in each subject.

"When a girl comes here," Walsh says, "I tell her she's not competing with anyone but herself."

On the average students stay with the program for about two years, Walsh says.

"When a girl is here for two or three years," she says, "you really get close to them, you get attached, and they get attached to you...this becomes their home three days a week for three years...it's like a family."

And it seems like a family too.

At the front of the room is a table set up with cheese and crackers, cookies and juice and the girls get up from their work and wander over here now and then.

The program also has access to the church kitchen where the students can go to get coffee or tea or hot chocolate when they want. There are no bells here, no hall passes, and no detention hall.

"My feeling is that they're all adults now," Walsh says, "whether they like it or not...they have to take responsibility for their own education and they do. As long as they're working they're allowed flexibility."

There is every indication they do work and work hard.

Last year 12 girls graduated from the program. Many of them went on to further their education. Up to 12 more will graduate this year.

Although it is part of Quincy High School, it's actually known as Homeroom 15), the Quincy Teen Mothers Program has its own intimate graduation held in the church parlor. All girls who have received their diplomas, either in January or June, and all who pass the GED test partake in the ceremony.

After graduating, the girls are welcome and encouraged to return to the program for counseling and advice on day care and finances to ease the transition between the program and the real world. Many of them take advantage of it.

Every year, Walsh says, the Mayor and the School Committee make it a point to attend the Quincy Teen Mothers Program graduation, showing their support and enthusiasm for this unique educational opportunity.

The community shows support too. Churches, community organizations, veterans groups, businesses and individuals contributed over $14,000 last year to keep the program going.

This year, with the current fiscal climate, even more help will be needed.

Although staff salaries, learning materials, transportation, lunches and related educational costs are paid for by the Quincy Public Schools and state education grants, a lot more is paid for through donations and contributions.

Contributions pay for renting space in the church, nursery equipment including cribs, high chairs and linens, field trips, cultural events, and guest speakers.

"I don't think we're going to fold," Walsh says, "but without extra help we won't be able to give some of the extras...and that's very important, because these girls need to feel that they're special and that their babies are special...this is such an accomplishment for them."

One QTMP student, who at 21 was about to take her GED exam after dropping out of school in the ninth grade, summed it up:

"This program has been a tremendous help for me...this is the best thing for anybody who's pregnant and thinking about dropping out...it got me back in the groove of studying again."

WALK-IN SERVICE

A HOLIDAY SEASON FIRE SAFETY MESSAGE

From The Quincy Fire Fighters

The Holiday Season is now open us.

It should be a time of celebration and happiness, not of tragedy.

With this in mind, please keep these following safety tips in mind to help make this Holiday Season a safe and happy one.

1. Take care when burning candles, be sure they are kept away from all combustible materials.
2. NEVER use candles to decorate Christmas trees.
3. NEVER leave children unattended in a room with lit candles.
4. NEVER place portable heaters near Christmas trees, Holiday decorations, or gifts.
5. NEVER run extension cords under rugs.
6. NEVER use extension cords that are frayed or cracked.
7. NEVER overload electrical outlets.
8. NEVER put electric lights on metal Christmas trees.
9. NEVER go to bed or leave the house without unplugging all Holiday lights.
10. NEVER allow curtains to come in contact with window lights.
11. NEVER hang stockings on a fireplace if you plan to have fires in it.
12. The most important tip we can offer is to have at least one smoke detector outside the bedroom, and one on every level of your home. These should be tested weekly, and the batteries changed at least once a year.

CHRISTMAS IN CHURCH

lights the way to the spirit and brotherhood of Christmas

The Christmas Story

Luke, 2, 1-14. At that time, there went forth a decree from Caesar Augustus that a census of the whole world should be taken. The first census took place while Cyrenus was governor of Syria.

And all were going each to his own town, to register.

And Joseph also sent from Galilee out of the town of Nazareth into Judea to the town of David, which is called Bethlehem - because he was of the house and family of David - to register, together with Mary his espoused wife, who was with child.

And it came to pass while they were there, that the days for her to be delivered were fulfilled.

And she brought forth her first-born Son, and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the Inn.

And there were shepherds in the same district living in the fields and keeping watch over their flock by night.

And behold, an angel of the Lord stood by them and the glory of God shone round them, and they feared exceedingly.

And the angel said to them, "Do not be afraid, for behold, I bring you good news of great joy which shall be to all the people; for today in the town of David a Savior has been born to you, Who is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign to you; you will find an infant wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger."

And suddenly there was with the angels a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men of good will."

Christmas At Bethany

With more than 100 poinsettias adorning the chancel, the fourth Sunday of Advent will be celebrated at Bethany Congregational Church with one service of worship in the main sanctuary at 10 a.m.

There will be no church school classes but a nursery will be available for infants.

Organist Gregory Flynn's prelude will feature Mike Peitman, trumpet. The chancel choir will sing "Gloria" by Vivaldi and "What Do You Bear?" a Catalan choir.

The children's choir will sing a traditional carol, "The Friendly Beasts." Nancy and Wendell Cosgrove and their three sons will participate in the Advent candlelighting ceremony.

Jean Ann Phinney will read the scripture lesson. Rev. Dr. Luther Durgin, interim minister, will preach on "Anticipating Christmas Through Poetry." Rev. Elizabeth Upton, interim associate minister, will assist.

There will be two worship services at Bethany Church Christmas Eve.

At the 7 p.m. family service, Organist Gregory

Flynn will play a prelude of Christmas selections. The Bethany Folksingers will sing two carols, "Rocking," a Czech carol, and "Still, Still, Still," and Austrian carol.

Shirley Pyne will tell a children's story. Children have been requested to bring a new stuffed animal for the manger.

Rev. Durgin and Rev. Upton will light the Christ Candle.

There will also be a Christmas Eve Candlelighting service at 11 p.m. Music will feature organist Gregory Flynn, flutist Cheryle Ange and clarinetist Ed Aluisi.

Brenda Bonoli, soprano soloist, will sing "Rejoice Greatly" from Handel's Messiah, "O Holy Night" by Adam and "Jesu Bambino" by Yon.

The service will include carols, lessons and prayers by Rev. Luther Durgin and Rev. Diane Durgin. Mr. Durgin's meditation is "Be Careful of Your Light."

The lighting of the Christ Candle and individual candlelighting in the darkened Bethany sanctuary will conclude the service at midnight.

9 Christmas Masses

At St. John's

Midnight Mass.

On Christmas Day, at the 7 a.m. Mass there will be congregational singing; at 9 a.m., a choir Mass with congregational singing and choir; at 11 a.m., upstairs only, Mass with a family liturgy and folk group; at 12:30 p.m., Mass with congregational singing.

There will be no 5:30 p.m. Mass on Christmas Day.

Persons attending any of these Masses are invited to bring a bell of any kind to the service to help the singing ring out.

Christmas Services At United First Parish

"A Journey to Christmas" will be the theme of the 10:30 a.m. service Sunday, Dec. 23 at United First Parish Church (Unitarian) in Quincy Center.

There will be carols, readings, and a sermon by the minister, Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett. Celloist Kurt Harrison will play several solos.

Stephanie and Leigh Williams will light the candles on the Advent Wreath. Visitors and children are welcome and are invited to the social hour following the service. Wayne and Debbie MacDonald will be hosts, and Nancy and Bill Westland will be greeters. The head usher is Matthew Malloy. Child care will be provided for toddlers, but regular church school classes will not be held this Sunday.

On Christmas Eve, there will be the traditional Christmas Eve Candlelight Service at 7:30 p.m. The service will include carols, readings from scripture and modern sources, choir, organ and flute music, and a reflection by the minister. Children of the Church School will usher, be candlelighters and do readings. The service will conclude with the singing of Silent Night by candlelight. Visitors and children are welcome but childcare will not be provided.

Christmas Music At Point Congregational Sunday

Christmas music will be featured Sunday at Quincy Point Congregational Church during the 10 a.m. worship service.

Dr. Herman Weiss, church organist and choir director, will play "Break Forth, O Lovely Morning Light" by J.S. Bach and "O Come, All Ye Faithful" by Hofland. Soloist Jeffrey Sposato will sing "I Wander as I Wander". With the Chancel Choir, he will also sing "What Child Is This?" The Chancel choir will sing "Fum, Fum, Fum" as well as Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus".

The church doorways and the interior of the sanctuary have been decorated with Christmas wreaths, garlands, window lights, chrimson tree and altar decoration. This Sunday, the church will add the traditional display of Christmas poinsettias. The decorations have been under the direction of Mrs. Carol McGhee who chairs the church's Altar and Flower Guild.

This Sunday, the Advent Wreath Ceremony will continue with the lighting of the "Amen Candle" by Anthony and Laurie Jakaitis and their children, Kristin and Adam.

Rev. Fred Atwood-Lyon will preach on "Who Needs This Son of God?" Infant care will be provided in the crib room so that parents of very young children may attend the worship service. Sunday will be "Church Family Sunday" when children and young people will worship with their parents and friends.

For those who are physically unable to attend worship with the congregation or who lack transportation, the church provides a service of worship each Sunday on Quincy Cablevision, Ch. 3 from 8 to 9 a.m. Each telecast is of the previous Sunday's service.

The church is located at Washington St. and Southern Artery. Bus transportation is provided for Sunday services from 1000 Southern Artery, the Senior Citizen's Center, departing from the East and North wings at 9:40 and 9:45 a.m., including a stop on Washington St. near Pagnano Towers.

The pastors are the Revs. Fred and Carol Atwood-Lyon. For more information about the church call 773-6424 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Christmas Eve services at 7:30 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. The Festival of the Holy Eucharist will be observed

Christmas Eve Family Service At United Methodist

"With God Nothing Is Impossible" will be Rev. Harry Soper Jr's Christmas message at the Quincy Community United Methodist Church, Beale St., Wollaston Sunday at 10 a.m.

Music director Douglas Ulwick has chosen "Rise Up early in the Morning" by Jungst as the chancel choir's anthem. Poinsettias, arranged by Virginia Hawes, will decorate the altar. The lay reader will be Grace Shields and ushers are Kay and Susan Little. Joan Honig and Maude Kyoperi will be greeters. The final advent candle lighting will be done by Tehran Johnson and ValJean Soper. Child care is provided and will be supervised by Debbie Little. Church facilities are handicap accessible. Fellowship hour will be presided over by Helga Strong, Adele Hamilton, Arlene Wickens and Marian Cross. On Christmas Eve, Rev. Soper will preside over family services at 7 p.m. and a candlelight service at 11 p.m. which will include carols and communion. Joan Honig and Maude Kyoperi will light the advent candle at the early service and Margaret Buckley at 11 p.m.

The finance committee will meet at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 26 and the following evening at 7:30 p.m. the choir will rehearse for its anthem of the year for 1990.

SANTA MAKES an early trip to Fenno House in Wollaston.

Continental Sponsors Christmas Party At Fenno House

An intergenerational Christmas party was held recently at the Fenno House on Hancock St., Wollaston. The party, sponsored by Continental Cablevision, featured the "Belles and Beaux" choral group, a visit from Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus, and the kindergarten chorus from Beechwood Community Life Center, directed by Loretta Prendiville. Over 50 residents and staff people from the Fenno House were joined by 30 children, including some residents' grandchildren, for an afternoon of fun. The crowd was treated to a fine performance by the Belles and Beaux, who performed traditional as well as original holiday carols. Mrs. Claus was also on hand, thanks to Lil Martin from Beechwood, to read the story of The Night before Christmas.

Councillor Peter Kolson assured the timely arrival of Santa Claus as the Beechwood Kindergarten Chorus sang "Santa Claus is Coming to Town". Most of the children took the opportunity to sit on Santa's lap and air their Christmas desires. Following Santa's departure, all present were treated to refreshments of coffee, tea, punch and cookies.

The Local Programming Department of Continental Cablevision was on hand to videotape the festivities. This holiday event can be seen on QCTV, Quincy Community Television, Ch. 3 at the following times: Wednesday, Dec. 19 at 7 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 20 at 9 a.m. and Friday, Dec. 21 at 1 p.m.

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

Students in Quincy public schools again this year were invited to submit articles for the holiday season. This year's theme is: "If I could have one wish come true this Christmas-Chanukah-New Year it would be."

Students participating are in Grade 3.

The Sun is happy to share these young thoughts with you at this season. Publishing these articles has become a tradition which all of us at The Sun look forward to and, we hope, you do, too.

We want to thank Dr. Janet

DiTullio, Director of curriculum in the Quincy Public School System and classroom teachers for their assistance.

We were again swamped with entries and because of space limitations we regret we cannot print every single article submitted.

So many others were worthy of publication, too.

We hope to publish more next week.

To all who participated we extend season's greetings and a happy, healthy New Year.

Thank you all, most sincerely.

It is that everyone would be nicer to each other and understand the true meaning of Christmas because it is the time to be happy and be together with our family. I also hope that my grandmother has a very merry Christmas up in heaven because she died and I hope she takes good care of my cat because she died too. I miss them and I love them both very much.

Pamela Nevins

Merrymount

It would be for the people and soldiers in Iraq to come to their families.

Andrew Freeman

Merrymount

I wish my dad could come back and my brother could talk.

Alexis Johnson

Merrymount

That the poor has a very good Christmas and that the children and parents get what they want.

Tabitha McLellan

Merrymount

I would like food for the poor and homeless.

Stephanie Queripel

Merrymount

My wish is that my dad could come up from Texas for Christmas.

Will Schriever

Merrymount

I wish that the poor people could have money.

Lisa Chow

Merrymount

I wish people would not litter in the world.

Sean Fitzpatrick

Merrymount School

It would be to make sure that homeless people get something to eat.

Stephanie Allen

Merrymount

It would be that some people would stop taking freedom and liberty from other people. It is not fair because people should be able to make their own choices. I think it would be great if all people could have freedom and liberty.

Christopher Roach

Montclair

It would be that people would realize how important our water is. I'd like them to stop leaving the water on for a long time.

Melissa Compton

Montclair

It would be that people would stop selling and using drugs. People who use drugs hurt themselves. The world would be a better place for people to live if there were no drugs that will harm us.

Michael Walsh

Montclair

It would be that people would stop killing animals. I think that people are being mean. What did the animals ever do to us? How would we like it if the animals started killing us? If we didn't have anywhere to hide? I think that people should not kill animals for the fur. I've seen animal skins on teddy bears and coats.

Maura O'Brien-Ali

Montclair

It would be that people would help each other. People should treat each other fairly. For example somebody could cook dinner and you might say, "Thank you!" It would be a better life.

Gabriel Ho

Montclair

I would want to be better in school. I want to be nice to other children. I wish I could have a mini bike, and a Super Mario Brother's three.

Nick Tarr

Point Webster

It would be that people would do more careful driving. Also people would stop drinking too much beer and wine before driving. They can get hurt and might go to the hospital. They can also harm others.

Sarah Houghton

Montclair

It would be to tell smokers to stop smoking because if they smoke too much it's bad for their health. My father is going to stop smoking. If everybody stops smoking they will be healthy.

Jennifer Cheng

Montclair

It would be to protect our environment by saving the rain forest and by stopping people from touching the coral reef. Smoke pollutes the air. Cars do also. We need to help our planet Earth.

Joe Barry

Montclair

It would be that children didn't have to watch TV shows that have violence in them. It might make children get in fights. Violent shows set bad examples for children. People who make shows that have too much violence should know how children feel about it.

Elaine Wong

Montclair

It would be that everyone would enjoy every holiday. I want them to be healthy and strong. I want them to have good food and nice friends. I'd also like them to have a good family.

Lily Moy

Montclair

It would be that Saddam Hussein would give back Kuwait. The soldiers could come home. The people of Kuwait would have freedom.

Kellie Whalen

Montclair

If I could have one wish on Hanukkah I would like a mini motorcycle because my friend has one. I never beat him on my bike. When I go to the store he is there before I'm across the street. I hate it. If it comes true I will do anything in the world.

Mike Feinef

Point Webster

It would be for Saddam Hussein to feel sorry for himself and leave Kuwait because he knew he was doing something wrong, very wrong.

April Bromaghin

Point Webster

It would be for my baby brother because I miss him a lot and I did not see him for a long time and I want to him to live with me forever.

Maria Cullen

Point Webster

I want all the soldiers in Kuwait to get Saddam Hussein out of there. He has hurt many people and I want the soldiers to teach him a lesson. I don't want them to go to war but to get him out of there peacefully.

Joe Moran

Point Webster

It would be to have a million dollars. I would spend it in a mall and in a toy store. I would buy all kinds of clothes. The best part about it would be I could buy anything I wanted. I could also take all my friends with me. We could shop until we drop. At the toy store I could buy toys, toys and more toys. Then the million would be all spent and I would go home.

Lauren Pizzi

Point Webster

I would wish Saddam Hussein would come out of Kuwait so our soldiers could come home.

MERRY CHRISTMAS
To all our friends and neighbors from all of us at BURGIN PLATNER INSURANCE
14 FRANKLIN STREET
QUINCY 472-3000

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

It would be fun to have a million dollars. I could buy lots of toys and books and clothes and a car. I can buy a dog. I can go to "Toys R Us". Give my mom and dad a car and my brother and put some in the bank to save.

Melissa Magnoli
Point Webster

I would wish for the poor people to have a good Christmas this month, because they don't have enough money to buy some presents for their friends and family.

Kimberly Wong
Point Webster

I could be the President of the United States, and I would help all the people in the world and I will stop the war in Saudi Arabia.

Ryan Donnelly
Point Webster

I would like Saddam Hussein to leave Kuwait because he doesn't have a long time. He only has until January 15, 1991. And I hope he releases our people so they can come home and have Christmas with their parents.

Sean Garvey
Point Webster

It would be that I could live in a house. Because all my life I've lived in an apartment. I still am living in an apartment. I find it boring. I have a nice home with everything a child needs. But I want a house, a swing, a pool and a backyard.

Nina Niamkey
Point Webster

It would be my mom and my dad would never die. Because I want to see the future.

Cheuk Wan
Lincoln Hancock

It would be a 57 Chevy. It would be full with gas and I would drive to California.

William Logan
Lincoln Hancock

It would be a power glove for Nintendo.

Anthony Cheverie
Lincoln Hancock

It would be that my aunt and uncle were alive.

John Moran
Lincoln Hancock

It would be all the homeless people would have a home. My family said that when I grow up I can help and I don't want to wait that long.

Kristen Beach
Lincoln Hancock

It would be that the soldiers come home from the Middle East because I knew one of them.

Jarrod DeCelle
Lincoln Hancock

It would be a walking go-go-puppy and super mario brothers three.

Julie Keane
Lincoln Hancock

It would be that my friend's dog will come alive and my uncle's leg will be better.

Shawna McCallum
Lincoln Hancock

It would be that my father come alive right now. We would have ice cream and we would play baseball and we would hug each other for fifteen days. We had the best times together.

Jeffrey O'Connell
Lincoln Hancock

It would be to help the poor. I would like to help the poor because I care.

Carolina Ochoa
Lincoln Hancock

It would be that the poor people get a lot of food.

Kathy Regas
Lincoln Hancock

It would be to get 18 dolls, a doll house and to help the poor.

Deanna Zakhary
Lincoln Hancock

It would be to help the homeless, because they would freeze in the snow.

Melissa Collins
Squantum

It would be that all the Marines and servicemen in Saudi Arabia come home soon and my dad won't have to go, because, their family might want them for Christmas.

Jessica Cappelluzzo
Squantum

It would be if our world would be at peace and no fighting because I don't like fighting. I try not to get into fights.

Paul Skarzenski
Squantum

It would be to be an adult for one day.

Danny McDonagh
Squantum

It would be that the people in Saudi Arabia would come home soon, because we miss them.

Chris Walsh
Squantum

It would be for army troops in Saudi Arabia to come home soon because we miss them.

Sean Adams
Squantum

It would be to help the homeless. Everybody should have a place to call home. People need a warm bed and a house to be together with their families, especially when winter comes.

Danielle Doherty
Squantum

It would be that my cat, Spencer, would be alive.

Daniel Dewey
Squantum

It would be for the poor and homeless to have a home because it will keep them warm.

Ryan Minezzi
Squantum

It would be to help the homeless, because, they don't have shelter and food.

Brian Shaw
Squantum

It would be a ninja because I like ninjas.

Aamir Main
Squantum

It would be World Peace, because we have men and women over in the Middle East who will be there for the holidays.

Jonathan Gray
Squantum

It would be a two story house with a farmer's porch and a rock wall and an inground pool.

Ryan Murray
Bernazzani

It would be peace on earth.

Kelli Smith
Bernazzani

It would be a new ten speed bike.

Jim Wirtz
Bernazzani

It would be to be a millionaire.

Lisa Della Croce
Bernazzani

It would be roller blades.

Lauren Awed
Bernazzani

It would be a puppy that I could watch TV with, a puppy that I would play games with and best of all to sleep with.

Caitlyn O'Donnell
Bernazzani

It would be peace.

Bobby Woods
Bernazzani

It would be justice and peace on earth.

Mieke Van Halsema
Bernazzani

It would be a kitten.

Jill Nicholson
Bernazzani

It would be to live in peace.

Thomas Bell
Bernazzani

It would be a radio.

Crystal Lynn Kelly
Bernazzani

It would be to get a hermit crab.

Kelly Mackey
Bernazzani

It would be to stop the pollution and make the world like God made it. So people would have a nice place to live.

Jennifer Halvorson
Atherton Hough

I wish I can help Santa Claus with the reindeer and go with him to drop off the presents and have fun with him.

Cheri Stevens
Atherton Hough

It would be that people in Iraq will come home for Christmas this year. They can stay home until it is Feb. I don't want a war in Iraq because we get our oil there. So do we want a war. NO!

Angela McCarthy
Atherton Hough

It would be for all the people in the world have a Merry Christmas and have a tree this year. All the poor will have a meal.

Colleen Ryan
Atherton Hough

I wish that I could see Rudolph's nose glow.

"Thank you for your support, kindness and friendship through the year."

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

It would be to have the whole entire Lego Land collection. I want this wish so I can have more fun. When I grow out of the toys I will give them to my brother. And I bet when my brother Kevin grows out of the toys he might give them to our sister, since Legos are for boys and girls.

David Quinlan
Wollaston

It would be to help poor people. I would give them clothes and food. I'd clean the earth real fast! No more fighting. I'd like to have a cat and a dog, too.

Jennifer Hettman
Wollaston

It would be to have the Middle East crisis to stop right this instant. And when the soldiers come back everyone will be happy.

Nora Adukonis
Wollaston

It would be ... a dog because I had a dog and it died. I would want a nice dog, a boxer dog. I would name it Max and I would train it not to bite. I would walk it every day and feed it.

Andrew Chlachio
Wollaston

It would be ... a magical Christmas, because a magical Christmas is when you can make wishes. I would wish peace and happiness this magical Christmas. And the spirit of Christmas (Santa) lives.

Elisabeth Hunt
Wollaston

It would be that all of the hostages will be freed to come home for the holidays. I would like a trip to Florida, too.

Ryan Buckley
Wollaston

It would be if there is a real Santa I want to see him. Because one day I saw my mother making a list of what I wanted for Christmas and I really want to see Santa if there is one. I doubt there is a Santa. There couldn't be a Santa because there are Santas everywhere. So I might believe there is a Santa and maybe I don't.

Ian Cain
Wollaston

It would be to have a new bike because my old one is too small and it's broken. The kind of bike I want is a Bahama Mama. I really want this for Christmas.

Lisa Vidoli
Wollaston

It would be that there would be no war in Saudi Arabia. I wish this because in Saudi Arabia there are a lot of serious things happening.

Adam Smith
Wollaston

It would be for a real sewing machine. It would be a sewing machine because I've always wanted one, a real one.

Rebecca Favorito
Parker

It would be for all people to have better eye-sight. I would want this wish because some people would die if they didn't. My brother wears glasses and I really want his eye-sight to get better in case he bumps into something and gets hurt because he didn't see it. I hope everybody takes care of their eyes.

Steven Marinilli
Wollaston

It would be that I would get a small black colt 1 year old. I love animals but my father is allergic to them. For Christmas the most I'd expect would be a hamster. If I got a kitten you don't know how happy I'd be.

Sarah Price
Wollaston

It would be to have David Levine come back to his home in Quincy from Saudi Arabia.

Kevin Moody
Parker

It would be that the people at Saudi Arabia would come home because I'm sure all their relatives miss them.

Brian Deshler
Parker

It would be to have the magic of Christmas.

Alan Law
Parker

It would be to have a baby Dalmatian because I love dogs and I've always wanted one.

Jaclyn Christo
Parker

It would be for snow.

Brian Purcell
Parker

It would be a book of Peter Pan.

Chrystal Labillais
Parker

It would be all the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles.

Scott Semchenko
Parker

It would be for every one to be healthy because it would be a nicer world.

James McCormack
Parker

It would be for a car.

Chris Licciardi
Parker

It would be that my Grandpa would get better and get out of the hospital.

Marc Gouthro
Parker

It would be to have my birthday party.

Minh Tan
Parker

It would be for a sport car because I will have something to ride in.

Jake Ly
Parker

It would be that people would use less energy. We should try to get most of our energy from the sun. We waste a lot of energy like oil, coal, and wood.

Stanley Wong
Montclair

It would be less fighting and arguing. Some strong people harm people that aren't strong. It's important to become friends and play with each other.

Mike McCarthy
Montclair

It would be to stop the wars because the people might get hurt. They have to leave their families. They only have two meals a day. They may get hungry and sad because they miss their families.

Jessica Sprague
Montclair

It would be that poor children would get toys and warm clothing. Then they won't be cold. They'll have toys to play with. We are collecting for Toys For Tots. We are helping the Marines.

James Martel
Montclair

It would be for less crimes in our neighborhoods because people are not safe. Children are not safe. Children are sad. If crimes would stop it would be safe. People would be happy.

Keith Kelley
Montclair

If I could have one wish come true this Hanukkah it would be that I could see my Uncle Danny and my cousin Kevin because they are in heaven.

Shane
Merrymont

It would be that I could see my grandfather and the poor could have a good home and food. People could also be nicer.

James Mateu
Merrymont

It would be to have an elf so he could do my homework and I could bring it to school.

Michael
Merrymont

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

It would be that all the homeless would get food and shelter.

Amy Gordon
Merrymount

It would be to see my grandmother. I would like to see my grandmother because she died.

Diana Amo
Merrymount

It would be for everybody to get what they wanted, because I would like everybody to have a Merry Christmas.

Kate Kodgis
Merrymount

It would be for me and my family to have a nice life in West Virginia. It would be fun down there because on my grandparent's farm there are cows that I could help feed. There are chickens. I can take their eggs and bring them back to the house. There are ducks that I can watch.

Anna Crosson
Point Webster

To see my two grandfathers and one of my grandmothers because I have never seen them. I love them. If I could see them again, I'd go run and kiss them and hug them and spend the day with them.

James Bennett
Point Webster

That policemen could stop drug abuse because every day children are dying of drugs and alcohol. Drugs effect children's minds and then cause sickness and when they go to school they can't concentrate and they can't get good grades. They will not be able to go to college. They will not have a future. Soon there will be no hope.

Melanie Michelangelo
Point Webster

It would be that the soldiers could make it home safe and soon. Why? Their families need them. And I hope they have a merry Christmas. But like most people say, "How could they in a desert". Well anyways, Merry Christmas!

Katelyn Sullivan
Point Webster

To have another sister because they are lots of fun to play with. My sister is the best friend in the whole world. She has a lot of fun with me because I am a lot of fun with babies. They are very, very, good when I baby sit.

Kimberly Doyle
Point Webster

It would be for the whole world to have peace. It would be great. And for my family to have the best Christmas in the whole world.

Joshua McGee
Point Webster

It would be that I could be an ice skater. I really like to ice skate. My uncle said I could be a champion of the ice skating team.

Katrina Stuart
Lincoln Hancock

It would be that my grandfather come alive for Christmas.

Courtney Tandy
Lincoln Hancock

It would be that there would be no war and that my uncle will come home for Christmas and all the other people in the Middle East. We all miss you uncle Eddie.

Nicole Calley
Lincoln Hancock

It would be, a miny bike with six gears because my uncle could take me to the Cape in the summer.

Robert McCarthy
Lincoln Hancock

It would be Nintendo because I lost mine. It is all I want, nothing else but that.

Andy Tam
Lincoln Hancock

If I could have one wish come true this Christmas it would be my own bedroom. I would like my own bedroom because I could do anything I want to. I could put my radio on any time and have friends sleep over and do all kinds of girl stuff.

Nicole Accomando
Lincoln Hancock

It would be to let the homeless have money and a new home.

Melissa Manning
Lincoln Hancock

It would be to give money to a homeless person because he would buy good food to eat and feed his family.

Richard Loughmiller
Squantum

It would be to help the homeless, because I'd like if the people at the shelter got something more than clothes like toys.

Erin Johnson
Squantum

It would be that the homeless found a house to live in. Because I don't want to see people out on the streets with no home this decade.

Katelyn Getschal
Squantum

It would be to have Christmas because on Christmas you can get presents from everybody you know.

Jennifer Brundige
Squantum

It would be to have a house in each state.

Michael Carloni
Bernazzani

It would be that all the people could be happy in the whole entire world.

Kim Sing
Bernazzani

It would be $100,000 dollars.

Matthew O'Connell
Bernazzani

It would be that my mother and father would live with each other.

Mike Gavin
Bernazzani

It would be I would like a bathroom for my dollhouse.

Heather Meighan
Bernazzani

It would be three kittens.

Zach Winderl
Bernazzani

I wish my grandmother and my papa were alive for this Christmas and all the other Christmases. I also wish they stayed alive because my papa bought me a watermelon almost each week. My grandmother always gave me lots of candy but most of all they gave me some of the best presents at Christmas. I miss them.

Nicki Distasi
Atherton Hough

I wish I had a flying car that I could fly around the world in. It would have a big tube that went and picked up all the trash. You might be thinking this guy's crazy. He can't fit all that trash in one car. Well the trash will disintegrate in three seconds. And the world will be trash free forever. The end.

If I Could Have One Wish

I wish everything could be recycled. If that wish came true, the world would be as clean as when the world was first created. All the dumps wouldn't be all filled. But until that is possible, we should all try to recycle everything that can be recycled.

Emily Wallace

It would be Game Boy. Even though I am a girl, I want Game Boy. It is fun to play Tetris. I don't want my old one because it is broken. I hope my wish will come true.

Ming Lee
Lincoln Hancock

It would be peace and for the soldiers in Saudi Arabia to come home to their families and have a very nice Christmas. I want Saddam Hussein let all the hostages free and Saddam Hussein gets out of Kuwait and doesn't come back and admits that he knew he was doing something wrong.

Geovanina Barros
Point Webster

My wish would be to be sixteen so I can drive and go any way I want to go. And have my own bank account. And own life.

James Hussey
Point Webster

I would wish that the homeless have homes or food so they would not have to live on or in alleys.

Almon Beneway
Point Webster

It would be ... a brand new car set, Magic nursery baby, a doll house, a real girl baby kitten, a tea set, a little blanket and a pillow for my cradle, the rest of my precious places.

Sarah Dove
Point Webster

It would be that everyone could have a wonderful Christmas and that the soldiers come home and there won't be any war.

Kristin Klock
Point Webster

It would be --- for all people to have homes and food. I want for all people to be happy and for the soldiers to come back.

Jackie
Point Webster

That my mom does not have as much work as she does. Why, because I feel bad for her. She has four kids and she has to take care of them, and the housework, too.

Nina Tarr

It would be a pony because it would be fun to ride it. I could trot and gallop. I could jump fences. It would be fun to ride it to school and go to the store for my mother.

Christina McLaughlin
Point Webster

It would be a book of all the Peter Rabbit stories. I just hope Santa will bring me the book. I have been wanting that book for two years. So I wrote it on my list. If this wish come true I will get my book.

Shirley Kwok
Montclair

It would be that the pollution would stop and people would throw away trash and recycle with the bins. People would put plastic, paper and glass to be recycled. People need to use both sides of the paper they use and, won't write on the walls of schools.

Elizabeth Copson
Montclair

It would be . . . clean up the world. Also clean up the beaches, also the air. It would be better if more cars had air bags. I think every weekend we should clean up.

Eric Mannai
Montclair

I'd wish that it would be against the law to pollute. A farm smells better and cleaner. I'd wish that there would be no diseases around so we don't get sick. My biggest wish of all is that all kids, babies, and other people have good parents! So have a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

Jason Tubo

It would be that all the homeless people could get food, and homes! Also be healthy and have people to love! And all the children that don't have homes, a family, and food, to get it! And for all the people in Saudi Arabia to come home! And every one to have a Merry Christmas!

Julie Hazelton
Montclair

It would be the whole world gets homes and food. I love this Christmas the poor kids get toys. I really like to buy toys and give them to poor kids. So that at Christmas kids will get toys. I love doing good things. It is fun.

Maria Coughlin
Montclair

It would be to see my relatives all together. I bet there would be a lot. I see some of my mom's family and my dad's family. I'd rather see them all together.

Jill English
Montclair

It would be that all of the homeless people would get some toys for Christmas, food, clothes, homes, families, school and educations. The way you can help is to bring clothes that don't fit you to a place where people would send them to the homeless. Toys for Tots will help so the homeless kids would have toys. UNICEF will help a child to get food, medicine, homes and other stuff.

Mary Paul
Montclair

It would be cleaning up the world. People should clean up their houses. People should clean up the air and trash. I think people should clean up their toys after playing with them. People should clean up their schools.

Michael Cheong

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

That all the sick people in the world get better. Christmas to me means gathering with my family and dog. Christmas is my favorite holiday because Jesus is with us. It is hard to wait for Christmas.

Angela Andronico
Point Webster

It would be that homeless people and orphans and foster children have at least three presents. Why? When they go back to school it's show and tell and they have nothing to show.

Caitlyn Roberts
Point Webster

I would wish for the homeless to have a home, because they do not have and food and if they have a baby it might die. I am sad because they don't have a family at all. They have to sleep on the ground. I would wish for the soldiers to come home for Christmas to see their families. I would wish for Saddam Hussein not to start a war, and he will go home. I want to have a good Christmas. End.

Shawna Auger

It would be that everyone would have some food and a warm place to stay. I want this because I watch the news and I get sad.

It would be that we lived in Fall River. It would be awesome. I would have fun and play with my cousins.

Jennifer Pratt
Lincoln Hancock

It would be that the world had no bad people. The world would be better if it didn't have any bad people. The world has too many bad things happen because of the bad people. That is the worst thing I want for New Year. If there weren't any bad people in the world bad things wouldn't happen. If bad things keep happening the world would be filled with bad things. The world should not have to have bad people. It's not fair for the good people, because good people don't do anything to the bad people.

I wish people would stop the pollution. I want people to stop polluting so the animals that live in the sea can live. I also want people to stop polluting so I only have to walk down the street to go swimming. I don't only want people to stop polluting the water, but to stop polluting the whole environment. I wish it was as clean as it was when it was first created. And that is the way I want it to stay. Want you like like a nice clean world to live in. Do you want to help clean this world up?

Basketball

North Launches Season On Right Foot

The North Quincy boys' basketball team launched the season on the right foot last week, but it wasn't easy.

Ted Stevenson's Raiders, who just missed making the Eastern Mass. Tournament last year, squeezed by Boston Latin, 57-56, in a non-league opener when John Chou hit a foul shot with seven seconds left in the game.

The Raiders were due to open their first Old Colony League season Tuesday against league powerhouse Plymouth and will host Quincy Friday at 7 o'clock in a league game.

At the start of the season Stevenson said he would be depending on Capt. Brian Curran and sophomore Sean Donovan, the only returning varsity players, for most of the scoring.

This proved correct in the opener as Curran had a big night with 25 points and 20 rebounds. Donovan, who played regularly last year as a freshman, chipped in with 12 points and Chris Colson added 10.

The Raiders had a 47-43 at halftime but Latin bounced back, led by Tom Hannah, on its home floor. Hannah had 13 points.

Wrestling

Quincy Has Young Team With 3 Senior Captains

The Quincy wrestling team had a fine 15-5 record a year ago but coach Lou Venturelli, in his fourth year, has a younger and less experienced squad this season.

"We have several key members of last year's team to bolster the lineup, but numbers are low," said Venturelli. "We started with 30 boys but a variety of circumstances has cut that number to 20."

The team is backoned by its three senior captains, Matt Fatolillo (110), Bob Stanton (145) and Tom Burton (171).

Three juniors with varsity experience are Dave Cahill (103), Greg Souza (140) and Ally Sleiman (150). The rest are in their first year of competition.

"I am very impressed with the talent the freshmen and sophomores are showing," said Venturelli. "The trouble is there just aren't enough of them."

Freshmen Peter Penwarden (112), Ashley Davis (130) and Tim Dowling (140) will see a lot of varsity action and Shane O'Connor (103) and Jamie Stavroz (140) wait for their chance.

Sophomores Jim Reilly (135), Mark Nutley (171) and Charles Bartlett (189) are making immediate impacts.

Capable backups are Bill Hodgdon (119), Mike Cheney (145) and Guy Schipellite (heavyweight). Juniors adding depth are Jason Kelley (140), Clint Currie (152) and Rich Buckley (heavyweight).

Venturelli is assisted by former QHS standout Robert Cabezas, a two-time state place winner, and volunteers are state champion Al Souza and John Heath.

The Presidents faced Silver Lake yesterday (Wednesday) and Saturday will meet Longmeadow, Xaverian and Agawam in a quadrangular meet at Agawam.

Susan Duval Sun Football Contest Winner

Susan Duval of Canton is this week's winner in The Quincy Sun Football Contest.

Duval correctly picked nine out of 11 winners to claim the weekly $25 cash prize sponsored by The Sun. The only games she missed were Houston's win over Kansas City and Tampa Bay's victory against Minnesota.

Anyone can enter the contest. Just fill out the official entry form in this edition of The Quincy Sun. Forms can be mailed to the Sun office at 1372 Hancock St., Quincy, MA 02169, or dropped off at the above address. Entries must be postmarked by Saturday or dropped off by 3:30 p.m. Saturday to be eligible.

Early Sports Deadline Next Week

Because of the Christmas Day holiday, there will be an early sports deadline for next week's Quincy Sun.

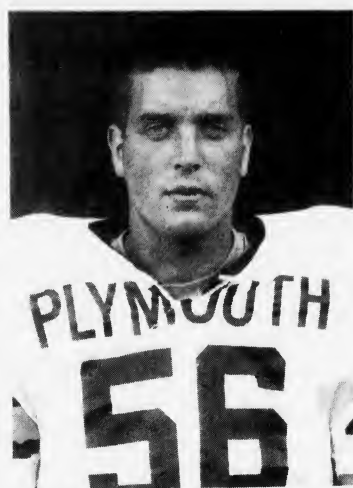

All sports releases must be in the Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Center, by noon on Friday, Dec. 21.

The Sun office will be closed Tuesday.

A similar sports deadline will also be in effect the following week because of the New Year's Day holiday.

All sports releases for the Jan. 3 issue must be in the Sun office by noon on Friday, Dec. 28.

The Sun office will be closed Tuesday, Jan. 1.

STEVE DEVER of North Quincy played defensive tackle for the Plymouth State College football team which won the New England Football Conference title for the ninth time in 10 years this fall. Dever, a 1985 graduate of North Quincy High, is the son of William and Mary Dever.

Hockey

North Off To Good Start

The North Quincy hockey team, under first-year coach Tom Benson, got off to a good start in the Raiders' first Old Colony League season with an exciting 4-3 decision over Silver Lake, always one of the league's top teams, last Saturday at the Quincy Youth Arena.

North had opened its season with a 2-2 tie with Marshfield in a non-league game.

The Raiders hosted Barnstable last night (Wednesday), will play at Falmouth Saturday at 8 p.m. and will be home to Durfee in a non-league game next Wednesday night at 7:50.

Silver Lake scored the first goal against North but the Raiders came back with four unanswered goals.

Sophomore Mike DesRoche scored two goals and John Jarnis and Sean Vermette a goal apiece. Vermette also assisted on both of DesRoche's goals.

The Lakers scored twice within 11 seconds at 7:50 of the third period, but goalie Pat O'Donoghue and the defense prevented them from tying it up.

O'Donoghue was outstanding in goal and defensemen Mark Zych, Duane Keegan, Rich Brooks and Matt Swierk did an excellent job," said Benson. "Our first line of Vermette, Mike DesRoche and Mike O'Brien has done most of the scoring, but the second and third lines have been excellent and should do its share of the scoring in future games."

In the opening game against Marshfield Zych scored the tying goal with a minute remaining. Mike DesRoche assisted on the goal and also scored North's first goal.

With eight seconds left DesRoche had a breakaway but the Rams' goalie, Pat Ford, who had 20 saves, made a fine save.

North goalie Dennis Ruggere was brilliant as he was forced to come up with 57 saves.

"Dennis was just outstanding and made many great saves," Benson said.

Marshfield of the Atlantic Coast League had goals from Brendan MacDermott and Dan Sheehan. Kevin English, Pat Crowley, Kevin Walsh and Tim Gardner had assists.

60 Turn Out For North Boys Team

Coach Peter Chrisom greeted 60 candidates for the North Quincy boys' winter track team and hopes for a winning season in its Old Colony League debut.

Although the Raiders were walloped, 77-14, by powerhouse Falmouth in their opener, Chrisom feels they will be improved this season. Falmouth for years has had one of the top track and cross country teams in Eastern Mass.

North's lone winner was John O'Donnell, who took the high jump at five feet, 10 inches.

North faced Bridgewater-Raynham yesterday (Wednesday) and will meet Barnstable Saturday at 2 o'clock. Both meets will be at Falmouth.

North has Mike Yee, Mark Larson, Gavin Chan, Chris Hill, Edwin Chin, Kevin Price and John Laing.

The spring corps is led by talented seniors Wayne Sit and Hiep Ngo. Both are three-year veterans as is another senior, Kin Lee. Other sprinters are Matt Groom and Jim Georgakakis. The 300-yard runners include football standouts Chris Murray and Mark Cocuzzo.

Others are Mike Sweeney, Keith Deschler, Dave Reinhart, Scott McCormick, Warren Fong, Chan, Han Thai and Ricky Cheng.

There are several fine looking prospects in the 600 including sophomores Josh O'Donnell, Mark Sinclair and Shawn Herron, Mike Herman, Rob Hannaford, Nick Kesaris and Chris Lock.

Adam Chansky leads the 1000-yard runners and is joined by Ed Rizzitano and Hugh Meighan.

Greg Buck and Eric Torvi, who excelled in cross country, will run the distances as will Ken Duncan and Sam Kwan.

The shot putters are led by Chris Lineman and Scott Kohler, both veterans. Others are Kevin Glennon, Alan Wong, Mike Linnena, Peter Licciardi, Jim Campbell, Joe Narbonne and freshman Sean Halpin.

John O'Donnell, an experienced junior and the only winner against Falmouth, heads the high jumpers and hopes to clear the six-foot barrier this year. By season's end he may threaten the school record of 6-4 held by Jack Leone. Other jumpers are Mike Sweeney, Mike Burke and Ngo.

A new wrinkle this year is the addition of the 4 x 1 lap relay, and North has a talented team in Sit, Ngo, Murray and Cocuzzo. Running the mile relay will be Josh O'Donnell, Sinclair, Herron, Sweeney, Chansky and Herman.

"We have a good mix of veterans and newcomers and should do well," said Chrisom. "This league is better balanced than the Suburban League and I expect Falmouth and Weymouth to be the strong teams in this league."

Chrisom is being assisted by Ken McPhee and volunteer Chris Morton, a 1975 North graduate and a member of indoor and outdoor squads under Lou Fozzi.

North Girls Have High Hopes Despite Loss

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy girls' track team has high hopes for a winning season after going .500 last year and having a 4-2 spring season and an outstanding 7-1 record this fall in cross country.

Coach Jeff Hennessy welcomed 55 candidates and, although the North girls bowed to powerhouse Falmouth, 50.5-40.5, in their opener, Hennessy was pleased with their performance.

Falmouth year in and year out has some of the strongest track and cross country teams in Eastern Mass. and looks potent again this season.

North's sprinters are led by Amy Wong and rookies Katy Deady and Esther Alexander.

The 300-yarders include Jen Nutley, Susanne Hamilton, Tammy Coull, Kerry Evans, Miyon Park, Julie Johnston, Amy Shea, Amy Grasso, Nicole Green, Chris Perry, Danielle Aliberti and Pam Francoeur.

Running the 600 are Ilana Cobban, Heather Rendle, Karen Leary, Zoe Bohl, Andrea Carinci, Janet Pollard, Leah Homond, Lisa Flynn and Stacy Flynn.

The 1000-yard hopes hang on talented freshman Melanie Graziano. She is joined by Lindsey McGovern, Laurie Connolly, Kristy Kabilian and Chrissy Herman.

Running the distances are Suzanne Lewis, Jenn Flynn, Julie Tangney, Annmarie Montgomery, Lesley Mahoney and Erin Duggan.

Tristen Mastrogiamoco leads the hurdles group which also includes Aimee Chin and Cheryl Kelly.

Mastrogiamoco also leads the shot putters. Others are Soyal Park, Maria Gavros and Tricia McNamara.

High jumpers are Heather Rendle, Rebecca Squires, Kelly and Hamilton.

The new 4 x 1 lap relay team includes Wong, Deady, Hamilton and Nutley. The mile relay team includes Cobban, Rendle, Gaziano, Lewis and Coull.

"The kids are working hard and we have a good coaching staff," said

Hennessy.

"It was no disgrace losing to a power like Falmouth and the Old Colony League has other strong teams including Silver Lake, Taunton and Weymouth. The development of our rookies is the key, but this is the most talented squad we have had since the Lou Tozzi years of the early 1980s."

Assisting Hennessy are Maureen Roche and volunteer Georgia Traficante, both Herald, Globe and Patriot Ledger all-scholastics in high school. Both competed for Hennessy with the Quincy Track Club.

In the loss to Falmouth Mastrogiamoco won the shot put at 31-3 1/2 and placed second in the hurdles in 8.1 seconds. Other winners were Lewis in the mile, Squires in the high jump and the 4 x 1 lap relay team of Deady, Wong, Hamilton and Nutley.

The North girls faced Bridgewater-Raynham yesterday (Wednesday) and will meet Barnstable Saturday at 2 o'clock. Both meets are at Falmouth.

North Boys Open With Win Over Stoughton

The North Quincy boys' swim team, hoping to continue where the outstanding girls' team left off, opened the season last week with an 111-51 victory over Stoughton.

Bill Walker's Raiders were scheduled to face New Bedford Tuesday afternoon, will host Waltham today (Thursday) at 3:30 at the Lincoln Hancock School pool and will be off until Jan. 2 when they swim at Duffee.

The North girls' team, also coached by Walker, had its best season this fall as it went 12-1, won the first Pilgrim conference championship, dominated the all-conference meet and placed third in the South Sectionals.

The Raiders won all but one event in dominating Stoughton with Dan Reilly and Dave Skutul winning two events each and swimming on the two winning relay teams.

Reilly won the 200-yard butterfly and 100-yard butterfly and Skutul won the 50 and 100-yard freestyle events.

Reilly, Skutul, Barry Canavan and Mike Ploof combined to win the 200-yard freestyle relay and Reilly, Skutul, Ploof and Mike Harris won the 400-yard freestyle relay.

Stoughton (1-1) was paced by Dan Levin's win in the 500-yard freestyle and Eric Isveck, who had two second-place finishes.

Bogan On Division All-Star Team

Quincy's Mark Bogan, who rushed for 1280 yards and scored 112 points this fall, was named to the division 1 all-star football team.

Bogan finished two points behind Brockton's

Anthony Comer in the division 1 scoring race, scored two touchdowns against North Quincy, added a pair of two-point conversions and had two touchdowns nullified by penalties. He also had an outstanding game on defense.

Bogan and teammates Dave Chapman, Bill Reardon and Graham Chevy, as well as North Quincy's Desmond Bellot, were named to the Old Colony League all-star first team.

Expanded School Program For School Vacation

The Quincy Recreation Department will supervise the Lincoln-Hancock Community Pool on an expanded schedule during school vacation, announces Director Barry Welch.

The pool will operate on a special schedule Wednesday, Dec. 26 through Friday, Dec. 28, Welch said.

The program, for youngsters age six to high school, will be conducted from 1 to 4 p.m. Swims will be supervised by the Recreation Department Aquatic Staff certified in accordance with American Red Cross standards.

Participants may use their regular pool participation card or pay a guest fee at the door. Parents accompanying youngsters may also swim.

Since the day program is for additional hours of swimming, regularly scheduled evening departmental swims will still be held Wednesday, Dec. 26 through Friday, Dec. 28 as well as the day program on Sunday.

The pool will be closed Mondays and Tuesdays, Dec. 24, 25 and 31 and Jan. 1.

For more information, call the Quincy Recreation Department at 773-1380 ext. 204.

Smith To Continue 'Picketing' State To Make Safety Modifications At Fore River Bridge

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

For Joseph Smith of Quincy, "picketing" the Fore River Bridge is beginning to get results.

Smith, who started picketing shortly after his 16-year-old son Roger was killed in an auto accident on the bridge Oct. 12, has been assured by state officials that the Commonwealth will begin making short-term safety modifications to the 54-year-old structure.

Smith met with state Department of Public Works Commissioner Jane Garvey for nearly an hour Monday in the office of Mayor James A. Sheets. Also attending were DPW Spokesman Michael Moran, representatives for Cong. Brian Donnelly and Sen. Paul Harold, Council President Ted DeCristofaro and Smith's son, David, and sister, Donna Eaton.

According to Smith and Moran, the state will soon begin making short-term modifications to the bridge while examining long-term changes.

Short-term modifications to be implemented within a few weeks include repainting all pavement and lane markers to improve visibility; installing crash cushions along four steel draw bridge gates; and extending the existing wooden wheel guard to prevent vehicles from jumping the curb onto the sidewalk.

Moran also said the state DPW will "look into" replacing the existing highway lighting with brighter lights and improve traction on the bridge's steel grating by adding steel studs or possibly applying a grit paint or substance, like that used on the rungs of a ladder, to improve traction.

Moran said the paint or substance must be able to withstand the impact of 30,000 vehicles which cross the bridge daily.

As for long-range changes, Moran said the DPW will look into redesigning the entire bridge deck and "make it more state of the art."

First, the department will consult with a bridge designer to see what kind of improvements can be made, such as replacing the grating. He said new grating must be able to be light and flexible enough so that the bridge can be raised and lowered and strong enough to support vehicles traveling over it.

Moran would not estimate the cost to implement the short-term modifications but added the department would find the money, whatever the price.

"Our desire is to find the money wherever it may be to effect these improvements. These improvements have been given our top priority," he said.

After the meeting, Smith said he was satisfied state officials met with him regarding his concerns over the safety of the bridge.

Smith's son, Roger, was killed when the car his son was driving skidded on wet steel grating at the top of the bridge. According to Weymouth police, Roger lost control of the car, it slid sideways and crashed into a drawbridge steel gate.

The car was nearly cut in half. According to the police report, Smith was not wearing a seatbelt and drugs and alcohol did not contribute to the crash. Witnesses at the scene said Roger was not speeding.

Smith said he will be completely satisfied when all the safety modifications are implemented. In fact, he has vowed to continue his vigil at the bridge until the long-term changes he wants are carried out.

They include replacing the grating, erecting a large sign over the bridge warning motorists it is slippery when wet and installing railings on the sidewalk to protect people who walk over the bridge.

"I will not stop until I see everything that I want on that bridge done. And I don't care if it takes them a year or two.

"If I can get those immediate things done now, I'll be happy with that for now but it's not going to take me away from the bridge. I'll stop when that bridge is perfect."

Asked what perfect is, Smith replied, "Not another soul gets killed going over it."

And with a new state administration taking office in January, Smith said he wants the modifications to begin before Gov.-Elect William Weld is sworn in.

"I want Gov. Weld to know that we've implemented these things and that he's going to be expected to carry them through because I will be on that bridge until it's done. I'm not going to back off."

In addition to the changes, Smith also wants the state DPW to issue a public statement declaring Roger was not at fault.

"My son was not the blame of the accident. He had nothing to do with the cause of it. He just happened to be on the wrong side of it."

Committed to the bridge cause, Smith has begun asking the three Boston television news channels to broadcast the bridge story. By airing the tragic tale of Roger's death, Smith hopes more people become aware, thus possibly averting a similar tragedy.

He also said he appreciates the support he has received from residents throughout the area.

"It's their victory as well as mine."

More Christmas Baskets For Needy This Year

According to his own personal Christmas policy, he added, all of the toys are new ones.

Volunteers have also been busy year-round knitting mittens, hats and scarves for the Salvation Army to distribute, Labossiere said.

"It's kind of funny when you get them in July, but they come in handy at Christmas."

The Salvation Army band has been paying visits to several area nursing homes and hospitals, bringing Christmas cheer and small gifts for residents. Last Sunday, Labossiere said, the band split in quartets and quintets to visit six nursing homes in one afternoon.

Special holiday parties for children have also been sponsored by various businesses and organizations in conjunction with The Salvation Army.

"We've had a pretty full schedule," Labossiere said, adding that contributions from Quincy residents, businesses and groups have helped to make this busy time a little easier for The Salvation Army.

"This is my first Christmas in the Quincy area," he said, "and I've found that the people of Quincy have really risen to the occasion to help others who are in need during the Christmas season."

Father Bill's Place, Shelter for homeless expects to provide shelter and food for a full house of 65 over Christmas. Each resident will also receive a gift on Christmas morning.

Gifts of clothing, toiletries, tote bags, hats, and gloves have been donated by several Quincy businesses, civic and community groups as well as individuals and, as of Monday they were still coming in, according to Laurie Boisbert, Food Manager for Father Bill's.

The North Quincy Business Association collected donations for Father Bill's Place and other organizations for the needy during its Christmas Celebration early in the month.

The Co-Operative Bank of Quincy and Braintree also invited people to decorate a special Christmas tree in the branch lobbies with mittens, hats and scarves to be donated to Father Bill's.

In addition, the Quincy Interfaith Coalition, which operates Father Bill's Place, is planning a Community Christmas dinner to be held at the Central Baptist Church, 69 Washington St., from 1 to 3 p.m. on Christmas Day.

Boisbert emphasizes the dinner is not for the homeless alone, but is open to anyone in the community.

"It's for anyone who needs a place to go on Christmas," she says, "so they don't have to be alone."

Boisbert said anywhere from 25 to 300 could show up for the Christmas dinner, but she's planning for at least 150.

There will be turkey and all the trimmings, she said, including homemade cranberry sauce from one volunteer who "makes it by the gallon."

Although she is still organizing volunteers for the dinner, Boisbert said she expects a lot of support from the community.

"For our Thanksgiving dinner we had people coming by to drop off a pie or banana bread, or a cooked turkey...everybody pitched in. Stop & Shop, businesses...we were far from forgotten," she said.

"I think people are more aware of the homeless situation than they were a year and a half ago. Even with the economy the way it is, it hasn't stopped people from giving to others less fortunate than themselves...we're really lucky to have such a good, strong community. I think the community really supports us."

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

D. Scott Deware

"I will honor Christmas in my heart, and try to keep it all year." So wrote Charles Dickens, for whom Christmas was a favorite topic - so much so that most people, asked to name someone who wrote about Christmas, would immediately answer, "Dickens."

Not only Dickens, but almost every writer, from the little-known to the famous, has been inspired at some time in his career to "honor Christmas" in prose or poetry. For instance -

At Christmas play and make good cheer, for Christmas comes but once a year ... Thomas Tusser.
I heard the bells on Christmas Day ... Their old familiar carols play ... And soft and sweet the words repeat, "God is not dead, nor doth he sleep." ... Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

So shall we learn to understand ... The simple faith of shepherds then ... And clasping kindly hand in hand, sing "Peace on earth, good will to men!" ... James Russell Lowell.

We at the Deware Funeral Home add our voices - wishing you and yours the finest of holidays...

PRAYER OF SUPPLICATION TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, light all roads so that I can obtain my goals. You who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life you are with me, I thank you for all things as you confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you, even and in spite of all material illusion. I wish to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy toward me and mine. The person must say this prayer for three consecutive days. After three days, the favor requested will be granted, even if it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after the favor is granted without mentioning the favor. ## Historical Lights To Be Turned On Friday

The long-awaited lighting of the 42 historical lighting fixtures in Quincy Center will take place Friday, Dec. 21 around 4:45 p.m., Mayor James A. Sheets Tuesday.

The lights which represent the first phase of the mayor's historical lighting program will illuminate the area from the corner of the Monroe Building, down both sides of Hancock St. to Quincy Center Plaza, Temple St. around United First Parish Church to the corner of Coddington and Hancock Sts.

Ten of the lights were supposed to be turned on last Friday but the lighting was delayed by Mass. Electric. Sheets said the 10 lights along Hancock St. could go on before Friday's ceremony.

"We want them on for public safety reasons," the mayor said.

Even if the 10 lights are illuminated before Friday, Sheets said the fixtures will still be part of the ceremony.

Before the ceremony, each of the 42 light sponsors will have a picture taken at their respective post. The photos will be given to the sponsors as a memento of the occasion and their sponsorship.

A brief ceremony will then take place inside the atrium at Presidents Place. Sheets said he will speak and then he'll likely throw the switch on outside.

A reception will follow the lighting ceremony.

Sheets has invited former

Mayor Francis X. McCauley to participate because he initiated many of the new building projects in the downtown area.

No streets will be blocked off. Sheets said there will be adequate police personnel to help pedestrians in the area.

Special Hospital Fund Approved

The state legislature Monday passed legislation which sets up a special account for Quincy Hospital.

The bill, which was sent to Gov. Dukakis for his signature, provides for a special account to be used in recruiting new doctors. The legislation was co-sponsored by Senator Paul Harold and Rep. Michael Morrissey.

Harold said it would be a "useful tool for the recruitment of new doctors in specialties such as obstetrics and internal medicine."

A home-rule petition calling for the special account was passed earlier this year by the City Council. Hospital Director Ellen Zane told councilors the recruiting incentive is currently used by private and public hospitals throughout the state to attract highly qualified physicians.

Soba, 28 Aspinwall Rd.; and Joseph A. West, 84 Lincoln Ave.

Taxpayers appearing on the list should contact the nearest DOR office and request Form M-3911, which enables DOR to correct the taxpayer's address on the computer system and release the unclaimed refund.

The nearest DOR district office to Quincy is located at 100 Cambridge St., Boston, MA 02204. The phone number is (617) 727-4545.

Confidentiality laws prohibit DOR from publicly releasing the amount of the refunds. The average refund is approximately $140.

Friday Deadline For Sun 'Citizen Of Year' Nominations

See Ballot Below

There is still time to submit nominations for The Quincy Sun's sixth annual "Citizen of the Year Award."

Established in 1985, the award recognizes an individual for outstanding community service.

Last year, Clara Yeomans of Wollaston, a long-time environmental activist and natural resources consultant to the community, received the award. A charter member of the Quincy Conservation Commission and 30-year member of Save Our Shores, Yeomans was selected from 37 nominees.

She was nominated by Corrinne Mitchell of Wollaston.

The first award winner was Tony Siciliano, deputy director of Quincy Civil Defense and auxiliary police chief. He was chosen from 31 nominees.

Ruth Wainwright of Houghs Neck, a long-time community volunteer, was named the winner in 1986. She was selected from 43 nominees.

The third award was presented posthumously to the late Richard J. Koch who was active in many charitable and community causes for four decades.

The 1988 recipient was Martin Finnegan, athletic director for Quincy Public Schools. Selected from 33 nominees, Finnegan was recognized for coordinating Project Impact, an innovative program which trains teachers and adults to help youngsters deal with drug, alcohol and other problems.

The award winner is honored at a reception hosted by The Quincy Sun at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center.

Those nominated the past five years are eligible to be nominated again this year. Since it is not a popularity contest, a person receiving the most nominations is not necessarily sure of being the final winner.

Anyone nominated just once has an equal opportunity to being named the final winner.

Deadline for nominations is Saturday, Dec. 29.

Nominations are now being accepted. Sun readers have the opportunity to nominate the person they feel is the most deserving.

After nominations close Dec. 29, a judging panel will be selected to make the final choice from the nominations submitted. A nomination ballot to help the selection process is on Page 2 of this week's issue of The Sun.

If you know someone you would like to see recognized with this award, fill out the form and mail it to:

Citizen of the Year Award

The Quincy Sun
1372 Hancock Street
Quincy, MA 02169
Nominations should be postmarked no later than Dec. 29.

Nominations can also be dropped off at The Sun office at the above address no later than Dec. 29.

Those submitting nominations should identify themselves. They can also attach to the ballot a letter describing in more detail the reason for the nomination.

Nominees can be someone in elective office, a member of an appointed board, a clergy member, a teacher or school administrator, a police officer or firefighter, someone in the business community, a sports figure or someone next door who has given freely of his or her time to a worthy project or cause.

Remember, deadline for nominations is Saturday, Dec. 29.

The name of the winner will be announced in The Quincy Sun in January.

Here is the opportunity for you to voice your opinion as to who deserves to be The Quincy Sun's "Citizen of the Year" for 1990.

1990 In Review

Tight Money, Revitalization Highlight Year

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The year 1990 in Quincy could be summarized by three words: cleaner, greener and leaner.

The seeds of that theme were planted in January when James Andrew Sheets was sworn in as Quincy's 31st mayor. In his inaugural address, Sheets pledged to search for solutions to the city's economic problems while improving the quality of life here.

Within a few months, the mayor's pledge was beginning to take shape.

In February, Sheets filed two lawsuits in an attempt to prevent the MWRA from siting a permanent sludge facility at the former General Dynamics shipyard.

In the spring, the mayor's Cleaner, Greener Quincy campaign was embraced by hundreds, including residents and business people who pitched in to collect debris and spruce up the city's neighborhoods and business districts.

On the fiscal front, the mayor and other local leaders were forced to make some of the most difficult decisions since Proposition 2 and a half was approved 10 years ago.

To eliminate a $15 million shortfall in FY 91, Sheets convinced the City Council to adopt a sewer user fee which would generate $9.5 million and ordered six percent cuts in all departments.

As a result, the city's payroll was reduced by 47 workers by the start of the new fiscal year in July. Laid off workers included 18 fire, 17 school and 13 police positions.

On the plus side, five firefighters were rehired in August.

With city and state money tight, officials looked elsewhere to fund their programs.

In July, a delegation led by the mayor successfully lobbied Washington for a $250,000 federal grant which will help the city plan the revitalization of Downtown Quincy.

Officials also hoped the local economy would be boosted by the placement of 42 historical lights, the Quincy Center Traffic Improvement Project and the opening of the $60 million Presidents Place building on the site of the former Bargain Center.

Speaking of bargains, the city made perhaps the deal of the year when BFI agreed to expand Quincy's paper recycling program to include plastics and glass. The weekly program, which was launched in August, cost $249,000, the same as last year's bi-weekly program.

On another positive note, the city, as well as other South Shore communities, celebrated the state's decision not to permit a hazardous waste facility to operate in the Fore River industrial basin.

In other news, one public official's career ended, another began while a third reverted.

Early in the year, Police Chief Francis X. Finn announced his retirement after 24 years as chief. He was succeeded by Francis E. Mullen, a 33-year department veteran, in September.

A few weeks after Mullen's appointment, Fire Chief Paul O'Connell stepped down to become a deputy chief again.

Politically, Quincy did not support Gov.-Elect William Weld but helped defeat proposals which would have restricted the use of state consultants and roll back $1 billion the state had already collected and spent.

Francis X. McCauley, Arthur Tobin, Walter Hannon and Joseph J. LaRaia.

On a sad note, the city lost several prominent citizens, including Dr. Samuel Young, 88, former president of Eastern Nazarene College; Dr. Edward F. Fitzgerald, 77, long-time Quincy Hospital surgeon; and well-known businessmen, Joseph B. Grossman, 98, and Ernest J. Montilio, 72.

Here are some of the year's highlights:

January

The city began the new decade with a new mayor, James A. Sheets, who pledged on Inauguration Day to search for solutions to economic problems while improving the quality of life here.

After taking the oath of office, Sheets acknowledged hard work and unity were needed to overcome tough financial conditions. Quincy, like other communities in the state, was experiencing budget restraints due to rising costs and cuts in local aid.

However, in his Inaugural address, Sheets was optimistic the city would regain its financial footing.

"We will succeed because we have learned the secret of leadership—that the hopes of our future rests not on the grandness of our plans but the character of the people."

"We will succeed because we know that trust is more important than the exercise of power, that leadership must be conscientious and accountable, because we will listen before we act."

Sheets, who succeeded four-term mayor Francis X. McCauley who did not seek re-election, outlined several courses of action. The included the need for new revenue sources, a freeze on hiring, rezoning the city and the search for federal funds for a cultural center.

He also said his administration would go to court in an attempt to stop a permanent sludge facility at the former General Dynamics shipyard. The city's fight against a hazardous waste incinerator in the Fore River industrial basin would also continue, he pledged before several hundred officials and residents inside the Quincy Vocational-Technical gymnasium.

In other inauguration news, Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro was unanimously elected council president and School Committeeman Frank Santoro was unanimously elected vice chairman of the committee.

Among the elected officials taking the oath of office were newcomers Peter Kolson (Ward 1 councillor), Thomas Fabrizio (Ward 4 councillor), and Mary Jane Powers and Ronald

Early News Deadline For Next Week's Sun

Because of the New Year's Day holiday, there will be an early news and advertising deadline for next week's Quincy Sun.

All news, church, entertainment, social and sports releases as well as advertising copy for the Jan. 3rd issue must be in the Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Center, by Friday, Dec. 28 at noon.

The Sun office will be closed Tuesday, Jan. 1.

The Quincy Sun staff sincerely wishes all of its readers and their families a happy and healthy 1991.

Financial Aid Program At NQHS

A financial aid information program will be held Tuesday, Jan. 8 at 7:30 p.m. at North Quincy High School auditorium.

Robert S. Kates, Director of Marketing and External Relations at LaSalle College will be the guest speaker. Kates, former vice president of the College Scholarship Service of the College Board, will explain the process of applying for financial aid.

The North Quincy High School guidance staff will be available to answer questions and Financial Aid Forms should be available.

Point House Decorating Contest Winners Announced

The winners of the Quincy Point House decorating contest are announced.

First place honors went to Richard Travers, 18 Whiton Ave.; second place, the Kavel Family, 60 Baxter Ave.; third place, the Colliton Family, 96 South St., and the Allison Family, 28 Whiton Ave.

Prizes were donated by Fabiano's, Dimitri's and Handshakes. All contest participants received certificates of appreciation.

The contest was sponsored by Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services and the Quincy Point Resources Committee.

OVERACTIVE THYROID

The thyroid is a small, butterfly-shaped gland which lies over the windpipe, just below the larynx. The thyroid gland produces a hormone called thyroxine which controls the metabolism. An overactive thyroid produces more thyroxine than the body needs, speeding up the metabolism excessively. Symptoms include rapid heart rate, muscle weakness and tremor, increased sensitivity to heat, a hot flushed skin, and feeling of anxiety and nervousness. The eyes often develop a characteristic bulging, staring appearance, and the gland itself may become enlarged into what is called a goiter. Treatment involves suppressing excess hormone production, surgical removal of a piece of the gland, use of radioactive iodine to destroy part of it, or by taking drugs which inhibit thyroxine production. Treatment depends on the patient's age and condition and thyroid size.

P.S. Although it can be due to a tumor, the most common cause of hyperactive thyroid is a condition called Graves' Disease. If you are experiencing any adverse symptoms consistently, it warrants a visit to your physician. When it comes to your heart, early detection of developing problems can mean the difference between life and death. Think preventively. The offices of COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE are conveniently located at 101 Adams Street, Suite 24 in Quincy. Hours are by appointment when you call 472-2550.

Mid-Term Ceremonies Jan. 7

In case you like to look ahead, the mid-term ceremonies for Mayor James Sheets and the City Council will be held Monday, Jan. 7 at 10 a.m. at old City Hall now the James McIntyre Government Center.

They are a little later than usual this year. They are traditionally scheduled for the first Monday in January but this year the first Monday isn't until Jan. 7.

Sheets hasn't given any hint as to the keynote points in his mid-term address but they no doubt will include a "we've got to tighten our belts in 1991."

City employees are hoping they won't hear that dreaded of dreaded words: layoffs.

One sure thing Jan. 7: Ward 2's Ted DeCristofaro will be re-elected city council president.

That will be his last year to bang the gavel as council rules prohibit a council president serving more than two years in a row.

Reportedly there is already a little early campaigning going on for the presidency in 1992.

SHEETS

prevent that. But it will also eliminate the pedestrian crossing.

Seems like a logical crossing with all those people working in the Quincy Center Plaza.

But pretty soon apparently they and everyone else will have to walk to Hancock and Temple Sts. and Hancock and Granite Sts. to get safely across.

By the way, the new design doesn't seem to have slowed down those speeders who still don't know that cars come with brake pedals besides acceleration pedals.

QUINCY COLLEGE PRESIDENT Dr. O. Clayton Johnson was the guest on WJDA's "Party Line" the other day and host Roy Lind asked him if he had any political aspirations (ala John Silber).

Johnson who has a dry sense of humor said he had: he might run for mayor.

"Jim Sheets, has a moustache," he noted, indicating that hair was a political asset. "Leo Kelly (former councillor) had one. And now I have one."

But hair, hair! He can't run for mayor. He doesn't live in Quincy.

FORMER POLICE CHIEF Frank Finn's wife, Susan, threw a surprise birthday party for him the other night at The Depot in Hingham. About 50 friends attended. For the record: it was his 65th.

FINN

HERE'S ONE YOU might keep in mind this New Year's Eve: Sign on a Q.A.T. Co. towing truck: "Last call after alcohol."

Over 2,500 Toys Donated To Marine Corps For Needy Children

Over 2,500 toys were donated to the U.S. Marine Corps Toys for Tots Campaign in a collection drive sponsored by the New England Adjustment Managers Association.

The toys were donated by employees of area savings banks (including Quincy Savings Bank), commercial banks, collection agencies and savings and loan companies.

This is the second year that the New England Adjustment Managers was able to donate toys collected from our fellow employees. We were happy we could reach out to some of the needy children in our area," said William G. Berardi, vice president of lending at Quincy Savings Bank and public affairs officer for NEAMA.

Berardi said the Marines collected 70,000 toys last year but also received 120,000 requests for toys for children.

Fore River Shipyard Photography Exhibit

The Fore River Shipyard is the subject of a black-and-white photography exhibit by Larry Volk at Gallery One, New England School of Photography, 537 Commonwealth Ave., Boston.

The exhibit runs Jan. 25 - Feb. 14 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Opening reception is Jan. 25, 6-8 p.m.

Large format photos of the former General Dynamics shipbuilding facility are featured. This sight, where ships have been built for over 100 years and over 10,000 people were employed, closed in 1986. It remains a remnant of a once significant industry in the Boston area.

DeCristofaro's Yellow Ribbons Salute Military In Persian Gulf

By STEVE KAVANAGH

There is one on the door to his office, one on the porch at his house, and another on the podium in the city council chamber.

Council President Ted DeCristofaro is surrounded by yellow ribbons these days. The disabled World War II Navy veteran has been dispensing the ribbon to residents so that they can show their support for the U.S. men and women serving in the Persian Gulf area.

"I look around and see all the yellow ribbons in Quincy and it makes me feel proud that so many people support our servicemen," DeCristofaro said.

The Ward 2 councillor has been providing yellow ribbon to residents since shortly after the Gulf crisis began. DeCristofaro is quick to point out that he did not originate the idea.

"I think I heard about it going on in Hingham and then Bob LaFleur of the Veterans Services Department contacted me," he said.

The mayor's office and Veterans Services Department have also been distributing yellow ribbons.

DeCristofaro is providing the ribbon on his own. It is not a function of his job as city councillor and it is not being paid for by taxpayers' money.

DeCristofaro, who leads the city council in a prayer for the servicemen before each council meeting, said the response has been very good.

"I'm happy to see it so much in my own neighborhood of Ward 2," he said. Residents of 1000 Southern Artery phoned the council president and he sent them an entire roll. He also brought ribbon to the Ward 2 Community Center.

TED DECRISTOFARO

"People can come in off the street to the council office (at City Hall) and we'll give it to them" DeCristofaro said.

"People are happy it's available and I think they feel the same as I do ... showing their concern for the men and women stationed overseas."

DeCristofaro served five years in the Navy as a gunners' mate 1st class. He spent most of his time on a Corvette, a small, English-built submarine chaser. DeCristofaro's ship did a lot of patrolling in the North Atlantic, South Atlantic, Europe and African areas during World War II.

Being overseas himself for long periods of time, DeCristofaro said he feels a certain kinship with today's servicemen.

"Of course, the circumstances were different. But a lot of them are young folks and I was 17-18 when I went in the service," he said.

With no settlement to the Gulf crisis appearing imminent, DeCristofaro said he will continue to provide the yellow ribbon.

"As long as people are requesting it and our servicemen are overseas, we'll make the ribbon available to residents," he said.

Auditor Finds Quincy Lax In Bill Collecting

The transition between the administrations of Mayor Gustave B. Bates and Mayor-elect Perley E. Barbour was far from a smooth one.

A scathing report from the State Auditor's office cited laxity on the part of the City Treasurer in collecting overdue bills and unpaid hospital accounts that were allowed to top $37,000.

The report, covering the period from Jan. 1, 1923 to April 9, 1924, was read at a special meeting of the City Council.

Mayor Bates tried to remove Emery L. Crane as City Clerk, a post he had held for many years, on charges of "malfeasance," which Crane denied.

Crane pointed out that the power to fire the City Clerk was vested in the City Council, not the Mayor, and Bates spent the last day of his term looking up the law.

Mayor-elect Barbour announced that he would appoint Joseph T. Wrightman of Quincy Point as chairman of the Board of Assessors and George H. Beam of Atlantic and Fred L. Zoller of Wollaston as members.

And Frederick F. Green resigned from the Hospital Board of Managers, claiming an "unnecessary insult" to his son, Russell K. Green, who resigned as Commissioner of Welfare.

HANCOCK TOMB FOUND

Two boys, Forrest I. Neal Jr. and John Howland, were credited with rediscovering the tomb of patriot John Hancock's father in the Hancock Cemetery next to City Hall.

The tomb was lost briefly when a tourist complained that he couldn't find it and neither could a reporter from the Patriot Ledger nor history buff Warren Parker.

Young Neal and Howland recalled taking a picture of the stone not long before.

Marge's Salmon Party Log

Our friends Marge and Paul's home looked like A Christmas Place the night we got together there before going to dinner. Each room looked lovelier than the next as we viewed holiday houses, Christmas figures, lights and greenery resembling a fairyland. And on top of all this, Marge made the most delicious appetizers for all of us before we were to go out to dinner. One was a salmon party log that she and Paul had when they visited Alaska a few months ago. It was so delicious, I just had to try it out and tell you about it today.

MARGE'S SALMON PARTY LOG
1 Lb can of salmon (2 cups)

1 8 oz pkg. cream cheese (soft)
1 Tbsp lemon juice
1 tsp grated onion
1 tsp prepared horseradish
¼ tsp salt
¼ tsp liquid smoke
(you can get this in the supermarket)
½ cup chopped pecans
3 tbsps chopped parsley
Drain and flake the salmon (remove the skin and bones). Combine salmon with all the ingredients except the pecans and parsley. Shape the salmon in an 8 by 2 inch log. Roll it in the pecan mixture (mixed with the parsley). Chill well, pass the crackers! Happy New Year!

Six Percent Cuts For All City Depts.

(Cont'd from Page 3)

Mariano, both School Committee members.

In other news, the Firefighters Union, which had been without a contract for more than two years, ratified a new retroactive pay contract.

The contract, spanning from July 1, 1987 to June 30, 1990, gave firefighters a three, two and two six percent increases over that period. It was projected to cost $300,000.

The city was preparing to take foreclosure action on approximately 300 delinquent real estate tax titles if they taxes totalling nearly $600,000 were not paid by Jan. 25.

According to Tax Collector Dana Childs, it was the highest total of delinquent tax money since the city began aggressively pursuing outstanding revenue eight years ago after McCauley took office.

About 26 percent of the 300 titles were properties owned by the Ricciardi Development Co. Ricciardi's 86 delinquent titles totalled $155,116, including $42,446 created by the Summit View project in West Quincy.

The Quincy Sun announced its "Citizen of the Year" for 1989: Clara Yeomans, a long-time environmental activist who said she still "appreciates every blade of grass."

Mrs. Yeomans, a freelance natural resources consultant for the community, was selected from among 37 nominees submitted by Sun readers.

A few weeks after his inaugural, Mayor Sheets unveiled a sewer user fee proposal designed to raise revenue to help balance the city's FY 91 budget.

As proposed, some $9.5 million would be generated to help offset an estimated $14.6 deficit during the next fiscal year beginning July 1.

Even with the fee which needed City Council approval, the mayor said departments would still be cut by at least three percent.

Without the fee, there would be 13.7 percent cuts "across the board."

The new fee would cost a family of four about $280 a year. Councillors amended the proposal to allow residents age 70 on a fixed income of $13,000 (single) or $15,000 (couple) to receive a 25 percent abatement.

As the month came to an end, it appeared the fee would get the green light since only Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley opposed it.

Christmas came a little late for Stephen and Nancy (Johnston) Mallory, a former Quincy couple living in Fayetteville, North Carolina.

Mallory, 25, a member of the 82nd Airborne Division attached to Fort Bragg, N.C., returned in January after combat in the U.S. invasion of Panama. He was among the first servicemen sent.

On the other side of the world, prominent Quincy attorney and former district attorney George Burke helped tear down the Berlin Wall in East Germany during a trip to the communist-fallen country.

A five-alarm fire on Arthur St. in West Quincy caused an estimated $250,000 to $300,000 in damage to the former site of the Finnish Temperance Hall.

At the time of the blaze, the three-story wooden structure was a storage facility used by the Globe Vending Machine Co. and as storage and rehearsal space for area music bands.

The family was planning to rebuild on the site.

Deaths during January included: Helen E. Hannon, 86, mother of former Mayor Walter Hannon; John J. Norton, 75, former chief state inspector for weights and measures; Robert W. Krovitz, co-founded Quincy Junior College; Dr. John T. Saunders, 96, retired dentist and former star baseball player; and William J. Verner Babcock, Eastern Nazarene College professor.

February

With the fiscal storm forecasted by some leaders last year beginning to bear down on the city, Quincy officials started grappling with the city's FY 91 budget which was projected to be $15 million in the red.

Early in the month, Mayor James A. Sheets announced all city departments would face between three and five percent cuts, provided the City Council pass his $9.5 million sewer user fee. The fee would wipe out most of the shortfall and leave city officials with $6 million to cut from the budget.

Later in the month, the mayor imposed six percent cuts to cover the $6 million shortfall and leave the city with $750,000 to cushion a major reduction in local aid.

Much of the city's financial future hinged on the fate of the sewer user fee and the next local aid payment due in June. The fee was expected to pass because only Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley publicly objected it.

He reasoned the fee, which would cost an average family of four $280 a year on top of its water bill, was too costly for homeowners.

However, without the fee, Sheets said the budget would have to be cut by 13.7 percent. That, he added, would cripple public safety such as fire and police protection and drastically reduce the quality of education in the city's school system.

Without the fee, he estimated several fire stations would have to close and as many as 172 of the city's 2,000 employees would be laid off.

With an estimated state budget shortfall of $500 million, the mayor anticipated a local aid cut of at least $500,000 to $1 million. That figure could be more, he warned, since the state deficit might be larger.

As of mid-February, the city had lost $4.1 million in state aid, including $770,000 in lottery receipts. Thirty-four percent of the city's budget was funded by local aid.

The task of balancing the FY 91 budget was compounded by rising charges such as insurance premiums and the city's share to clean Boston Harbor. Furthermore, because the city's free cash was earmarked to cover a FY 90 shortfall, Quincy had little revenue to fall back on.

By the end of the month, effects of the $6 million in cuts began surfacing.

Besides laying off several dozen teachers, the school department considered consolidating one or two middle schools, shifting the fifth grade in the middle schools and the eighth grade into the high schools as well as increase class size and cut bus service.

The fire department was projected to lose 15 of its 180 firefighters. It was uncertain how the police department would be impacted.

In other news, Charles Pearce retired as chief executive officer of Excel Bancorp., Inc. and 22 years as president of Quincy Savings Bank.

Another local bank executive, Mary Reilly of Colonial Federal Savings Bank, retired. Miss Reilly was employed by the bank for nearly 45 years, including five as president. She was the first woman to be named president of a thrift institution on the South Shore.

Fulfilling a campaign promise, Sheets announced the city had filed two lawsuits against the MWRA in an attempt to reverse the Authority's decision to select the former General Dynamics shipyard in Quincy as the site for the permanent sludge treatment facility as part of the $6 billion Boston Harbor cleanup project.

The city wanted the MWRA to reconsider its selection of the shipyard by adopting criteria, in advance, which could then be used to make a reasoned decision.

Gubernatorial candidates Francis X. Bellotti and Stephen Pierce finished strong in the city's delegate election caucus. Bellotti received widespread support in all wards while Pierce was the favorite among most GOP delegates.

Theresa Gacia recorded her final minutes as secretary of the License Board and retired after 17 years. Fellow city hall workers feted her with a happy retirement party.

Quincy took two out of the four divisional championships at the 17th annual Kiwanis Youth Hockey Tournament held at Quincy Youth Arena. Quincy's Bantam and Pee Wee teams each swept through five games to win their respective titles.

Deaths during February included: Dr. Samuel Young, 88, former president of Eastern Nazarene College; Lawrence "Orrie" F. Carella, former semi-professional football player; and Ella M. McIntosh, 99, wife of former mayor, the late David S. McIntosh.

Chief Finn Steps Down, Ending 24-Year Reign

March

After 24 years as chief of the city's police department, Francis X. Finn announced his retirement, leaving Mayor James A. Sheets to decide his successor from three top candidates on a Civil Service list.

They were, in order of finish: Sgt. William Falco, Lt. Francis Mullen and John Ford, chief of the Bourne police department.

In the interim, Captain Paul Nestor was named acting chief.

Finn, who has had heart problems, decided to step down after his doctor strongly urged him to retire.

Sheets said he would make his appointment after meeting extensively with each candidate. He had hoped to make a decision by the end of the June.

The Conservation Commission levied its harshest fine of $1,000 against the Quincy Neighborhood Club for damage caused when the club cut down some 150 trees last October to expand its parking lot by 80 spaces.

The club was also ordered to replace trees destroyed as closely to the natural configuration as possible. Enforcement Officer Heather Sargeant estimated the job could cost as much as $25,000.

However, Sargeant said the job could be handled by agricultural students and provide a valuable learning experience.

Seven people were driven into the cold and one firefighter injured after a three-family home at 46-48 Gay St. caught fire, causing an estimated $45,000 in damage.

The electrical fire originated in a ceiling fixture in the pantry.

Quincy Businessman Peter O'Connell and close friend Cardinal Bernard Law were among a delegation which travelled to Cuba to meet with Fidel Castro.

Quincy youth hockey teams fared well in the 17th annual Kiwanis Tournament held at the city's Youth Hockey Arena. The tournament, which fielded 53 teams, saw Quincy's Bantams and Pee Wee As each streak to championships.

FRANCIS X. FINN

The city was expected to lose some 117 workers, most from the school, fire and police departments, largely because of a $4.5 million dollar loss in state aid and rising fixed costs.

The anticipated layoffs represented six percent of the city's 2,000 employees.

Planned layoffs scheduled to take effect for FY 91 included 52 school workers and 21 fire personnel. The police department was expected to lose seven uniformed personnel through attrition and five civilian jobs, three through retirement.

Fire Chief Paul O'Connell also deactivated two ladder trucks, one from Houghs Neck and one from West Quincy.

Preliminary budget figures also showed 14 of the city's 38 departments would lose one or more employees.

Clara Yeomans, a long-time environmental activist was honored as the 1989 Quincy Sun Citizen of the Year. The fifth annual award was presented at the Quincy Suns of Italy Social Center attended by nearly 100 persons, including family members, city officials and friends.

Publisher Henry Bosworth presented

Yeomans, now a freelance natural resources consultant to the community, with a clock plaque for her "dedication and untiring efforts to protect and preserve the environment."

The clock symbolizes "the many, many hours" she has given helping to preserve and protect our environment and "respecting every blade of grass."

Yeomans was selected from 37 nominees. She was nominated by Corinne Mitchell of Wollaston.

Quincy Athletic Director Martin Finnegan received the National Interscholastic Athletic Association Award for Merit for Massachusetts for his outstanding contributions to youth in this state.

By an 8-1 vote, the City Council adopted Mayor James A. Sheets' property tax classification for FY 90: $10.18 per $1,000 for residential and $22.90 per $1,000 for commercial, industrial and personal property.

Both rates were based on 175 percent classification.

Compared to last year, both rates were down but the percentage of the tax levy made up by residential taxes was up slightly while the C.I.P.P. portion was slightly down.

Last year's rates were $12.65 residential and $24.71 for C.I.P.P.

With the new valuations, the total tax levy for FY 90 was $66,011,367,000.

Councillor Timothy Cahill voted against the classification, saying it would hurt business. He favored staying at last year's 157 percent classification.

Thomas Burke was appointed the new director of the Quincy Council on

St. Joseph's School Students In Project Bread

Students at St. Joseph School have been participating in Project Bread, and have been corresponding with service men and women involved in Operation Desert Shield.

They raised over $3000 for Project Bread by decorating and delivering three-hundred spoons, which are currently on sale in various Filene's Basement locations.

Since September, students have been sending and receiving letters and cards to U.S. troops in the Middle East.

Soldiers showed their appreciation by sending candy bars to the kindergarten class and flowers to their teacher for Christmas.

At both the chapel service at 9 a.m. and the 10 a.m. service Sunday in the main church sanctuary of Bethany Congregational Church, the Rev. Elizabeth Upton, interim associate minister will preach a sermon entitled: "Inspired By The Spirit".

Liturgist will be Dr. Luther Durgin, interim minister. The scripture reader will be Kenya Mikami. Music will be by the chancel choir under the direction of guest organist John Watt.

Children of the church school will attend the first part of the 10 a.m. service with members of their families. Christian education classes under the direction of Pamela Curran, church school coordinator will be held. A fellowship hour will be held following the 10 o'clock service in the Allen Parlor.

The church is located at Spear and Coddington Sts. opposite Quincy High School and is accessible to the physically handicapped.

Civil Air Patrol Open House Jan. 4

Search and rescue procedures, aerospace education, drill team, communications and cadet flying programs will be discussed at the Civil Air Patrol open house Jan. 4 at 7:30 p.m. at the Quincy Public Works building, 55 Sea St.

Young men and women age 13 and older are eligible to join the 70,000 member CAP. The Quincy Composite Squadron, with members from all over the South Shore, focuses on training cadets and adults for community service volunteer work.

For information or to attend the open house, call Lt. William G. Sullivan, 848-6698 or Major Persus MacLeod, 925-4299.

Recently, 34 cadets got hands-on experience in CAP and member-owned aircraft at a recent "fly day" at Taunton Airport. Cadets are encouraged to complete a five-flight syllabus as part of their training.

CAP also offers scholarships, an international exchange program and summer encampments at military bases.

Boys and girls 13 and older or who have completed sixth grade may attend the open house. Ages 18 and older are eligible for the CAP senior program.

Lisa Rodriguez Volunteers To Bring Supplies To Gulf

Lisa L. Rodriguez of Quincy, a junior at Massachusetts Maritime Academy in Buzzards Bay, has volunteered to serve on the ship 1st Lt. Jack Lummus, which will carry supplies to U.S. troops in the Persian Gulf.

She is one of the eight members of the Class of '92 who requested the co-operative education assignment for the 60-day Commercial Shipping Program. Junior class cadets are selected to participate in this program based on academic performance, leadership, and conduct.

Participating students that have chosen to serve aboard the 1st Lt. Jack Lummus are among the handful of civilian students in the country that will fulfill their co-op assignments by providing defense support to U.S. Troops in the Middle East. They will perform all deck and engineering duties regularly performed by seagoing merchant mariners. In addition, they must keep a daily log of all their activities, and write a final report based on their overall experiences and accomplishments.

Ms. Rodriguez will be leaving for the assignment between late December and early January.

Red Cross Lifeguard Course At Lincoln Hancock Pool

Recreation Director Barry J. Welch announces the Quincy Recreation Department will sponsor an American Red Cross Lifeguard Training Course (formerly Advanced Life Saving) at the Lincoln Hancock Community School pool.

The five-week course will be held Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6 to 8 p.m. beginning Jan. 3.

Participants must be at least 15 years of age and capable of performing a swimming prerequisite test will be given at the first class meeting.

Persons who successfully complete the course and hold American Red Cross Standard First Aid and CPR will be certified as lifeguards in accordance to the standards of the American Red Cross.

There is a fee for the course.

Advanced registration is required and enrollment is limited. To register, call the Quincy Recreation Department, 773-1380, ext. 204.

300 Protest Teacher Layoffs

Aging. He succeeded Thomas Koch who stepped down to become the mayor's executive secretary.

A $119,000 leak detection survey by the MWRA on 240 miles of water main in Quincy detected 58 leaks, causing an estimated daily loss of 1,539,000 gallons of water.

The mayor's mission to beautify, clean-up and promote Quincy Center and historical area began with the creation of a new downtown committee.

Cahill was appointed committee chairman.

Objectives included new sod and flower beds planted at various traffic islands, determine the character of any new residential developments and create a promotional film showcasing the advantages of the downtown's uniqueness and advantages as a home to potential public and private corporations.

After a combined 92 years on the air, long-time WJDA radio personalities Herb Fontaine and Win Betinson retired.

Fontaine had been the station's news director for nearly 35 years. He joined WJDA in 1955.

Bettinson's final broadcast marked his 50th anniversary in radio. A long-time program director, he began his broadcasting career at WHEB in Portsmouth, N.H. in 1940.

Deaths during March included C. Rodgers Burgin, 90, retired bank chairman, A. George D'Angelo, 84, owned Ship's Haven Restaurant, Rev. Joseph F. Beaudoin, 56, former St. Mary's curate; Mary T. Kelly, 80, former Quincy teacher; Dr. Edward F. Fitzgerald, 77; surgeon, medical staff head; and Albert J. Finn, 72, food, health inspector.

April

Upset by the pending layoff of 31 teachers, some 300 parents, students and other education advocates rallied in protest outside City Hall.

Judith Brams, president of Quincy Citizens of Quality Education, said the rally was held to remind the mayor and councillors that increased class sizes and laying off 31 teachers is unacceptable to the citizens of Quincy.

The 31 teachers were casualties of the 1991 school budget which was slashed from $38 million to $36.7 million. The school department budget, as well as the other department budgets, was cut by six percent to make up for a projected $6 million shortfall.

The school, fire and police budgets represent 81 percent of the city's discretionary funding, that is, money which can be cut.

Sheets said any additional revenue in June would go toward schools, fire and police services.

A suspicious three-alarm fire at the Islamic Center of New England in Quincy Point caused $500,000 in damages.

Fire Chief Paul O'Connell said the fire, which occurred just days into the Islamic holy month of Ramadan, was set. Most of the damage was confined to the building's interior. The building's masonry structure probably prevented more serious damage.

After the fire, Mayor James A. Sheets proposed to allow the Center to use Point Webster Middle School for religious classes.

Joseph Catalano of Dedham was named news director at WJDA, replacing veteran Herb Fontaine who retired last month after 35 years of service.

St. Joseph's School cheerleaders won the South Shore Parochial Schools League title for the second straight year.

Some 125 disgruntled taxpayers filled the Council Chambers of City Hall to hear the city's assessors defend the recently completed property valuation process.

The assessors told residents and city councillors that Real Estate Research Consultants, Inc. of Danvers acted fairly and properly in listing and measuring the city's 27,000 parcels. They told property owners who were dissatisfied with the new figures to file an abatement.

Within a month of the release of the new values, some 1,000 owners had filed.

In some instances, property values increased dramatically. Many property owners argued the figures did not fairly reflect market value.

Mayor Sheets, who said some valuations were too high, said he would ask the state to consider giving municipalities more flexibility in setting assessments. He said it was unfair for residents to pay high assessments in a soft real estate market because the assessments do not accurately reflect a home's value.

He said he believed there should be a provision allowing assessments to drop when the economy and real estate market is sluggish.

Twenty-five players and three coaches were inducted into the Quincy High School Hockey Hall of Fame during ceremonies attended by some 200 people at the Sons of Italy Social Center.

North Quincy High School enshrined 33 of its alumni into the school's Basketball Hall of Fame. Among the inductees were four coaches, including LeRoy "Curley" Rogers.

The city's Cleaner, Greener effort got a visibility boost when a large green and white banner with the message "A Cleaner, Greener Quincy, Show Your Pride in the City of Presidents," was unfurled over Hancock St. between City Hall and United First Parish Church.

However, after one day, the $1,000 banner donated by Presidents Place Associates had to be moved because of high winds. The banner was relocated to a side of City Hall.

Because of a technicality, Mayor Sheets appointment of a new police chief was delayed until at least October.

City Solicitor Stephen McGrath told the mayor that a new chief could not be named until former Chief Francis X. Finn's retirement became official.

Louise Brabazon, a long-time City Hall figure and the only woman to serve as a mayoral executive secretary, retired after 24 years of service.

Brabazon, who retired as the city council's administrative assistant, began her career as former Mayor James McIntyre's personal secretary in 1966.

Another well-known city employee, Crane Library Bookmobile Driver George Zeiba, also retired. Zeiba, the city's one and only bookmobile driver since the service began in 1957, made his final rounds after 33 years of service.

Angered over the dismantling of a wooden barge used by the MWRA, the mayor considered court action against the authority for any environmental damages it may have caused.

Hospital chief of staff; Joseph E. Maguire, 92, retired fire dept. lieutenant; Effie MacLeod, 100, oldest member of First United Presbyterian Church; and Donald T. Dixon, 82, Wollaston Church deacon.

In addition, Sheets said the city would pursue legislative action in an attempt to give the city the right to inspect MWRA projects in Quincy.

Local officials said the break-up of the 50-by-150 foot storage barge at the Nut Island Treatment Plant violated as many as five laws and conditions. The dismantling was done by Sciaba Corporation of Dorchester which was contracted by the MWRA to build a pier.

The barge was used to help build the pier.

Ellen Zane, a member of Quincy Hospital's senior management team since 1987, was named the hospital's new director, succeeding Mark Mundy who resigned to become president of a New York teaching hospital.

Since Mundy's resignation, Zane had served as interim director of the 293-bed, acute care general hospital.

Deaths during April included Anselm J. Leone, 80, president of Quincy Limited Clock Co.; Sally M. Donahue, 90, wife of the late NQHS football coach John J. (Jack) Donahue; Dr. Nelson Saphir, 79, former Quincy

Despite an increase of $2.8 million over FY 90, the budget called for the layoffs of up to 30 teachers, 17 firefighters and perhaps some other city workers during the new fiscal year which would begin July 1.

During deliberations, several department budgets were scrutinized as the council search for savings.

Cuts made by the council included: $43,000 from DPW by eliminating the deputy commissioner of public works position; and $33,000 from the police department by keeping the superintendent's position vacant.

The largest budget approved was for the school department. The $36.7 million school budget was cut $123,600 over last year. Other departments also absorbed six percent cuts.

The school budget, at its lowest since the passage of Proposition 2 and half 10 years ago, represented nearly one third of the city's FY 91 budget.

Band Leader Dorothy Hill, was accompanied by his wife, Eileen, and Paul Hunt, an officer at the Morrisette Legion Post.

Comer called the band's trip to the Soviet Union a peace mission. "If the American Legion can put out the hand of friendship, I think the rest of the world can too."

The city filed a complaint in Quincy District Court alleging the MWRA and a Boston-based construction company violated two orders issued by the Quincy Conservation Commission.

The lawsuit alleged the Sciaba Construction Company dismantled a large barge at the Nut Island Sewage Treatment Plant in April without Conservation Commission approval. The city also contended the MWRA was equally responsible since the authority applied for and received the original order of conditions for the pier work.

The conditions did not include a provision for dismantling.

Atty. Richard Murphy and John (Jack) Lemere were hired by the mayor as the city's new labor negotiators, replacing David Grunebaum.

Rev. Frederick Atwood-Lyon, associate pastor of Quincy Point Congregational Church, celebrated his 30th anniversary in ministry.

Henry Bradley of Quincy, a 30-year military veteran, was appointed director of veterans services, replacing Charles LoPresti who retired.

Quincy Atty. Richard Barry received the James R. McIntyre Humanitarian Award at the annual Quincy District Court Law Day ceremonies. Honored for his volunteer work with Quincy Asian's community and other minorities, Barry died of cancer 18 days later.

The city's downtown revitalization effort was back on the front burner with the creation of a new committee formed by local leaders, businessmen and private citizens.

The Downtown Revitalization Committee, organized by Mayor Sheets and chaired by Councillor Tim Cahill, was focusing on economic development, beautification, retail strategy, tourism and historic preservation.

Dr. Cecil Paul, a Quincy resident since 1965, was installed as the 10th president of Eastern Nazarene College.

The committee was expected to make specific recommendations in the summer.

An estimated 3,000 protestors, some carrying signs reading "Ban the Bum," rallied outside the Clean Harbors Inc., facility on Quincy Ave. against the company's planned toxic waste incinerator.

After a seven month "labor of love," the newly renovated Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center with a marble lobby and function rooms furnished with glass chandeliers, new carpeting and floors, was finished.

The Quincy Sun ceased operation of its news on Channel 26 and began a new role providing daily community news updates on Channel 3. The Sun had operated a 24-hour a day news channel since 1982.

Delegation Lobbies Washington For Downtown Funding

keep their premises clean from debris.

Deaths during May included: Ernest L. Blair, 94, worked on the Manhattan Project; Anthony J. Salvucci, 73, retired shipyard supervisor; Raymond P. Josephine Jr., Remick's clothing buyer; Elizabeth D. Sheridan, 90, state engrossment clerk; James D. Shea Sr., 76, founded construction firm; Mary C. Gorman, 84, active in Germantown organizations; Richard W. Barry, 56, attorney, former councillor, assistant district attorney; and William P. Farrar, 88, former historical society treasurer.

June

A delegation from Quincy, led by Mayor James A. Sheets, traveled to Washington, D.C., in pursuit of federal funds for the planning and designing the redevelopment of Downtown Quincy.

The group, which included Planning Director Richard Meade, Executive Secretary Thomas Koch, Councillor Tim Cahill and Businessmen Peter O'Connell and Bob Galligan, met with federal officials in an attempt to line up Democratic and Republican support for $500,000 to $750,000 in rehabilitation funds.

Sheets and the others were optimistic that the federal government would set aside money to help Quincy's revitalization and beautification efforts. At the very least, they hoped they would receive enough money to hire a professional planner.

A few weeks later, the mayor returned to Washington in an effort to secure $250,000 to $500,000 in federal funding. He met with Connie Harriman, under secretary for the Department of the Interior Fish, Wildlife and Parks division.

Tourism was evolving as a main component of the city's downtown revitalization effort. In fact, Sheets said Quincy could become the second biggest tourism destination in the state, after Boston.

He also said the city could surpass Plymouth which attracts one million visitors annually.

To achieve that goal, the mayor listed several objectives for traffic, amenities, aesthetics, retail and cultural.

They included at least one visitor's center, public bathrooms, in-city transportation system, more parking and a new sign system.

Meanwhile, O'Connell had begun investing his own resources into the future of Quincy Center. Believing the downtown area could compete with the South Shore Plaza, O'Connell, through his development company, purchased the former Burgin Platner building on Hancock St. He was also considering purchasing other buildings in the area, including the old Patriot Ledger building on Temple St. and the Sher Drug building next door.

O'Connell viewed his own development in Quincy as "phase one" of a totally revived downtown, one that could attract business and retail and tourists.

The former mayoral candidate said the time was right to take advantage of the opportunities brought on by the progress and improvements implemented by the man who defeated him, Mayor James A. Sheets.

"We would not be investing a nickel in Quincy Center if we didn't feel that the administration is going to deliver on it desire" to revitalize and beautify the area, O'Connell said.

The $652,339 Quincy Center Traffic Improvement project, designed to improve vehicular traffic and pedestrian flow as well as enhance aesthetics to help attract more businesses and tourists, was underway.

Proposed improvements included new traffic signals at several intersections, curb realignment and channelization with new islands to provide greater traffic capacity and improved safety for both vehicular and pedestrian traffic.

The only traffic change called for eliminating the left-hand turn onto Chestnut St. from Hancock St. from the south. That idea was later junked after a group of businessmen in the area argued the change would drive them out of business.

Not all the improvement work was welcomed. Some residents and business people complained of poor road conditions and dust storms after Hancock Street was stripped for a new drainage system.

The situation was only temporary and within a few weeks, a base coat of pavement was put down.

Among the materials uncovered during the construction work were cobblestones and an old steel trolley rail.

Quincy's Cleaner, Greener effort took another step forward as the city and MBTA agreed to clean and maintain the city's four Red Line stations through Aug. 24.

For 12 weeks, the city employed one foreman at $13.70 per hour and eight laborers at $7.50 each with funding by the MBTA.

The corner of Newbury Ave. and Kendall St. in North Quincy was dedicated to the memory of Col. Walter C. Fuller, an Army veteran of World War II and active member of veterans' organizations who died in May, 1988.

New brown and white signs identifying the Quincy Historic Trail began going up throughout the city.

Elaine Chao, deputy secretary of the U.S. Department of Transportation, urged 361 graduating seniors at Quincy Junior College that public service is the highest ambition.

In other ceremonies, 240 Quincy High seniors, 281 North Quincy High seniors and 53 Quincy Vocational-Technical seniors received diplomas.

Calling the proposal obtrusive, unbearable and insane, city councillors criticized the MBTA's plan to restore rail service on the Old Colony line.

Only three people attended the hearing, including one from Hingham and one from Scituate.

Noreen Mallory, 24, of Quincy, agreed to pay $200 in court costs after a Quincy District Court clerk found sufficient evidence to charge her with assaulting Parking Clerk Robert Denvir in his office over a $5 parking ticket.

Deaths during June included: Mathias H. Monahan, 77, Quincy city custodian; Ruth M. Clauss, 70, member of the Commission for the Blind; Walter T. Cobe, 91, former police officer; Joan E. Burgess, 56, colored hair of Hollywood stars; and Dr. Daniel F. Shea, 75, chief of otolaryngology at Quincy Hospital.

July

In keeping with his Cleaner, Greener Quincy campaign, Mayor James A. Sheets introduced an ordinance designed to stop people from disturbing the peace and loitering on city property.

As proposed, the ordinance carried a $100 maximum fine.

Sheets said the ordinance would allow the city to deal more effectively with groups which loiter on city property, especially the Quincy Center MBTA station.

The mayor also said the ordinance was in step with his goal to revitalize the downtown area and boost tourism.

"If we hope to revitalize downtown and expect historical tourism to be on the increase, we're going to have to create an environment that is conducive to families and tourists," he said.

The weak economy was blamed as the principal reason for a dramatic increase in real estate tax delinquents in Quincy.

For FY 1990, Tax Collector Dana Childs said the city had 1,150 outstanding tax titles totaling $3.2 million. The figure represented 4.9 percent of the $65.8 million tax levy.

Empty condominiums and uncompleted housing projects accounted for 20 percent of the taxes owed this year.

At the end of FY 1989, Quincy had 270 delinquent tax titles totaling $595,000.

Other cities and towns south of Boston experienced a surge in delinquent tax money. Thirteen of 28 communities in the region had a higher percentage of tax delinquency than Quincy.

A 17-year-old Quincy youth was arrested in connection with a vandalism spree at the historic Hancock Cemetery near the James R. McIntyre Government Center (old City Hall) which caused $4,000 in damage.

During an early morning spree, 12 headstones were broken or chipped and eight other stones were overturned. American flag markers from the graves of Revolutionary War veterans were also stolen and a memorial to Quincy Police Capt. William F. McIntyre on the other side of McIntyre Government Center was also damaged.

A Navy fighter pilot from Quincy who earned the prestigious Naval Air Medal for his part in the April 1988 retaliatory attack on Iran was commended by the City Council for his courageous action.

Lt. James Roberts, son of George and Elizabeth Roberts of Quincy, received the commendation from President Ted DeCristofaro. Lt. Roberts, assigned to the USS Enterprise, was also recognized for his loyalty and faith in noble principals of our Constitution.

State budget cuts left Wollaston Beach without lifeguards, the first time in the 89-year history of the Metropolitan District Commission.

In recent years, the MDC, which took control of the beach in 1901, had stationed as many as 10 lifeguards along that sandy stretch of land.

Because of budget problems, the MDC eliminated lifeguard positions at seven beaches. Last year, the commission staffed 206 guards. This summer, the number dropped to 192.

Mayor Sheets.

A bill which would limit the annual assessment on real property to 25 percent over the previous year's assessment was filed by Quincy's legislative delegation on behalf of the mayor.

The new $1.6 billion tax bill approved by both houses of the state legislature did not get the blessing of Quincy's legislators.

Sen. Paul Harold and Representatives Michael Morrissey, Steve Tobin and Robert Cerasoli all voted against the increase, the largest in state history.

Two Adams Shore residents, Alice Baker and Lawrence "Larry" McMullin, were honored as the 1990 Adams Shore Good Neighbors.

Rev. J. William Arnold was honored as he retired after 43 years as a minister, the last 10 at Bethany Congregational Church. To mark the occasion, July 1 was proclaimed "Rev. J. William Arnold Day" in Quincy by Mayor Sheets.

Quincy police cruisers began sweeps throughout the city on weekend nights in an effort to curtail violations of the open container law which is a criminal offense.

Alluding to the earlier vandalism incident at the Hancock Cemetery, Sheets said, "I feel that a lot of the wanton destruction that has occurred in Quincy during the summer is a direct result of drinking."

The National Park Service and Adams National Historic Site celebrated the anniversary of the 223rd birthday of John Quincy Adams with a special, one-day exhibit at the Adams National Historic Site.

the public, were exhibited.

A $100,000 grant was awarded by the Massachusetts Bays Environmental Trust to restore the Post Island marsh to a viable salt marsh.

The grant was earmarked for restoring the flow of tidal water with the installation of a self-regulating tidegate and the reconstruction of outfall pipes.

The city's downtown revitalization effort cleared a major hurdle when a $250,000 appropriation for the project was included in the U.S. House of Representatives version of the FY 91 federal budget.

Calling the news a "major victory and break through," Mayor Sheets said the funding would go toward "technical assistance and planning for the historic district."

In another effort to reduce vandalism, crime and litter, the mayor announced he would consider rolling-back the hours of city bars on a case-by-case basis and preventing all-night convenience stores from operating during the early morning hours.

Sheets stepped back from his proposal to force all bars to close at midnight and ban all-night convenience stores and restrict the hours of fast-food restaurants after consulting with City Clerk John Gillis.

"John believes, in all three cases, there are people who do an excellent job (running their business) and there are very few problems. He suggested we look at only those establishments which have had a history, a record of problems and take action on a case-by-case basis.

"I think that's a good approach," Sheets added.

Tara Donovan, a pretty 17-year-old blue-eyed blond, was crowned Miss Quincy Bay of 1990 during the annual pageant which attracted 18 contestants. Inclement weather forced the pageant's finale indoors at Quincy Center Plaza.

Deaths during July included: Adeline "Dolly" Corcoran, 84, owned variety store; Harold E. Robbins Jr., 58, garage owner; Charles H. Reynolds, 61, past commodore TRYC; Donald R. MacDonald, 74, maintained fire department signals; Paul D. Griffin, 41, coached youth baseball; Richard W. Poore, 68, retired bank vice president; and Edwin F. Barton, past master Quincy Masonic Lodge.

August

Reacting to a $1.5 million cut in local aid by the state legislature, Mayor James A. Sheets said it was the "worst news of my administration" thus far "because it's really the first time the legislature has in itself cut local aid."

Because of the reduction, the mayor said it was unlikely 47 laid-off city workers would be rehired and opened the door for more pink slips next year.

The 47 laid-off workers represented 18 fire department positions, 17 school positions and 13 police positions.

Sheets had hoped to rehire the workers with the $3 million in state aid which was impounded by Gov. Dukakis two years ago. The city received the aid after the governor was ordered to release it.

However, the entire $3 million aid package was negated by the $1.5 million cut in local funding and $1.5 million in delinquent real estate taxes.

Still, there was some good economic, and environmental, news.

The city and Browning Ferris Industries launched an expanded recycling program which officials agreed would save the city thousands of dollars and help the environment, provided residents participated.

The voluntary program asked 31,000 residents to separate newspapers, plastics and glass from their regular trash and place them in a blue bin supplied by BFI. The waste disposal firm would then collect the items at the curb.

Quincy's contract with BFI could be called the bargain of the year. For $249,000, the same price as the bi-weekly newspaper recycling program initiated last year by former Mayor Francis McCauley, Quincy got an expanded weekly program.

In addition, BFI spent more than $260,000 on four new curb-sorter trucks and blue plastic bins.

The bi-weekly newspaper program saved the city $200,000 in disposal costs over the first year. More than 3,000 tons of paper were collected.

With the new program, officials set a collection goal of 6,000 tons. If that goal were met, the city would save $228,000 plus cover the $249,000 to contract the program.

Among the 100 officials and residents who attended the kick-off outside City Hall was William Ruckelhaus, executive officer of BFI.

After some discussion with merchants in one section of Downtown Quincy, Mayor James A. Sheets decided to forego a plan to ban left-hand turns from Hancock St. onto Chestnut St.

The mayor yielded after several merchants with businesses on Hancock, Chestnut and Maple Sts. voiced their stiff opposition. The argued the turn ban would cut them off from customers and hurt their business.

The 14th annual Dick Koch Memorial Softball Doubleheader raised some $2,000, pushing the grand total over the $20,000 mark.

In a well-played opener, the Quincy Police Department defeated Quincy Fire 8-1. In the nightcap, the News Media All-Stars rallied to down the City Officials, 13-12.

Councillor Michael Cheney kicked off a political football by proposing an ordinance which would require all members of the License Board to live in the city in order to sit on the board.

One opponent, Council President Ted DeCristofaro, called the measure "an affront to those department heads to make them think that we don't have enough confidence in them."

Cheney said his plan was not intended to be an affront. Instead, he said the structure of the board needs reviewing.

City Solicitor Stephen McGrath said the ordinance, if adopted, could not be applied retroactively to current members. The board is composed of the fire chief, police chief, health commissioner, city clerk and building inspector

At the time the new ordinance was introduced, only one board member was a Quincy resident, City Clerk John Gillis. Gillis' residency is required as the city's voter registrar.

Gillis said he opposed the idea while Mayor James Sheets said he generally steps of the state Department of Education in Quincy Center, marchers said education should be a higher priority than the crisis in the Middle East.

The Morrisette Legion baseball team concluded its finest season in several years, posting a 23-6 record and just missing the state championship series.

Deaths during August included: Col. Richard Malvesti, 44, in a parachute accident at Fort Bragg, N.C.; Edwin 'Ned' T. MacBride, 66, owned Fratus Motor Car Co.; Linda Whiting, 33, associate dean at ENC; William M. Quigley, Jr., 33, Air Force master sergeant; Jacqueline D. Hodgson, 46, bookkeeper at Standard TV; and Carter Lee, 83, former state representative.

With the help of private donations from residents, corporations and civic groups, the city began its drive to replace aluminum cobra street lights in Quincy Center with cast iron historic-looking architectural lighting.

The 22-foot lights were planned for Quincy Center from School St. down Hancock St., around the United First Parish Church including the Thomas Crane Public Library area, to Dimmock St. bridge and down the Burgin Parkway to the Adams Mansion.

Forty-two were scheduled to be up and operating sometime in December.

To help fund the renovation project, private citizens and groups were asked to purchase a light at $2,500 each on behalf of the city. The light would then be dedicated with a bronze plaque to be inscribed by the contributor.

Besides the new lights, tree plantings, grates and new sidewalks were planned for the downtown area.

The lighting project was part of the mayor's plan to enhance the area by accenting its historical context.

Acknowledging some city schools need repairs, Mayor Sheets was looking "very closely" at floating a bond issue to fund school building maintenance needs.

In a letter to the mayor, School Committeeman Steve Durkin noted several building maintenance problems at Central Middle School, such as a collapsed third-floor ceiling, a buckled corridor floor and water-damaged walls and classrooms.

Concerned about layoffs

Parishioners were disappointed by the decision.

Because of vacancies created by retirements, five of the city's 18 laid-off firefighters were rehired. The city was also actively trying to place the others by contacting 32 area towns.

Quincy Hospital celebrated its 100th anniversary with a gala celebration at the Coply Plaza in Boston.

More than $50,000 was raised at a City of Presidents Fund Committee "Fun-Raising Luau" at Ocean Terrace, Marina Bay. Five Quincy based charities benefited: Quincy Schools Athletic Contribution Committee; Sacred Heart Brothers and Sisters Table; Father Bill's Place, Quincy After School Day Care; and Quincy Visiting Nurses/Hospice.

Carrying pickets and chanting "money for schools, not for war," and "two, four, six, eight, let the teachers educate," about two dozen school teachers from throughout the state protested the mounting U.S. military build-up in the Persian Gulf.

FRANCIS E. MULLEN, a 33-year veteran of the Quincy Police Department, was appointed the city's 13th police chief in September, succeeding Francis X. Finn.

In FY 92, Sheets said, "We need to look carefully at whether or not a bond issue will be at the expense of layoffs."

Official U.S. census figures pegged the city's population at 84,140, a decrease of 804 from 1980. The figures were considered preliminary and could change by the time the final figures are released in 1991.

A Muscular Dystrophy Association Labor Day Activity Center co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun and Quincy Sons of Italy raised more than $5,000 for Jerry's Kids.

In an effort to restore consumer confidence and raise consciousness of South Shore residents to the advantages of home ownership, several hundred realtors, business leaders and local officials rallied in front of City Hall.

A study of the residential real estate market by the Massachusetts Association of Realtors showed that 46.2 percent of the condominiums and single-family homes on the market on the South Shore were priced at or below $150,000, one-fifth were selling at $125,000 and 9.4 percent were priced at or below $100,000.

In the state primary election, Democrat John Silber narrowly lost Quincy but won the state and Republican William Weld swept both the city and Massachusetts to win their respective gubernatorial nominations.

Silber was defeated in Quincy by former Attorney General and resident Francis X. Bellotti by 379 votes.

Silber received 9,740 votes compared to Bellotti's 10,119.

However, the president of Boston University on leave shocked Bellotti in other areas of the state to score one of the biggest political upsets in state history.

In the GOP primary, Weld, a former U.S. Attorney General, easily turned back Rep. Steven Pierce of Westfield. In Quincy, Weld received 3,284 or 57 percent while Pierce polled 2,551 or 43 percent.

Locally, Rep. Robert Cerasoli easily defeated challenger David Peterson of Quincy.

In a sticker campaign, Rep. Steve Tobin won both the Democratic and Republican nominations. Tobin defeated GOP challenger Denis Tardo by 268 votes and was unopposed in the Democratic primary.

Saying he would rather fight fires than push paper, Fire Chief Paul O'Connell stepped down and returned to his former position as deputy chief.

O'Connell, who said he had reservations about continuing eight or nine months ago, said he was not happy as chief the past 18 months.

"I've been working at trying to make (the chief's job) work for me. The last year, I really wasn't happy with it. It was my goal to be deputy chief and I never considered being chief of the department."

the fire ground. It's just my nature," O'Connell added.

Deputy Chief Thomas Gorman also returned to a previous post: he was named acting chief by Mayor James A. Sheets. He held the post from June, 1988 to February, 1989.

After several years of organized and at times spirit opposition, state environmental officials said no to a proposed toxic waste incinerator in the Fore River industrial basin by Clean Harbors, Inc.

Many of the local residents opposed to the project labelled their victory a citizens' triumph and classic lesson in democracy.

"Never in the history of the area was there a collective effort like this," said Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson, one of the original opponents.

"It'll go down as a classical lesson in democracy and what a collective effort in a free country can do," he said.

"It's a great victory for the people," Mayor James A. Sheets added.

Deaths during September included: Maxwell J. Van Dam, 74, former Bargain Center partner; Isabelle Mann, former teacher, wrote Quincy Jewish community history; Robert O. Imper, 89, United First Parish treasurer; George H. Greene, 66, aid to Boston Mayor John Collins; Evelyn Seron, helped catch Nazi spy, John (Jack) Toland, 58, QHA painting foreman; Remo DiNicola, 68, co-owned TV, appliance store; and Daniel E. Mattes Sr., former health inspector.

October

Presidents Place, the $60 million mixed-use development in Quincy Square, officially opened and ushered in what officials hoped would be the beginning of a renaissance in the historical downtown area.

The office and retail space complex, which took five years to plan and build, replaced the former Bargain Center. The sprawling discount store was a landmark in Quincy Square for many years before being demolished in 1987.

Some 300 business people, community leaders, city officials and residents attended the festive grand opening. Developers and officials said the complex should boost the city's redevelopment effort.

With the state election a few weeks away, the Citizens for Limited Taxation Petition sparked some debate and discussion in the city.

In fact, Mayor James A. Sheets painted a grim financial picture for Quincy if Question 3 were approved by voters Nov. 6. If approved, the petition would mandate the state government to cut spending by $6 billion.

In Quincy, the mayor said the city would lose $10 million in local aid in FY 91 and FY 92. Specifically, he predicted 120 teachers, 52 firefighters and 58 police officers losing their jobs and two or three fire stations closing.

City Auditor Robert Foy said the petition would be devastating in Quincy. "It would be chaos in the city as far as providing education and public safety."

Sheets, who discussed the petition's impact with several parents groups, said he was not taking sides on the issue.

However, the city council voted 6-1 to oppose CLT and "respectfully urged" Quincy residents to do the same.

Voting in favor were Councillors Ted DeCristofaro, Michael Cheney, Peter Kolson, Thomas Fabrizio, Thomas Nutley and Lawrence Chretien who introduced the resolution.

The six councillors said the petition would go too far in shaking up state government and forcing state budget cuts. They said the impact would lead to deep cuts in human services and damage the state's fragile economy.

Councillor Timothy Cahill stood alone against the resolution. He said he wanted to send a message to Beacon Hill that government should be downsized. He also said the state was "blackmailing" the city by threatening to withhold its local aid if Question 3 were approved. The CLT petition was also very much on the mind of new Police Chief Francis E. Mullen. In an interview with The Quincy Sun, Mullen said much of the department's changes and reforms hinge of the question's outcome.

"My biggest challenge will be the budget," Mullen said one month after being sworn in. "You're talking about reduction of monies all the way along the line and I think this (CLT petition) will certainly have an effect on everyone."

Cardinal Bernard Law celebrated Mass at St. Mary's Church in West District Court, the city won the right to inspect the work of the MWRA. At the time, the authority was constructing an interim sludge processing facility at the former General Dynamics shipyard.

The mayor was ordered to appear because the city failed to process sewer and water permits needed by the MWRA to construct the facility.

In exchange for the permits, the city won the right to inspect the M.W.R.A.'s work. Previously, only state inspectors were allowed to inspect state construction projects.

At a public hearing, proponents of the O'Connell Development Company plan said the course would enhance the area part of the former Squantum Naval Air base. Opponents, however, said the course would destroy a bird sanctuary in the area.

The Adams Academy was illuminated thanks to the Quincy Partnership, Inc., a group of business leaders which raised $15,000 in only a few weeks to complete the project.

In addition, the partnership planned to install lights outside the Thomas Crane Public Library, United First Parish Church and the James R. McIntyre Government Center (Old City Hall).

Deaths during October included: John F. Denneen, 79, retired police lieutenant; Daniel B. Davis, 64, owned electrical company; Clyde S. Waterman, 83, professional engineer, consultant; Willmore "Bill" Holbrow, 81, founder Worldwide Florists'

Exchange; and James J. Mulloy, 72, retired Quincy Police sergeant.

November

In a much anticipated state election, Republican William Weld was elected governor in a see-saw political cliff-hanger but without help from long-time Democratic stronghold Quincy.

Dr. John Silber, the outspoken and colorful Boston University president on leave, was the choice in Quincy where Democrats outnumbered Republicans and Independents combined.

Quincy, however, joined the rest of the state in shooting down Question 2 which would have restricted the state's use of consultants, and Question 3, the Citizens for Limited Taxation Petition which would have cut state spending by $6 billion over three years and rollback $1 billion already collected and spent.

A total of 37,409 of the city's 49,486 voters or 75.5 turned out.

Locally, Quincy's three incumbent legislators who had opposition easily won another two-year term.

Sen. Paul Harold defeated GOP candidate Paul Van Schaick; Rep. Michael Morrissey turned away Republican challenger Susan Gallagher and Rep. Robert Cerasoli defeated GOP challenger Judith Balzano and Independent candidate Francis "Sandy" Eaton.

Although they captured Quincy, Norfolk County Treasurer Daniel Raymond and County Commissioner David Ahearn were swept away in a tide of anti-incumbent sentiment.

Raymond was upset by Republican Robert Hall and Ahearn was upended by GOP challenger Bruce Olson.

In the state contested elections, Quincy was on the winning side.

Sen. John Kerry, a Democrat, defeated GOP challenger Jim Rappaport; Democrat L. Scott Harshbarger defeated Republican William Sawyer for attorney general; Democrat Secretary of State Michael Connolly defeated Republican Paul McCarthy and Independent Barbara Ahearn; and Republican Joseph Malone ran away with the treasurer's race, downing Democrat William Galvin.

The City Council appropriated $2.5 million for new, larger water mains in the Quincy Ave.-Washington St. area. The money would also fund new water meters, fire hydrants, gate valves and a new truck for the Department of Public Works.

The Quincy Police Athletic League was honored as the recipient of the Quincy Jewish War Veterans Post "Citizen of the Year." Patrolmen Robert Clark and Robert Hanna, co-founders of the league, accepted the award from Program Chairman Irving Isaacson.

The city's goal to create a national historical park system took an important step forward after the federal government approved a $250,000 planning grant.

The grant would allow the National Park Service and Department of the Interior to work with Quincy officials in studying the city's historical sites.

Former Mayor Francis X. McCauley, Margerite Devine and Jeff Craig were honored as "Good Neighbors" by the Houghs Neck Community Council.

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the long-awaited West Quincy relief interceptor sewers project were held at the intersection of Quarry St. and Joyce Rd.

Mayor James A. Sheets hailed the extensive project as the "beginning of the end of sewer contamination of streets, basements and playgrounds."

As President George Bush prepared to send more American troops to the Persian Gulf, Quincy native Army Vice Chief of Staff Gordon R. Sullivan told some 200 veterans, city and state officials and residents that America must maintain its vigilance to stay free.

Sullivan, a four-star general raised in Lakin Square, was the keynote speaker at the city's Veterans' Day ceremonies sponsored by the Quincy Veterans Council.

Martha Robinson was presented the Albert Conti South West Person of the Year Award from the South West Community Relations Committee and Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services.

Citing the need for a more regulated procedure regarding the use of city-owned vehicles, Mayor Sheets instituted a new policy which could save between $30,000 and $40,000.

Under the new policy, no municipal employee could take a city vehicle home unless that person is on call 24 hours a day and has a demonstrated record of being called in at least once a week from home directly to a city site problem.

The mayor instituted the new policy after learning that $45,000 of the $158,000 the city spent on gas and maintenance for city vehicles was unaccounted for.

Drawn by warm weather, new attractions and the splendor of the holiday season, one the largest crowds turned out to watch the 39th annual Quincy Christmas Festival Parade.

An estimated 250,000 to 275,000 people lined the parade route to enjoy the sights and sounds of the theme, "The Wonders of Christmas."

Among the more memorable events was the raising of the Mount Rushmore flag outside McIntyre Mall and a stirring rendition of "You're A Grand Old Flag" by the Walham American Legion Post Band.

The weekend of festivities was not all merry.

Robert G. Humphreys of Holbrook, a professional skydiver dressed as an elf, was injured during the traditional Santa's arrival by parachute at Faxon Field.

Humphreys was blown off course by a sudden wind squall and collided with a car on Coddington St., suffering a fractured kneecap.

Despite the accident, there were no plans to cancel the event. However, the festival committee considered moving the landing area away from the street.

In a thrilling come-from-behind victory, Quincy High nipped North Quincy High 27-26 in the 58th annual Thanksgiving Day Game to finish 8-1-1, its best record since 1970. North finished at 4-6.

Deaths during November included: Joseph B. Grossman, 98, bank president, businessman and legislator; Ernest J. Montilio, 72, founded Montilio's Bakery; Mary C. Ricca, 99, a founder of St. Joseph's School; Allen E. Goldfarb, 59, social studies chairman at Broad Meadows Middle School; and George A. Kesaris, 52, part-owner of The Clam Box.

December

The City Council voted 8-0 to ask Mayor James A. Sheets to sue the company which performed the revaluation of property in the city last year.

Sheets was to discuss the matter with City Solicitor Stephen McGrath.

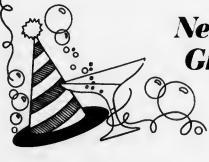

Councillor Michael Cheney introduced the resolve calling for litigation against Real Estate Research Consultants Inc. of Danvers. Because more than 3,000 residents filed for abatements—which is 10 times more than usual according to the assessor's office—and over $1 million in valuation was missed at Captain's Cove Marina, Cheney said the city should sue and withhold its final payment.

However, McGrath said the firm did not err because it's the responsibility of the assessor's office to provide a list of all properties for valuation.

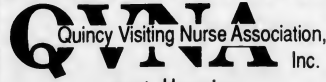

Since the valuation process is subjective, (Cont'd on Page 19)

Council Seeks Suit Against Assessing Firm

(Cont'd from Page 18)

McGrath said there may be a basis for litigation.

The Quincy-North Quincy Hall of Fame inducted 10 new members: Bill Phinney, Ron Wray, Ed Venna, Carl Leone III, John Menz, Lou Marini, Jim Russo, Paul Picarski, Vin Penzo and Preston Carroll.

Carrying large signs bearing such messages as "Stop The War Before It Starts" and "No War For Oil," about 100 anti-war demonstrators called for a peaceful solution to the crisis in the Persian Gulf during a rally outside the James R. McIntyre Government Center.

The marchers wanted President Bush and Congress to give the economic sanctions imposed by the U.S. against Iraq a chance to work and resolve the crisis. They were especially concerned since the United Nations resolution allowing the U.S. to use force after Jan. 15 was fast approaching.

In a 5-3 vote, the City Council voted in favor of requiring future members of the License Board to be residents of Quincy.

Mayor Sheets, who expressed his support for the idea when the proposal was first introduced by Councillor Michael Cheney in August, asked City Solicitor Stephen McGrath to review it before signing it.

The mayor said he was concerned that qualified candidates for police chief, fire chief, building inspector and health commissioner may not be able to fill a vacancy because he or she doesn't live in Quincy.

Proponents said Quincy residents should make the decisions that affect the city. The policy-making board issues permits for such establishments as restaurants and bars.

Opponents said the ordinance discriminates against hard working city employees who live outside Quincy.

The five present members, who were asked by Cheney to write letters expressing their sentiment on the issue, said they were against the proposal. As written, the present members would be exempt from the ordinance.

In an effort to make Christmas more merry for some residents, local charitable organizations distributed between 375 and 425 Christmas food baskets to needy Quincy families this year. Last year, some 340 baskets were given out.

After several weeks of "picketing" the Fore River bridge, Quincy resident Joseph Smith was assured by state officials that safety modifications would be made at the 54-year-old structure.

Smith began his morning vigil warning commuters that the bridge was unsafe shortly after his 16-year-old son Roger Smith was killed in an auto accident of the bridge.

After meeting with Smith in the Mayor's Office, state DPW Commissioner Jane Garvey promised all pavement and lane markers would be repainted, crash cushions along the four drawbridge gates would be installed and the existing wooden wheel guard would be extended to prevent vehicles from jumping the curb onto the sidewalk.

Plans were also in the works to replace the steel grating or adding steel studs or "grit paint" to the grating for better traction. Smith was killed Oct. 12 after his 1976 Ford skidded on rain-slicked grating and crashed sideways into a gate, nearly cutting the car in half.

Smith vowed to continue picketing until all his bridge demands were met.

Six-month-old Deanna Arnold was voted the winner in the Quincy Sun Most Beautiful Baby Contest which raised $3,972 for MDA. She received 772 votes or $772 donated in her name.

Deaths during December included: John F. Stevens

Sr., 70, retired chief clerk for General Dynamics; Seraphini Marini, 87, former nuclear submarine inspector; and Olive M. Fortnam, 89, past president Wollaston American Legion Auxiliary.

Coupons Raise $4,800 For Easter Seals

South Shore residents contributed $4,800 to Easter Seal services for people with disabilities by purchasing Halloween coupons from Burger King during October.

Easter Seals and Burger King offered the coupon books as Safe Halloween treats.

Easter Seal programs include therapy in homes and schools, therapeutic swim programs, summer camp, loan of specialized equipment, home health care, information and referral services, and support groups for people recovering from strokes.

Arthur Chandler Re-elected QCA President

Arthur M. Chandler of Wollaston was unanimously re-elected president of the Quincy Citizens Association, Inc. at the civic group's 23rd annual dinner meeting and Christmas party at The Hollow Restaurant.

Also re-elected were Dr. Donald C. MacLeod, first vice president; John Keenan, second vice president; Saul Lipsitz, treasurer; and Dorothy C. Kelly, secretary.

Chandler told members that in the coming year, the QCA will concentrate on Quincy's environmental issues and will monitor city-wide activities to maintain the quality of life residents have enjoyed in the past.

Mayor James Sheets told Association members that his plans for the revitalization of historic Quincy Center do not include the erection of additional high-rise buildings.

Ward I Councillor Peter

Kolson, a former QCA vice president, played Santa Claus and joined in the carol singing with Mayor Sheets; Bernice Mader, his administrative assistant, and Association members.

Entertainment was by Felicia Hayes, pianist.

WEEK OF: December 27

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You are business-minded and have a healthy level of self-confidence. You generally act more from the head than from the heart. The next six to eight months are favorable for long-term financial planning. New and renewed commitments are positively aspected in the spring and summer months.

AQUARIUS — January 21 - February 19

Your current initiative may lead to the landing of a complex but prestigious assignment sometime in the near future. Holiday spirit and your willingness erase family friction.

PISCES — February 20 - March 20

Entertaining guests help make the week unpredictable and lively, and spontaneity is the current theme. Make a policy of issuing reminders to absentminded colleagues and neighbors.

ARIES — March 21 - April 20

Surprisingly, you may currently be reluctant to assume a leadership position, yet this is a worthy role to assume. Protective friend is more independent, thanks to your influence.

TAURUS — April 21 - May 22

Week finds you branching out, learning new skills and experimenting in different media. Your past loyalty stands you in good stead with supervisors. Romance accents the sentimental side.

GEMINI — May 23 - June 21

Group endeavors are generally more favorably spotlighted than solo ventures. A more laidback approach to the holidays makes them far more enjoyable for all participants.

CANCER — June 22 - July 22

Interest in a new activity peaks and can lead to an enhanced role in professional or community activity. It may be time to be polite but frank with an intrusive neighbor.

LEO — July 23 - August 22

An offbeat partnership struck now can lead to a professionally impressive year-end. This is a critical week for making resolutions; willpower and sense of logic are strong.

VIRGO — August 23 - September 22

Agreements reached this week are perhaps more binding than you realize, so give them ample attention. Travel options expand. Time spent with ailing individual is mutually rewarding.

LIBRA — September 23 - October 22

Several surprise bulletins may be dropped in a week of unpredictable happenings. Spirit of adventure is highlighted, too. In accepting assignments, be sure instructions are clear.

SCORPIO — October 23 - November 21

Thursday-Saturday feature diversification, while Sunday-Wednesday find you simplifying your environment. Recent plan may backfire but a new project benefits greatly from unexpected steam.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22 - December 22

Friday-Sunday see small-scale gatherings develop into lively and rewarding sessions. Romance is on the upswing through this period but business relationship benefits from re-evaluation.

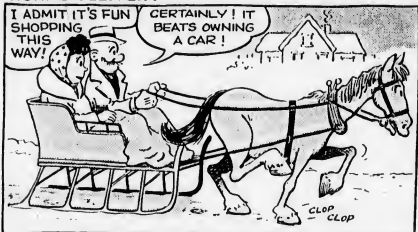

CAPRICORN — December 23 - January 20

Thursday and Friday are rewarding for conducting projects, renewing commitments, and surveying the health needs of those you love. Weekend through Wednesday bring new responsibilities.

Quincy Upsets North After Weymouth Win

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Quincy boys' basketball team completed its best week in two years last Friday night when it upset North Quincy, 59-58, at North Quincy for its second win of the week and evened its record at 2-2.

The Presidents, winless a year ago, will host Plymouth next Wednesday night at 7 o'clock in an Old Colony League game.

Winless in its first two games this year, Quincy came up with a big game earlier last week and defeated Weymouth, 72-55, for its win in two years.

Friday night it was the Joey Crespi show as he played the last 15 minutes just one foul away from fouling out of the game and took matters into his own hands as he led the Presidents back from a 10-point deficit.

Crespi came up with 12 points the second half as Quincy, trailing, 47-41, with five minutes to play, suddenly went to work.

E.J. Nordstrom, Quincy's leading scorer in every game, had 16 points and hit two free throws to bring the Presidents within four. North again led by six but Crespi hit a three-point shot, forced a turnover and sank a pair of jumpers to give Quincy a 50-49 lead.

North's Brian Curran hit a three-pointer but Dave Jolley hit a layup to tie the game.

The teams traded baskets in the final two and a half minutes and North led, 58-56, with a minute to play. Crespi made a driving layup to tie the score. Sophomore Robbie Kane, Jolley and Nordstrom stymied North with great defense and Crespi drew a foul and hit one free throw for a 59-58 lead.

North's John Chou, who had won the opening game for North with a last second foul shot, was fouled but missed both shots and Quincy had its biggest win in two years.

"This was one heck of a game and Crespi played a terrific game for us," said happy Quincy coach John Franceschini. "He took over in the huddle and ran the show for us. This was a really big win for us."

Nordstrom had 20 points and 19 rebounds and Crespi scored 16 of his 17 points in the first half to give Quincy its first win in two years against Weymouth.

"Our man-to-man defense was awesome in the first half," said Franceschini. Quincy had an insurmountable 49-18 lead at the half.

Kane played a strong defensive game and had five steals, holding Weymouth's high scoring Brian Mitchelson to two points. Ralph Bevilacqua contributed 12 points and nine assists for the Presidents.

Even when Quincy lost its first two games to Falmouth, 68-56, and Bridgewater-Raynham, 68-51, Franceschini saw some good points.

"We played fine defense, especially against Bridgewater-Raynham, but we just shot poorly in both games," he said. "We hit only 31 per cent from the floor in the first game and 38 per cent in the second, and our foul shooting was very poor."

In the B-R game Nordstrom had 16 points and 12 rebounds, Bevilacqua 12 points and Crespi 10.

QUINCY'S Jay Eggers was a linebacker for the Bridgewater State College football team. Eggers, son of Frederick and Margaret Eggers, played high school ball at Abp. Williams.

It's Enough To Turn Stevenson's Hair Grayer

If the North Quincy boys' basketball season continues as it has started, Coach Ted Stevenson will have a lot more gray hairs.

Winner of their first game by one point on a last second foul shot, the Raiders last week lost two games by a single point, including a 59-58 thriller to Quincy last Friday night.

North will play at Boston College High Friday night at 7:30. The junior varsity game will start at 5:45 and the freshman game at 3:30.

B.C. High is coached by Quincy's Brian Buckley and last year North knocked the Eagles out of the Eastern Mass. Tournament.

B.C. High (1-2) with a win over Fordham Prep of New York and losses to powerhouses Brockton and Duffee, has only one Quincy player, Mike Chiccino. The team's high scorer is Mark Amoroso, son of former Quincy coach Joe Amoroso. North will play at Taunton next Wednesday at 7:30.

North's loss to Quincy last week was particularly disappointing as the Raiders had a 10-point lead and had a chance to win in the final seconds but John Chou, who had won the opener with a last second foul shot, missed two foul shots.

"We had a terrible time at the foul line," said Stevenson. "We have a very young team with only two varsity returnees and we are just going to have to re-group, that's all."

With five minutes left in the game North had a 47-41 lead but Joey Crespi led Quincy with a tremendous second half. With the lead cut to four, Capt. Brian Curran (23 points, his third straight game with over 20) and sophomore Sean Donovan (18 points) scored to give North some breathing room.

Led by Crespi, Quincy took a 50-49 lead but Curran hit a three-pointer. The teams traded baskets in the final two and a half minutes and with eight seconds left Chou was fouled and missed both shots as Quincy won its second straight.

Earlier last week North led Plymouth, the favorite to win the Old Colony League title, with three seconds left but Plymouth's Chris Luongo hit two free throws to give the Blue Eagles a 66-65 victory.

Curran had a game high 26 points and Matt Flynn added 11 for North, which led at the half, 33-29.

Cashman Qualifies For U.S. Short Track Team

Karen Cashman of Quincy qualified for the U.S. National Short Track Speedskating Team, which will compete at the University Games the first week in March in Sapporo, Japan.

Cashman finished sixth overall at the World Team Trials recently at the Olympic Education and Training Center at Northern Michigan University in Marquette, Mich.

By finishing sixth Karen will train with the U.S. National Elite Team which is comprised of the top 10 short track speedskaters in the country. She is a 1989 graduate of North Quincy High and is now a sophomore at Northern Michigan University.

Karen will compete in the U.S. National Championship Short Track Speedskating competition March 22-24 at Holy Cross College.

North Girls Host Tournament

The North Quincy girls' basketball team, with a 3-0 record, will host its annual Christmas Tournament tonight (Thursday) and Saturday night.

The North girls will face Somerville in the second game tonight at 7:30 with Winchester meeting Marshfield at 6. The championship game will be Saturday at 7:30 and the consolation game at 6.

North will be home to Taunton next Wednesday at 5 o'clock in an Old Colony League game.

North Quincy made it three wins in a row last Friday with a 36-26 victory over Quincy (1-3).

Carrie Hughes had 10 points and Tricia Hughes and Tara Miles eight each for North, while Melanie Sullivan paced the Quincy girls with seven points.

North had defeated Plymouth, 41-32, in its previous game with Joanna Rugnetta scoring 12 points and Tricia Hughes and Miles 10 apiece.

In its opener North defeated Canton, 52-38, with Miles scoring 15 points and Tricia Hughes 11.

Quincy won its opener over Falmouth, 47-28, lost big to Bridgewater-Raynham and last week lost to Weymouth, 48-41.

Amy Baker, who led the Quincy girls against Falmouth, had 10 points against Weymouth and Erin Doherty had nine.

The Quincy girls host

Arlington Friday at 11:30 a.m. and will play at Plymouth next Wednesday at 5 o'clock.

Cape No Vacation Spot For Quincy, North

Cape Cod may be a favorite vacation spot, but the Quincy and North Quincy hockey teams had no vacation last week as they lost to Cape teams.

Quincy turned in its second excellent performance in a row but a late rally fell short and the Presidents lost to Falmouth, 5-45, evening their record at 1-1.

Meanwhile, undefeated Barnstable (3-0), scored early and often to hand North Quincy (1-1-1) its first defeat, 12-1.

Quincy faced Taunton last night (Wednesday), will play at Marshfield

Friday at 5 o'clock and will host Taunton Saturday night at 7:50 at the Quincy Youth Arena.

North Quincy met Duffer last night and will meet Duffer again Saturday at 6 o'clock at Fall River.

Falmouth scored all five goals in the first period against Quincy and had a 5-1 lead. Jeff Craig scored for the Presidents.

Quincy staged a furious rally and scored three goals with less than five minutes to play but just fell short. Jim Schatzl, Shane Abboud and Sean McArdle scored the goals.

Quincy out-shot Falmouth, 33-28, and received excellent performances from Steve MacPherson and Dave Mullen, who had two assists. Goalie Scott Mann had 23 saves.

Sean Vermette had the only goal for North Quincy, which previously had tied Marshfield and defeated Silver Lake. Mike DesRoche assisted.

Ryan O'Neill and Erik Nickulsa had big nights for Barnstable, each having three goals and two assists.

Quincy had opened its season with a surprisingly easy 9-4 victory over Plymouth.

Scott MacPherson had four goals and two assists, Jimmy Smith had two goals and Sean McArdle, Jamie Shatzl and Jeff Craig one each.

Goalie Scott Mann had 28 saves.

Plymouth took an early 1-0 lead but Quincy scored the next six goals and Coach Bob Sylvia was able to use his third and fourth lines.

This was just a great win for us," said Sylvia. "We are small physically and small in numbers, but these kids are dedicated and really want to play".

ADAM CALVERT, left, of the Quincy Police Club and Rob Kane of Bryan Post VFW, were recently named to the 1990 Quincy Babe Ruth League MVPs. Calvert was instrumental in leading the police to this year's city title and Kane led his team to the crown a year ago.

Executive Hockey

Beacon, Bearing

Skip Manganaro scored two goals and added three assists and Art Boyle scored two goals and had an assist to lead Bacon Sports over Grumpy's Pub, 6-3, in Executive Hockey League action at the Youth Arena.

Peter DiBona and Jack Valle had a goal each. Kevin Jago and Ed Grogan had two assists apiece. Mike Flaherty, Mike O'Connell and Mark Boulter scored for Grumpy's. O'Connell had two assists and Dave Perdios, Boulter and Flaherty one each.

South Shore Bearing defeated Flibbotte Auto, 6-3, as John Mitchell, Steve Dymont, Jack Hurley, Mark Giordani, Frankie Guest and Jack Aldred each had a goal. Chip Linscott had two assists and Guest, Hurley, Dymont, Paul Bauserme, Aldred and Mitchell one each. Mike Manganaro scored twice and Jerry Ioanilli once for Flibbotte. Joe Flibbotte had two assists and Mark Paolucci and Peter Bertrand one each.

Fowler House topped

Adams Sports, 7-5, with Dave Connell scoring four goals. Rich Gibbs, Peter Janis and Stan Lisowski had a goal apiece. John Ryan had four assists and Jim Connolly, Janis, Jim Conso and Lisowski one each. Dennis O'Connell had two goals and Mike Flaherty, Fred Cobban and Bob Fowkes one each. Cobban, Fowkes and O'Connell each had two assists and Al Gullickson one.

In previous games Fowler House and Flibbotte tied, 3-3.

Joe Flibbotte, Doug McLean and Gerry DeLucca scored the Flibbotte goals and Steve Lewis, Mike Manganaro and Mark Paolucci had assists. John Farrand scored twice and Dave Connell once for Fowler House. John Ryan had two assists and Dave Mullen, Connell and Jim Connolly one each.

Over 270 In Sacred Hearth Youth Basketball Program

The Sacred Heart of North Quincy youth basketball program recently kicked off its second season with over 270 boys and girls ages 5 to 17 taking part.

In the instructional program the following boys and girls have been playing well and learning the fundamentals of basketball:

5-year old girls, Erin Croke, Caitlin Doherty and April Suprey; 5-year old boys, Ryan McFarlane, Jason Fidalgo and Victor Ilacqua; 6-year old boys, Jackie Liuzzo, Thomas Hughes and Dennis Thompson; 6-year old girls, Katrina Sullivan, Stamatina Rigas and Christina Cleary; 7-year old girls, Dianna Berberan, Melissa Clifford and Sarah Garber; 7-year old boys, Edwardo Juarbe, Paul Cremen and Philip McGillicuddy.

There are also 17 teams from Sacred Heart participating in the South Shore YMCA Church League.

The Samson (boys 8-9) A team is 1-1, having defeated Wollaston Nazarene, 7e-2, and losing to Blessed Sacrament, 16-12. The team includes Matt Nelson, who is the leading scorer; Chris Cummings, Ronald Khy, Paul Foley and Matt Stemplesly. Jim Donovan is coach.

The Samson B team suffered two heartbreaking defeats, but has had fine play from Brian Burke, Henry DiNino and Patrick Gallagher.

Cousins Billy and Danny O'Toole, Patrick

Brundage, Paul Lentini and Brendan Bowes led the Samson C team to a 20-0 victory over Bethany.

In the Daniel Division (boys 10-11) the A team is 1-1 while the B and C teams are 0-2. The highlight was the A team's 23-19 win over the C team. Kevin Sullivan led both teams in scoring and rebounding for the A team and Luke Donaher netted a crucial last-minute basket to thwart the C team's rally. Matt Noonan, Danny LeVlanc and Mark Paulsen played well for the A team while Jurik Somberski with six points, Norman Connell with six and Kevin Bowes with four led the C squad.

Despite losing its first two games, the Daniel B squad has received strong efforts from high scoring Alex Farley, Teddy McGillicuddy and Adam Rodzevich.

In the Goliath division (boys 12-14) the three Sacred Heart clubs are inexperienced, but are making improvements weekly.

The A team has been led by Chris Furlong, Billy Manning and Ryan Nickerson. Bob Hannaford, Kenny Ledwak and Mark Redonovich have played well for the B squad and Scott Campbell, Don Boylen and Philip Poon have stood out for the C team.

The two David Division (boys 15-17) have been trying hard but have yet to taste victory. Marc Swirbalus, David White and Mike McAdam have come up big for the A team while Tom Sherman, Eric Zimmerman and Terry Manning lead the B team.

In girls play the Midget (8-10) A team boasts the only undefeated record for a Sacred Heart team thanks to a last-second basket that gave Sacred Heart a 15-13 victory over Blessed Sacrament B team in double overtime. The team had previously beaten Sacred Heart C team, 16-6.

Coach Cheryl Murphy praised the play of Kristen Bowes, Kate Lavery and Shannon O'Donnell.

The Midget B and C teams are 0-2 but have been improving steadily thanks to the strong play of Dianne Lynch, Shannon Mills and Dominique Good of the B squad and Lauren Luizzo, Dorothy Cronin and Karen Goldrick of the C squad.

The Junior (girls 11-12) A team (0-2) is led by Colleen Mulcahy, Eileen Sherman, Sarah Lally and Stacey O'Bert. The B team, loser to St. Joseph's and its fine players, Barbara Jean Scolaro and Erin Muna, Julie Ordagna, Lauren Corelli and Leanne Joyce have been outstanding.

The Sacred Heart Intermediate girls (13-15) are 1-1, thrashing Weymouth Baptist, 30-13 in its opener. Jennifer Lavery played well and coach Bob Croke had high praise for Mehan Glavin, Erin McVeigh and Patricia Wilk, who scored her first career basket.

Mark Jaehrig is the program director.

'Procrastination' Sermon At United First Parish

This Sunday, in recognition of the last Sunday of the year, Dr. Sheldon Bennett, minister, will deliver the sermon "Procrastination—A Sermon for the Very Last Moment" during the 10:30 a.m. service at United First Parish Church (Unitarian) in Quincy Center.

The sermon will consider the fears and doubts that keep people from experiencing life as truly rich and fulfilling. As New Year's Day approaches as the final deadline for 1990, a positive way will be proposed to avoid the stress and anxiety brought on by all the many delays and pressing deadlines of our lives. Insights for spiritual life will also be considered.

Visitors are welcome and are invited to the social hour following the service.

Historic First Parish, "Church of the Presidents," is located at 1306 Hancock St. in Quincy Center, opposite City Hall. Church School and child care are provided.

Call 773-1290 for information.

Ice Skating Classes At Shea Rink

The Bay State Ice Skating School is conducting ice skating classes at the Shea Rink beginning next week.

The fee for the six-week series is $50 per child and $60 per adult.

A Few Words on FUNERAL SERVICE

Keep Your Will Up-to-Date.

Your will dictates how your estate is to be handled. Without a will, your family is in the hands of Probate Court which may not divide your assets as you'd have wished.

Once your will is made, as your situation changes, be sure to update it.

Both husbands and wives should have wills for all the same reasons and you may change later if you wish. See a good lawyer; but discuss fees in advance.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

A well-known traveler, noted for his phenomenal memory of things seen and experienced, revealed his secret to a young man about to embark on his first trip abroad.

"When you find yourself looking at one of the wonders of the world or living through a great moment, close your eyes for a little while and imagine that the experience is long past and you are at home again. Ask yourself what you might have done to heighten the experience; how you might have behaved if you had it all to do over again."

We think this suggestion is a useful one, not merely for travelers, but for everyday people pursuing everyday pleasures and obligations. As we enter the New Year perhaps this suggestion will be of value in making this a most rewarding and fulfilling year for each of us.

No All-Night Parking Without All-Night Parking Permit

City Ordinance Article IV Sec. 67. All-night parking prohibited.

"It shall be unlawful for the driver of any vehicle, other than one acting in an emergency, to park such vehicle on any street for a period of time longer than two hours between the hours of 1:00 AM and 7:00 AM of any day.

The above shall not apply to any vehicle bearing an all-night parking permit which has been issued by the Quincy Police Department. Said permits shall be valid for one year from date of issue, and shall cost $2.. Said permit may be revoked for cause at anytime."

All-Night Parking Permit Agreement

1. The parking decal permits the owner of this vehicle to park in a designated area between the hours of 1 a.m. and 7 a.m.

2. All other City ordinances with regard to parking regulations must be observed.

3. In the event of a snow emergency this night parking permit is suspended and the vehicle must be removed from the street until plowing operations are completed. If the vehicle is not removed it will be subject to tow action.

4. If the owner of this car moves to a different address he will notify the Quincy Police Department immediately.

5. Violations of the above regulations will result in the revocation of this permit.

Winter Parking Schedule

Between October 15 and April 15 you must park your vehicle on the even numbered side of the street in an even numbered year... and, park on the odd numbered side of the street in an odd numbered year.

Applications for all-night parking permits may be obtained at the Quincy Police Station. Once the application is filled out, the request is checked by the Traffic Bureau. An officer will be sent to the address to check the need for a parking permit. If in his/her estimation there is enough room in the driveway for the vehicle, the parking permit will be denied. Parking permits are not issued so that people do not have to jockey vehicles around in their driveways. It may take up to two weeks before a parking permit request is granted, this gives the department time to check the address on several occasions to make sure there is a real need. Parking permits cost $2, one all-night parking ticket costs $5, it's a matter of simple economics, a parking permit is cheaper.

If you have any further questions about over-night parking, please call the Quincy Police Traffic Bureau at 479-1212 ext. 308.

Quincy Mite Bs Win

Quincy's Mite B hockey team defeated Hyde Park, 5-1, with Shane Kabilian scoring two goals and Nick Pizziferri, Didier Alther and Jeff Brophy one each. Sean Haidul and Steve Goff had assists. The Mite B's suffered their first loss of the season, 8-0, to South Boston.

Earlier the team had rolled over Brighton, 11-0.

Gymboree Open House Jan. 4, 5

Gymboree, a movement and play program center for children three months through four years, will hold an open house Jan. 4 and 5 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at Emmanuel Parish, 519 Washington St., Braintree.

Carol Stento, owner of the local franchise, said, "Gymboree is the most exciting new development in early childhood education to ever happen. I am thrilled with the opportunity to be the first to offer this wonderful service to this community."

At the open house, parents and children will have a chance to experience the world of learning, play and fun at Gymboree.

The winter session at Emmanuel Parish located just outside Braintree center will begin Jan. 10.

The Gymboree center is a tyke-sized world of colorful, safe gymnastic-like play equipment custom designed and selected for little people. The equipment allows toddlers and youngsters to slide, bounce, jump, roll, swing, rock and climb.

Each class ends with a group time when a huge, rainbow-colored parachute appears on the center mat and children gather to ride on it or run under it. Gymboree the clown-puppet appears to give children a special bit of attention.

Parents and children then gather to learn songs with age appropriate movements and gestures.

All activities are designed to enhance the development of motor skills and to stimulate the senses (vision, hearing, balance, touch and body awareness) necessary for later learning.

Researchers have found that half of all learning happens before the age of four. Gymboree provides a place for free exploration and experimentation.

"Perhaps the best thing of all about Gymboree, though," says Stento, "is that we have fun. It is a parent participation program."

One or both parents can assist by getting down on the mats and feeling good about playing with their children

"The first thing you notice about the Gymboree classes are the smiles, the laughter, the encouragement that comes from both parents and the teacher, and that indescribable thing called communication.

"It's real positive parenting," Stento says, adding the child builds self-confidence.

For more information on registration or open houses or to receive a brochure, write Gymboree, 28 Audrey Ave., Needham, MA 02192 or call (617) 449-3994.

Quincy High Math Team Season Begins

The first competition for the academic year of the New England Math League was recently held, with 170 students from Quincy High School competing with students throughout the region.

The competition consists of six 30-minute tests held from October through April.

Top scorers in the first contest were Louise Wang, Elizabeth Crispo, Dean Tantillo and Allan Larson. Mrs. Joan Chrusciel, head of Quincy High's math department, is the team advisor.

Last year, the school finished fourth in Norfolk County competition with 14 schools participating. The team finished 38th out of 230 schools in the New England competition.

'The Way Of Christmas' Topic At First Church Of Squantum

Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, Pastor, preached Sunday morning on the subject, "The Why of Christmas".

The Old testament lesson was read by Dore Klock. The first New Testament lesson was read by Craig Zaehring. The second New Testament was read by Tom Williamson.

The Cherub Choir sang "Away in a Manger". The Junior Choir sang "Stille Nacht, Heilige Nacht" in German.

The children in the Sunday School assisted Dr. Langevin in lighting the four candles in the Advent wreath.

Music was by the Cherub Choir. Accompanying the singing were pianist Janet Williamson, organist Mary Ruth Scott, saxophonist Jack Chapman, and trumpeter Kristen Fluhr. Greeters were Del and Ralph Dougherty.

Ushers were Sandra Concannon and Evelyn Ahearn. Gretchen Bumpus and Sally Wainwright hosted the Fellowship Hour.

On Christmas Eve two worship services were held, the Family and the Candlelight Service.

If I Could Have One Wish Come True...

Here are more articles written by third grade students in the Quincy public schools on the theme: "If I Could Have One Wish come True this Christmas-Chanukah-New Year."

It would be to be able to give money and clothes to the homeless. They really deserve money and clothes and a warm place to sleep.

Lena Yuen
Bernazzani

It would be to have the soldiers come home for Christmas to see their families, and to stay home for good!

Robert Dilks
Bernazzani

I wish the air was clean. People are polluting our earth. Many people are dying. So help keep our earth CLEAN.

Jeff Nickerson
Atherton Hough

It would be to get a computer. Then my next wish will be to get rollerblades to play hockey with.

Colleen Nichol
Atherton Hough

It would be a clean environment. We could have fresh water and a clean earth. It would be clean everywhere and littering would be against the law.

Pearse McGrath
Wollaston

It would be that the soldiers would come home to celebrate Christmas. So they can be with their family.

Tara Elias
Point Webster

It would be a computer. I always wanted one to play office with. I could play library too.

Valene Vaughan
Lincoln Hancock

I wish that I could get the things I want - like a new bike. I hope its a ten-speed. I hope I get a lot of other presents too. I hope that everyone has a great Christmas!

Stephanie Oakes
Lincoln Hancock

It would be to stop the Iraq crisis because my uncle Bobby is in it. I do not want him to get hurt. I hope that people will come home without a war.

Shannon Boyd
Atherton Hough

It would be that there be peace in Saudi Arabia and that the soldiers get back soon. I hope that Iraq lets all the prisoners go.

Billy McArdle
Atherton Hough

My wish is a remote control jet plan, Nintendo games, WF Wrestling Buddies, a basketball and a lot of candy.

Patrick Irwin Jr.
Atherton Hough

It would be to have happiness all over the world. So there's no war. It would help everyone. There's no fighting either.

Joanna Cook
Wollaston

It would be that the people from the Middle East get home safe for Christmas. I would like to go to Hawaii too.

Jason Oriola
Wollaston

It would be peace because we wouldn't see our relatives in war. If they died in the war we couldn't celebrate with them. If we didn't have peace we would keep having war right now.

Philip Cai
Wollaston

It would be to have a Porsche because it is fast and it is nice and I like it.

Michael Venuti
Bernazzani

It would be that Saddam Hussein would give up easily and let the "guests" go home and return to their own country.

Michael Roberts
Bernazzani

It would be to get a Ferrari car. Even though I am a little too young, I can put it in my Dad's garage. I like Ferraris because they can go fast. I could race with them too.

Matthew Mancuso
Bernazzani

If I could have one wish came true this Christmas I wish my mom would come home.

Nicholas Mood
Lincoln Hancock

It would be that the homeless people have food, a nice home, clothes, and a mother and father.

Stephanie Zanoni
Lincoln Hancock

It would be Turbo Graphix 16. The reason I want it is because the screen is more detailed then Nintendo. The games are smaller so they're harder to break. And most of the games on Genesis are crazy.

Daniel Green
Wollaston

It would be to have a big feast at my grandma's house. It's nice going there to see a big turkey on the table.

Megan Hurley
Bernazzani

I would wish I had a million dollars. I would give money to the poor to help them.

Richard Bonvie
Bernazzani

It would be to go to Tennessee to see my aunt and uncle and to go to Florida and maybe stay there for awhile.

Jennifer Kern
Lincoln Hancock

LEGAL NOTICE

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS THE TRIAL COURT THE PROBATE AND FAMILY COURT

Norfolk Division Docket No. 90P3134C1

NOTICE OF CONSERVATORSHIP

To JOHN W. ANDERSON of QUINCY in said County and all persons interested in the estate of JOHN W. ANDERSON and to the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health, a petition has been presented in the above-captioned matter praying that NANCY ANDERSON of BOSTON in the county of SUFFOLK be appointed conservator with surety on the bond.

If you desire to object to the allowance of said petition, you or your attorney should file a written appearance in said Court at Dedham on or before 10:00 in the forenoon on January 23, 1991.

Volunteers Needed To Help Elderly With Income Taxes

The Quincy Council on Aging in conjunction with the American Association of Retired Persons and the IRS needs volunteers to provide free income tax preparation assistance to older low and moderate income tax payers.

The volunteers will be trained by the IRS during sessions at the JFK Health Center during January to understand tax code provisions that affect older citizens.

After being certified by the IRS, volunteers give at least four hours each week during the tax season assisting tax payers at an assigned location.

For more information, call 773-1380 ext. 245.

THANK YOU ST. JUDE

M & J
2/14

THANKSGIVING Novena to St. Jude, O Holy St. Jude, Apostle & Martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracle, near kinship of Jesus Christ, faithful intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need, to you I humbly beseech from the depths of my heart and humbly beg to whom God has given such great power, to come to my assistance, help me in my present and urgent petition. In return, I promise to make your name known and cause you to be invoked. Say: Our Father, 3 Hail Marys and Glories. Publication must be promised. St. Jude pray for us and all who invoke your aid. Amen. This Novena has never been known to fail. I have had my request granted. (This Novena to be said on 9 consecutive days.)

PRAYER

TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit: You who make me see everything and who show me the way to reach my ideal; You who gave me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and You who are in all instances of my life with me; I in this short dialogue wish to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from You. No matter how great material desires may be, I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Persons must pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking your wish. After the third day, you wish will be granted no matter how difficult it may be. Then, promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted.

Broad Meadows Nominated For Commendation

Broad Meadows Middle School has been nominated for national honors as a school of excellence in the Secondary School Recognition Program.

Broad Meadows was nominated by the Massachusetts Dept. of Education, which may nominate up to 10 secondary schools statewide to compete for this honor. This is the first time a secondary school from Quincy has been nominated.

The U.S. Dept. of Education will review nominations and select schools for visits.

If Broad Meadows is selected as a national winner, representatives of the school will be flown to Washington, D.C. to receive commendations from President Bush and other federal officials.

Women's Center Registration

The Women's Center at Quincy College offers help in exploring jobs and careers, making it in a tough job market and building confidence.

Registration for various workshops will begin the week of December 31st.

Workshops are free to eligible women, but space is limited. For general and eligibility information, call 984-1675.

Snug Harbor Students Send 500 Letters To U.S. Troops In Persian Gulf

The Snug Harbor Community School's Student Council members' December project was to send cards and letters in support of American troops in Saudi Arabia.

Along with 500 cards and letters collected, members made a 10-foot "PEACE" banner with all the signatures and positive messages for our troops.

The school-wide project included signatures and messages from every student at Snug Harbor.

The student council also presented each person, who wrote words of encouragement to the troops, with a yellow ribbon.

On one recent school day, every student and staff member wore their yellow ribbons in honor of the troops in the Middle East.

The student council members are:

Jose Diaz, president; Patrick Young, vice-president; Kerri Tilton, secretary; and Michael Beauvais, Michael Markham, Brendan Smith and Jasper Tan.
